17,000 IDLE IN GOODRICH STRIKE

Labor's First Walkout In Fourth Round For Post-War Wage Boost

AKRON, O., Aug. 27. —(AP)—Union labor's first major strike for a fourth round of postwar wage increases was launched today. The C. I. O. struck B. F. Goodrich, one of the rubber industry's big four.

Ordering some 17,000 Goodrich workers in seven states to strike, President H. R. Lloyd of the C. I. O.-united rubber workers justified the move in these words:

"Unfortunately, the company showed not the slightest interest in reaching an amicable settlement. We were compelled to take this action to protect the interest of our membership."

Lloyd made this statement in Dayton, O., where negotiations on a new contract broke down last night just before the old one expired. As authorized by the union membership, the strike started at 12:01 a. m. (EDT) today.

Right on time, U. R. W.'s biggest Goodrich local here set up picket lines, halting work by 11,000 employes. The other plants at Los Angeles, Cadillac, Mich., Tuscaloosa, Ala., Miami, Okla., Clarksville, Tenn., Oaks, Pa. also were ordered to strike.

So far as could be determined early today, the call to employes in other Goodrich plants was 100 per cent effective. At the Miami plant, it was unnecessary; management already has voluntarily closed the place for a 10-day "vacation."

For its part, Goodrich complained in a letter sent out before the strike was called that the "U. R. W. A. has chosen B. F. Goodrich men and women and our company to be guinea pigs in the fourth round wage try."

And after the strike started, Goodrich Vice President J. W. Keener contended the union had served no notice on the company.

However, both he and Lloyd agreed to resume negotiations in Dayton again today (at 9:30 a.m.) in another effort to settle differences.

The union wants: 25 cents an hour pay increases, $100-a-month pensions paid by the company, health and welfare benefits. The industry-wide average pay for production workers has been $1.51 an hour.

The company, calling its wages "among the highest in the United States," said in a letter to its employes:

"None of the union's arguments can change the facts that business conditions will not permit us to raise selling prices. That increases in costs now would bring further losses in sales, wages and jobs and that a strike

Airborne Troops Rush To Bolivian Rebellion

Undetermined Number Killed In Four Cities; Activity In Three Areas Reported Quelled; 60 Persons Held Under Arrest

By Alberto Alvestegui

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Airborne troops were rushed to Cochabamba tonight to finish off an armed rebellion against the government which broke out in four cities before dawn.

Reports said an undetermined number of persons were killed and injured as the revolt, led by army and civilian nationalists, flared up in Cochabamba, Oruro, Potosi and Santa Cruz.

A few hours after the uprising began, the Bolivian government announced the rebellion had been crushed in Oruro, Potosi and Santa Cruz.

In Cochabamba, however, the national police barracks was surrounded by revolutionary fighters and troops loyal to the government were sped by air to rescue the garrison.

The government also claimed a revolt slated to begin in La Paz in conjunction with the other uprisings was quashed when opposition politicians were arrested. An estimated 60 persons were arrested in La Paz and Oruro.

Government officials identified the army officers who led the revolt as chiefly men in retirement who supported the former regime of President Gualberto Villarroel. He was deposed in a 1946 revolution and hanged from a lamp post when the National Revolutionary Movement (M. N. R.) lost power.

Congress quickly authorized an extension of Bolivia's state of siege—a modified form of martial law—which has been in effect since May 28 when

SENATE APPROVES AIR FORCE BILL

Passes 70-Group Measure With Some Revision Over House Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Authority for a big expansion of the air force won senate approval by unanimous consent today after brief discussion.

It passed the 70-group air force bill previously approved by the house after striking out a section that spelled out the 70 combat groups and other units.

Retained in the bill, however, was the house-approved authority for "24,000 serviceable aircraft or 224,000 airframe tons aggregate."

This would authorize the air force to buy—if congress provides funds later—all the airplanes regarded as necessary for an expansion to 70 groups.

'Dangerous Authority' To President Assailed

Lucas Skeptical Of Proposal To Give Truman Power Over Three Billion Dollars In Appropriations; Lashes Coalition

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lucas said today that "dangerous authority" lurks in the proposal to give President Truman power to slash up to $3,000,000,000 in congressional appropriations.

The Illinois senator lashed out at the powerful coalition of Democrats and Republicans backing the proposal as it headed for a vote Monday in the senate.

Although a majority of 63 has demanded the right to ballot on the idea, the parliamentary situation may require suspension of the rules to vote on it. This would call for a two-thirds majority—or 64 senators if all 96 vote. The Lucas camp claims not all the 63 will support it.

Lucas told a reporter that the proposal would give Mr. Truman authority he does not want and involves purse-string controls that congress "should be unwilling to surrender."

It would order the president to save not less than 5 per cent nor more than 10 per cent of the funds allowed by congress in the various annual appropriations.

Heading the drive for the measure is Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) who, with his backers, has been pressing Lucas for weeks to bring it to a vote.

McClellan and other supporters of the measure contend the president and congress must share responsibility for every problem and that the chief executive—as well as the lawmakers—

BEVINS, CRIPPS HAVE PERSONAL DISAGREEMENTS

Will Be Divided On One Bevin Idea At Washington Conference

ACHESON NOT TO FAVOR 'ECONOMIC UNION' IDEA

By Arthur Gavshon

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and economics boss Sir Stafford Cripps will go the Washington dollar talks in personal disagreement over one of Bevin's ideas, their associates said today.

Prime Minister Attlee has called the British cabinet to all-day talks Monday to okay formally a policy worked out in weeks of backroom discussion. The Bevin-Cripps cleavage is likely to backdrop the cabinet conference.

Bevin, his associates say, has been plumping for what he calls a fill-scale integration of the dollar and pound sterling systems. This could possibly mean a customs union or even a common currency, but informants say Bevin has never made clear just what he has in mind.

American sources, in discussing his idea, have used the phrase "economic union"—an idea already publicly rejected by Secretary of State Acheson.

Bevin reportedly argues that integration is no only essential but also a logical outcome of Anglo-American diplomatic unity.

Responsible officials in Cripps' department—the treasury—throw up their hands at Bevin's idea. They say it's poetic and tartly declare that Bevin is no economist.

Cripps takes the view that Britain can win through only by hard work—by producing more goods at less cost and using high pressure salesmanship to market them for dollars. Brit-

NORWEGIANS HAIL RESCUE IN ARCTIC

Term Action At Explosion-Torn Craft As 'Masterful Maneuver'

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Weather-beaten Norwegian seafarers had high praise for the U. S. Navy today after the heroic rescue of 84 men from the explosion-torn American submarine Cochino.

They hailed as a "masterful maneuver" the way in which a sister ship, the Tusk, risked disaster to save lives in the darkness of the rough, icy waters of the Arctic.

Nearly every one of the 3,000 residents of the North Cape town of Hammerfest turned out in the wind and rain to welcome the survivors and salute the courage and skill of the Tusk crew.

Seven drowned during the rescue operation.

When the modern, Snorkel-equipped Cochino was rocked by a battery room explosion yesterday some 170 miles northwest of Hammerfest, the Tusk quickly dispatched small rubber boats to her aid.

But when a second blast shattered the crippled Cochino Cmdr. Robert L. R. Worthington, of Oakmont, Pa., skipper of the Tusk, knew the small boats were not enough.

Despite the danger of the two 2,000-ton subs colliding in the high seas. He held his rolling vessel so close to the Cochino that her crewmen were able to leap across to the narrow deck of the Tusk.

Oil Industry Celebrates 90th Year At First Well

By William G. Smock

Matthews told a shirtsleeved crowd gathered around the world's first oil well that:

"The outcome of the new conflict of ideologies depends upon us. We can favorably resolve even that issue if we so desire and are ready to pay the price for so precious a victory."

We must neither hesitate nor falter in our search for peace," he added. No matter how long the road or rough the way. We have learned through the operations of the Truman doctrine, the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact that we can hold off aggression if we demonstrate firmness of purpose and adequate military strength to back up our foreign policy."

A crowd of some 3,000 townsmen in this western Pennsylvania oil center, oilmen from all parts of the country, and state officials saw the original well start pumping "black gold" again.

The well was drilled on Saturday, Aug. 27, 1859, by Col. Edwin L. Drake, a New England train conductor who turned oilman. The few barrels of petroleum produced that day founded an industry that has spread to 26 states. More than 31,000,000,000 barrels of crude have been produced since Drake brought in his well.

On the 90th anniversary of Drake's feat, his grand-daughter pressed a button from the speakers' stand that started simulated reactivation of the original well.

The 69 1/2-foot-deep well has long since given up its store of petroleum but oil officials deposited several barrels of crude in the casing for today's reactivation.

While spectators watched inside the tiny, unpainted, wooden enclosed engine house a derrick, a slow flow of crude rose out of the well hole.

Northside Lions To Teach Auto Parking

There's an art to parking an automobile; that's what members of the North Monroe Lions Club decided last week.

So what? Here's what:

They decided to call upon their president, Fran Brennan, a former affiliate of the A. A. A. (American Automobile Association), to instruct a "parking school" Sept. 12th, 13th and 14th.

The school for parkers will be conducted at the Marie Place between Park Avenue and Forsythe street between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

The first two days of the school will be given to the teaching of women drivers and the last day to men drivers.

Applicants, all of whom must know how to drive their car, are asked to submit applications to the president of the club or to the secretary. Address your letters in care of the North Monroe Lions Club.

Sponsored by the club as a public service to the community, the school may be carried over for another day if enough men submit their applications.

LONG BEACH SHIPYARDS TO CLOSE

Florida Hurricane Swings Northward Toward Georgia

Punishing Winds Leave Mark Across Pennisula; Heavy Blow Hammers At Area Between Jacksonville And Tallahassee

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The powerful remnants of a onetime superhurricane, worn by the fury of its assault on Florida, drove toward south Georgia tonight. Still packing punishing winds of near hurricane force—70 miles per hour—the dying storm raked through north central Florida after sweeping in from the wave tossed gulf at the mouth of the storied Swannee river.

The sea immediately ahead of the flailing winds was sparsely settled, but outriding winds hammered heavily at north Floridians between Jacksonville and Tallahassee.

The weather bureau warned that south Georgia between Waycross and Moultrie could expect "dangerous gales of near hurricane force until the center passes."

The center was reported 25 miles southeast of Valdosta, Ga.

Hurricane warnings still were up from Carrabelle to Cedar Keys while storm warnings stood stiff in the wind elsewhere between Fort Myers and Panama City.

Twice in its brief career, the storm lashed at Florida like some vengeful demon.

After brewing winds of 125 to 162 miles per hour in the wastelands of the Atlantic, the mighty force struck inland yesterday.

Shortly after striking the 162-mile mark at the Jupiter lighthouse north of West Palm Beach, the coast guard's anemometer failed. The previous sustained reading was 150 miles.

Savagely it raked 250 miles of beach playground along the Atlantic coast.

The storm left behind one dead, nearly three score injured and a damage toll which already had passed the $10,000,000 mark.

The Miami Herald estimated that the final cost would be around $40,000,000 and declared that the damage in the Lake Okeechobee area dollar-wise would be greater than the mighty blow of 1928 in which 1,800 persons died.

EUROPEANS DRAW BILL OF RIGHTS

11-Point Measure Drawn To Start Political Union Of Europe

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A committee of the consultative assembly announced today it had drawn up an 11-point bill of rights for Europeans.

The proposed Magna Carta for the common man is to be taken up by the assembly of 101 delegates during the coming week. If it is approved the 12 member nations of the Council of Europe will be asked to sign a binding convention guaranteeing it will be observed.

Meanwhile, the general affairs committee agreed to draw up a plan by next April 30 for the political union of Europe.

The members of this committee also are preparing a plan for a general steering committee which would hold the reins of assembly work between sessions and press the member nations to act on assembly projects.

One member of the committee said this plan was "the cornerstone of a future government of Europe."

Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe, British prosecutor of high Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg and chairman of the assembly committee on human rights, announced the plan to protect fundamental human freedoms. He said the list of freedoms could and probably would be expanded before it is handed to the assembly for approval. The 11-bill of rights as it stands now:

1. Security of person.
2. Freedom from arbitrary arrest, detention or exile.
3. Freedom from slavery, servitude or discriminatory forced labor.
4. Freedom of speech and expression of opinion.
5. Freedom of religious belief, practice and teaching.
6. Freedom of association.
7. Protection of the natural rights associated with marriage, paternity and family.
8. Inviolability of the home.
9. Equality before the law.

LONG TO ADDRESS CONVENTION HERE

Senator Accepts Invitation Of Young Men's Clubs; Program Announced

United States Sen. Russell Long yesterday accepted an invitation to address the convention of the National Federation of Young Men's Clubs here September 3-5, it was announced by Tony Anzalone, president of the Monroe Progressive Men's Club, which is sponsoring the convention.

Senator Long telegraphed his acceptance to the local committee. Gov. Earl K. Long previously had accepted an invitation to address the convention, which is expected to be one of the largest held here this year. Approximately 1,000 delegates and visitors are expected to register for the three-day convention, whose headquarters will be the Virginia Hotel.

Preparations are being completed for the entertainment of the many guests, Anzalone said. Decorations were being placed on downtown streets yesterday and the official program has been revised to include several outstanding entertainment features.

Monroe members of the organization are urged to register before the convention opens on September 3 to facilitate handling the big crowd expected. Advance registrations are being received by Charles Marsala, chairman of the registration commit-

Giant Parade Slated As Christmas Event

A gigantic balloon parade, much larger than that which attracted a huge crowd to Monroe last year, will be presented as a Christmas feature of the Retail Merchant's division holiday observance, it was announced yesterday by Herbert Fink, chairman of the division of the Chamber of Commerce. The parade will be held on Wednesday, December 7.

In a bulletin mailed yesterday to merchants, Mr. Fink said that the parade will feature a parade of animated animals, some several hundred feet long, in what is expected to be the biggest spectable of its kind ever seen here. There will be 50 units in the parade, he added.

As an extra attraction, three large trophies will be awarded bands which participate in the parade, the chairman said. In all, the parade is expected to take at least an hour to pass a given point.

Mr. Fink said that funds for financing the parade must be collected by September 15, and urged that merchants mail their checks to the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce immediately.

Legion Convention To Open Monday; Truman Will Speak

By Herb Altschull

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The American Legion opens its 31st national convention here Monday in the midst of bitter congressional dispute over arms for Europe.

President Truman, Missouri's most eminent legionnaire, will address the convention at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson will make two speeches Wednesday.

Spirited pleas for legion support of the full Truman aid program are anticipated both from the president and the defense secretary. Some congressional leaders are leading a drive to lop nearly half a billion dollars from the measure.

Resolutions supporting the president's program will be presented to the convention.

In addition, there is likely to be a heated demand for arms for China and other parts of the Orient threatened by Communist armies.

But the 6,000 legionnaires who'll be here for the convention aren't coming just to talk and listen to speeches. There will be plenty of opportunity for the traditional legion convention fun making.

The always-colorful legion parade is scheduled for Tuesday. Other business at the four-day conclave is at parade rest that day and the blue-capped veterans will take over the city.

More than 1,000,000 persons are expected to watch the 15-hour parade that will have 18,000 men and women stepping to the tunes of 100 musical organizations.

Election of a new national commander, to succeed Perry Brown of Beaumont, Tex., is set for Thursday.

And it seems likely now that the legion, for the first time, will choose a World War Two veteran. Several departments, including Pennslyvannia, already have picked younger veterans for their state commanders.

Of the six announced candidates for the national post, four are vet-

Veterans' Groups Tangle With Concert Goers Before Singer Appears

UNCOUNTED VICTIMS POUR INTO NEAR-BY HOSPITAL

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 27. — (AP) — Fierce rioting among thousands of persons broke out tonight at a scheduled Picnic Grove concert by Paul Robeson and at least 11 persons were reported stabbed or clubbed.

The rioting broke out as marching veterans organizations and concert-goers clashed head-on in a dirt country road near the grove.

After two and a half hours the fighting still had not been completely quelled.

At least 11 persons were taken to the hospital, police reported, and the hospital said "they come in like flies—we can't keep count of them."

The crowd of thousands, on-the-scene newsmen reported, contained a large number of Negroes, but most persons were white.

The hospital said the injured apparently were beaten with "rocks, clubs, anything they could get their hands on."

Robeson did not appear on the scene.

The Negro singer was reported tied up in the huge traffic jam that the riot caused on nearby roads.

His concert appearance had been scheduled by the peoples artists committe for the benefit of the Harlem branch of the Civil Rights Congress.

INFLUENCE BOAST DENIED BY HUNT

Says He Never Asked Vaughan For Anything Except Two Football Tickets

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—James V. Hunt, a key figure in the five percenter inquiry, said tonight he never has asked Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan for anything more important than tickets to an Army-Notre Dame football game.

And Hunt flatly denied that he ever made the statement: "All I have to sell is influence." A witness at the investigation testified under oath that Hunt did say that.

Hunt, self-described Washington management counselor, said it seems to him senate inquiry has produced "conclusive evidence of the absence of any improper influence" on his part.

Hunt made his statements in an affidavit to a special senate subcommittee checking on whether any such influence has figured in the handling of government business.

The committee has received testimony that Hunt collected fat fees for help in getting government contracts for others, and that he boasted of an inside track to the White House through Vaughan.

Vaughan, who is President Truman's military aide, is scheduled to testify at the inquiry Tuesday. His name, like Hunt's, has bobbed up at the hearings nearly every day.

In his affidavit Hunt said he met Vaughan for the first time in 1945 shortly after Vaughan became a presidential aide.

When the modern, Snorkel-equipped Cochino was rocked by a battery room explosion yesterday some 170 miles northwest of Hammerfest, the Tusk quickly dispatched small rubber boats to her aid.

But when a second blast shattered the crippled Cochino Cmdr. Robert L. R. Worthington, of Oakmont, Pa., skipper of the Tusk, knew the small boats were not enough.

Despite the danger of the two 2,000-ton subs colliding in the high seas. He held his rolling vessel so close to the Cochino that her crewmen were able to leap across to the narrow deck of the Tusk.

Ten minutes after the last man had scrambled aboard the Tusk, flames

LONG BEACH SHIPYARDS TO CLOSE

The United States Navy shipyard, above, has been ordered deactivated to practically a custodial basis by Secretary of Defense Lewis Johnson. This order will affect nearly 6,000 civilians and deprive Long Beach and environs of a payroll of approximately two million dollars monthly. Terminal Island, where the main navy base is located, has been reported sinking into the bay for some years. (NEA Telephoto).

Florida Hurricane Swings Northward Toward Georgia

Punishing Winds Leave Mark Across Pennisula; Heavy Blow Hammers At Area Between Jacksonville And Tallahassee

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The powerful remnants of a onetime superhurricane, worn by the fury of its assault on Florida, drove toward south Georgia tonight. Still packing punishing winds of near hurricane force—70 miles per hour—the dying storm raked through north central Florida after sweeping in from the wave tossed gulf at the mouth of the storied Swannee river.

The sea immediately ahead of the flailing winds was sparsely settled, but outriding winds hammered heavily at north Floridians between Jacksonville and Tallahassee.

The weather bureau warned that south Georgia between Waycross and Moultrie could expect "dangerous gales of near hurricane force until the center passes."

The center was reported 25 miles southeast of Valdosta, Ga.

Hurricane warnings still were up from Carrabelle to Cedar Keys while storm warnings stood stiff in the wind elsewhere between Fort Myers and Panama City.

Twice in its brief career, the storm lashed at Florida like some vengeful demon.

After brewing winds of 125 to 162 miles per hour in the wastelands of the Atlantic, the mighty force struck inland yesterday.

Shortly after striking the 162-mile mark at the Jupiter lighthouse north of West Palm Beach, the coast guard's anemometer failed. The previous sustained reading was 150 miles.

Savagely it raked 250 miles of beach playground along the Atlantic coast.

The storm left behind one dead, nearly three score injured and a damage toll which already had passed the $10,000,000 mark.

The Miami Herald estimated that the final cost would be around $40,000,000 and declared that the damage in the Lake Okeechobee area dollarwise would be greater than the mighty blow of 1928 in which 1,800 persons died.

EUROPEANS DRAW BILL OF RIGHTS

11-Point Measure Drawn To Start Political Union Of Europe

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A committee of the consultative assembly announced today it had drawn up an 11-point bill of rights for Europeans.

The proposed Magna Carta for the common man is to be taken up by the assembly of 101 delegates during the coming week. If it is approved the 12 member nations of the Council of Europe will be asked to sign a binding convention guaranteeing it will be observed.

Meanwhile, the general affairs committee agreed to draw up a plan by next April 30 for the political union of Europe.

The members of this committee also are preparing a plan for a general steering committee which would hold the reins of assembly work between sessions and press the member nations to act on assembly projects.

One member of the committee said this plan was "the cornerstone of a future government of Europe."

Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe, British prosecutor of high Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg and chairman of the assembly committee on human rights, announced the plan to protect fundamental human freedoms. He said the list of freedoms could and probably would be expanded before it is handed to the assembly for approval. The 11-bill of rights as it stands now:

1. Security of person.
2. Freedom from arbitrary arrest, detention or exile.
3. Freedom from slavery, servitude or discriminatory forced labor.
4. Freedom of speech and expression of opinion.
5. Freedom of religious belief, practice and teaching.
6. Freedom of association.
7. Protection of the natural rights associated with marriage, paternity and family.
8. Inviolability of the home.
9. Equality before the law.

LONG TO ADDRESS CONVENTION HERE

Senator Accepts Invitation Of Young Men's Clubs; Program Announced

United States Sen. Russell Long yesterday accepted an invitation to address the convention of the National Federation of Young Men's Clubs here September 3-5, it was announced by Tony Anzalone, president of the Monroe Progressive Men's Club, which is sponsoring the convention.

Senator Long telegraphed his acceptance to the local committee. Gov. Earl K. Long previously had accepted an invitation to address the convention, which is expected to be one of the largest held here this year. Approximately 1,000 delegates and visitors are expected to register for the three-day convention, whose headquarters will be the Virginia Hotel.

Preparations are being completed for the entertainment of the many guests, Anzalone said. Decorations were being placed on downtown streets yesterday and the official program has been revised to include several outstanding entertainment features.

Monroe members of the organization are urged to register before the convention opens on September 3 to facilitate handling the big crowd expected. Advance registrations are being received by Charles Marsala, chairman of the registration commit-

FACTIONS CLASH

Veterans' Groups Tangle With Concert Goers Before Singer Appears

UNCOUNTED VICTIMS POUR INTO NEAR-BY HOSPITAL

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 27. — (AP) — Fierce rioting among thousands of persons broke out tonight at a scheduled Picnic Grove concert by Paul Robeson and at least 11 persons were reported stabbed or clubbed.

The rioting broke out as marching veterans organizations and concert-goers clashed head-on in a dirt country road near the grove.

After two and a half hours the fighting still had not been completely quelled.

At least 11 persons were taken to the hospital, police reported, and the hospital said "they come in like flies—we can't keep count of them."

The crowd of thousands, on-the-scene newsmen reported, contained a large number of Negroes, but most persons were white.

The hospital said the injured apparently were beaten with "rocks, clubs, anything they could get their hands on."

Robeson did not appear on the scene.

The Negro singer was reported tied up in the huge traffic jam that the riot caused on nearby roads.

His concert appearance had been scheduled by the peoples artists committe for the benefit of the Harlem branch of the Civil Rights Congress.

The congress has been labeled subversive by the U. S. justice department.

Newsmen on the scene reported the

INFLUENCE BOAST DENIED BY HUNT

Says He Never Asked Vaughan For Anything Except Two Football Tickets

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP) —James V. Hunt, a key figure in the five percenter inquiry, said tonight he never has asked Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan for anything more important than tickets to an Army-Notre Dame football game.

And Hunt flatly denied that he ever made the statement: "All I have to sell is influence." A witness at the investigation testified under oath that Hunt did say that.

Hunt, self-described Washington management counselor, said it seems to him senate inquiry has produced "conclusive evidence of the absence of any improper influence" on his part.

Hunt made his statements in an affidavit to a special senate subcommittee checking on whether any such influence has figured in the handling of government business.

The committee has received testimony that Hunt collected fat fees for help in getting government contracts for others, and that he boasted of an inside track to the White House through Vaughan.

Vaughan, who is President Truman's military aide, is scheduled to testify at the inquiry Tuesday. His name, like Hunt's, has bobbed up at the hearings nearly every day.

In his affidavit Hunt said he met Vaughan for the first time in 1945 shortly after Vaughan became a presidential aide.

'Dangerous Authority' To President Assailed

Lucas Skeptical Of Proposal To Give Truman Power Over Three Billion Dollars In Appropriations; Lashes Coalition

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lucas said today that "dangerous authority" lurks in the proposal to give President Truman power to slash up to $3,000,000,000 in congressional appropriations.

The Illinois senator lashed out at the powerful coalition of Democrats and Republicans backing the proposal as it headed for a vote Monday in the senate.

Although a majority of 63 has demanded the right to ballot on the idea, the parliamentary situation may require suspension of the rules to vote on it. This would call for a two-thirds majority—or 64 senators if all 96 vote. The Lucas camp claims not all the 63 will support it.

Lucas told a reporter that the proposal would give Mr. Truman authority he does not want and involves purse-string controls that congress "should be unwilling to surrender."

It would order the president to save not less than 5 per cent nor more than 10 per cent of the funds allowed by congress in the various annual appropriations.

Heading the drive for the measure is Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) who, with his backers, has been pressing Lucas for weeks to bring it to a vote.

McClellan and other supporters of the measure contend the president and congress must share responsibility for every problem and that the chief executive—as well as the lawmakers—

YOUTH REPUDIATES GUILT CONFESSION

Denies He, Two Others Beat Cheerleader To Death

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The mysterious Muriel Baldridge slaying case became more confused today when Leo Justice repudiated a statement describing how the 17-year-old high school girl was killed.

Pike County Sheriff D. C. Moore said Justice, 23, denied today he knew anything about the girl's death last June 27. She was killed at Prestonsburg, in neighboring Floyd county.

Justice, member of a widely known family here, said in a statement to the sheriff yesterday he was present when Miss Baldridge was beaten to death. The statement described in detail how the girl was forced into an

Oil Industry Celebrates 90th Year At First Well

By William G. Smock

Matthews told a shirtsleeved crowd gathered around the world's first oil well that:

"The outcome of the new conflict of ideologies depends upon us. We can favorably resolve even that issue if we so desire and are ready to pay the price for so precious a victory."

We must neither hesitate nor falter in our search for peace," he added. No matter how long the road or rough the way. We have learned through the operations of the Truman doctrine, the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact that we can hold off aggression if we demonstrate firmness of purpose and adequate military strength to back up our foreign policy."

A crowd of some 3,000 townsmen in this western Pennsylvania oil center, oilmen from all parts of the country, and state officials saw the original well start pumping "black gold" again.

The well was drilled on Saturday, Aug. 27, 1859, by Col. Edwin L. Drake, a New England train conductor who turned oilman. The few barrels of petroleum produced that day founded an industry that has spread to 26 states. More than 31,000,000,000 barrels of crude have been produced since Drake brought in his well.

On the 90th anniversary of Drake's feat, his grand-daughter pressed a button from the speakers' stand that started simulated reactivation of the original well.

The 69 1/2-foot-deep well has long since given up its store of petroleum but oil officials deposited several barrels of crude in the casing for today's reactivation.

While spectators watched inside the tiny, unpainted, wooden enclosed engine house a derrick, a slow flow of crude rose out of the well hole.

Northside Lions To Teach Auto Parking

There's an art to parking an automobile; that's what members of the North Monroe Lions Club decided last week.

So what? Here's what:

They decided to call upon their president, Fran Brennan, a former affiliate of the A. A. A. (American Automobile Association), to instruct a "parking school" Sept. 12th, 13th and 14th.

The school for parkers will be conducted at the Marie Place between Park Avenue and Forsythe street between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

The first two days of the school will be given to the teaching of women drivers and the last day to men drivers.

Applicants, all of whom must know how to drive their car, are asked to submit applications to the president of the club or to the secretary. Address your letters in care of the North Monroe Lions Club.

Sponsored by the club as a public service to the community, the school may be carried over for another day if enough men submit their applications.

Giant Parade Slated As Christmas Event

A gigantic balloon parade, much larger than that which attracted a huge crowd to Monroe last year, will be presented as a Christmas feature of the Retail Merchant's division holiday observance, it was announced yesterday by Herbert Fink, chairman of the division of the Chamber of Commerce. The parade will be held on Wednesday, December 7.

In a bulletin mailed yesterday to merchants, Mr. Fink said that the parade will feature a parade of animated animals, some several hundred feet long, in what is expected to be the biggest spectable of its kind ever seen here. There will be 50 units in the parade, he added.

As an extra attraction, three large trophies will be awarded bands which participate in the parade, the chairman said. In all, the parade is expected to take at least an hour to pass a given point.

Mr. Fink said that funds for financing the parade must be collected by September 15, and urged that merchants mail their checks to the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce immediately.

Legion Convention To Open Monday; Truman Will Speak

By Herb Altschull

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The American Legion opens its 31st national convention here Monday in the midst of bitter congressional dispute over arms for Europe.

President Truman, Missouri's most eminent legionnaire, will address the convention at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson will make two speeches Wednesday.

Spirited pleas for legion support of the full Truman aid program are anticipated both from the president and the defense secretary. Some congressional leaders are leading a drive to lop nearly half a billion dollars from the measure.

Resolutions supporting the president's program will be presented to the convention.

In addition, there is likely to be a heated demand for arms for China and other parts of the Orient threatened by Communist armies.

But the 6,000 legionnaires who'll be here for the convention aren't coming just to talk and listen to speeches. There will be plenty of opportunity for the traditional legion convention fun making.

The always-colorful legion parade is scheduled for Tuesday. Other business at the four-day conclave is at parade rest that day and the blue-capped veterans will take over the city.

More than 1,000,000 persons are expected to watch the 15-hour parade that will have 18,000 men and women stepping to the tunes of 100 musical organizations.

Election of a new national commander, to succeed Perry Brown of Beaumont, Tex., is set for Thursday.

And it seems likely now that the legion, for the first time, will choose a World War Two veteran. Several departments, including Pennsylvannia, already have picked younger veterans for their state commanders.

Of the six announced candidates for the national post, four are vet-

Pravda Journalist Raps At 'Capitalist Press'

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—(AP)—David Zaslavsky, editorial writer for Pravda, told the concluding session of the Soviet Union conference of peace proponents today "the capitalistic press is an evil which must be destroyed by democracy."

He compared the American press to that of Hitlerite Germany in commenting on an editorial which he said had been published in the Washington Times Herald. He said the editorial called for the bombing of Russian cities.

Prof. J. D. Bernal, British physicist, told the conference science in the capitalistic countries is being put almost exclusively to use in preparations for mass destruction of peoples in war.

Bernal was denied a visa when he sought to attend a Communist-organized peace conference in New York last spring. The Moscow peace conference is similar to others held earlier in New York, Paris and Prague.

It ended with organization of a permanent committee of prominent Soviet citizens. The committee will hold its first meeting tomorrow.

One of the tasks of the committee will be collection of funds in the U. S. S. R. to aid the international partisans of peace, it was announced.

Greek Army Battles Last Guerrilla Stand In Northern Greece

By L. S. Chakales

WITH THE GREEK ARMY ON THE GRAMMOS FRONT, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Guerrilla troops but recently escaped from the collapsed Vitsi redoubt joined the mounting battle today to keep open a line of retreat into Alabama from the Grammos mountains.

The Grammos area is the last Communist stronghold in northern Greece. The Greek army offensive to drive the Rebels out began three days ago.

A bitter battle raged for Flambouri heights, 11 miles west of Nestorion, where elements of two guerrill regiments from Vitsi fought to keep open an escape route through the Baroukas river valley.

The Ninth Greek division, which faltered in an attempt to close the Vitsi sack two weeks ago and let the 103rd and 105th Communist regiments escape into Albania at Kroustalopiyi, was being opposed by the same two regiments today.

Fighting hard on the border among 6,000-foot peaks, the Ninth division had made sensational progress to close the sole escape route from the eastern Grammos. It captured 6,300-foot Porta Osman peak and was moving down hill toward the valley. The other side was held by the Communist veterans of Vitsi.

The Greek units fought their way onto the southern end of Flambouri mountain following heavy artillery shelling and divebombing by Greek-manned U. S. navy Helldivers.

Southeast of Flambouri on the banks of the Sarandaporos river the Greek 15th division was checked by three guerrilla brigades and another battalion which also had escaped from Vitsi. A Rebel brigade normally numbers 600 to 800 men, a battalion 250.

To the southwest, on the front north of Konitsa, strong Greek detachments were known to be scattered along the main routes of a guerrilla retreat in the vicinity of Pyrosonyanni, Vourbiani, Kantizkon and Zerma. But it was not known whether these forces were strong enough to stop a withdrawal.

Greek officers were optimistic concerning the possibility of closing the Baroukas river line of retreat. An authoritative military source said if this route is closed the entire guerrilla force in the eastern Grammos, including the large units facing the 15th division would be forced to make a long detour to the west, then to the south while under air attack.

During the day the steady drone of attacking Helldivers and Spitfires could be heard along the front. American observers praised the briefly trained Greek pilots for their handling of the navy's Helldivers.

The Greek general staff said continuous and systematic aid was being given the Rebels by Albania. It said four regiments formerly at Vitsi had moved into the Grammos area by way of Albania.

The Greek army suffered casualties from artillery and infantry fire from Albania while capturing two heights the general staff added. It said United Nations observers had confirmed these violations of Greece's border.

Federal Grants To Aid Local Health Services

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The senate today passed a bill for expansion of local public health service facilities through federal grants to states.

The measure, which now goes to the house, authorizes no specific appropriation. That is left for congress to determine each year.

Federal grants to the states would would be on the basis of need for facilities, population and relative financial need.

Under the present public health law, the federal government makes grants to the states for programs against tuberculosis, venereal disease and heart disease. Grants also are provided to assist the states and their local subdivisions in establishing and maintaining public health services of a general nature.

The bill passed today would continue the aid program in the three specific fields and also help the states to set up full programs for their various local areas.

Marriage Annulment Sought By Italian Red

ROME, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Italian newspapers published a report today that Italian Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, 56, is seeking an annulment of his marriage to Senator Rita Montagnana, 54, also a Communist.

No confirmation was available. The two married in 1924.

The moderate Rome newspaper Momento-Sera said it was rumored in legal circles that the action would be filed in a Romanian court and handled by a Romanian lawyer.

Togliatti is vacationing in the Italian Alps near Turin.

For several years the dapper, bespectacled Communist leader has been seen frequently in the company of Buxom, 29-year-old Leonilde Iotti, a Communist deput. She was with him July 14, 1948, when Togliatti was wounded by gunfire in an assassination attempt at a side door of the parliament building.

To the southwest, on the front north of Konitsa, strong Greek detachments were known to be scattered along the main routes of a guerrilla retreat in the vicinity of Pyrosonyanni, Vourbiani, Kantizkon and Zerma. But it was not known whether these forces were strong enough to stop a withdrawal.

Greek officers were optimistic concerning the possibility of closing the Baroukas river line of retreat. An authoritative military source said if this route is closed the entire guerrilla force in the eastern Grammos, including the large units facing the 15th division would be forced to make a lon detour to the west, then to the south while under air attack.

During the day the steady drone of attacking Helldivers and Spitfires could be heard along the front. American observers praised the briefly trained Greek pilots for their handling o' the navy's Helldivers.

The Greek general staff said continuous and systematic aid was being given the Rebels by Albania. It said four regiments formerly at Vitsi had moved into the Grammos area by way of Albania.

The Greek army suffered casualties from artillery and infantry fire from Albania while capturing two heights the general staff added. It said United Nations observers had confirmed these violations of Greece's border.

Federal Grants To Aid Local Health Services

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The senate today passed a bill for expansion of local public health service facilities through federal grants to states.

The measure, which now goes to the house, authorizes no specific appropriation. That is left for congress to determine each year.

Federal grants to the states would would be on the basis of need for facilities, population and relative financial need.

Under the present public health law, the federal government makes grants to the states for programs against tuberculosis, venereal disease and heart disease. Grants also are provided to assist the states and their local subdivisions in establishing and maintaining public health services of a general nature.

The bill passed today would continue the aid program in the three specific fields and also help the states to set up full programs for their various local areas.

Marriage Annulment Sought By Italian Red

ROME, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Italian newspapers published a report today that Italian Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, 56, is seeking an annulment of his marriage to Senator Rita Montagnana, 54, also a Communist.

No confirmation was available. The two married in 1924.

The moderate Rome newspaper Momento-Sera said it was rumored in legal circles that the action would be filed in a Romanian court and handled by a Romanian lawyer.

Togliatti is vacationing in the Italian Alps near Turin.

For several years the dapper, bespectacled Communist leader has been seen frequently in the company of Buxom, 29-year-old Leonilde Iiotti, a Communist deput. She was with him July 14, 1948, when Togliatti was wounded by gunfire in an assassination attempt at a side door of the parliament building.

RUSSIAN WHEAT TO BULGARIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Bulgarian government press department said tonight Russia will supply this country 160,000 tons of wheat to offset a poor domestic crop.

Premier Vassil Kolarov thanked Prime Minister Stalin in a letter.

A hundred thousand tons are scheduled for delivery this year and the best in 1950, the announcement said.

Conservation Problems

The steady exhaustion of the world's natural resources in the face of mounting population drew a lot of attention last year, largely because two extremely readable books on the subject were published. We in Northeast Louisiana should take note.

How to protect failing resources and develop new ones still does not command, however, the time and thought it deserves in parliaments and cabinets throughout the world. Lawmakers here and abroad manage to talk about everything but conservation—one of the most elemental factors in world political and economic life.

But now, fortunately, the United Nations is delving into conservation and population problems. Some 400 scientists from 50 countries are gathered in a three-week conference devoted to the question of how to stop the rapid depletion of vital resources and bring them in line with population needs. The meeting is a healthy sign.

After the books by William Vogt and Fairfield Osborn appeared last year, they were branded by some people as "alarmist." Some rather strained efforts were made to disprove their thesis—that population may soon outrun the essentials of life.

None of these attempts tried to deny population growth or the dwindling of resources in soil, timber, minerals and the like. Instead, they pinned hope on science and technology to save the situation before starvation and similar crises develop.

Any one must wish this will occur, for otherwise the outlook is dark indeed. Osborn told the UN conferences of scientists that the world's population will soar from the present two billion to three billion in 50 years. And a Canadian mineral resources chief warned that the time may not be far off when our best known sources of key materials will be used up.

With the staggering potentialities of atomic energy on the horizon, it would be foolish to predict that the world will not be bailed out of this tightening dilemma. Tryve Lie, UN secretary-general, told the delegates a fuller use of science in developing resources might lead to successful support of a vastly expanded population at a much higher standard of living than now prevails.

Yet the fear lingers that lost resources may never quite be matched. Many of the depleted materials were high grade, easy to mine or use, relatively close to population centers where they were needed.

We may be able to put amazing new life in worn-out soils; to devise synthetics and other substitutes; to extract great untapped mineral stores from remote places, or to refine low-grade ores now commercially unusable.

But who can be confident that these answers, however ingenious, will not be much more costly than we would like? Unless atomic furnaces bring us remarkably cheap power, a lower standard of living will be the outcome.

The world will welcome all the benefits science can yield. But meantime lawmakers everywhere ought to put conservation high on their agenda, as a hedge against a future that may not be quite as bright as they so blithely imagine.

Congress Group Out Of Bounds

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has announced that federal rent controls will be abolished Oct. 1 in one-third of the areas where they now operate. About 4,500,000 dwelling units in communities of less than 100,000 population would be affected.

Woods said this drastic curtailment of controls would be made necessary by a prospective cut in his budget from a requested $26,000,000 to $17,500,000. The reduction was the work of a house-senate conference group ironing out differences on the appropriations bill covering outlays for the expediter's office.

The only alternative to the decontrol now planned, Woods said, would be to "fire one-third of my employes and attempt to maintain only token rent control throughout the country." He chose what he regarded the lesser evil.

If Woods is sincere in his position and not merely trying to pressure congress into restoring cut that might be at least partially warranted, this situation is an unfortunate one.

It then becomes another instance of the powerful appropriations committees taking into their hands authority they do not properly enjoy. These groups have exhibited a growing tendency to usurp power that belongs to the regularly constituted legislative committees of congress. It is not the business of the appropriations committees to determine legislative policy.

In this case, congress has voted a 1949 rent control law. The act permits local and state governments to initiate action for the removal of ceilings when in their judgment the situation in particular areas justifies. Many units have availed themselves of this option.

But congress did not declare a policy of widespread, wholesale decontrol. It argued that question long and hard and wound up by retaining general ceilings.

Consequently, the appropriations groups would appear to be off their reservation when they so sharply trim the housing expediter's budget as to necessitate broad decontrol in defiance of expressed congressional intent. It means a relative handful of men are seeking to super-impose their judgment on the decisions already taken by the full legislature.

If rent controls are to be abandoned wholesale, that determination should originate in the committees lawfully authorized to make it. The full house and senate should meantime reject the recommendations of the joint conference group which would have such sweeping impact.

Why All The Fuss?

We are reminded from Washington that the freezing unit given to Mrs. Truman fits right into an established pattern of gift-giving beamed toward the presidential family.

In 1946 the president got a $5,000 bowling alley as a birthday present from some of his Missouri pals. He also acquired a horseshoe-pitching court to help round out the White House athletic department.

Then of course there are items like 1,000 neckties, a lot of other haberdashery for a man who was once an old haberdasher himself, and a wide range of personal trinkets.

So what's a little thing like a freezer between friends?

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

THIS CONCERNS US ALL

We hold no brief for E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, General Motors Corporation, and the U. S. Rubber Company, as such. They are not southern companies, although all of them have plants in the south. But we do hold a brief for these companies in the case of the anti-trust suit recently brought against them by the government.

We are opposed to monopoly in any form—whether industrial, labor, or otherwise. But that is not the charge of the department of justice in this suit. There is plenty of competition with these companies in the fields of chemistry, automobiles, and rubber. The central theme of the suit is that interlocking stock ownership causes these corporations to purchase goods from each other, thereby serving to restrain trade.

This charge is effectively answered by Dupont, when it shows that during the ten year period 1938 to 1947 its sales to General Motors amounted to 2.6 per cent of its total sales, and its sales to U. S. Rubber amounted to 1.4 per cent of its total sales for that period.

We also hold a brief for these companies, because they represent part of the American free enterprise system. It is no crime for a business to be big. When the attorney general said that the suit was "directed to the breaking up of the largest single concentration of industrial power in the United States," he was simply saying that the suit was an attack against bigness in business as such. There are many benefits to be derived by the people from big business that cannot be derived from small business, from research and from immense investments in neew products, and in cheaper prices to the consumer.

We also hold a brief for these companies, because we hold a brief for the profit system. The suit does not mention profits, but it implies to an extent excessive profits. The profit incentive is the major factor in the rise of the United States to become the most powerful nation on the face of the earth and in the attainment by the American people of the highest standard of living the world has ever known. Without the profit motive, there is no reason to believe we would ever have reached these heights; its abandonment could only result in stagnation and ruin. Its only alternative is complete government control of our lives and our futures.

This is no time for industry-representing organizations or for individual industries to stand idly by and evidence no interest in this suit. It is a suit that concerns them all; it is a suit that concerns the welfare of the American people. It is unquestionably directed, as have been so many acts of our government in recent years, at our traditional free enterprise system.

To take no stand in the defense of these companies would be to fall into the same fatal error that has befallen industry in Great Britain. When the Socialist government of Great Britain first attacked certain big businesses, such as the railroads and the coal mines, other big business stood aside and said, "Maybe it won't happen to us." Perhaps small business was even a little jealous and glad to see it happen. Now all big business in Great Britain has either been taken over by the government or is threatened with nationalization, and small business finds that it no longer controls its own affairs.

The most important lesson we can learn in this country—and if we wait much longer to learn it, it will be too late—is that there can be no half way measures in our support of free enterprise. We can't believe in free enterprise for our own industry only. We either believe in it for all or we believe in iftor none. The railroads can't ignore government's entry into the power business. The doctors, threatened with socialized medicine, cannot claim they have no interest in federal housing. The consumer cannot say he is not affected by agricultural price support. And so on.

Those who believe in the American free enterprise system must either stand together—or they will fall apart.

Around Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

From early indications 1952 may be a year for political parties in search of presidential timber to learn at college campuses.

Another college president, Dr. Robert Livingston Johnson, president of Temple University, Philadelphia, is being discussed as a "dark horse" candidate for the G. O. P. Dr. Johnson, a life-long Republican with an unusual record of public service, is winning favor for his work as head of the citizens committee for the Hoover report, the group which is putting pressure on Washington to follow the reforms advocated by the commission on reorganization of the executive branch.

Great apprehension was expressed some months ago lest the work done by the commission headed by the former president would be filed away in the archives with nothing done about putting the recommendations into practice. Instead, however, the Hoover report has become one of the most significant documents ever released in Washington and many of its recommendations are slowly but surely finding their way into the law books.

Dr. Johnson and the committee of outstanding citizens which he heads deserves credit for this. They have stirred up the public pressure that is bringing results.

A university president since 1941, Johnson was before that engaged in journalism. He was a graduate of Yale University in 1918 and served overseas in World War I. After his return from abroad he joined Henry R. Luce in founding Time magazine and was for 14 years its vice-president. Then he helped launch the revitalized Life magazine after Luce purchased it in 1936.

In 1934 Governor George Earle, of Pennsylvania, a Democrat, called upon Johnson, a Republican, to head the state's relie administration which was carrying nearly two million persons on its rolls. Johnson straightened up what was generally admitted to be a pretty bad mess. He has also been president of the National Civil Service League.

In 1945 he headed a group of prominent Philadelphians who made that city's bid for the headquarters of the United Nations. He has also been a director of the international committee of the YMCA.

A man of 55, Johnson is highly regarded by conservative Republicans. They will not doubt look him over carefully in the next three years.

Not since the time 40 years ago when Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton, and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, were making their mark in politics have the political parties paid so much attention to college presidents.

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, will be in the limelight again in 1952, and, of course, the current president of Columbia, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the object of considerable attention from politicians of both parties.

A story of how the now-famous "five per center," Colonel James V. Hunt came to be invited to the White House the first time is making the rounds.

It is interesting, for one thing, because it does not in any way involve Hunt's friend, Major General Harry H. Vaughan, the president's military aide. And, for another, it discloses an additional talent of Colonel Hunt. It goes like this:

Through army social circles, Colonel Hunt four years ago met Colonel George Howard, conductor of the army air forces band. During a conversation Hunt mentioned that he had written lyrics for a couple of songs, "My Missouri" and "A Niece of Uncle Sam."

Howard remarked that his band was giving a concert at the White House in about two weeks and that, if Hunt would send over the lyrics, he (Howard) would see if he could compose a melody for "My Missouri."

Well, conductor Howard did just that. And he thought it only proper to have the author of the lyrics along for the concert. When President Truman shook hands with all members of the band and guests, he met Colonel Hunt.

Department of agriculture officials privately are not too unhappy about the publicity being given to the large amounts of money received by Maine potato growers as a result of the potato price support program.

They believe that the publicity in the long run may help get support for the production payment program recommended to congress this year by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan. Under this plan, potato growers, for instance, would be paid the difference between what they actually sold their potatoes on the market and the parity price for the potatoes. They are confident that such a program applied to potatoes, at least, would be substantially less costly than the present one, where they are required to buy all surplus potatoes at the high support price.

They also feel that the adverse publicity will act to force the large potato growers to cut their production next year. The department, while required under the law to support the price of the potatoes, has no legal authority to force a reduction in production, as it does in the case of such basic commodities as cotton, corn and wheat. The large growers, they believe, will fear abandonment of the whole support program for their crops by an aroused congress, and as a result voluntarily reduce their production as the department has been urging ever since the end of the war.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

TOO MANY BYRDS

It has been announced that the navy is abandoning its expedition to the Antarctic for reasons of economy despite seven months of intensive preparation. Obviously, the navy is not abandoning the expedition because it wishes too; it has been ordered to give it up by the president of the United States who dislikes Byrds. The expedition would have been in charge of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, our greatest explorer and brother of Sen. Harry Byrd. Enough said!

If economy is the issue, how come that countries which are accepting American money under the Marshall plan have the cash to spend on it? For instance, a joint Norwegian-British-Swedish scientific expedition to Antarctica is being planned for 1950-52. The departure date is November, 1949. The Norwegian government, Norwegian Geographical Society, and the Whaling Association are cooperating in this expedition; Swedish and British scientists are participating.

A French Antarctic expedition, which heretofore failed to establish a meteorological station, will attempt the accomplishment of this mission during 1950.

Great Britain maintains at present five bases within the Falkland Islands dependencies. These bases include one on Deception Island, in the South Shetlands, occpied by five men; one on Hope Bay, occupied by nine men; one on Stonington Islands, occupied by 11 men; one on the Argentine Islands occupied by four men. The bases are maintained primarily for meteorlogical purposes. It is customary for an annual routine inspection to be made of these bases during the Antarctic summer by the governor of the Falkland Islands. The bases are then reprovisioned and their personnel relieved. Consequently, it may be expected that these operations by the British will occur during 1950.

The Argentine government maintains a meterological observatory on Laurie Island in the South Orkneys. There are about 15 men there, and each year during the Antarctic summer, a transport, a tanker, and an auxiliary vessel or two of the Argentine navy visit this base to revision it and to relieve its personnel. The Chilean government maintains a military garrison on Greenwich Island in the South Shetlands, where about 30 men are stationed. Each Antarctic summer the base is relieved. An operation may be expected in 1950.

So, it cannot be economy because we are paying for much of this anyhow. If it is not economy, it can only be spite against Byrds.

The purposes of such an expedition are said to be:

The military need for continual cold weather personnel training and opportunity for testing and perfecting cold weather gear. Such training is particularly important in the navy which has just been given responsibility for all military sea transport and will have to be prepared to supply every American cold weather base, air field and weather station in the world. From a combat standpoint, while the Arctic may be of more current strategic significance, the same conditions can be encountered in the Antarctic without embarrassing problems with Soviet Russia.

Furtherance of scientific research including a search for minerals such as oil, gold, uranium, etc. Low grade coal and copper have already been found. Also to study weather conditions to aid in long range predictions since a large share of the world's weather originates in this stormy region.

We have some claims to the Antarctic based on the activities of such men as Rear Admiral Charles Wilkes, Lincoln Ellsworth, commander Finne Ronne and, of course, Rear Admiral Byrd who has done more than all others put together and probably more than any other person in this field. Claims, however, must be supported by four factors, discovery, exploration, occupation and development. And it is noteworthy that the British have found it possible continuously to maintain five bases in the Palmer peninsula area since the war, despite their lack of dollars.

Presumably after the British, the Norwegians, the Swedes, the French, the Chileans, and Argintinians have established themselves in the Antarctic, they will ask us to subsidize them there, and if they find uranium, which is what they are looking for, they will charge us whatever the traffic will bear. And, of course, we shall pay it. Economy, indeed!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Time to dig into the mail. Mrs. George Bigger, Goodland, Ind. (and what good land they do have out there!) sends the Black Dog poem, hoping to see it in print again. I put it in this column last Saturday. Mrs. Maude Wierman Kennedy, York Springs, Pa., says she reads this column daily in the Harrisburg Patriot, and adds flattering remarks. I've often wondered whether Harrisburg ever was spelled with an h on the end, as Pittsburgh and Williamsburgh . . . Mrs. Leon Fay, Bancroft, Mich., sends Black Dog, and remembers that she read Odd McIntyre for many years before she started reading the column under my authorship. To such old friends of Odd, who mention him in their lettes still, after nearly a dozen years of his absence, it is my custom to write acknowledgement, enclosing a sheet of Odd's original column copy. I saved an armful of these sheets from the trash man one time when the syndicate was moving its offices, and have doled out the sheets sparingly to Odd's admirers. But I still have a thousand or so left.

S. O. Bailey, Lakeland, Fla., takes the trouble to copy the dog poem and mail it. Thank you, Sir . . . Alta Fauks, West Lafayette, Ind., sends Black Dog and Bishop Doan's Tribute to His Dog Cluny, thinking Dr. Code, who recently lost his dog, Dixi, will like it . . . Lisle Burr, a dog-lover of San Diego, sends clip of Black Dog, also "Save Me, Save My Dog," by Elizabeth Newport Hepburn, and an editorial, evidently clipped from his favorite newspaper, "Pals Must Part." This little eassay is so good that I shall use it in full, later.

Mrs. Ruth Crowther, Reading, Pa., sending Black Dog, tells how she wept when reading my obituaries of Captain Kidd and the yellow Jones-dog, who was poisoned by mildewed food given him by well-meaning neighbors, who thought a dog could eat anything . . . H. G. Porter, Lansing, Mich., sends meticulously typed copy of Black Dog . . . Mrs. Marian E. King, Crescent City, Fla., collects poems as a hobby, and sends me her Blackie from her collection . . . Mrs. Helen Polhemus, Reading, Pa., who uses unusual stationery, sends the poem . . . Mrs. Henry Field Smyth, Pocasset, Mass., got her copy of the poem from "All the Best Dog Poems," collected by Edwin Burtis (Crowell). . . . Margaret E. Rankin, Escondido, Cal., reminds me of the responsibility of every writer in the matter of religious training of the young . . . Mrs. H. W. Irving, Roanoke, Va., sends with her Black Dog a short poem, unsigned, "For Animal Lovers."

May I once more ask correspondents to address me at Yonkers, N. Y.? No street address necessary. This saves much re-handling of mail, both at the office of your newspaper, if you address me there, and at the syndicate office in New York. I handle all my mail at home . . . Mrs. Edward Beutelschies, Cameron, la., found the dog poem in Ted Malone's "Scrapbook." Might have known the great Malone would have it! . . . Miss Pat Cameron, college student, Beaumont, Tex., sends the dog verse, along with a most gracious letter. Thank you, Pat; you make me lonesome for my own daughter Pat, who is having dog troubles of her own, down in New Mexico. A stray black mongrel, lost or disowned, came to Pat's little barracks on a recent night, lay down on the doorstep, and adopted Pat and Dan, her husband. Dogs are verboten by the heartless college authorities, and Pat worries lest they shoot her dog or drive him into the desert, as they have done to so many dogs. Couldn't use a nice mutt, could you, Pat of Beaumont?

Peron Fired Minister After Evita Got Lost In Shuffle

WASHINGTON—(N E A)—Dropping of Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia has recalled in Washington a story of how he first fell into President Peron's disfavor.

It was at the Rio de Janeiro Inter-American Conference in 1947. The conference met just when Argentine First Lady Evita Peron was returning home after her grand triumphal tour through Europe. As her ship stopped at Rio, the Argentine delegation was instructed to arrange for her to appear before the conference and make a speech.

This was a suggestion which couldn't be refused. So the session was arranged. Evita came into the hall and was cheered. Just as she was preparing to begin her speech, the presiding officer said he felt all the delegates would want to adjourn to the next room where they could toast the First Lady of the Argentine.

So the doors were opened and the delegates streamed out to toss one off for Evita. They never did go back. Evita never got to make her speech. Bramuglia, one of the Argentine delegation, got blamed for allowing it to happen, though it wasn't his fault.

Johnson—Today's Target

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson is getting considerable "blame" for current disclosures on the activities of Washington "five percenters." Last May, Johnson made a speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce, saying that he would drive the sellers of influence out of the military establishment.

The fact that the first case happened to hit President Truman's senior military aide merely emphasized that the armed services have not liked the way Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan has been interfering in Pentagon affairs. So now the whispers have been started again, accusing Secretary Johnson of having ambitions for the presidency in 1952, and of being willing to involve Truman's official family so as to discredit the president as a possible rival.

Housing Problem

British embassy had quite a housing problem on its hands in arranging for the coming Washington visit of Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps. It simply would not do to put one up at the embassy and another at some hotel. So both had to be crowded into the embassy, with their personal staffs. When Bevin was here earlier this year, there were many midnight conferences and much scurrying about. It upset the usual calm routine of the embassy and it disturbed the schedule of the young children of Ambassador Sir Oliver and Lady Franks. This time it will be worse.

Getting Things Straight

Philippine President Elpidio Quirino got quite a talking to when he visited Washington. United States loan of $75,000,000 plus $400,000,000 war damage claim payments and $100,000,000 rehabilitation payments have helped carry the Islands since their liberation. Some of this dough has been used to buy stuff from the States to such an extent that the Philippines now have an unfavorable trade balance running at the rate of $300,000,000 a year. These figures were shown to President Quirino. He was advised that he'd better do something to cut down luxury imports. United States war benefit payments end in April, 1951. After that the Filipinos will be on their own. When President Quirino protested that United States business firms would complain if he cut off their exports, he was told that would make no difference, and that he had better get a realistic hold on his financial situation.

Czech Refugee's Plight

General Mikulas Ferjencik, a Czechoslovakian refugee now being temporarily detained on Ellis Island, is providing United States immigration authorities with a tough case. Reason is that the general is being fought over by two Czechoslovakian factions in the United States.

One says he's a good Democrat and should be let in to help them fight for freedom from the Communists. The other claims he's a Communist. When General Ferjencik arrived in New York, he was met by pickets carrying signs protesting his admission.

They were carried by members of the American Slovak League and the American Friends of Slovak Freedom. Both are groups of followers of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Tiso, who tried to set up a pro-Nazi separatist Slovakia under Hitler's orders. Tiso was tried as a war criminal and hanged in 1947.

In 1944 General Ferjencik, then a leader in the Slovak underground, went to Moscow to get help for a revolt against the Tiso puppet government. His mission failed and the revolt failed.

Ferjencik was contact man for an American army OSS team that tried to aid the revolt. Fourteen of them were captured and executed by the Nazis, but Ferjencik received an American decoration for his efforts to save them. At the end of the war, General Ferjencik became deputy minister of defense in the first Benes government.

When the Communist coup came in 1948, Ferjencik resigned his post as interior commissioner in Slovakia. He made his escape to the United States zone in Germany, where he stayed for a year, then came to this country. Czech refugees now in the United States insist that Ferjencik is anti-Communist and anti-Nazi and that he should be admitted to the United States to help them fight for Communist overthrow. The case will be decided by United States Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller and by the new attorney general, J. Howard McGrath.

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

DIFFICULT CHILDREN

There is no perfect person, thing or plan in this world. Work and worry, joy and peace, wickedness and righteousness, the infinite scale of life holds them all and more beside. The better part of wisdom is to plan room for the unexpected and unpredictable, which may always be expected and predicted, though without form and substance.

The father and mother of a family, the teacher of a group of children, must always keep in mind life's vagaries, its surprises, its stimulating experiences, all of which go to put flavor and zest into living. The child, who seems so usual, turns out to be a genius, unusual in all his aspects; while one who seemed extraordinary settles into pattern and is completely one with his world. The ideal plan laid for the future turns out to be usless, because the children it was meant to serve will have none of it, taking another route to successful materity.

To be truly helpful to children, teachers and parents must offer the best possible means for the growth of the children and be ready to change their plans or adjust them, in time and in rhythm with the children's changing development. No greater mistake can be made than to try fitting a child to a set pattern, regardless of his unfitness for it. It is only when the plan and pattern suit the needs or abilities of the child that they can be of us to him. The old notion that a child must bow to authority, in the matter of his growth, ought to die now since time and experience have proved it to be worse than useless, a bondage and a waste.

Each family, every class in school, is likely to have one child outstanding in ability, one of average power, or one of the least. The degree of difference will vary, but it will be there. It is easy to work with the highly intelligent child and not difficult to teach the average one. But the odd child is the difficult one, because we have not learned to help him. We have in the past wasted time trying to make him like the others, always an impossible task.

There is no recipe for such a problem. Each teacher must study the odd child and each parent must do the same. Together they must find a way to overcome his difficulty, so far as possible, and use it, if that may be, for his adjustment to life.

We had a noisy, bossy boy who was fitted to school life by being a band leader. Ashy, silent one was helped by a good diet, a health program and much encouragement from the teacher. The school doctor took charge of that one. One who stole was helped by the guidance teacher, with the psychologists assistance. So on down the line. It takes the whole group—physicians, psychologists, parents and teachers—to aid the odd child. It is aid that he needs, not punishment. And this is important, never pin a tag of unfitness on him. Classifications should be professional secrets and never divulged to anyone.

Would you like to have your child eat his food? Learn how to plan your child's feeding, so that he will enjoy eating. Dr. Patri gives excellent advice in his booklet, No. 303, "Eating."

Conservation Problems

The steady exhaustion of the world's natural resources in the face of mounting population drew a lot of attention last year, largely because two extremely readable books on the subject were published. We in Northeast Louisiana should take note.

How to protect failing resources and develop new ones still does not command, however, the time and thought it deserves in parliaments and cabinets throughout the world. Lawmakers here and abroad manage to talk about everything but conservation—one of the most elemental factors in world political and economic life.

But now, fortunately, the United Nations is delving into conservation and population problems. Some 400 scientists from 50 countries are gathered in a three-week conference devoted to the question of how to stop the rapid depletion of vital resources and bring them in line with population needs. The meeting is a healthy sign.

After the books by William Vogt and Fairfield Osborn appeared last year, they were branded by some people as "alarmist." Some rather strained efforts were made to disprove their thesis—that population may soon outrun the essentials of life.

None of these attempts tried to deny population growth or the dwindling of resources in soil, timber, minerals and the like. Instead, they pinned hope on science and technology to save the situation before starvation and similar crises develop.

Any one must wish this will occur, for otherwise the outlook is dark indeed. Osborn told the UN conferences of scientists that the world's population will soar from the present two billion to three billion in 50 years. And a Canadian mineral resources chief warned that the time may not be far off when our best known sources of key materials will be used up.

With the staggering potentialities of atomic energy on the horizon, it would be foolish to predict that the world will not be bailed out of this tightening dilemma. Tryve Lie, UN secretary-general, told the delegates a fuller use of science in developing resources might lead to successful support of a vastly expanded population at a much higher standard of living than now prevails.

Yet the fear lingers that lost resources may never quite be matched. Many of the depleted materials were high grade, easy to mine or use, relatively close to population centers where they were needed.

We may be able to put amazing new life in worn-out soils; to devise synthetics and other substitutes; to extract great untapped mineral stores from remote places, or to refine low-grade ores now commercially unusable.

But who can be confident that these answers, however ingenious, will not be much more costly than we would like? Unless atomic furnaces bring us remarkably cheap power, a lower standard of living will be the outcome.

The world will welcome all the benefits science can yield. But meantime lawmakers everywhere ought to put conservation high on their agenda, as a hedge against a future that may not be quite as bright as they so blithely imagine.

Congress Group Out Of Bounds

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has announced that federal rent controls will be abolished Oct. 1 in one-third of the areas where they now operate. About 4,500,000 dwelling units in communities of less than 100,000 population would be affected.

Woods said this drastic curtailment of controls would be made necessary by a prospective cut in his budget from a requested $26,000,000 to $17,500,000. The reduction was the work of a house-senate conference group ironing out differences on the appropriations bill covering outlays for the expediter's office.

The only alternative to the decontrol now planned, Woods said, would be to "fire one-third of my employes and attempt to maintain only token rent control throughout the country." He chose what he regarded the lesser evil.

If Woods is sincere in his position and not merely trying to pressure congress into restoring cut that might be at least partially warranted, this situation is an unfortunate one.

It then becomes another instance of the powerful appropriations committees taking into their hands authority they do not properly enjoy. These groups have exhibited a growing tendency to usurp power that belongs to the regularly constituted legislative committees of congress. It is not the business of the appropriations committees to determine legislative policy.

In this case, congress has voted a 1949 rent control law. The act permits local and state governments to initiate action for the removal of ceilings when in their judgment the situation in particular areas justifies. Many units have availed themselves of this option.

But congress did not declare a policy of widespread, wholesale decontrol. It argued that question long and hard and wound up by retaining general ceilings.

Consequently, the appropriations groups would appear to be off their reservation when they so sharply trim the housing expediter's budget as to necessitate broad decontrol in defiance of expressed congressional intent. It means a relative handful of men are seeking to super-impose their judgment on the decisions already taken by the full legislature.

If rent controls are to be abandoned wholesale, that determination should originate in the committees lawfully authorized to make it. The full house and senate should meantime reject the recommendations of the joint conference group which would have such sweeping impact.

Why All The Fuss?

We are reminded from Washington that the freezing unit given to Mrs. Truman fits right into an established pattern of gift-giving beamed toward the presidential family.

In 1946 the president got a $5,000 bowling alley as a birthday present from some of his Missouri pals. He also acquired a horseshoe-pitching court to help round out the White House athletic department.

Then of course there are items like 1,000 neckties, a lot of other haberdashery for a man who was once an old haberdasher himself, and a wide range of personal trinkets.

So what's a little thing like a freezer between friends?

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

THIS CONCERNS US ALL

We hold no brief for E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, General Motors Corporation, and the U. S. Rubber Company, as such. They are not southern companies, although all of them have plants in the south. But we do hold a brief for these companies in the case of the anti-trust suit recently brought against them by the government.

We are opposed to monopoly in any form—whether industrial, labor, or otherwise. But that is not the charge of the department of justice in this suit. There is plenty of competition with these companies in the fields of chemistry, automobiles, and rubber. The central theme of the suit is that interlocking stock ownership causes these corporations to purchase goods from each other, thereby serving to restrain trade.

This charge is effectively answered by Dupont, when it shows that during the ten year period 1938 to 1947 its sales to General Motors amounted to 2.6 per cent of its total sales, and its sales to U. S. Rubber amounted to 1.4 per cent of its total sales for that period.

We also hold a brief for these companies, because they represent part of the American free enterprise system. It is no crime for a business to be big. When the attorney general said that the suit was "directed to the breaking up of the largest single concentration of industrial power in the United States," he was simply saying that the suit was an attack against bigness in business as such. There are many benefits to be derived by the people from big business that cannot be derived from small business, from research and from immense investments in neew products, and in cheaper prices to the consumer.

We also hold a brief for these companies, because we hold a brief for the profit system. The suit does not mention profits, but it implies to an extent excessive profits. The profit incentive is the major factor in the rise of the United States to become the most powerful nation on the face of the earth and in the attainment by the American people of the highest standard of living the world has ever known. Without the profit motive, there is no reason to believe we would ever have reached these heights; its abandonment could only result in stagnation and ruin. Its only alternative is complete government control of our lives and our futures.

This is no time for industry-representing organizations or for individual industries to stand idly by and evidence no interest in this suit. It is a suit that concerns them all; it is a suit that concerns the welfare of the American people. It is unquestionably directed, as have been so many acts of our government in recent years, at our traditional free enterprise system.

To take no stand in the defense of these companies would be to fall into the same fatal error that has befallen industry in Great Britain. When the Socialist government of Great Britain first attacked certain big businesses, such as the railroads and the coal mines, other big business stood aside and said, "Maybe it won't happen to us." Perhaps small business was even a little jealous and glad to see it happen. Now all big business in Great Britain has either been taken over by the government or is threatened with nationalization, and small business finds that it no longer controls its own affairs.

The most important lesson we can learn in this country—and if we wait much longer to learn it, it will be too late—is that there can be no half way measures in our support of free enterprise. We can't believe in free enterprise for our own industry only. We either believe in it for all or we believe in iftor none. The railroads can't ignore government's entry into the power business. The doctors, threatened with socialized medicine, cannot claim they have no interest in federal housing. The consumer cannot say he is not affected by agricultural price support. And so on.

Those who believe in the American free enterprise system must either stand together—or they will fall apart.

Around Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

From early indications 1952 may be a year for political parties in search of presidential timber to learn at college campuses.

Another college president, Dr. Robert Livingston Johnson, president of Temple University, Philadelphia, is being discussed as a "dark horse" candidate for the G. O. P. Dr. Johnson, a life-long Republican with an unusual record of public service, is winning favor for his work as head of the citizens committee for the Hoover report, the group which is putting pressure on Washington to follow the reforms advocated by the commission on reorganization of the executive branch.

Great apprehension was expressed some months ago lest the work done by the commission headed by the former president would be filed away in the archives with nothing done about putting the recommendations into practice. Instead, however, the Hoover report has become one of the most significant documents ever released in Washington and many of its recommendations are slowly but surely finding their way into the law books.

Dr. Johnson and the committee of outstanding citizens which he heads deserves credit for this. They have stirred up the public pressure that is bringing results.

A university president since 1941, Johnson was before that engaged in journalism. He was a graduate of Yale University in 1918 and served overseas in World War I. After his return from abroad he joined Henry R. Luce in founding Time magazine and was for 14 years its vice-president. Then he helped launch the revitalized Life magazine after Luce purchased it in 1936.

In 1934 Governor George Earle, of Pennsylvania, a Democrat, called upon Johnson, a Republican, to head the state's relie administration which was carrying nearly two million persons on its rolls. Johnson straightened up what was generally admitted to be a pretty bad mess. He has also been president of the National Civil Service League.

In 1945 he headed a group of prominent Philadelphians who made that city's bid for the headquarters of the United Nations. He has also been a director of the international committee of the YMCA.

A man of 55, Johnson is highly regarded by conservative Republicans. They will not doubt look him over carefully in the next three years.

Not since the time 40 years ago when Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton, and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, were making their mark in politics have the political parties paid so much attention to college presidents.

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, will be in the limelight again in 1952, and, of course, the current president of Columbia, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the object of considerable attention from politicians of both parties.

A story of how the now-famous "five per center," Colonel James V. Hunt came to be invited to the White House the first time is making the rounds.

It is interesting, for one thing, because it does not in any way involve Hunt's friend, Major General Harry H. Vaughan, the president's military aide. And, for another, it discloses an additional talent of Colonel Hunt. It goes like this:

Through army social circles, Colonel Hunt four years ago met Colonel George Howard, conductor of the army air forces band. During a conversation Hunt mentioned that he had written lyrics for a couple of songs, "My Missouri" and "A Niece of Uncle Sam."

Howard remarked that his band was giving a concert at the White House in about two weeks and that, if Hunt would send over the lyrics, he (Howard) would see if he could compose a melody for "My Missouri."

Well, conductor Howard did just that. And he thought it only proper to have the author of the lyrics along for the concert. When President Truman shook hands with all members of the band and guests, he met Colonel Hunt.

Department of agriculture officials privately are not too unhappy about the publicity being given to the large amounts of money received by Maine potato growers as a result of the potato price support program.

They believe that the publicity in the long run may help get support for the production payment program recommended to congress this year by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan. Under this plan, potato growers, for instance, would be paid the difference between what they actually sold their potatoes on the market and the parity price for the potatoes. They are confident that such a program applied to potatoes, at least, would be substantially less costly than the present one, where they are required to buy all surplus potatoes at the high support price.

They also feel that the adverse publicity will act to force the large potato growers to cut their production next year. The department, while required under the law to support the price of the potatoes, has no legal authority to force a reduction in production, as it does in the case of such basic commodities as cotton, corn and wheat. The large growers, they believe, will fear abandonment of the whole support program for their crops by an aroused congress, and as a result voluntarily reduce their production as the department has been urging ever since the end of the war.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

TOO MANY BYRDS

It has been announced that the navy is abandoning its expedition to the Antarctic for reasons of economy despite seven months of intensive preparation. Obviously, the navy is not abandoning the expedition because it wishes too; it has been ordered to give it up by the president of the United States who dislikes Byrds. The expedition would have been in charge of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, our greatest explorer and brother of Sen. Harry Byrd. Enough said!

If economy is the issue, how come that countries which are accepting American money under the Marshall plan have the cash to spend on it? For instance, a joint Norwegian-British-Swedish scientific expedition to Antarctica is being planned for 1950-52. The departure date is November, 1949. The Norwegian government, Norwegian Geographical Society, and the Whaling Association are cooperating in this expedition; Swedish and British scientists are participating.

A French Antarctic expedition, which heretofore failed to establish a meteorological station, will attempt the accomplishment of this mission during 1950.

Great Britain maintains at present five bases within the Falkland Islands dependencies. These bases include one on Deception Island, in the South Shetlands, occpied by five men; one on Hope Bay, occupied by nine men; one on Stonington Islands, occupied by 11 men; one on the Argentine Islands occupied by four men. The bases are maintained primarily for meteorlogical purposes. It is customary for an annual routine inspection to be made of these bases during the Antarctic summer by the governor of the Falkland Islands. The bases are then reprovisioned and their personnel relieved. Consequently, it may be expected that these operations by the British will occur during 1950.

The Argentine government maintains a meterological observatory on Laurie Island in the South Orkneys. There are about 15 men there, and each year during the Antarctic summer, a transport, a tanker, and an auxiliary vessel or two of the Argentine navy visit this base to reprovision it and to relieve its personnel. The Chilean government maintains a military garrison on Greenwich Island in the South Shetlands, where about 30 men are stationed. Each Antarctic summer the base is relieved. An operation may be expected in 1950.

So, it cannot be economy because we are paying for much of this anyhow. If it is not economy, it can only be spite against Byrds.

The purposes of such an expedition are said to be:

The military need for continual cold weather personnel training and opportunity for testing and perfecting cold weather gear. Such training is particularly important in the navy which has just been given responsibility for all military sea transport and will have to be prepared to supply every American cold weather base, air field and weather station in the world. From a combat standpoint, while the Arctic may be of more current strategic significance, the same conditions can be encountered in the Antarctic without embarrassing problems with Soviet Russia.

Furtherance of scientific research including a search for minerals such as oil, gold, uranium, etc. Low grade coal and copper have already been found. Also to study weather conditions to aid in long range predictions since a large share of the world's weather originates in this stormy region.

We have some claims to the Antarctic based on the activities of such men as Rear Admiral Charles Wilkes, Lincoln Ellsworth, commander Finne Ronne and, of course, Rear Admiral Byrd who has done more than all others put together and probably more than any other person in this field. Claims, however, must be supported by four factors, discovery, exploration, occupation and development. And it is noteworthy that the British have found it possible continuously to maintain five bases in the Palmer peninsula area since the war, despite their lack of dollars.

Presumably after the British, the Norwegians, the Swedes, the French, the Chileans, and Argintinians have established themselves in the Antarctic, they will ask us to subsidize them there, and if they find uranium, which is what they are looking for, they will charge us whatever the traffic will bear. And, of course, we shall pay it. Economy, indeed!

But I still have a thousand or so left.

S. O. Bailey, Lakeland, Fla., takes the trouble to copy the dog poem and mail it. Thank you, Sir . . . Alta Fauks, West Lafayette, Ind., sends Black Dog and Bishop Doan's Tribute to His Dog Cluny, thinking Dr. Code, who recently lost his dog, Dixi, will like it . . . Lisle Burr, a dog-lover of San Diego, sends clip of Black Dog, also "Save Me, Save My Dog," by Elizabeth Newport Hepburn, and an editorial, evidently clipped from his favorite newspaper, "Pals Must Part." This little eassay is so good that I shall use it in full, later.

Mrs. Ruth Crowther, Reading, Pa., sending Black Dog, tells how she wept when reading my obituaries of Captain Kidd and the yellow Jones-dog, who was poisoned by mildewed food given him by well-meaning neighbors, who thought a dog could eat anything . . . H. G. Porter, Lansing, Mich., sends meticulously typed copy of Black Dog . . . Mrs. Marian E. King, Crescent City, Fla., collects poems as a hobby, and sends me her Blackie from her collection . . . Mrs. Helen Polhemus, Reading, Pa., who uses unusual stationery, sends the poem . . . Mrs. Henry Field Smyth, Pocasset, Mass., got her copy of the poem from "All the Best Dog Poems," collected by Edwin Burtis (Crowell), . . . Margaret E. Rankin, Escondido, Cal., reminds me of the responsibility of every writer in the matter of religious training of the young . . . Mrs. H. W. Irving, Roanoke, Va., send with her Black Dog a short poem, unsigned, "For Animal Lovers."

May I once more ask correspondents to address me at Yonkers, N. Y.? No street address necessary. This saves much re-handling of mail, both at the office of your newspaper, if you address me there, and at the syndicate office in New York. I handle all my mail at home . . . Mrs. Edward Beutelschies, Cameron, Ia., found the dog poem in Ted Malone's "Scrapbook." Might have known the great Malone would have it! . . . Miss Pat Cameron, college student, Beaumont, Tex., sends the dog verse, along with a most gracious letter. Thank you, Pat; you make me lonesome for my own daughter Pat, who is having dog troubles of her own, down in New Mexico. A stray black mongrel, lost or disowned, came to Pat's little barracks on a recent night, lay down on the doorstep, and adopted Pat and Dan, her husband. Dogs are verboten by the heartless college authorities, and Pat worries lest they shoot her dog or drive him into the desert, as they have done to so many dogs. Couldn't use a nice mutt, could you, Pat of Beaumont?

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

DIFFICULT CHILDREN

There is no perfect person, thing or plan in this world. Work and worry, joy and peace, wickedness and righteousness, the infinite scale of life holds them all and more beside. The better part of wisdom is to plan room for the unexpected and unpredictable, which may always be expected and predicted, though without form and substance.

The father and mother of a family, the teacher of a group of children, must always keep in mind life's vagaries, its surprises, its stimulating experiences, all of which go to put flavor and zest into living. The child, who seems so usual, turns out to be a genius, unusual in all his aspects; while one who seemed extraordinary settles into pattern and is completely one with his world. The ideal plan laid for the future turns out to be usless, because the children it was meant to serve will have none of it, taking another route to successful materity.

To be truly helpful to children, teachers and parents must offer the best possible means for the growth of the children and be ready to change their plans or adjust them, in time and in rhythm with the children's changing development. No greater mistake can be made than to try fitting a child to a set pattern, regardless of his unfitness for it. It is only when the plan and pattern suit the needs or abilities of the child that they can be of us to him. The old notion that a child must bow to authority, in the matter of his growth, ought to die now since time and experience have proved it to be worse than useless, a bondage and a waste.

Each family, every class in school, is likely to have one child outstanding in ability, one of average power, or one of the least. The degree of difference will vary, but it will be there. It is easy to work with the highly intelligent child and not difficult to teach the average one. But the odd child is the difficult one, because we have not learned to help him. We have in the past wasted time trying to make him like the others, always an impossible task.

There is no recipe for such a problem. Each teacher must study the odd child and each parent must do the same. Together they must find a way to overcome his difficulty, so far as possible, and use it, if that may be, for his adjustment to life.

We had a noisy, bossy boy who was fitted to school life by being a band leader. Ashy, silent one was helped by a good diet, a health program and much encouragement from the teacher. The school doctor took charge of that one. One who stole was helped by the guidance teacher, with the psychologists assistance. So on down the line. It takes the whole group—physicians, psychologists, parents and teachers—to aid the odd child. It is aid that he needs, not punishment. And this is important, never pin a tag of unfitness on him. Classifications should be professional secrets and never divulged to anyone.

Would you like to have your child eat his food? Learn how to plan your child's feeding, so that he will enjoy eating. Dr. Patri gives excellent advice in his booklet, No. 303, "Eating."

Peron Fired Minister After Evita Got Lost In Shuffle

WASHINGTON—(N E A)—Dropping of Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia has recalled in Washington a story of how he first fell into President Peron's disfavor.

It was at the Rio de Janeiro Inter-American Conference in 1947. The conference met just when Argentine First Lady Evita Peron was returning home after her grand triumphal tour through Europe. As her ship stopped at Rio, the Argentine delegation was instructed to arrange for her to appear before the conference and make a speech.

This was a suggestion which couldn't be refused. So the session was arranged. Evita came into the hall and was cheered. Just as she was preparing to begin her speech, the presiding officer said he felt all the delegates would want to adjourn to the next room where they could toast the First Lady of the Argentine.

So the doors were opened and the delegates streamed out to toss one off for Evita. They never did go back. Evita never got to make her speech. Bramuglia, one of the Argentine delegation, got blamed for allowing it to happen, though it wasn't his fault.

Johnson—Today's Target

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson is getting considerable "blame" for current disclosures on the activities of Washington "five percenters." Last May, Johnson made a speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce, saying that he would drive the sellers of influence out of the military establishment.

The fact that the first case happened to hit President Truman's senior military aide merely emphasized that the armed services have not liked the way Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan has been interfering in Pentagon affairs. So now the whispers have been started again, accusing Secretary Johnson of having ambitions for the presidency in 1952, and of being willing to involve Truman's official family so as to discredit the president as a possible rival.

Housing Problem

British embassy had quite a housing problem on its hands in arranging for the coming Washington visit of Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps. It simply would not do to put one up at the embassy and another at some hotel. So both had to be crowded into the embassy, with their personal staffs. When Bevin was here earlier this year, there were many midnight conferences and much scurrying about. It upset the usual calm routine of the embassy and it disturbed the schedule of the young children of Ambassador Sir Oliver and Lady Franks. This time it will be worse.

Getting Things Straight

Philippine President Elpidio Quirino got quite a talking to when he visited Washington. United States loan of $75,000,000 plus $400,000,000 war damage claim payments and $100,000,000 rehabilitation payments have helped carry the Islands since their liberation. Some of this dough has been used to buy stuff from the States to such an extent that the Philippines now have an unfavorable trade balance running at the rate of $300,000,000 a year. These figures were shown to President Quirino. He was advised that he'd better do something to cut down luxury imports. United States war benefit payments end in April, 1951. After that the Filipinos will be on their own. When President Quirino protested that United States business firms would complain if he cut off their exports, he was told that would make no difference, and that he had better get a realistic hold on his financial situation.

Czech Refugee's Plight

General Mikulas Ferjencik, a Czechoslovakian refugee now being temporarily detained on Ellis Island, is providing United States immigration authorities with a tough case. Reason is that the general is being fought over by two Czechoslovakian factions in the United States.

One says he's a good Democrat and should be let in to help them fight for freedom from the Communists. The other claims he's a Communist. When General Ferjencik arrived in New York, he was met by pickets carrying signs protesting his admission.

They were carried by members of the American Slovak League and the American Friends of Slovak Freedom. Both are groups of followers of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Tiso, who tried to set up a pro-Nazi separatist Slovakia under Hitler's orders. Tiso was tried as a war criminal and hanged in 1947.

In 1944 General Ferjencik, then a leader in the Slovak underground, went to Moscow to get help for a revolt against the Tiso puppet government. His mission failed and the revolt failed.

Ferjencik was contact man for an American army OSS team that tried to aid the revolt. Fourteen of them were captured and executed by the Nazis, but Ferjencik received an American decoration for his efforts to save them. At the end of the war, General Ferjencik became deputy minister of defense in the first Benes government.

When the Communist coup came in 1948, Ferjencik resigned his post as interior commissioner in Slovakia. He made his escape to the United States zone in Germany, where he stayed for a year, then came to this country. Czech refugees now in the United States insist that Ferjencik is anti-Communist and anti-Nazi and that he should be admitted to the United States to help them fight for Communist overthrow. The case will be decided by United States Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller and by the new attorney general, J. Howard McGrath.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

AID FOR TITO

Editors, in very large majority, approve America's decision to sell a steel mill to Yugoslavia; most of this group see this as the probable beginning of a cautious, realistic American policy of economic aid to try to lure Communist satellites from imperialist Moscow control. A small minority questions the wisdom of thus risking Russian seizure or control of "war potential" shipments; and another small minority flatly opposes such risk.

Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal (Ind.): "The decision to let Yugoslavia buy materials in this country for a $3,000,000 steel mill has been called 'a calculated risk.' Perhaps it is only a gamble, but right now it seems like a gamble worth taking. . . . If letting the Tito government buy a steel mill here . . . helps to widen the break of that government with the Communist bloc, it serves our cause."

Wichita Falls (Texas) Daily Times (Dem.): "A number of plausible and logical arguments support the idea . . . but we still don't like it. We have the uncomfortable feeling that the steel mill will presently be helping Russia, not Yugoslavia. There are two disagreeable possibilities. . . . One is that Russia will presently get tired of Tito's brashness and deal roughly with him and his government. The other is that Tito himself . . . will find and seize the opportunity to double-cross us."

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "Delivery is scheduled within 12 months, and any 'change in the situation' respecting Tito's policies may lead . . . to cancellation of the contract. . . . The trend of events, including the growing Communist boycott of Yugoslavia and the exchange of violent tirades, has begun to convince the skeptical that the rift cannot be pretense. . . . Even though it be limited and self-centered, Yugoslavia's gesture of independence seems worth supporting. And if it is to be supported, further delay is dangerous."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "The steel mill will not be ready to set up in Yugoslavia for something like two years. The promise of it may help to stave off a showdown between Tito and non-Communist Yugoslavs, and it may even cause Moscow to seek less offensive ways of cultivating Yugoslav friendship. If it does not, the probability is that the showdown will be over before the steel mill is delivered. This is one of the calculated risks in opposing Communist expansionism."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The decision . . . represents a cautious step in a developing policy. . . . Titoism is bound to affect other countries, and need not be confined to Europe. . . . The traditional image of liberal revolutions overthrowing tyrannical regimes fades in the light of modern methods of state control and suppression; but the gradual reassertion of . . . national rivalries and loyalties opens a path to the same end. We can by no means deal with Tito as a friend, yet we should be less than wise not to deal with him at all."

Decatur (Ill.) Herald (Ind.): "Unfortunately . . . the move does not appear to be an indication that the administration . . . has formulated a policy for dealing with the world's problems. It appears more like another step in our muddling in international affirs. . . . The United States has not decided . . . whether to follow a strict policy of containment of communism or whether to try to get along with the Russians. . . . The end result has been that individual actions have not added up to any consistent policy."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "Yugoslavia . . . will be a test case of great interest . . . to all the members . . . of the cominform. . . . All of them want to increase their trade with the west. . . . Truth of the matter is that the United States could play this hand so skillfully that even Russia itself would be attracted by it. Everyone admits that the only possible way of settling the cold war peacefully is through a resumption of economic relations."

Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer (Ind.-Rep.): "The state department has taken a decisive step which may have far-reaching repercussions on both sides of the iron curtain. . . . Most Americans who hate Communist dictators, whether in Moscow or Belgrade, will have grave reservations about this deal. Their doubts are well-founded, and, in taking advantage of Tito's present scrap with the Kremlin, the state department must be ready at all times to call a halt at the first sign that any help to Yugoslavia is not aiding our own long-range interests."

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The recent precipitous rise in the public debt may soon be halted.

The debt has jumped approximately $2,500,000,000 since this fiscal year began July 1. That's three times as much as it rose in the same period last year, although that year ended with a $1,811,000,000 budget deficit. The debt now totals $255,200,000,000 highest since February 1948.

The reason for this year's extremely rapid rise is that the treasury has enlarged its borrowing by weekly issues of short-term securities to build up its cash balance.

The balance, down below $2,500,000,000 in early July, has now been pushed above $4,600,000,000. Indications are treasury officials think that's almost as much as they need to keep on hand.

Sports—Video

NEW YORK—Owners of professional sports teams, who put a ring on television's finger when no one else wanted her around, are out to break the engagement for fear video sports shows will keep fans at home.

Within another year, if the cameras are allowed in at all, they will be sending only to viewers outside the "home" city.

Video has been barred at all four of the big outdoor fights promoted by the new International Boxing Club here this fall. Only one professional football team, the Washington Redskins, will televice home games this fall—and they are practically sold out before the season opens anyway.

Baseball bosses are baffled. Pittsburgh, only major league club without video, draws well—but so do the Chicago Cubs, covered by three TV stations.

All events at Madison Square Garden will go before the cameras. Garden officials believe video will make thousands of new fans.

British Jet Secrets

FARNBOROUGH, England— (AP) — Several jet aircraft still on the British secret list—not even their identification numbers are mentioned—may be shown for the first time at an air show here Sept. 7-11.

Socialism Test

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—(AP)—New Zealand's 14-year labor (Socialist) regime will go on trial at the polls in November. Balance of power in the house of representatives hangs on four Maori (native) members, who have hitherto supported labor, and on 10 shaky labor seats.

Income Tax Dope

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New helps for the little taxpayer will be found in government pamphlets telling how to make out income tax returns next year.

These pamphlets, furnished with form 1040, will tell the taxpayer for the first time how to appeal a decision of his local collector. Similar information will be printed on the back of form 1040-A (short form).

A proposal to create an independent agency called a tax settlement board is pending in the house ways and means committee. It is the Mills bill, which provides that the board serve as the intermediate appeal agency between the internal revenue bureau and the U. S. tax court.

Settlement of a tax dispute would need agreement by both the bureau and the taxpayer to be binding.

Cable Briefs

HOBART, Australia—(AP)—Prof. H. S. Massey, Australian scientist, says that when atomic energy is industrialized there may be so many waste products they will have to be rocketed to the moon to get rid of them.

TOKYO—(AP)— Teachers interested in simplyfing the Japanese writing system have petitioned the government to require instruction in Romaji, the system of writing Japanese in the western alphabet.

BONN, Germany—(AP)—A new 800-seat theatre will be completed here in October, first step in the west German capital's effort to establish itself as a new German cultural center.

You Too May . . .

PRAGUE—(AP)—They laughed when she sat down at the tractor steering wheel—but now the Czech government says the girl tractor driver is a success. Twenty girls who got bored at a house-keeping school applied for training and took a 30-day course. Damage to the machines dropped so sharply that more are being accepted.

A-Bomb Capacity

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some aviation experts think it might be possible to make a fairly accurate guess on this country's atom bomb capacity by putting together certain information disclosed during the house investigation of the B-36.

Freight Cars

NEW YORK—(AP)—Look for a sizable drop in the number of railroad freight cars.

It has turned downward for the first time in 20 months. The postwar peak was 1,855,187 on July 1.

With carloadings off sharply, the railroads don't need so many cars.

Because of lower income and uncertainty over how much the 40-hour work week effective next Thursday will cost them, they have cut back orders for new ones.

And, although about 15 per cent of the car fleet has been replaced since the war, some 6,000 over-age cars are being retired monthly.

Czech Products

PRAGUE—(AP)—The official press bureau reports two new forthcoming products:

1. A glass fiber cigaret "paper" that holds the ash firm throughout the smoke, ending ashes and burns on carpets.

2. An outdoor advertising poster with sound track.

Navy Funds

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Tying the anonymous air force and B-36 smear to a navy official is likely to put a serious crimp in navy plans to ward off the expected heavy cut in its budget for the year beginning next July 1. The blow came just as friends of the navy were coming to the front in support of more funds.

Smugglers

LONDON—(AP)—The British customs service is starting to use radar in its fight against continental smugglers who roar across the channel in fast launches to unload luxury goods, diamonds and narcotics at isolated spots.

Caracul

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Soviet is out to boost production of caracul pelts. Persian lambs are being brought in from central Asia for breeding on Ukrainian and Moldavian farms.

Air Freight

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Using a government forecast that air freight will reach one billion ton-miles annually in 15 years, airport operators estimate terminal requirements will be increased seven-fold by 1964. Air freight now is running around 125,000,000 ton-miles a year.

Asian Development

BANGKOK, Siam—(AP)—Look for the U. N. economic commission for Asia and the far east to bear down hard on industrial development at its session at Singapore Oct. 20-29.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

The other night a fellow told me an amusing story, and if you've already heard it don't try to stop me—just go away and write your own column. . . .

Recently, a small Italian gentleman with a paper bag in his hand walked into a bank and took his place on the line in front of the teller's window. He kept tugging at his tie and shifting his weight from one foot to the other, and finally a bank guard walked up to him.

"What's the matter, Bub?" the guard asked. "Got ants in the unmentionables?"

"My name, she's-a Tony, not Bub," said the little man, "and I wanna deposit haffa million dollas."

The guard's eyebrows did a hop, skip and jump. "Just follow me, mister," he said. "The president's office is this way."

"What can I do for you, my good man?" asked the banker as Tony entered.

The Italian upended the paper bag he was carrying and several stacks of thousand-dollar bills tumbled out on the desk.

"Holy Andrew Mellon!" said the president. "What line of business are you in?"

"I make-a good money in my parlor," said Tony.

"You make good money in your parlor?" said the startled banker. "You mean good counterfeit money?"

"You no unnastand," said Tony. "I shine-a the shoes. Got three shoe shine parlor."

"Amazing. How long have you been in this country?"

"I come-a from Napoli twelve years Christmas."

"A real Horatio Alger story," beamed the banker.

"I just-a do the best I know how," Tony said modestly.

"Tell you what," said the executive. "I'm having a dinner party at my house tonight, and I'm sure my guests would get a great thrill out of meeting you. Woud you come?"

"Sure, boss," said Tony.

That evening, when the shoe-shine man showed up, the banker's guests crowded around him as if he were the Aga Khan, and all through dinner the main topic was the spectacular success of the immigrant boy. Finally, when demitasse time arrived, the host rose, made a neat little speech about rugged individualism, and then asked Tony to tell his story.

"It's-a not so much," said the Italian, getting to his feet. "Twelve year ago, me and my sista we come-a to this country. I buy-a the shoe box, pick good spot near railroad station, keep-a the polish off-a the socks, and make plenty dimes.

"In five years, I rent shoe-shine shop, hire other fella, put calendar on wall and make-a more money.

"Eight year, I open two more shop, hire more fella. Now I got-a three shop and much-a customa. I thank-a you."

The banker and his guests applauded.

"One-a thing I almost forget," said Tony. "While I shine-a the shoes, my sista she's-a marry five rich fellas. Last-a week she's-a die and leave me half a million dollas."

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — (AP) — Charles Sawyer, secretary of commerce, and some of his staff have just come back from an unusual mission.

They've been going around the country, meeting with businessmen, labor people and public officials.

The purpose was to find out what those people around the country think of the general economic situation.

The trips were outlined by President Truman and his assistant, John R. Steelman, and yesterday Sawyer issued a report on his trip to Steelman.

Sawyer's report can be pretty well summed up in this statement of his:

"My most significant impression from these trips and discussions is that people generally have an abiding faith in the soundness of our business economy.

"I was reassured by the repeated expression of belief of businessmen, labor and government officials that our business structure is solid and that our economy can look forward to more growth and progress.

"Generally speaking, I find that businessmen considered the recent declines in prices, sales and production as being temporary adjustments in prices, sales and production as our economy moved from the inflationary post-war peaks into a better adjusted level of prosperity."

What do the businessmen want? They want tax cuts. But it is definite that congress won't reduce taxes this year.

Next year? There's no assurance there'll be any tax cuts then, either, particularly if the government runs in the red and needs tax money to meet some of its expenses, if not all of them.

In his travels, especially in New England and in Michigan and Ohio, Sawyer found "substantial" and "significant" unemployment.

On this subject Sawyer said:

"To a major degree the communities which had the most serious problems were the ones which are now feeling the after effects of war-time over-expansion. . . .

"It was pointed out in a number of places, and particularly in areas of special distress, that substantial numbers of manufacturing employes are now on part-time work, although the reports would not show them as unemployed.

"It was most forcefully brought to my attention that being out of work today is a wholly different matter from being out of work in the early 30's, due to the difference in the price of food and other living costs.

"Unless such costs come down or unemployment payments are extended, the relief situation in a number of cities could be critical."

Sawyer pointed out that "five out of the nine labor market areas with more than 12 per cent unemployed are located in the New England states.

Why was New England hit so hard? Sawyer explained.

". . . New England especially has been hard hit, simply because its manufacturing employment happened to be predominantly in those industries which were faced first with major readjustments in their markets and in their price structures."

But Sawyer has a cheery word to say for New England: "It is probable that, because it has faced its price readjustments first, New England will be the first to feel the favorable effects of renewed activity as inventories are replenished and buying returns to more normal levels."

This trip of Sawyer and his aides covered a good part of the eastern area of the United States.

He and his people will go back on the road again later and cover the rest of the country.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

(By Sally Forrest, pinch-hitting for Jimmie Fidler, who is on vacation)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—It's only three hours by car from San Diego to Hollywood, but it took me almost four years to cover the distance. Without detours.

It might have taken me longer but I got a few lucky breaks, salted down with some disappointments that I'm happy about now.

The day I signed my Metro contract I was in the clouds. Mentally I spent the income for the whole seven years that first morning. There was no doubt in my mind that in short order I'd be doing as well as Garson and Hepburn and Allyson and Turner.

I danced in a lot of musicals and eventually got to be the girl next to the stars when the cameras rolled in for closeups. But I never got a chance to utter a peep into the microphones. I never even played secretaries, waitresses, or hatcheck girls. When I wasn't rehearsing or dancing for the movie cameras I was practicing ballet. Latin or modern, and going out evenings for a little swing or square.

I visited a lot of sets, saw a lot of big names at work, went to a lot of movies, took dramatic lessons and hoped for the best.

In spite of all this, things looked so rosy to me that my mother, small brother and I decided to move out of our furnished room. The housing shortage was acute and we finally had to buy shelter, choosing a place near Metro. After all, I was going to be there seven years. I thought!

What I didn't realize was that I wasn't very much more than a payroll number. The big studios are so big in so many ways, and their search for new faces isn't ended when they sign YOU. Type casting often begins before the newcomer is ever given a chance. I got a contract as a dancer and I doubt that I was ever seriously considered for anything else. And, of course, when a plum dancing part came along it went to the big names on the star list.

Just about this time I got the axe. Fired; right smack out of my seven year contract. I had a good cry and then got mad. I'd show THEM!

Dad, who had been retired from the navy, had rejoined the family. He gave me pep talks which added up to "Don't let us down. We think you're wonderful even if Metro doesn't. Get out there and prove we're right."

So I started out looking for jobs. Usually the part had been cast, or I was too young, or too old, or too short, or too tall, or the picture was postponed. You have to get insulated to disappointment to get along in the Hollywood scramble. I used to spend half days waiting for busses to get me to appointments, and the other half day waiting for my interview.

I was coaching one of the Valentino aspirants on a sound stage when Agent Milo Frank suggested that I should make a serious try for an acting career. Shortly afterward, Ida Lupino announced her first independent production, "Not Wanted," interviewed a large number of unknowns and finally talked to me.

"This is it," I kept telling myself as Mr. Frank drove me to her home. Miss Lupino realized how nervous I was. She outlined the story and then gave me a couple of scenes to read. My knees shook, my hands shook, my voice shook. But I got it under control and gave those readings everything I had.

Miss Lupino tapped her cheek a moment, walked around the room briefly, then turned to me and said, "You've got the part." I was so surprised that it was a couple of minutes before I found the words to say thank you.

We started making the picture almost immediately. Everyone was most helpful. We worked long hours and worked hard. Keefe Brasselle and Leo Penn, who played the other two leads, knew it was their big chance too, and we each gave the project our best. We didn't have time to worry about how it was going to turn out till the projection room grapevine started rolling. "Good," "Great," "Terrific" are sweet words to hear. They're even sweeter when the public goes at least halfway in sharing the opinion.

A lot of people tell me now that I'm a real Hollywood Cinderella. I'd like to say I wore out several pairs of glass slippers getting there.

These days I don't wait hours to see producers. I sail right in. I can't help chuckling when my manager says, "But the part isn't important enough for her."

Only a year ago I was wondering if I'd ever get a chance to speak on the screen. Now I have a choice, and I think it's wonderful!

Son Will Officiate At Father's Wedding Rites

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A son will officiate at his father's marriage Sept. 7.

The Rev. Henry Lange, 68, pastor of Nathaniel Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Mrs. Lydia E. Kinder, 59, applied for a marriage license yesterday. The ceremony will be performed Sept. 7 by the Rev. William Lange of LaCrosse, son of the groom.

The Rev. Mr. Lange's first wife, Martha, died in 1946. Mrs. Kinder's husband, John Kinder, died in 1925.

POLES USE RED PLANES

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Twelve new Russian-built IL-12 planes are being used in Polish national and international service, the Civil Air Company lot reported today. The IL-12 is a twin-engined craft resembling the American Douglas DC-3. It carries 28 passengers.

Killer Is Pallbearer To 1 Of 3 Victims

FORT, WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Franklin Click, 30, who has signed a confession he killed three women, was a pallbearer at the funeral of one of them.

Sam Kuzeff, whose daughter, Anna, was slain and left in a wheat field five years ago, told reporters today that the celery farm worker helped carry the body at the funeral.

The Kuzeffs lived across the street from Click.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Harold Zeis said at least one part of Click's confession checked exactly with details from police records.

Click told at length of being chased by police as he fled in a stolen car after disposing of the body of Phyllis Conine, 17-year-old high school student. The sheriff said a police report at the time gave identical details of the chase.

Click's statements added confusion to an already baffling situation involving for sex slayings. Ralph Lobaugh, Kokomo factory worker, is under death sentence for one slaying.

He confessed, and then denied, that slaying and two others.

Robert V. Christen, former Fort Wayne druggist, is under life sentence for the same killing for which Lobaugh, whose execution is under stay, was sentenced.

Two of the killings confessed by Click are the other two confessed by Lobaugh.

British Royalty Does Scottish Reels In Balmoral

BALMORAL, Scotland, Aug. 27.—(AP)—King George VI donned a kilt and tried out his ailing legs in some Scottish reels last night at Balmoral Castle.

A stag line of Scottish soldiers from the king's guard also danced with Queen Elizabeth, Princess Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and Sharman Douglas, daughter of U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas.

The royal family is spending its summer vacation at Balmoral.

King George has been taking it easy ever since last November, when he suffered a circulatory ailment of the legs.

Hal Boyle's

NOTEBOOK

By Ed Creagh
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—"Simply because I am 97," said Mrs. Suzanne Faulkner, "you needn't think I am going to stop enjoying myself, because I'm not.

"I danced the Samba on my last birthday—"

"Oh, Ma, you didn't," bubbled daughter Betty, a blonde and boisterous 73.

"I certainly did!" Mrs. Faulkner's grey eyes crackled and her jaw, remarkably free of wrinkles, shifted into danger position.

"Well, you went through the motions," Betty admitted. "You got out on the dance floor at the Stork Club and you rasied your arms and wiggled your hips."

"Of course," said her mother, with vast dignity. "It was a wonderful party. I didn't get home until four in the morning. What time did YOU get home—."

"You ought to know, Ma," Betty giggled. "You were sitting right there waiting for me."

It sounded like a typical afternoon in the Park avenue apartment which Betty, known more formally as Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, society cut-up, shares with her mother.

Both are widows. Their late husbands had money.

The apartment is dark, tapestry-infested and—a week after the birthday blowout—still cluttered with anniversary flowers.

I called in the hope of finding out how one goes about living 97 years without missing too much.

"I simply followed my doctor's orders," said Mrs. Faulkner, whose hair is as brown as an autumn leaf. "Old Dr. Swan of Boston, it was. He told me to take plenty of good, nourishing food—"

"Buttermilk before breakfast. Brrh!" Betty wriggled and made a Mickey Rooney face.

"You be quiet," her mother said. "I also have to take a few ounces of spirits every day. Between meals. Something I never did when I was younger. Never smoked, either."

"What a way to live!" Betty murmured.

"I'm getting old," Mrs. Faulkner said. "Can't walk more than a mile a day any more. Haven't had a serious proposal of marriage in almost 10 years."

Betty burst out laughing. "Tell him about that, Ma. Tell him about Col. ——."

"He did me the honor of asking me to be his wife," the old woman said, her eyes lighting up again.

"But he was in a rather festive mood that night and I didn't hold him to it.

"When we met the next day I simply said, 'and how are you this morning, Col. ——?'"

"You can't imagine how relieved he looked.

"'Mrs. Faulkner,' he said, 'You are a very sensible woman.'"

I wanted to ask daughter Betty about that celebrated picture which was taken of her at the opera, with her leg on the table and her skirt hiked 'way up to here.

Fortunately, she volunteered the information.

"Outrageous," she said. "I had bursitis in my knee and I merely put my leg up on the table to ease the pain.

"Some young photographers who didn't know me took my picture in that ridiculous position.

"Oh, brother! That picture has been in every paper in the world. Especially the Communist papers. They tried to make me a symbol of capitalist decay or some damn thing."

"What, dear?" asked her mother, who is a little hard of hearing.

"Nothing, Ma," Betty said. "Tell the man how, when I was a baby, you had to give me the bottle every three hours."

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The not too happy opening of the Anglo-American preliminary talks in Washington on Britain's grave economic crisis has been preceded by wise advice from one of England's leading statesmen — Anthony Eden, deputy leader of the great Conservative party and former foreign minister.

Eden made a speech in which he pleaded for a halt to "bickering and hard words" between our two countries. Some pretty bitter language has been bandied across the Atlantic recently—by American sources who charge England with having failed to make an all-out post-war effort for recovery; by Britons who accuse us of interfering in their Socialist program.

If transatlantic name calling takes the place of "sympathetic understanding and stern effort," said Eden, "then no one will gain except Moscow. * * * Relations between the British Commonwealth and the United States are much bigger than any political party in either country. They are the future of the world. * * * The truth is that our American friends have given to us and to Europe as a whole in these post-war years the most generous help with out making the least attempt to interfere in any way in our own political controversies."

A couple of days before Eden made his speech Tom O'Brien, union leader and labor member of parliament, had delivered himself of some pungent views. He accused American big business of "conspiring to overthrow the labor government," and said Britain might be tempted to prefer communism to "being kicked around by the unlettered, pot-bellied money magnates of the United States."

That was the first time I had heard about the conspiracy to overthrow the British government, but of course Mr. O'Brien has proof of the charge or he wouldn't have voiced it. Just in passing, however, we suggest that he check some of his conclusions again. Our "money magnates" as a whole (love 'em or not) are neither "unlettered" nor "pot-bellied." I've never been a magnate but my observation is that you have to move pretty fast mentally and physically to qualiy as a magnate.

However, that's a mere detail. The point is that "bickering and hard words" could do a lot of damage at this juncture. As already indicated, the talks in Washington regarding Britain's crisis aren't opening in a very auspicious atmosphere. Close observers have expressed the view that it will require notable feats of statesmanship to prevent the conference from hurting instead of improving relations between the two countries. However, encouragement for better things comes from President Truman himself who says he expects good results.

One of the chief problems is how to deal with Britain's gold and dollar shortage. London has indicated its hope of further American help in some form, whereas Washington has believed that the matter must be solved by major British internal moves. In this connection it is noted that there would be liklihood of difficulty in getting British aid measures through congress.

It's fair to assume that this situation impelled the British government's drastic move (announced Friday) in asking all departments of state to cut spending. It is hoped to save $600,000,000 in the next year. That is five per cent of the national budget.

Whether such a major slash in spending will ease the way for the negotiations isn't yet apparent. The current conversations will be followed by the formal conference early next month in Washington. An informant close to the Socialist government says Britain may have to limit her social services and drop her great tax-supported medical program if the Washington talks fail.

We are faced with a difficult situation. Britain's economic crisis is a major part of the western European economic crisis. Verbal sharpshooting by either side can't help any and it might cause irreparable damage.

To spread human disease, a mosquito must bite a sick man and then bite a well man.

HEARING SPECIALIST TO HOLD CLINIC HERE

BUELL H. BROWN

A revolutionary new hearing development the Acousticon Hearette, will be demonstrated in the offices of Acousticon of Monroe, 209½ DeSiard St., (Amman Building), Monday, August 29, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The new Acousticon Hearette does for the hard of hearing what reading glasses do for those with defective vision. There is nothing to wear! There is no receiver in the ear! And there are no cords or extra batteries to carry around!

This instrument is so different that the services of the above hearing expert have been secured. This authorized Acoustician has a record of wonderful results in fitting difficult cases, especially those who have never been able to successfully wear the usual type of hearing aid. All of the hard of hearing are invited.

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

AID FOR TITO

Editors, in very large majority, approve America's decision to sell a steel mill to Yugoslavia; most of this group see this as the probable beginning of a cautious, realistic American policy of economic aid to try to lure Communist satellites from imperialist Moscow control. A small minority questions the wisdom of thus risking Russian seizure or control of "war potential" shipments; and another small minority flatly opposes such risk.

Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal (Ind.): "The decision to let Yugoslavia buy materials in this country for a $3,000,000 steel mill has been called 'a calculated risk.' Perhaps it is only a gamble, but right now it seems like a gamble worth taking. . . . If letting the Tito government buy a steel mill here . . . helps to widen the break of that government with the Communist bloc, it serves our cause."

Wichita Falls (Texas) Daily Times (Dem.): "A number of plausible and logical arguments support the idea . . . but we still don't like it. We have the uncomfortable feeling that the steel mill will presently be helping Russia, not Yugoslavia. There are two disagreeable possibilities. . . . One is that Russia will presently get tired of Tito's brashness and deal roughly with him and his government. The other is that Tito himself . . . will find and seize the opportunity to double-cross us."

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "Delivery is scheduled within 12 months, and any 'change in the situation' respecting Tito's policies may lead . . . to cancellation of the contract. . . . The trend of events, including the growing Communist boycott of Yugoslavia and the exchange of violent tirades, has begun to convince the skeptical that the rift cannot be pretense. . . . Even though it be limited and self-centered, Yugoslavia's gesture of independence seems worth supporting. And if it is to be supported, further delay is dangerous."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "The steel mill will not be ready to set up in Yugoslavia for something like two years. The promise of it may help to stave off a showdown between Tito and non-Communist Yugoslavs, and it may even cause Moscow to seek less offensive ways of cultivating Yugoslav friendship. If it does not, the probability is that the showdown will be over before the steel mill is delivered. This is one of the calculated risks in opposing Communist expansionism."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The decision . . . represents a cautious step in a developing policy. . . . Titoism is bound to affect other countries, and need not be confined to Europe. . . . The traditional image of liberal revolutions overthrowing tyrannical regimes fades in the light of modern methods of state control and suppression; but the gradual reassertion of . . . national rivalries and loyalties opens a path to the same end. We can by no means deal with Tito as a friend, yet we should be less than wise not to deal with him at all."

Decatur (Ill.) Herald (Ind.): "Unfortunately . . . the move does not appear to be an indication that the administration . . . has formulated a policy for dealing with the world's problems. It appears more like another step in our muddling in international affirs. . . . The United States has not decided . . . whether to follow a strict policy of containment of communism or whether to try to get along with the Russians. . . . The end result has been that individual actions have not added up to any consistent policy."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "Yugoslavia . . . will be a test case of great interest . . . to all the members . . . of the cominform. . . . All of them want to increase their trade with the west. . . . Truth of the matter is that the United States could play this hand so skillfully that even Russia itself would be attracted by it. Everyone admits that the only possible way of settling the cold war peacefully is through a resumption of economic relations."

Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer (Ind.-Rep.): "The state department has taken a decisive step which may have far-reaching repercussions on both sides of the iron curtain. . . . Most Americans who hate Communist dictators, whether in Moscow or Belgrade, will have grave reservations about this deal. Their doubts are well-founded, and, in taking advantage of Tito's present scrap with the Kremlin, the state department must be ready at all times to call a halt at the first sign that any help to Yugoslavia is not aiding our own long-range interests."

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The recent precipitous rise in the public debt may soon be halted.

The debt has jumped approximately $2,500,000,000 since this fiscal year began July 1. That's three times as much as it rose in the same period last year, although that year ended with a $1,811,000,000 budget deficit. The debt now totals $255,200,000,000 highest since February 1948.

The reason for this year's extremely rapid rise is that the treasury has enlarged its borrowing by weekly issues of short-term securities to build up its cash balance.

The balance, down below $2,500,000,000 in early July, has now been pushed above $4,600,000,000. Indications are treasury officials think that's almost as much as they need to keep on hand.

Sports—Video

NEW YORK—Owners of professional sports teams, who put a ring on television's finger when no one else wanted her around, are out to break the engagement for fear video sports shows will keep fans at home.

Within another year, if the cameras are allowed in at all, they will be sending only to viewers outside the "home" city.

Video has been barred at all four of the big outdoor fights promoted by the new International Boxing Club here this fall. Only one professional football team, the Washington Redskins, will televise home games this fall—and they are practically sold out before the season opens anyway.

Baseball bosses are baffled. Pittsburgh, only major league club without video, draws well—but so do the Chicago Cubs, covered by three TV stations.

All events at Madison Square Garden will go before the cameras. Garden officials believe video will make thousands of new fans.

British Jet Secrets

FARNBOROUGH, England—(AP)—Several jet aircraft still on the British secret list—not even their identification numbers are mentioned—may be shown for the first time at an air show here Sept. 7-11.

Socialism Test

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—(AP)—New Zealand's 14-year labor (Socialist) regime will go on trial at the polls in November. Balance of power in the house of representatives hangs on four Maori (native) members, who have hitherto supported labor, and on 10 shaky labor seats.

Income Tax Dope

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New helps for the little taxpayer will be found in government pamphlets telling how to make out income tax returns next year.

These pamphlets, furnished with form 1040, will tell the taxpayer for the first time how to appeal a decision of his local collector. Similar information will be printed on the back of form 1040-A (short form).

A proposal to create an independent agency called a tax settlement board is pending in the house ways and means committee. It is the Mills bill, which provides that the board serve as the intermediate appeal agency between the internal revenue bureau and the U. S. tax court.

Settlement of a tax dispute would need agreement by both the bureau and the taxpayer to be binding.

Cable Briefs

HOBART, Australia—(AP)—Prof. H. S. Massey, Australian scientist, says that when atomic energy is industrialized there may be so many waste products they will have to be rocketed to the moon to get rid of them.

TOKYO—(AP)—Teachers interested in simplyfing the Japanese writing system have petitioned the government to require instruction in Romaji, the system of writing Japanese in the western alphabet.

BONN, Germany—(AP)—A new 800-seat theatre will be completed here in October, first step in the west German capital's effort to establish itself as a new German cultural center.

You Too May . . .

PRAGUE—(AP)—They laughed when she sat down at the tractor steering wheel—but now the Czech government says the girl tractor driver is a success. Twenty girls who got bored at a house-keeping school applied for training and took a 30-day course. Damage to the machines dropped so sharply that more are being accepted.

A-Bomb Capacity

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some aviation experts think it might be possible to make a fairly accurate guess on this country's atom bomb capacity by putting together certain information disclosed during the house investigation of the B-36.

Freight Cars

NEW YORK—(AP)—Look for a sizable drop in the number of railroad freight cars.

It has turned downward for the first time in 20 months. The postwar peak was 1,855,187 on July 1.

With carloadings off sharply, the railroads don't need so many cars.

Because of lower income and uncertainty over how much the 40-hour work week effective next Thursday will cost them, they have cut back orders for new ones.

And, although about 15 per cent of the car fleet has been replaced since the war, some 6,000 over-age cars are being retired monthly.

Czech Products

PRAGUE—(AP)—The official press bureau reports two new forthcoming products:

1. A glass fiber cigaret "paper" that holds the ash firm throughout the smoke, ending ashes and burns on carpets.

2. An outdoor advertising poster with sound track.

Navy Funds

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Tying the anonymous air force and B-36 smear to a navy official is likely to put a serious crimp in navy plans to ward off the expected heavy cut in its budget for the year beginning next July 1. The blow came just as friends of the navy were coming to the front in support of more funds.

Smugglers

LONDON—(AP)—The British customs service is starting to use radar in its fight against continental smugglers who roar across the channel in fast launches to unload luxury goods, diamonds and narcotics at isolated spots.

Caracul

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Soviet is out to boost production of caracul pelts. Persian lambs are being brought in from central Asia for breeding on Ukrainian and Moldavian farms.

Air Freight

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Using a government forecast that air freight will reach one billion ton-miles annually in 15 years, airport operators estimate terminal requirements will be increased seven-fold by 1964. Air freight now is running around 125,000,000 ton-miles a year.

Asian Development

BANGKOK, Siam—(AP)—Look for the U. N. economic commission for Asia and the far east to bear down hard on industrial development at its session at Singapore Oct. 20-29.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

The other night a fellow told me an amusing story, and if you've already heard it don't try to stop me—just go away and write your own column. . . .

Recently, a small Italian gentleman with a paper bag in his hand walked into a bank and took his place on the line in front of the teller's window. He kept tugging at his tie and shifting his weight from one foot to the other, and finally a bank guard walked up to him.

"What's the matter, Bub?" the guard asked. "Got ants in the unmentionables?"

"My name, she's-a Tony, not Bub," said the little man, "and I wanna deposit haffa million dollas."

The guard's eyebrows did a hop, skip and jump. "Just follow me, mister," he said. "The president's office is this way."

"What can I do for you, my good man?" asked the banker as Tony entered.

The Italian upended the paper bag he was carrying and several stacks of thousand-dollar bills tumbled out on the desk.

"Holy Andrew Mellon!" said the president. "What line of business are you in?"

"I make-a good money in my parlor," said Tony.

"You make good money in your parlor?" said the startled banker. "You mean good counterfeit money?"

"I no unnastand," said Tony. "I shine-a the shoes. Got three shoe shine parlor."

"Amazing. How long have you been in this country?"

"I come-a from Napoli twelve years Christmas."

"A real Horatio Alger story," beamed the banker.

"I just-a do the best I know how," Tony said modestly.

"Tell you what," said the executive. "I'm having a dinner party at my house tonight, and I'm sure my guests would get a great thrill out of meeting you. Woud you come?"

"Sure, boss," said Tony.

That evening, when the shoe-shine man showed up, the banker's guests crowded around him as if he were the Aga Khan, and all through dinner the main topic was the spectacular success of the immigrant boy. Finally, when demitasse time arrived, the host rose, made a neat little speech about rugged individualism, and then asked Tony to tell his story.

"It's-a not so much," said the Italian, getting to his feet. "Twelve year ago, me and my sista we come-a to this country. I buy-a the shoe box, pick good spot near railroad station, keep-a the polish off-a the socks, and make plenty dimes.

"In five years, I rent shoe-shine shop, hire other fella, put calendar on wall and make-a more money.

"Eight year, I open two more shop, hire more fella. Now I got-a three shop and much-a customa. I thank-a you."

The banker and his guests applauded.

"One-a thing I almost forget," said Tony. "While I shine-a the shoes, my sista she's-a marry five rich fellas. Last-a week she's-a die and leave me half a million dollas."

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Charles Sawyer, secretary of commerce, and some of his staff have just come back from an unusual mission.

They've been going around the country, meeting with businessmen, labor people and public officials.

The purpose was to find out what those people around the country think of the general economic situation.

The trips were outlined by President Truman and his assistant, John R. Steelman, and yesterday Sawyer issued a report on his trip to Steelman.

Sawyer's report can be pretty well summed up in this statement of his:

"My most significant impression from these trips and discussions is that people generally have an abiding faith in the soundness of our business economy.

"I was reassured by the repeated expression of belief of businessmen, labor and government officials that our business structure is solid and that our economy can look forward to more growth and progress.

"Generally speaking, I find that businessmen considered the recent declines in prices, sales and production as being temporary adjustments in prices, sales and production as our economy moved from the inflationary post-war peaks into a better adjusted level of prosperity."

What do the businessmen want? They want tax cuts. But it is definite that congress won't reduce taxes this year.

Next year? There's no assurance there'll be any tax cuts then, either, particularly if the government runs in the red and needs tax money to meet some of its expenses, if not all of them.

In his travels, especially in New England and in Michigan and Ohio, Sawyer found "substantial" and "significant" unemployment.

On this subject Sawyer said:

"To a major degree the communities which had the most serious problems were the ones which are now feeling the after effects of war-time over-expansion. . . .

"It was pointed out in a number of places, and particularly in areas of special distress, that substantial numbers of manufacturing employes are now on part-time work, although the reports would not show them as unemployed.

"It was most forcefully brought to my attention that being out of work today is a wholly different matter from being out of work in the early 30's, due to the difference in the price of food and other living costs.

"Unless such costs come down or unemployment payments are extended, the relief situation in a number of cities could be critical."

Sawyer pointed out that "five out of the nine labor market areas with more than 12 per cent unemployed are located in the New England states.

Why was New England hit so hard? Sawyer explained.

". . . New England especially has been hard hit, simply because its manufacturing employment happened to be predominantly in those industries which were faced first with major readjustments in their markets and in their price structures."

But Sawyer has a cheery word to say for New England: "It is probable that, because it has faced its price readjustments first, New England will be the first to feel the favorable effects of renewed activity as inventories are replenished and buying returns to more normal levels."

This trip of Sawyer and his aides covered a good part of the eastern area of the United States.

He and his people will go back on the road again later and cover the rest of the country.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

(By Sally Forrest, pinch-hitting for Jimmie Fidler, who is on vacation)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—It's only three hours by car from San Diego to Hollywood, but it took me almost four years to cover the distance. Without detours.

It might have taken me longer but I got a few lucky breaks, salted down with some disappointments that I'm happy about now.

The day I signed my Metro contract I was in the clouds. Mentally I spent the income for the whole seven years that first morning. There was no doubt in my mind that in short order I'd be doing as well as Garson and Hepburn and Allyson and Turner.

I danced in a lot of musicals and eventually got to be the girl next to the stars when the cameras rolled in for closeups. But I never got a chance to utter a peep into the microphones. I never even played secretaries, waitresses, or hatcheck girls. When I wasn't rehearsing or dancing for the movie cameras I was practicing ballet, Latin or modern, and going out evenings for a little swing or square.

I visited a lot of sets, saw a lot of big names at work, went to a lot of movies, took dramatic lessons and hoped for the best.

In spite of all this, things looked so rosy to me that my mother, small brother and I decided to move out of our furnished room. The housing shortage was acute and we finally had to buy shelter, choosing a place near Metro. After all, I was going to be there seven years. I thought!

What I didn't realize was that I wasn't very much more than a payroll number. The big studios are so big in so many ways, and their search for new faces isn't ended when they sign YOU. Type casting often begins before the newcomer is ever given a chance. I got a contract as a dancer and I doubt that I was ever seriously considered for anything else. And, of course, when a plum dancing part came along it went to the big names on the star list.

Just about this time I got the axe. Fired, right smack out of my seven year contract. I had a good cry and then got mad. I'd show THEM!

Dad, who had been retired from the navy, had rejoined the family. He gave me pep talks which added up to "Don't let us down. We think you're wonderful even if Metro doesn't. Get out there and prove we're right."

So I started out looking for jobs. Usually the part had been cast, or I was too young, or too old, or too short, or too tall, or the picture was postponed. You have to get insulated to disappointment to get along in the Hollywood scramble. I used to spend half days waiting for busses to get me to appointments, and the other half day waiting for my interview.

I was coaching one of the Valentino aspirants on a sound stage when Agent Milo Frank suggested that I should make a serious try for an acting career. Shortly afterward, Ida Lupino announced her first independent production, "Not Wanted," interviewed a large number of unknowns and finally talked to me.

"This is it," I kept telling myself as Mr. Frank drove me to her home. Miss Lupino realized how nervous I was. She outlined the story and then gave me a couple of scenes to read. My knees shook, my hands shook, my voice shook. But I got it under control and gave those readings everything I had.

Miss Lupino tapped her cheek a moment, walked around the room briefly, then turned to me and said, "You've got the part." I was so surprised that it was a couple of minutes before I found the words to say thank you.

We started making the picture almost immediately. Everyone was most helpful. We worked long hours and worked hard. Keefe Brasselle and Leo Penn, who played the other two leads, knew it was their big chance too, and we each gave the project our best. We didn't have time to worry about how it was going to turn out till the projection room grapevine started rolling. "Good," "Great," "Terrific" are sweet words to hear. They're even sweeter when the public goes at least halfway in sharing the opinion.

A lot of people tell me now that I'm a real Hollywood Cinderella. I'd like to say I wore out several pairs of glass slippers getting there.

These days I don't wait hours to see producers. I sail right in. I can't help chuckling when my manager says, "But the part isn't important enough for her."

Only a year ago I was wondering if I'd ever get a chance to speak on the screen. Now I have a choice, and I think it's wonderful!

Son Will Officiate At Father's Wedding Rites

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A son will officiate at his father's marriage Sept. 7.

The Rev. Henry Lange, 68, pastor of Nathaniel Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Mrs. Lydia E. Kinder, 59, applied for a marriage license yesterday. The ceremony will be performed Sept. 7 by the Rev. William Lange of LaCrosse, son of the groom.

The Rev. Mr. Lange's first wife, Martha, died in 1946. Mrs. Kinder's husband, John Kinder, died in 1925.

POLES USE RED PLANES

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Twelve new Russian-built IL-12 planes are being used in Polish national and international service, the Civil Air Company lot reported today. The IL-12 is a twin-engined craft resembling the American Douglas DC-3. It carries 28 passengers.

Killer Is Pallbearer To 1 Of 3 Victims

FORT, WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Franklin Click, 30, who has signed a confession he killed three women, was a pallbearer at the funeral of one of them.

Sam Kuzeff, whose daughter, Anna, was slain and left in a wheat field five years ago, told reporters today that the celery farm worker helped carry the body at the funeral.

The Kuzeffs lived across the street from Click.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Harold Zeis said at least one part of Click's confession checked exactly with details from police records.

Click told at length of being chased by police as he fled in a stolen car after disposing of the body of Phyllis Conine, 17-year-old high school student. The sheriff said a police report at the time gave identical details of the chase.

Click's statements added confusion to an already baffling situation involving for sex slayings. Ralph Lobaugh, Kokomo factory worker, is under death sentence for one slaying.

He confessed, and then denied, that slaying and two others.

Robert V. Christen, former Fort Wayne druggist, is under life sentence for the same killing for which Lobaugh, whose execution is under stay, was sentenced.

Two of the killings confessed by Click are the other two confessed by Lobaugh.

Hal Boyle's

NOTEBOOK

By Ed Creagh
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—"Simply because I am 97," said Mrs. Suzanne Faulkner, "you needn't think I am going to stop enjoying myself, because I'm not.

"I danced the Samba on my last birthday—"

"Oh, Ma, you didn't," bubbled daughter Betty, a blonde and boisterous 73.

"I certainly did!" Mrs. Faulkner's grey eyes crackled and her jaw, remarkably free of wrinkles, shifted into danger position.

"Well, you went through the motions," Betty admitted. "You got out on the dance floor at the Stork Club and you rasied your arms and wiggled your hips."

"Of course," said her mother, with vast dignity. "It was a wonderful party. I didn't get home until four in the morning. What time did YOU get home—."

"You ought to know, Ma," Betty giggled. "You were sitting right there waiting for me."

It sounded like a typical afternoon in the Park avenue apartment which Betty, known more formally as Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, society cut-up, shares with her mother.

Both are widows. Their late husbands had money.

The apartment is dark, tapestry-infested and—a week after the birthday blowout—still cluttered with anniversary flowers.

I called in the hope of finding out how one goes about living 97 years without missing too much.

"I simply followed my doctor's orders," said Mrs. Faulkner, whose hair is as brown as an autumn leaf. "Old Dr. Swan of Boston, it was. He told me to take plenty of good, nourishing food—"

"Buttermilk before breakfast. Brrh!" Betty wriggled and made a Mickey Rooney face.

"You be quiet," her mother said. "I also have to take a few ounces of spirits every day. Between meals. Something I never did when I was younger. Never smoked, either."

"What a way to live!" Betty murmured.

"I'm getting old," Mrs. Faulkner said. "Can't walk more than a mile a day any more. Haven't had a serious proposal of marriage in almost 10 years."

Betty burst out laughing. "Tell him about that, Ma. Tell him about Col. ——."

"He did me the honor of asking me to be his wife," the old woman said, her eyes lighting up again.

"But he was in a rather festive mood that night and I didn't hold him to it.

"When we met the next day I simply said, 'and how are you this morning, Col. ——?'"

"You can't imagine how relieved he looked.

"'Mrs. Faulkner,' he said, 'You are a very sensible woman.'"

I wanted to ask daughter Betty about that celebrated picture which was taken of her at the opera, with her leg on the table and her skirt hiked way up to here.

Fortunately, she volunteered the information.

"Outrageous," she said. "I had bursitis in my knee and I merely put my leg up on the table to ease the pain. "Some young photographers who didn't know me took my picture in that ridiculous position.

"Oh, brother! That picture has been in every paper in the world. Especially the Communist papers. They tried to make me a symbol of capitalist decay or some damn thing."

"What, dear?" asked her mother, who is a little hard of hearing.

"Nothing, Ma," Betty said. "Tell the man how, when I was a baby, you had to give me the bottle every three hours."

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The not too happy opening of the Anglo-American preliminary talks in Washington on Britain's grave economic crisis has been preceded by wise advice from one of England's leading statesmen — Anthony Eden, deputy leader of the great Conservative party and former foreign minister.

Eden made a speech in which he pleaded for a halt to "bickering and hard words" between our two countries. Some pretty bitter language has been bandied across the Atlantic recently—by American sources who charge England with having failed to make an all-out post-war effort for recovery; by Britons who accuse us of interfering in their Socialist program.

If transatlantic name calling takes the place of "sympathetic understanding and stern effort," said Eden, "then no one will gain except Moscow. * * * Relations between the British Commonwealth and the United States are much bigger than any political party in either country. They are the future of the world. * * * The truth is that our American friends have given to us and to Europe as a whole in these post-war years the most generous help with out making the least attempt to interfere in any way in our own political controversies."

A couple of days before Eden made his speech Tom O'Brien, union leader and labor member of parliament, had delivered himself of some pungent views. He accused American big business of "conspiring to overthrow the labor government," and said Britain might be tempted to prefer communism to "being kicked around by the unlettered, pot-bellied money magnates of the United States."

That was the first time I had heard about the conspiracy to overthrow the British government, but of course Mr. O'Brien has proof of the charge or he wouldn't have voiced it. Just in passing, however, we suggest that he check some of his conclusions again. Our "money magnates" as a whole (love 'em or not) are neither "unlettered" nor "pot-bellied." I've never been a magnate but my observation is that you have to move pretty fast mentally and physically to qualiy as a magnate.

However, that's a mere detail. The point is that "bickering and hard words" could do a lot of damage at this juncture. As already indicated, the talks in Washington regarding Britain's crisis aren't opening in a very auspicious atmosphere. Close observers have expressed the view that it will require notable feats of statesmanship to prevent the conference from hurting instead of improving relations between the two countries. However, encouragement for better things comes from President Truman himself who says he expects good results.

One of the chief problems is how to deal with Britain's gold and dollar shortage. London has indicated its hope of further American help in some form, whereas Washington has believed that the matter must be solved by major British internal moves. In this connection it is noted that there would be liklihood of difficulty in getting British aid measures through congress.

It's fair to assume that this situation impelled the British government's drastic move (announced Friday) in asking all departments of state to cut spending. It is hoped to save $600,000,000 in the next year. That is five per cent of the national budget.

Whether such a major slash in spending will ease the way for the negotiations isn't yet apparent. The current conversations will be followed by the formal conference early next month in Washington. An informant close to the Socialist government says Britain may have to limit her social services and drop her great tax-supported medical program if the Washington talks fail.

We are faced with a difficult situation. Britain's economic crisis is a major part of the western European economic crisis. Verbal sharpshooting by either side can't help any and it might cause irreparable damage.

To spread human disease, a mosquito must bite a sick man and then bite a well man.

HEARING SPECIALIST TO HOLD CLINIC HERE

BUELL H. BROWN

A revolutionary new hearing development the Acousticon Hearette, will be demonstrated in the offices of Acousticon of Monroe, 209½ DeSiard St., (Amman Building), Monday, August 29, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The new Acousticon Hearette does for the hard of hearing what reading glasses do for those with defective vision. There is nothing to wear! There is no receiver in the ear! And there are no cords or extra batteries to carry around!

This instrument is so different that the services of the above hearing expert have been secured. This authorized Acoustician has a record of wonderful results in fitting difficult cases, especially those who have never been able to successfully wear the usual type of hearing aid. All of the hard of hearing are invited.

Amateur Magician Carries Fun With Him

By Bert Hatten
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Ever find yourself dangling at the end of a trickster's line of foolery?

If so, maybe you are one of the many persons who have fallen victim to C. E. Enete, Jr., an accomplished non-professional West Monroe magician whose innumerable victims never forget his slight of hand, ventriloquism, or jokes.

Enete, a life-time enthusiast of tricks, leaves a path of laughter, blushing, and sometimes hurt feelings behind him. He just can't resist an opportunity to lure some innocent victim into his web.

The most exciting scene to arise from his trickery probably occurred on Monroe's DeSiard street. Reactions and contributions to the scene were: The accumulation of a crowd numbering up in the hundreds; summoning of a police squad; and causing a high city official to threaten the rear of an automobile with a fire axe.

The turmoil started when this teaser walked up to the rear of an automobile, bent over and yelled "What do you want?" Answering himself by ventriloquism (throwing his voice), an enraged plea seemed to come from the automobile's trunk, saying "Help, help, let me out, I'm smothering, help help."

Consequently curious pedestrians began to collect. As the onlookers grew in number, he repeated the distress calls, still seemingly coming from the rear of the car. The spellbound crowd grew. Someone exclaimed: "Get that trunk open! See who's in there before he dies!"

By that time a city official had happened along and took the apparent catastrophe for the real thing. He immediately dashed to a near-by store and later returned with a fire axe. "Move back," he commanded the breathless gazers.

Enete realized that now was the time to give himself up to the axe wielder or else prepare to pay damages to the unknown car owner. So he nudged the official, motioned to him, and eased him out of the uproar to explain that no one was really in the trunk, but instead he had been creating the excitement as a joke. After the official learned of the hoax, he returned the axe to its owner without much comment.

Mopping his brow, the imitator returned to the spotlight and renewed the faked cries for help. The excitement had enticed someone to call the police, who arrived and started an investigation.

Again the ventriloquist was forced to confidentially reveal his escapade. After watching for a while, in the know, the officers departed.

The next intrusion, however, was fatal to the scene. A lad who lived near Enete in West Monroe came by and revealed to the crowd, "this guy's a magician. Nobody's in that trunk."

The reluctant spectators were not thoroughly convinced, however, until Enete clinched the boy's statement with his confession that he had faked the entire scene.

That's just one of many capers staged by this man. He is an expert at dozens of major tricks and knows hundreds of minor ones.

He learned most of them early in life, Enete recalls, but many have grown to perfection with practice during his life time.

Numerous pranks were learned from an uncle who has been in missionary work in Brazil since the early 20's. "There's a magician for you," according to our local teaser.

While in high school, during the infancy of motion pictures, "Snooks," Enete's nickname, was offered a job in sound effects in Hollywood. However, his parents deemed his education more valuable and the Hollywood offer was declined.

His talent has remained strictly on a non-professional basis and practiced mainly between shifts at the Commercial Solvents plant in Sterlington.

Though his favorite victims are those nabbed unsuspectingly, he has been quite successful in performing for Scouts and church groups. In fact, he has more invitations to perform than he has time to accept. You see, Enete is also a family man.

He is the father of two children, both under ten years of age, who naturally require time.

And too, his wife, Lulu, thinks "Snooks shouldn't always go around fooling people." I'm afraid he might make somebody mad and cause trouble," she laments. "But," she recalled, "as he says, he has a riot of fun."

SHREVEPORT GIRLS TOP POLITICIANS

Sweep Party Chairmanships In Pelican Girls' State Election

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Shreveport girls won the top political jobs in Pelican Girls' State, election returns showed today.

They swept the party chairmanships. Ann Oden and Shirley Welsh tied to become co-chairmen of the Nationalist party, while Madeline Steger won the election as chairman of the Federalist party.

Among the high school age citizens to the legislature were:

Johnnie Bolton and Dorothy Barmore, Alexandria; Jerryann Adams, Baton Rouge; Barbara Charltan, Shreveport; Pat Beasley, Shreveport; Ann Braun, Monroe; Jackie Braud, Baton Rouge.

Martha Egger, Shreveport; Marie Daigle, Lafayette; Francis Digiovanni, Shreveport; Marie Lorraine Dawson, Baton Rouge; Anne Dier, Baton Rouge; Docia Crouch, Shreveport; Barbara Dawson, New Orleans; Mary Dougherty, Shreveport; Nona Drago, New Iberia; Elizabeth Doane, Monroe; Florence Fischer, New Orleans.

Mary Elizabeth Hendricks, Shreveport; Clemmie Jo Hanna, Shreveport; Bobbye Funchess, Baton Rouge; Mickey Glankler, Alexandria; Betty L. Hebert, Alexandria; Jane Brown, Lafayette; Pat Grant, Baton Rouge; Marjorie Freeman, Gretna; Marie Howell, Alexandria.

Betty Jeanmard, Lafayette; Mauring Linquist, Monroe; Betty Maricella, Monroe; Lihby Anne Landry, Baton Ruoge; Virginia Liang, Monroe; Doris Martin and Merrill Malm, New Orleans.

Lenore Morgan, Alexandria; Jane Rawlins, Shreveport; Katie Pollard, Crowley; Marlene Miller, New Orleans.

Ann Stokes, West Monroe; Martha Upshaw, Monroe; Peggy Newcomer, West Monroe; Dawn Sherburne, Shreveport; Mary Effie Smith, Baton Rouge; Madeline Steger, Shreveport; Gay McGraw, Baton Rouge, and Dorothy Willard, Monroe.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The legislature of Pelican Girls' State organized today, voting the presiding honors to Monroe and Shreveport girls.

Dorothy Willard of Monroe was named speaker of the house and Mary Elizabeth Hendrick of Shreveport president pro-tem of the senate.

The teen-age citizens begin nominating candidates tomorrow for the election of a governor and other state officials next week.

St. Paul Has Largest Wedding In History

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Minnesota's centennial couple, Gene Schmitt, and Marie Ruzichka, were married today in one of the biggest and most colorful ceremonies in St. Paul history.

More than 500 persons jammed St. James Catholic Church to see the highly publicized wedding, and an estimated 5,000 others crowded streets in all directions to try to catch a glimpse of the couple.

The couple rode to and from the ceremony in a horse drawn enclosed Brougham. They had planned to ride in a surrey with fringe on top, but the surrey was used to transport flower girls attired in old-time costumes.

From eight to ten policemen were on hand to direct the crowds which lined the streets from curb to curb, long before the wedding began at 9 a. m.

The ceremony and procession, recorded by newspaper, radio and television representatives, was the culmination of three years of planning. The couple decided in 1946 to marry during the Minnesota centennial celebration.

All members of the wedding party wore "centennial costumes" and all rode in horse drawn carriages.

Schmitt is employed as a wirephoto operator in the St. Paul office of the Associated Press.

The Schmitts, both 27, came to public attention through their quest for a surrey. The St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press published appeals. Several vehicles were offered. Hundreds of citizens telephoned best wishes. The old fashioned wedding idea caught on. The papers dubbed Schmitt and his bride the centennial couple. The official centennial committee acquiesced.

One Of A Series

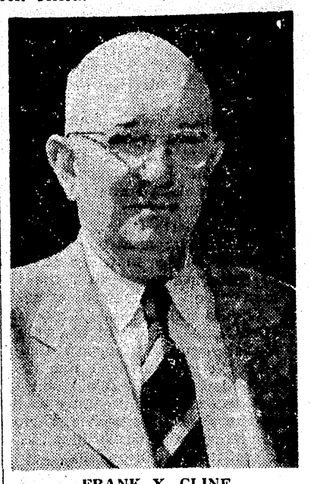
Know Your Officials

By James V. Mathis
(Of the Morning World Staff)

"You know, people laugh at me when I say I came from a family of 16, but it's true. There were eleven boys and five girls and I was the eleventh child. There's still a lot of Clines in Georgia."

It was Frank Xavier Cline, Monroe's commissioner of finance and utilities, who was talking. He had turned up at the office Friday afternoon with a 102 degree temperature, the results of a week's vacation back in Georgia and Florida with members of his now well-scattered family.

Cline was born on June 1, 1891, the son of a prosperous Georgia merchant. Peter J. Cline, in the town of Milledgeville, Ga. He was reared in the large family home, a colonial type structure, once the home of Georgia's governors when Milledgeville was the state capital. His father came into the town shortly after the Civil War to become one of its leading citizens and mayor for many years. He started the first water system and electrical plant in the city and served on the board of the city bank and two colleges.



FRANK X. CLINE

Early Years

With his early education behind him, young Frank Cline was sent to the Georgia Military College in his home town to round out his formal schooling. The military tricks he learned here were to be put to use in a few years.

Out of college, Cline turned for employment to the Elberton Oil Mills, Elberton, Ga. He resigned to enter the United States army when the nation entered the first world war.

Serving in France with the 31st division as a sergeant, Cline picked up valuable knowledge of the ways of men under pressure. He learned also the smattering of French and how to get out of the usual escapades. Today he can still reminisce with the best over his days in France.

He returned to Milledgeville after the armistice, but the oil mill looked too tame. He went instead into the booming livestock business, selling, in his words, "a world of army surplus horses and mules."

Married

When the repression struck in the early 1920's Cline left the live stock trade and sought better fields, winding up in Monroe in 1922 as manager of the Motor Wheels Corporation.

Three years later on October 24, 1925, Cline married Miss Josephine LaBaum, of Monroe. They have one son, Frank X., Jr., a student in his third year of the L. S. U. School of Medicine in New Orleans.

Cline changed the tenor of his life in late 1926 when he left a business career behind and moved into the Ouachita parish sheriff's department, as deputy to Sheriff Milton Coverdale, brother-in-law of his wife.

He served 22 years in the sheriff's office, becoming an expert criminal deputy and acquiring a thorough knowledge of parish politics. Cline served as unofficial chief deputy for many years, and in the last term of Coverdale, took on a great many responsibilities of the office. He resigned in April, 1948, to open his campaign for commission.

The Man

No definite label can be placed on Cline's public personality. His is a mixture of deft political moves and the blunt force of a bulldozer. He knows what he wants and moves with surprising swiftness to complete a program.

Cline's stocky build hides a surprising physical strength, built by years of handling reluctant and sometimes dangerous criminals. His brown eyes laugh from behind his glasses and he has an amazing store of jokes.

Unless an avid interest in football games can be called a hobby Cline says he doesn't possess any. He makes every football game, regardless of weather. The kind of fan he is can best be told in his own words: "When that man with the ball starts running," he says, "if my wife isn't off the seat she will be pushed off. I really help that runner!"

Although Cline has owned and operated several farms he isn't in the business right now. About the only connection he has with farming is his turkey sideline, for personal and friends' use only. He raises prize turkeys, fattening them off at his home at 1505 Forsythe on northside Monroe.

Cline belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, and the Forty and Eight, the legions' fun organization. He is on the board of directors of the Louisiana Public Service Association.

Tough Spot

Cline inherited one of the toughest spots on the city administration with his election to the finance and utilities post.

Plagued by old and insufficient equipment prior to the war the situation regarding lights, water, buses and sewerage disposal was desperate in 1948. Expansion hadn't helped any.

Finances in the city were at a low ebb, with heavy losses showing up in many departments.

Working in cooperation with streets and Parks Commissioner Johnny Simmons and Mayor George O. Breece, Cline has moved to improve and better conditions. A major bond issue for improvement and expansion has been approved by property voters. Fares on the buses have been hiked and new buses brought in when available at factories. Sewerage, one of ers burglary early Sunday morning.

UNION VETERANS AT ENCAMPMENT

Half Dozen Of Surviving 16 Members Expected At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Indianapolis, scene of the first national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic 82 years ago, today rolled out the welcome mat for the last gathering of union veterans.

A half dozen of the surviving 16 members of G. A. R. are expected for the encampment, which begins officially Sunday Five affiliated groups with a membership of about 2,500 also are to meet Sunday through Wednesday.

Two of the Civil War veterans are coming by air. One of them, Charley Chappel, 102, of Long Beach, Calif., senior vice-commander, says he'll be "proud to be the last commander." The second is James A. Hard, 103, Rochester, N. Y.

Hard has said he favors another encampment next year, but indicated he would not push the matter. The G. A. R. last year amended its rules and regulations to make the 1949 meeting at Indianapolis the last.

Theodore Penland, 100, of Portland, Ore., national commander-in-chief, is expected to arrive by special train later today. Albert Woolson, 102, Duluth, Minn., also is due to arrive by train this afternoon.

For Joseph Clovese, 105, Pontiac, Mich., the last encampment will be his first. Clovese, is the only surviving Negro member; he will arrive tomorrow by train.

Robert Barrett, 102, Princeton, Ky., is coming by automobile. Clovese, Hard, Barrett and Chappel are expected Sunday.

A special hospital room has been set up in a hotel at which the centenarians will stay. Described as a "precautionary the facilities are provided by Veterans Administration, officially responsible for the health of the aged Civil War soldiers.

Memorial services Sunday afternoon will be the first session. The U. S. marine band will play a concert Sunday night. Special ceremonies will be held Monday opening the sale of the G. A. R. commemorative stamp.

On Tuesday the veterans will be permitted to rest. They will hold their last business session Wednesday. A "twilight parade" and a final campfire Wednesday night will conclude the encampment.

'Operation Snoopy' Under Full Tilt; May End Soon

By George Bradley

OSCELOA, Wis., Aug. 27.-(AP)-Aided by a crowd of barnyard kibitzers, "Operation Snoopy" was under way full tilt late today.

Everett Lampman, owner of the recalcitrant heifer at the bottom of a 12 foot silo pit, said he did not expect to retrieve the animal until early tonight at least.

The operation was hindered at its scheduled start this morning by mechanical difficulty and a shortage of labor.

Snoopy, the pet of 13 year old Cherine Lampman, appeared anxious to leave the prison into which she dove 72 hours ago through a 20 by 30 inch opening.

Cheriene confided that she too will be glad when Snoopy is free. For most of the girl's waking hours are now taken up climbing down a ladder into the pit with pails of water for the imprisoned heifer.

The silo must be filled with at least 15 hayrack loads of chopped corn before Snoopy reaches the ground level entrance to her circular cell.

The blower which shoots the chopped corn into the silo in showers failed to function properly this morning and the fan had to be replaced.

The labor shortage came because other farmers in the area are engaged with their own harvest.

Lampman, however, enlisted the aid of some of the heavier "sidewalk superintendents" in his barnyard to tramp down the loose corn as it was blown into the pit. He said he believed the level would be brought to the narrow entry by 8 p. m. tonight.

Asked if he anticipated any difficulty in getting Snoopy out, Lampman said "we'll worry about that when we can get to see her without using a ladder."

He said Snoopy was showing a restless attitude after 72 hours in semi-darkness and that he banked on that as a spur for her to possibly assist in her own rescue.

Snoopy was muzzled as the shower of fresh cut corn fell upon her mottled black and white sides and back. That was to keep her in form to get out of the same small hole into which she inadvertently pitched while Lampman was chasing her Wednesday.

Tuna Fishing Big Line For W. Coast Clippers

By Jack Quigg
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

LOS ANGELES—Tuna clipper crewmen earn a thousand dollars a day—on exceptional days—just for catching fish. But not a man in Southern California's 250-boat clipper fleet thinks he's overpaid. For a tuna fisherman stakes his life each time he goes to sea.

No Isaac Walton's sport, this. It's sport like pitching hay. Or mixing cement.

When the yellowfin swarm around the boats 300 miles south of the lower tip of Baja California, fighting to snatch at the heavy steel hooks, they are dragged aboard and clubbed to death by men whose bodies are drenched with sweat, salt water—and often blood.

Tuna fishing is big business. Last year's Pacific Coast pack amounted to 6,340,000 cases. At roughly $15 a case it returned $95,100,000 to the canneries.

This figure includes albacore, which isn't fished by the clippers, plus purse seine catches and other types. But the clipper is the mainstay of the industry. Last year San Pedro and San Diego-based boats, mostly clippers, provided 4,207,134 cases of canned tuna, valued at $63,107,010, or about two thirds of the Pacific Coast total.

Boat owners currently receive $310 a ton from the canneries. The owners keep 53 per cent of the value of the ship's catch and turn over 47 per cent to the crew. A crewman making eight trips a year will earn from $10,000 to $15,000 a year for his single share.

The Sun Hawk, high boat in the fleet last year, rang up $16,000 a share. On some boats, extra good men get a share and a half or two shares. The skipper usually gets two or more, if the owners figure he's worth it.

The clippers average around 90 feet in length and are worth about $350,000. Loaded with $3500 worth of food and 32,000 gallons of diesel fuel they sail 1000 miles south of San Diego to warm waters off the coast of Mexico to do their fishing.

Big tonnage days, days when the catch is valued in tens of thousands of dollars, are hard to come by. The schools must be big and unbothered by shark or barracuda. The bait must be right and the tuna in a mood to bite.

Once in a school, no one must hook a monster and lose a pole. A fish towing a pole scares the others. The poles are eight foot lengths of tough bamboo. If the fish look small, poles are rigged with about three feet of rope and wire leaders ending in a barbless hook.

Hooks are baited with squids wrapped in feathers, or with live sardines. For larger fish, 150 pounds or more, two, three or even four men are required. Each husky, sunburned seaman take a pole. All the leaders run to the same hook. The monsters are yanked into the scuppers by brute force.

A big school can sometimes be tapped for 100 tons, more than $30,000. With expenses deducted that's more than $1000 apiece for a ten man crew.

On big tonnage days everyone, from cook to engineer, fishes to the point of collapse, jerking the glistening delicacies from the water with frantic speed. The catch is stowed in refrigerated holds.

But for every banner day, there are 10 days of prosaic chores: searching for fish that won't bite when found; combing island bays for sardines for bait; cruising to avoid storms.

And there are the average days—five tons in the morning, three in the afternoon, two the next day, four the next.

The threat of quick death is ominpresent. The sea, the decks, even the air offer hazards.

Infesting the indigo ocean are are man-hungry sharks, razor-toothed barracuda and blanket-size manta rays that can crush a swimmer in an instant. Shark and barracuda prey on tuna schools. Hauled aboard by error, they can inflict fatal gashes before being dispatched.

There is the chubasco, a high octane Mexican version of a hurricane, which is capable of swallowing the stoutest fishing craft. Ever present are the dangers of shipwreck by fire, motor failure or shoals.

Japanese 'Demokrassie' Popular With Women

TOKYO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The princesses of Japan are just crazy about this new "demokrassie" that arrived with the occupation.

Frees 'em to go window shopping, even ride a bicycle if they feel like it. A princess riding a bicycle in the old days would have rocked imperial court circles like a first-class earthquake.

Not now, though, under Japan's Democratic constitution which holds that a prince is no better than the next man.

Four princesses told how they like their new freedom in a round-table reported today in the September issue of the Home Journal of Japan.

They are Princesses Asako Fushimi, Naoko Kan-In, Toshiko Kaya and Yoshikori. (All are members of Japan's princely families although none is of the family of Emperor Hirohito.)

Here are some reasons they gave for doting on democracy:

They got rid of a lot of boring ceremony.

They can window shop, enter restaurants, ride streetcars and even talk with the passengers.

They can do their own marketing if they want to—and ride to market on a bicycle.

They can have a hot meal. As they put it: "Never were our meals hot because the kitchen was so far away the dishes cooled while the servants carried them down the long halls. Now we even bring pans right to the table."

Their houses no longer are cluttered with servants who always were supervising what they did. "We use to have 50 or more. Now we have six."

And on top of all these boons, they point out that a princess now can marry for love!

(All four already are married.)

Fire Alarms

Monroe firemen were kept busy yesterday extinguishing grass fires at Edgewater Gardens, on the 2000 block of DeSiard street and in Renwick Addition.

They answered the DeSiard street call at 11:15 a.m. yesterday; the one at Edgewater Gardens at 1:34 a.m., and the grass blaze in Renwick Addition at 2:51 p.m.

Charles G. Dawes Has 84th Birthday Yesterday

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — (AP) — Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former vice-president of the United States— and the man who made the phrase "Hell n' Maria" famous—is 84 years old today.

The blunt-speaking soldier, financier, and public official ran true to form. He refused, as usual, to give a birthday interview.

"I just don't want to be interviewed," he said over the telephone.

Then, with a loud chuckle, and in an apparent reference to his hardy condition at an advanced age, he added: "I guess you'll just have to shoot me."

Then he hung up.

Then he hung up.

It was normal procedure for Dawes, now chairman of the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

In 1945, when he reached the four score mark, he said "Birthdays are nothing to make a flub-dub about."

Dawes keeps daily office hours at the bank, and appears occasionally at public functions.

Cohen's Partner Is Held On Murder Suspect

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Police today arrested Harry (Happy) Meltzer, associate of Gambler Mickey Cohen, and booked him on suspicion of a New Jersey murder, Chief of Police William A. Worton announced.

Worton said Meltzer's arrest was requested by authorities at Paterson, N. J., and that detectives were scheduled to arrive late today to question him about the slaying July 10, 1948, of Charley Yanowski.

Meltzer was arrested in the lobby of a Hollywood hotel. Chief Worton said Meltzer refused to answer questions put to him by intelligence unit officers.

Another Cohen associate, Mike Howard, was arrested earlier this week and released on $5,000 bond pending a hearing on suspicion of violating a narcotics act.

Anglo-Argentine Trade Treaty Okayed By Peronites

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27. — (AP) — President Juan D. Peron's supporters guided the British-Argentine trade treaty through the chamber of deputies yesterday after a Marathon 44-hour-20 minute debate.

The vote, divided strictly on party lines, was 96 to 28. Opponents spoke against the government's entire economic policy.

The chamber, following the longest session in its history, okayed the bilateral trade pact which has been attacked by the United States as violating the spirit of free international trade.

Formal ratification by the senate is expected next week.

JAILED FOR DRUNKENNESS

Harold Coates, 40, of Loop Road, Monroe, was released from the city jail yesterday afternoon on a $115 bond. Police booked him at 2:35 p.m. yesterday for being habitually drunk.

Natchez Aldermen To Reconsider Bond Issue

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 27. —(AP)—Under threat of legal action, the Natchez board of aldermen will reconsider Tuesday an agreement it has already signed with three bond houses for a sewerage and water bond issue survey.

Walter D. Coleman, attorney for several unidentified citizens, has threatened to go into court unless the board rescinds the agreement with Scharff and Jones, New Orleans, and John Nuveen and company and White, Hattier and Sanford, both of Chicago.

Coleman contends the Aldermen agreed to make an "unauthorized expenditure" of approximately $93,750 as a fee for a survey to determine whether it would be feasible to issue the bonds.

The issue is now estimated at $2,500,000. Scharff and Jones and their associates would receive three and three-fourths per cent of the sale value of the bonds under the terms of the agreement executed last Tuesday.

Coleman contends he can furnish equally reputable bond houses which will perform the same services for a flat fee of $10,000. He has promised to produce an offer at Tuesday's meeting of the board of aldermen.

Columbia Attorney To Seek Miss. Governorship

COLUMBIA, Miss., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Kelly Hammond, a local attorney, today became the first announced candidate for the Democratic nomination as governor in the 1951 primary.

He announced a seven point program which included:

Abolition of the state prohibition law, separation of the offices of sheriff and tax collector, conservation of the state's natural gas resources for use within the state were for disabled veterans, a $100,000,000 rural road system as a veterans memorial, an 11 month school term with teachers salaries adjusted accordingly, modernization of school facilities, and preservation of the state's and the south's ideals and institutions.

Hammond, who said he campaigned for the late U. S. Senator Theo Bilbo and former Governors Paul B. Johnson and Hugh White, termed himself a "common man."

"I can look at rabbit's track and tell how much gravy he'll make," he declared. "After I am elected governor the common people will be welcomed in my office at any time."

He said he had always been an ardent dry but "in the face of facts," would abandon that stand. He estimated the state could collect $15,000,000 yearly from a legalized liquor trade.

Mexicans Legally At Work In Texas Valley

McALLEN, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The first group of Mexican braceros (laborers) are legally at work in Texas today for the first time in several years.

Migratory farm labor started passing through this Rio Grande valley town near the border yesterday — bound for farms and ranches in Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri.

G. E. McKamey was the first Texan allowed to contract for bracero help since Mexico blacklisted the state, claiming her citizens were victims of discrimination. A new agreement between the United States and Mexico took Texas off the Mexican blacklist. He sent 60 to his farm.

McKamey's contract with the Mexican government makes the braceros legal residents of Texas for the first time since they slipped across the Rio Grande.

When their contracts expire they'll have to go back to Mexico.

More than 3,000 Mexicans were waiting to be processed for work by the U. S. employment service.

Employers assume the responsibility of the bracero in case he becomes ill or is hurt. They must make other welfare guarantees.

Moscow Church Dignitary Says Pope 'Anti-Christian'

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A dignitary of the Russian Orthodox Church says Pope Pius XII is "anti-Christian," "the agent of American imperialism," and "an ardent enemy of the U. S. S. R."

Metropolitan Nikolai told Russia's all-union conference of peace proponents yesterday that the Vatican's "true face" was shown in the "un-Christian" decree excommunicating Communists.

Nikolai, metropolitan of Krutitsky and Kolomna, told the conference the Russian Orthodox Church is not persecuted and stands strongly behind the Soviet government.

The peace conference is similar to those held earlier in New York, Paris and Prague.

Negro Held In Parish Jail As Burglary Suspect

A Monroe Negro was in the parish prison last night booked as a "burglary suspect."

Monroe police booked Eli Brown, 31, Negro of 3708 White street, Booker T. Washington Addition, at 9:42 a.m. yesterday.

He was taken into custody by Detective Capt. Hugh Tolbert at this residence, police records showed.

Police Chief H. T. Ward said Brown was being held for investigation in connection with the Sunshine Clean-

Cupid Cuts Wide Swath Through Boarding House

By Oland Silk

"Romance in a Boarding House" is a theme which has been worked over in various forms in Hollywood and elsewhere for many years, but there's a counterpart in Monroe which could furnish background material which would match the best of 'em. It's the Bridge's home on North Third street, where apparently love's in bloom the year 'round.

This aged reminiscence of colonialism whose appearance goes with mint juleps and fine old southern gentlemen, has in the past eight and a half years turned out more marriages than a Nevada J. P. No marriage bureau or Lonely Hearts Club, it nevertheless has a record of 175 marriages since April 1, 1933.

The most amazing thing about the marriages and people with old-fashioned ideas about marriage is, to wit: believing in marrying only once and for good—please take note. Out of the 175 couples who have met there and proposed and accepted or whatever it is that people in love do, there has been only one divorce.

You are probably nodding your head and saying that out of darkness a little ray of light comes through. What with statistics computed by sociologists showing these days that so many wedlocks aren't so well locked, it justifies a good nodding of the head and the quoting of a much used saying.

But marriage is not the specialty at Bridges Home. It is a boarding home with a sign of "Extra Meals and Special Sunday Dinners" out in front. It could be any place where boarders are taken in.

The old home was built in 1902 by the former owner, A. D. Bernhardt. Just like the present home is not intended to be a matrimonial bureau, neither was it intended to be a boarding home back then. It was a private home until 1933. Mr. and Mrs. Bridges took over then and have been taking in boarders ever since.

The clientele for the most part are young adults with whom, Mrs Bridges says, she was not too successful at first. She attributes her financial ability at making a pleasant home for them to Mrs. Eugenia Flournoy.

Mrs. Flournoy in the early day was a rather elderly cupid who merely had fun with young people. She helped create a better atmosphere and Mrs. Bridges says that "whatever success I've had with young people I owe to her."

In the interim of eight years people have come and gone there from 48 states and Mr. Bridges has Christmas cards from people in 15 foreign countries. He said that he even had one from Africa.

One of the more unusual stories that the old home harbors is the one about the "Marrying Room." During a period of six months seven men who stayed in a certain room were married. And there were three married in one week. The Bridges said that interest in that room was quite prevalent among the more altar-minded.

This reporter is not prepared to answer complaints of anyone who likes the above advice and finds that it isn't necessarily sound. A report of past occurrences is all that is intended.

But I've become so interested I hope to move in next week myself.

Amateur Magician Carries Fun With Him

By Bert Hatten
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Ever find yourself dangling at the end of a trickster's line of foolery?

If so, maybe you are one of the many persons who have fallen victim to C. E. Enete, Jr., an accomplished non-professional West Monroe magician whose innumerable victims never forget his slight of hand, ventriloquism, or jokes.

Enete, a life-time enthusiast of tricks, leaves a path of laughter, blushing, and sometimes hurt feelings behind him. He just can't resist an opportunity to lure some innocent victim into his web.

The most exciting scene to arise from his trickery probably occurred on Monroe's DeSiard street. Reactions and contributions to the scene were: The accumulation of a crowd numbering up in the hundreds; summoning of a police squad; and causing a high city official to threaten the rear of an automobile with a fire axe.

The turmoil started when this teaser walked up to the rear of an automobile, bent over and yelled "What do you want?" Answering himself by ventriloquism (throwing his voice), an enraged plea seemed to come from the automobile's trunk, saying "Help, help, let me out, I'm smothering, help help."

Consequently curious pedestrians began to collect. As the onlookers grew in number, he repeated the distress calls, still seemingly coming from the rear of the car. The spellbound crowd grew. Someone exclaimed: "Get that trunk open! See who's in there before he dies!"

By that time a city official had happened along and took the apparent catastrophe for the real thing. He immediately dashed to a near-by store and later returned with a fire axe. "Move back," he commanded the breathless gazers.

Enete realized that now was the time to give himself up to the axe wielder or else prepare to pay damages to the unknown car owner. So he nudged the official, motioned to him, and eased him out of the uproar to explain that no one was really in the trunk, but instead he had been creating the excitement as a joke. After the official learned of the hoax, he returned the axe to its owner without much comment.

Mopping his brow, the imitator returned to the spotlight and renewed the faked cries for help. The excitement had enticed someone to call the police, who arrived and started an investigation.

Again the ventriloquist was forced to confidentially reveal his escapade. After watching for a while, in the know, the officers departed.

The next intrusion, however, was fatal to the scene. A lad who lived near Enete in West Monroe came by and revealed to the crowd, "this guy's a magician. Nobody's in that trunk."

The reluctant spectators were not thoroughly convinced, however, until Enete clinched the boy's statement with his confession that he had faked the entire scene.

That's just one of many capers staged by this man. He is an expert at dozens of major tricks and knows hundreds of minor ones.

He learned most of them early in life, Enete recalls, but many have grown to perfection with practice during his life time.

Numerous pranks were learned from an uncle who has been in missionary work in Brazil since the early 20's. "There's a magician for you," according to our local teaser.

While in high school, during the infancy of motion pictures, "Snooks," Enete's nickname, was offered a job in sound effects in Hollywood. However, his parents deemed his education more valuable and the Hollywood offer was declined.

His talent has remained strictly on a non-professional basis and practiced mainly between shifts at the Commercial Solvents plant in Sterlington.

Though his favorite victims are those nabbed unsuspectingly, he has been quite successful in performing for Scouts and church groups. In fact, he has more invitations to perform than he has time to accept. You see, Enete is also a family man.

He is the father of two children, both under ten years of age, who naturally require time.

And too, his wife, Lulu, thinks "Snooks shouldn't always go around fooling people." I'm afraid he might make somebody mad and cause trouble," she laments. "But," she recalled, "as he says, he has a riot of fun."

SHREVEPORT GIRLS TOP POLITICIANS

Sweep Party Chairmanships In Pelican Girls' State Election

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Shreveport girls won the top political jobs in Pelican Girls' State, election returns showed today.

They swept the party chairmanships. Ann Oden and Shirley Welsh tied to become co-chairmen of the Nationalist party, while Madeline Steger won the election as chairman of the Federalist party.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The legislature of Pelican Girls' State organized today, voting the presiding honors to Monroe and Shreveport girls.

Dorothy Willard of Monroe was named speaker of the house and Mary Elizabeth Hendrick of Shreveport president pro-tem of the senate.

The teen-age citizens begin nominating candidates tomorrow for the election of a governor and other state officials next week.

St. Paul Has Largest Wedding In History

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Minnesota's centennial couple, Gene Schmitt, and Marie Ruzichka, were married today in one of the biggest and most colorful ceremonies in St. Paul history.

More than 500 persons jammed St. James Catholic Church to see the highly publicized wedding, and an estimated 5,000 others crowded streets in all directions to try to catch a glimpse of the couple.

The couple rode to and from the ceremony in a horse drawn enclosed Brougham. They had planned to ride in a surrey with fringe on top, but the surrey was used to transport flower girls attired in old-time costumes.

From eight to ten policemen were on hand to direct the crowds which lined the streets from curb to curb, long before the wedding began at 9 a. m.

The ceremony and procession, recorded by newspaper, radio and television representatives, was the culmination of three years of planning. The couple decided in 1946 to marry during the Minnesota centennial celebration.

All members of the wedding party wore "centennial costumes" and all rode in horse drawn carriages.

Schmitt is employed as a wirephoto operator in the St. Paul office of the Associated Press.

The Schmitts, both 27, came to public attention through their quest for a surrey. The St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press published appeals. Several vehicles were offered. Hundreds of citizens telephoned best wishes. The old fashioned wedding idea caught on. The papers dubbed Schmitt and his bride the centennial couple. The official centennial committee acquiesced.

Charles G. Dawes Has 84th Birthday Yesterday

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — (AP) — Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former vice-president of the United States— and the man who made the phrase "Hell n' Maria" famous—is 84 years old today.

The blunt-speaking soldier, financier, and public official ran true to form. He refused, as usual, to give a birthday interview.

"I just don't want to be interviewed," he said over the telephone.

Then, with a loud chuckle, and in an apparent reference to his hardy condition at an advanced age, he added: "I guess you'll just have to shoot me."

Then he hung up.

Then he hung up.

It was normal procedure for Dawes, now chairman of the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

In 1945, when he reached the four score mark, he said "Birthdays are nothing to make a flub-dub about."

Dawes keeps daily office hours at the bank, and appears occasionally at public functions.

He is perhaps best known to the public for his famous expletive "Hell n' Maria," his underslung pipe, and his refusal to wear knee breeches while ambassador at the court of St. James.

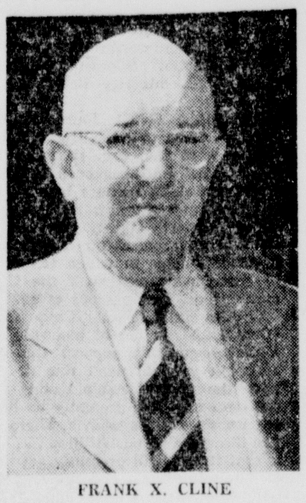
Dawes, a Republican, was vice-president from 1925 to 1929 during the Coolidge administration. He was author of the Dawes plan for settling reparations after World War One.

One Of A Series

Know Your Officials

By James V. Mathis
(Of the Morning World Staff)

"You know, people laugh at me when I say I came from a family of 16, but it's true. There were eleven boys and five girls and I was the eleventh child. There's still a lot of Clines in Georgia."



FRANK X. CLINE

It was Frank Xavier Cline, Monroe's commissioner of finance and utilities, who was talking. He had turned up at the office Friday afternoon with a 102 degree temperature, the results of a week's vacation back in Georgia and Florida with members of his now well-scattered family.

Cline was born on June 1, 1891, the son of a prosperous Georgia merchant, Peter J. Cline, in the town of Milledgeville, Ga. He was reared in the large family home, a colonial type structure, once the home of Georgia's governors when Milledgeville was the state capital. His father came into the town shortly after the Civil War to become one of its leading citizens and mayor for many years. He started the first water system and electrical plant in the city and served on the board of the city bank and two colleges.

Early Years

With his early education behind him, young Frank Cline was sent to the Georgia Military College in his home town to round out his formal schooling. The military tricks he learned here were to be put to use in a few years.

Out of college, Cline turned for employment to the Elberton Oil Mills, Elberton, Ga. He resigned to enter the United States army when the nation entered the first world war.

Serving in France with the 31st division as a sergeant, Cline picked up valuable knowledge of the ways of men under pressure. He learned also the smattering of French and how to get out of the usual escapades. Today he can still reminisce with the best over his days in France.

He returned to Milledgeville after the armistice, but the oil mill looked too tame. He went instead into the booming livestock business, selling, in his words, "a world of army surplus horses and mules."

Married

When the repression struck in the early 1920's Cline left the live stock trade and sought better fields, winding up in Monroe in 1922 as manager of the Motor Wheels Corporation.

Three years later on October 24, 1925, Cline married Miss Josephine LaBaum, of Monroe. They have one son, Frank X., Jr., a student in his third year of the L. S. U. School of Medicine in New Orleans.

Cline changed the tenor of his life in late 1926 when he left a business career behind and moved into the Ouachita parish sheriff's department, as deputy to Sheriff Milton Coverdale, brother-in-law of his wife.

He served 22 years in the sheriff's office, becoming an expert criminal deputy and acquiring a thorough knowledge of parish politics. Cline served as unofficial chief deputy for many years, and in the last term of Coverdale, took on a great many responsibilities of the office. He resigned in April, 1948, to open his campaign for commission.

The Man

No definite label can be placed on Cline's public personality. His is a mixture of deft political moves and the blunt force of a bulldozer. He knows what he wants and moves with surprising swiftness to complete a program.

Cline's stocky build hides a surprising physical strength, built by years of handling reluctant and sometimes dangerous criminals. His brown eyes laugh from behind his glasses and he has an amazing store of jokes.

Unless an avid interest in football games can be called a hobby Cline says he doesn't possess any. He makes every football game, regardless of weather. The kind of fan he is can best be told in his own words: "When that man with the ball starts running," he says, "if my wife isn't off the seat she will be pushed off. I really help that runner!"

Although Cline has owned and operated several farms he isn't in the business right now. About the only connection he has with farming is his turkey sideline, for personal and friends' use only. He raises prize turkeys, fattening them off at his home at 1505 Forsythe on northside Monroe.

Cline belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, and the Forty and Eight, the legions' fun organization. He is on the board of directors of the Louisiana Public Service Association.

Tough Spot

Cline inherited one of the toughest spots on the city administration with his election to the finance and utilities post.

Plagued by old and insufficient equipment prior to the war the situation regarding lights, water, buses and sewerage disposal was desperate in 1948. Expansion hadn't helped any.

Finances in the city were at a low ebb, with heavy losses showing up in many departments.

Working in cooperation with streets and Parks Commissioner Johnny Simmons and Mayor George O. Breece, Cline has moved to improve and better conditions. A major bond issue for improvement and expansion has been approved by property voters. Fares on the buses have been hiked and new buses brought in when available at factories. Sewerage, one of Monroe's biggest problems, has been under attack and present plans may solve a greater portion of the "new city" problems.

"We work in complete accord here in the city hall," Cline said. "Every time we move on a problem it has been thought out and discussed by all three members of the council. Only when all are satisfied do we step out."

Cline answers in the emphatic affirmative when asked if he plans to run again for the finance post.

"Sure, I'm going to run!" he says. "You can't do the kind of job I want to do in four years."

So you can count on Cline to be around.

UNION VETERANS AT ENCAMPMENT

Half Dozen Of Surviving 16 Members Expected At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Indianapolis, scene of the first national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic 82 years ago, today rolled out the welcome mat for the last gathering of union veterans.

A half dozen of the surviving 16 members of G. A. R. are expected for the encampment, which begins officially Sunday. Five affiliated groups with a membership of about 2,500 also are to meet Sunday through Wednesday.

Two of the Civil War veterans are coming by air. One of them, Charley Chappel, 102, of Long Beach, Calif., senior vice-commander, says he'll be "proud to be the last commander." The second is James A. Hard, 103, Rochester, N. Y.

Hard has said he favors another encampment next year, but indicated he would not push the matter. The G. A. R. last year amended its rules and regulations to make the 1949 meeting at Indianapolis the last.

Theodore Penland, 100, of Portland, Ore., national commander-in-chief, is expected to arrive by special train later today. Albert Woolson, 102, Duluth, Minn., also is due to arrive by train this afternoon.

For Joseph Clovese, 105, Pontiac, Mich., the last encampment will be his first. Clovese, is the only surviving Negro member; he will arrive tomorrow by train.

Robert Barrett, 102, Princeton, Ky., is coming by automobile. Clovese, Hard, Barrett and Chappel are expected Sunday.

A special hospital room has been set up in a hotel at which the centenarians will stay. Described as a "precautionary the facilities are provided by Veterans Administration, officially responsible for the health of the aged Civil War soldiers.

Memorial services Sunday afternoon will be the first session. The U. S. marine band will play a concert Sunday night. Special ceremonies will be held Monday opening the sale of the G. A. R. commemorative stamp.

On Tuesday the veterans will be permitted to rest. They will hold their last business session Wednesday. A "twilight parade" and a final campfire Wednesday night will conclude the encampment.

'Operation Snoopy' Under Full Tilt; May End Soon

By George Bradley

OSCEOLA, Wis., Aug. 27.-(AP)-Aided by a crowd of barnyard kibitzers, "Operation Snoopy" was under way full tilt late today.

Everett Lampman, owner of the recalcitrant heifer at the bottom of a 12 foot silo pit, said he did not expect to retrieve the animal until early tonight at least.

The operation was hindered at its scheduled start this morning by mechanical difficulty and a shortage of labor.

Snoopy, the pet of 13 year old Cherine Lampman, appeared anxious to leave the prison into which she dove 72 hours ago through a 20 by 30 inch opening.

Cheriene confided that she too will be glad when Snoopy is free. For most of the girl's waking hours are now taken up climbing down a ladder into the pit with pails of water for the imprisoned heifer.

The silo must be filled with at least 15 hayrack loads of chopped corn before Snoopy reaches the ground level entrance to her circular cell.

The blower which shoots the chopped corn into the silo in showers failed to function properly this morning and the fan had to be replaced.

The labor shortage came because other farmers in the area are engaged with their own harvest.

Lampman, however, enlisted the aid of some of the heavier "sidewalk superintendents" in his barnyard to tramp down the loose corn as it was blown into the pit. He said he believed the level would be brought to the narrow entry by 8 p. m. tonight.

Asked if he anticipated any difficulty in getting Snoopy out, Lampman said "we'll worry about that when we can get to see her without using a ladder."

He said Snoopy was showing a restless attitude after 72 hours in semi-darkness and that he banked on that as a spur for her to possibly assist in her own rescue.

Snoopy was muzzled as the shower of fresh cut corn fell upen her mottled black and white sides and back. That was to keep her in form to get out of the same small hole into which she inadvertently pitched while Lampman was chasing her Wednesday.

Tuna Fishing Big Line For W. Coast Clippers

By Jack Quigg
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

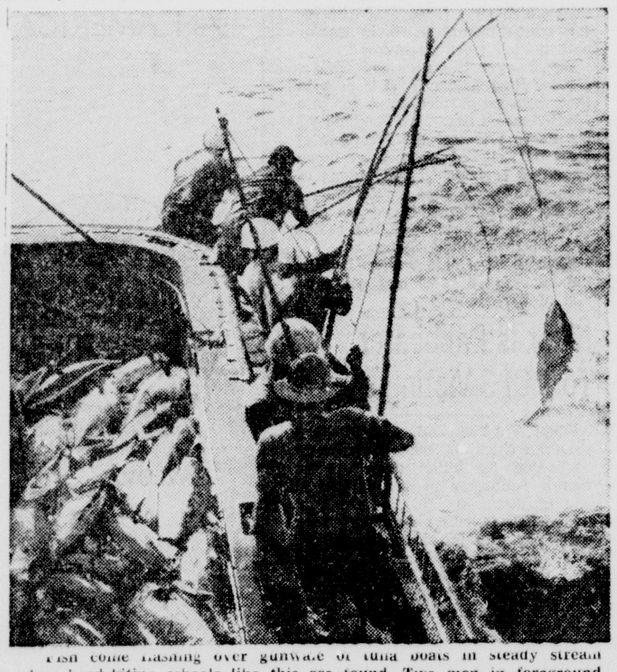
LOS ANGELES—Tuna clipper crewmen earn a thousand dollars a day—on exceptional days—just for catching fish. But not a man in Southern California's 250-boat clipper fleet thinks he's overpaid. For a tuna fisherman stakes his life each time he goes to sea.

No Isaac Walton's sport, this. It's sport like pitching hay. Or mixing cement.

When the yellowfin swarm around the boats 300 miles south of the lower tip of Baja California, fighting to snatch at the heavy steel hooks, they are dragged aboard and clubbed to death by men whose bodies are drenched with sweat, salt water—and often blood.

Tuna fishing is big business. Last year's Pacific Coast pack amounted to 6,340,000 cases. At roughly $15 a case it returned $95,100,000 to the canneries.

This figure includes albacore, which isn't fished by the clippers, plus purse seine catches and other types. But the clipper is the mainstay of the industry. Last year San Pedro and San Diego-based boats, mostly clippers, provided 4,207,134 cases of canned tuna, valued at $63,107,010, or about two thirds of the Pacific Coast total.



Fish come flashing over gunwale of tuna boats in steady stream when hard-biting schools like this are found. Two men in foreground just landed fish and rebait hook. Next team pulls tuna aboard and background pair has strike.

Boat owners currently receive $310 a ton from the canneries. The owners keep 33 per cent of the value of the ship's catch and turn over 47 per cent to the crew. A crewman making eight trips a year will earn from $10,000 to $15,000 a year for his single share.

The Sun Hawk, high boat in the fleet last year, rang up $16,000 a share. On some boats, extra good men get a share and a half or two shares. The skipper usually gets two or more, if the owners figure he's worth it.

The clippers average around 90 feet in length and are worth about $350,000. Loaded with $3500 worth of food and 32,000 gallons of diesel fuel they sail 1000 miles south of San Diego to warm waters off the coast of Mexico to do their fishing.

Big tonnage days, days when the catch is valued in tens of thousands of dollars, are hard to come by. The schools must be big and unbothered by shark or barracuda. The bait must be right and the tuna in a mood to bite.

Once in a school, no one must hook a monster and lose a pole. A fish towing a pole scares the others. The poles are eight foot lengths of tough bamboo. If the fish look small, poles are rigged with about three feet of rope and wire leaders ending in a barbless hook.

Hooks are baited with squids wrapped in feathers, or with live sardines.

For larger fish, 150 pounds or more, two, three or even four men are required. Each husky, sunburned seaman take a pole. All the leaders run to the same hook. The monsters are yanked into the scuppers by brute force.

A big school can sometimes be tapped for 100 tons, more than $30,000. With expenses deducted that's more than $1000 apiece for a ten man crew.

On big tonnage days everyone, from cook to engineer, fishes to the point of collapse, jerking the glistening delicacies from the water with frantic speed. The catch is stowed in refrigerated holds.

But for every banner day, there are 10 days of prosaic chores: searching for fish that won't bite when found; combing island bays for sardines for bait; cruising to avoid storms.

And there are the average days—five tons in the morning, three in the afternoon, two the next day, four the next.

The threat of quick death is omnipresent. The sea, the decks, even the air offer hazards.

Infesting the indigo ocean are are man-hungry sharks, razor-toothed barracuda and blanket-size manta rays that can crush a swimmer in an instant. Shark and barracuda prey on tuna schools. Hauled aboard by error, they can inflict fatal gashes before being dispatched.

There is the chubasco, a high octane Mexican version of a hurricane, which is capable of swallowing the stoutest fishing craft. Ever present are the dangers of shipwreck by fire, motor failure or shoals.

Natchez Aldermen To Reconsider Bond Issue

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 27. —(AP)—Under threat of legal action, the Natchez board of aldermen will reconsider Tuesday an agreement it has already signed with three bond houses for a sewerage and water bond issue survey.

Walter D. Coleman, attorney for several unidentified citizens, has threatened to go into court unless the board rescinds the agreement with Scharff and Jones, New Orleans, and John Nuveen and company and White, Hattier and Sanford, both of Chicago.

Coleman contends the Aldermen agreed to make an "unauthorized expenditure" of approximately $93,750 as a fee for a survey to determine whether it would be feasible to issue the bonds.

The issue is now estimated at $2,500,000. Scharff and Jones and their associates would receive three and three-fourths per cent of the sale value of the bonds under the terms of the agreement executed last Tuesday.

Coleman contends he can furnish equally reputable bond houses which will perform the same services for a flat fee of $10,000. He has promised to produce an offer at Tuesday's meeting of the board of aldermen.

Columbia Attorney To Seek Miss. Governorship

COLUMBIA, Miss., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Kelly Hammond, a local attorney, today became the first announced candidate for the Democratic nomination as governor in the 1951 primary.

He announced a seven point program which included:

Abolition of the state prohibition law, separation of the offices of sheriff and tax collector, conservation of the state's natural gas resources for use within the state were for disabled veterans, a $100,000,000 rural road system as a veterans memorial, an 11 month school term with teachers salaries adjusted accordingly, moderization of school facilities, and preservation of the state's and the south's ideals and institutions.

Hammond, who said he campaigned for the late U. S. Senator Theo Bilbo and former Governors Paul B. Johnson and Hugh White, termed himself a "common man."

"I can look at rabbit's track and tell how much gravy he'll make," he declared. "After I am elected governor the common people will be welcomed in my office at any time."

He said he had always been an ardent dry but "in the face of facts," would abandon that stand. He estimated the state could collect $15,000,000 yearly from a legalized liquor trade.

Mexicans Legally At Work In Texas Valley

McALLEN, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The first group of Mexican braceros (laborers) are legally at work in Texas today for the first time in several years.

Migratory farm labor started passing through this Rio Grande valley town near the border yesterday — bound for farms and ranches in Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri.

G. E. McKamey was the first Texan allowed to contract for bracero help since Mexico blacklisted the state, claiming her citizens were victims of discrimination. A new agreement between the United States and Mexico took Texas off the Mexican blacklist. He sent 60 to his farm.

McKamey's contract with the Mexican government makes the braceros legal residents of Texas for the first time since they slipped across the Rio Grande.

When their contracts expire they'll have to go back to Mexico.

More than 3,000 Mexicans were waiting to be processed for work by the U. S. employment service.

Employers assume the responsibility of the bracero in case he becomes ill or is hurt. They must make other welfare guarantees.

Moscow Church Dignitary Says Pope 'Anti-Christian'

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A dignitary of the Russian Orthodox Church says Pope Pius XII is "anti-Christian," "the agent of American imperialism," and "an ardent enemy of the U. S. S. R."

Metropolitan Nikolai told Russia's all-union conference of peace proponents yesterday that the Vatican's "true face" was shown in the "un-Christian" decree excommunicating Communists.

Nikolai, metropolitan of Krutitsky and Kolomna, told the conference the Russian Orthodox Church is not persecuted and stands strongly behind the Soviet government.

The peace conference is similar to those held earlier in New York, Paris and Prague.

Japanese 'Demokrassie' Popular With Women

TOKYO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The princesses of Japan are just crazy about this new "demokrassie" that arrived with the occupation.

Frees 'em to go window shopping, even ride a bicycle if they feel like it. A princess riding a bicycle in the old days would have rocked imperial court circles like a first-class earthquake.

Not now, though, under Japan's Democratic constitution which holds that a prince is no better than the next man.

Four princesses told how they like their new freedom in a round-table reported today in the September issue of the Home Journal of Japan.

They are Princesses Asako Tushimi, Naoko Kan-In, Toshiko Kaya and Yoshikori. (All are members of Japan's princely families although none is of the family of Emperor Hirohito.)

Here are some reasons they gave for doting on democracy:

They got rid of a lot of boring ceremony.

They can window shop, enter restaurants, ride streetcars and even talk with the passengers.

They can do their own marketing if they want to—and ride to market on a bicycle.

They can have a hot meal. As they put it: "Never were our meals hot because the kitchen was so far away the dishes cooled while the servants carried them down the long halls. Now we even bring pans right to the table."

Their houses no longer are cluttered with servants who always were supervising what they did. "We use to have 50 or more. Now we have six."

And on top of all these boons, they point out that a princess now can marry for love!

(All four already are married.)

Fire Alarms

Monroe firemen were kept busy yesterday extinguishing grass fires at Edgewater Gardens, on the 2000 block of DeSiard street and in Renwick Addition.

They answered the DeSiard street call at 11:15 a.m. yesterday; the one at Edgewater Gardens at 1:34 a.m., and the grass blaze in Renwick Addition at 2:51 p.m.

Cohen's Partner Is Held On Murder Suspect

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Police today arrested Harry (Happy) Meltzer, associate of Gambler Mickey Cohen, and booked him on suspicion of a New Jersey murder, Chief of Police William A. Worton announced.

Worton said Meltzer's arrest was requested by authorities at Paterson, N. J., and that detectives were scheduled to arrive late today to question him about the slaying July 10, 1948, of Charley Yanowski.

Meltzer was arrested in the lobby of a Hollywood hotel. Chief Worton said Meltzer refused to answer questions put to him by intelligence unit officers.

Another Cohen associate, Mike Howard, was arrested earlier this week and released on $5,000 bond pending a hearing on suspicion of violating a narcotics act.

Anglo-Argentine Trade Treaty Okayed By Peronites

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27. — (AP) — President Juan D. Peron's supporters guided the British-Argentine trade treaty through the chamber of deputies yesterday after a Marathon 44-hour-20 minute debate.

The vote, divided strictly on party lines, was 96 to 28. Opponents spoke against the government's entire economic policy.

The chamber, following the longest session in its history, okayed the bilateral trade pact which has been attacked by the United States as violating the spirit of free international trade.

Formal ratification by the senate is expected next week.

JAILED FOR DRUNKENNESS

Harold Coates, 40, of Loop Road, Monroe, was released from the city jail yesterday afternoon on a $115 bond. Police booked him at 2:35 p.m. yesterday for being habitually drunk.

Negro Held In Parish Jail As Burglary Suspect

A Monroe Negro was in the parish prison last night booked as a "burglary suspect."

Monroe police booked Eli Brown, 31, Negro of 3708 White street, Booker T. Washington Addition, at 9:42 a.m. yesterday.

He was taken into custody by Detective Capt. Hugh Tolbert at this residence, police records showed.

Police Chief H. T. Ward said Brown was being held for investigation in connection with the Sunshine Cleaners burglary early Sunday morning.

Cupid Cuts Wide Swath Through Boarding House

By Oland Silk

"Romance in a Boarding House" is a theme which has been worked over in various forms in Hollywood and elsewhere for many years, but there's a counterpart in Monroe which could furnish background material which would match the best of 'em. It's the Bridge's home on North Third street, where apparently love's in bloom the year 'round.

This aged reminiscence of colonialism whose appearance goes with mint juleps and fine old southern gentlemen, has in the past eight and a half years turned out more marriages than a Nevada J. P. No marriage bureau or Lonely Hearts Club, it nevertheless has a record of 175 marriages since April 1, 1933.

The most amazing thing about the marriages and people with old-fashioned ideas about marriage is, to wit: believing in marrying only once and for good—please take note. Out of the 175 couples who have met there and proposed and accepted or whatever it is that people in love do, there has been only one divorce.

You are probably nodding your head and saying that out of darkness a little ray of light comes through. What with statistics computed by sociologists showing these days that so many wedlocks aren't so well locked, it justifies a good nodding of the head and the quoting of a much used saying.

But marriage is not the specialty at Bridges Home. It is a boarding home with a sign of "Extra Meals and Special Sunday Dinners" out in front. It could be any place where boarders are taken in.

The old home was built in 1902 by the former owner, A. D. Bernhardt. Just like the present home is not intended to be a matrimonial bureau, neither was it intended to be a boarding home back then. It was a private home until 1933. Mr. and Mrs. Bridges took over then and have been taking in boarders ever since.

The clientele for the most part are young adults with whom, Mrs Bridges says, she was not too successful at first. She attributes her final ability at making a pleasant home for them to Mrs. Eugenia Flournoy.

Mrs. Flournoy in the early day was a rather elderly cupid who merely had fun with young people. She helped create a better atmosphere and Mrs. Bridges says that "whatever success I've had with young people I owe to her."

In the interim of eight years people have come and gone there from 7 states and Mr. Bridges has Christmas cards from people in 15 foreign countries. He said that he even had one from Africa.

One of the more unusual stories that the old home harbors is the one about the "Marrying Room." During a period of six months seven men who stayed in a certain room were married. And there were three married in one week. The Bridges said that interest in that room was quite prevalent among the more altar-minded.

This reporter is not prepared to answer complaints of anyone who likes the above advice and finds that it isn't necessarily sound. A report of past occurrences is all that is intended.

But I've become so interested I hope to move in next week myself.

Scenes Behind Florida Storm

A double row of palm trees bordering Lake Worth at West Palm Beach, Fla., takes the full brunt of the hurricane's fury. The powerful hurricane smashed the southeast Florida "gold coast" with 150-mile an hour winds. The raging wind unroofed houses, smashed plate glass, flattened trees and littered streets and highways. Early reports listed only one death. (AP Wirephoto).

Hurricane Briefs

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Mobile weather bureau announced late today that the hurricane had swung back inland southeast of Cedar Keys, Fla., and that all threats to the Alabama and Mississippi coasts were now past.

Weatherman William L. Tilson and his tired crew who have kept a steady two-day vigil at the weather office closed up at 3:15 p. m. (C. S. T.) and went home.

Tilson said a plane flew through the eye of the storm near Cedar Keys shortly before 3 p. m. and reported that it was headed toward Georgia at reduced speed.

Northerly winds of about 15 miles an hour were being recorded here this afternoon. The weatherman said they would minish during the night.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Gulf Coast from Apalachicola, Fla., westward can rest easy now. There's no danger the hurricane will turn this way, weather bureau offiicals here said late today.

Chief Forecaster W. R. Stevens of the New Orleans bureau, after reading the 4 p. m. (E. S. T.) Miami advisory, said the Florida storm is sailing an inland course now toward the north.

(Mobile Weatherman William L. Tilson said the Florida hurricane had swung inland southeast of Cedar Keys, Fla., on the west coast. He added that a plane which flew through the eye of the storm reported it was moving toward Georgia at reduced speed).

Meanwhile, Stevens said there was a possibility that later tonight storm warnings would be ordered down from Apalachicola to Panama City on the northwest Florida coast.

He explained that high-level northerly winds, way above the swirling hurricane winds that range upward about 50,000 feet, are helping shape the storm's more northerly course.

When hurricanse move a great distance over land, they start losing force, he added.

For the Louisiana and Mississippi coastline, he said Sunday boating and fishing now would be safe. He predicted moderate northerly winds in that region for tonight and tomorrow.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hurricane winds hit a high of 162 miles per hour at Jupiter Lighthouse, the coast guard announced today.

Commander Guernsey Curran, Jr., head of the eastern area oft the seventh coast guard district, said the lighthouse anemometer showed that figure at 7 p. m. (E. S. T.) last night just before the wind gauge failed.

He said it was a sustained reading taken 50 feet above the ground. Jupiter Light is 18 miles north of West Palm Beach.

Previous high for a sustained reading in the tropical hurricane was 150 miles per hour with unofficial velocities reported up to 155 miles per hour.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A million dollars worth of planes was strewn about West Palm Beach International Airport today in the wake of the tremendous hurricane.

A total of 37 were damaged or destroyed by giant winds which smashed two of the airport's three hangars and tossed aircraft about like autumn leaves in a gale.

Seventeen C-46 cargo planes broke loose from their moorings.

Six of them piled together and were torn and pushed into a mass of twisted metal and wires. One was blown a quarter mile across the airport and came to rest against a steel fence. Another scooted into a canal.

Twenty smaller private planes and three automobiles also were damaged.

Spectators said portions of the field looked like an airport after a bombing raid, so great was the damage.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hurricane winds handed central Florida's rich orange and grapefruit belt a million dollar blow today.

Grapefruit, heavy with juice, were torn from their stems by 75-mile-an-hour winds in Highlands, Polk and Pasco counties.

Oranges, hardier and smaller, withstood the beating better. They were damaged more than in any other storm in many years, however.

Fred Johnston, general sales manager of the Citrus Exchange, said: "The loss is going to run into millions—whether one million or several millions it's too early to say."

Later, he added: "The situation is worse than I thought earlier."

The crop is estimated at close to 100,000,000 boxes. Its normal value would be around $150,000,000.

The most severe damage seemed to be in the winter haven area of Polk county, the state's biggest citrus producing county.

In that section, Johnson said, reliable reports indicated 50 per cent of the grapefruit on the ground, 25 per cent of early oranges and 10 per cent of late oranges.

STUART, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Winds estimated at more than 160 miles an hour left a tragic path of destruction through this Florida east coast community of 5,000 souls today.

Evidence that the "renegade" hurricane struck here with more violence than at West Palm Beach was apparent after surveying damage in both cities.

Six persons were injured, none seriously. An estimated 500 persons, a majority of them Negroes, will be homeless until repairs can be made.

A concrete garage collapsed, damaging or destroying 12 vehicles. A section of roof from a store building was hurled more than two blocks. Barks was peeled off pine trees. A gasoline pump was driven through the side of a frame building.

A tour of the business district showed that not a single building escaped some damage.

Residents of the area, out of communication except for a single telephone line, said they did not know the official velocity of the wind but at Jupiter lighthouse—about 10 miles south—the velocity was clocked at 162 miles an hour before the anemometer blew away.

At least a dozen homes were roofless. Two collapsed. Most of the frame roadside stands were a tangle of splintered boards. Glass, foliage and debris made some streets impassable.

"The wind started blowing early in the afternoon and just got worse," said one merchant as he poked through his water-soaked clothing store, "if there was a lull here I don't know about it. I was here in 1928, and for my money this was a worse storm."

Damage along the 40-mile stretch between Stuart and West Palm Beach is extensive. I counted 11 beach cottages and houses which were destroyed.

More than 20 house trailers were overturned or smashed into bits.

Telephone poles are down for nearby ten solid miles between Boca Raton and Stuart, their cooper wires a tangled mass on U. S. Highway 1.

Damage at Hobe Sound, hideaway of the nation's millionaires, was reported confined to foliage and minor structural damage. A gardener for one of the large estates said he estimated two thirds of the palm trees were down but he saw no major damage on any of the estates.

Jupiter Island police refused to allow reporters and photographers on the island to survey the damage.

Two policemen, dressed for storm duty, inspect Palm Beach, Fla., after a violent hurricane swept the highways were littered with debris and fallen wires damaged show windows of a ten cent store at West south Florida coast. Plate glass windows were broken, were on many thoroughfares. (AP Wirephoto).

Patrons in background seek higher levels in George Washington Hotel at West Palm Beach, as waters blown in from Lake Worth flood lobby to depth of six inches. Thousands of residents remained in homes or sought the safety of Red Cross shelters as the winds blasted away. (AP Wirephoto).

Regional Negro School Plan To Get First Court Testing

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The 14-state agreement setting up regional schools for Negroes in the South apparently is headed for its first court test here.

Six Baltimore Negroes have filed petitions seeking to force the professional schools of University of Maryland to act on their applications for admission.

In asking the Baltimore city court to dismiss the suits, Attorney General Hall Hammond of Maryland yesterday argued that the "regional compact" arrangement gives three of them the right to attend schools of equal standards in other states at no additional expense.

Hammond said the needs of two other petitioners can be met at Maryland State College, the university's branch for Negroes at Princess Anne, Md. The sixth Negro, he declared, is eligible for a state-paid scholarship to Xavier University's school of Pharmacy at New Orleans.

The plea involving the regional compact has never before been used in court.

The issue involves a doctrine laid down by the supreme court of the United States. That body has ruled that a state must admit Negroes to its public schools or provide separate ones as good.

The regional compact idea was suggested as a plan whereby the southern states could pool their cash support to set up regional professional schools which would match standards of the state universities. The Negroes, thereby, could be kept out of the state universities.

As an example, Meharry, Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., is to be developed as a Negro dental school for the whole South. Other southern states would send all their Negro dental school applicants to Meharry, paying their transportation and the extra costs involved in attending a distant school.

The plan already has been ratified by the legislatures of Maryland, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, North and South Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee.

In Attorney General Hammond's answer to the Baltimore suits, he maintained that Donald W. Stewart and Richard Williams who had applied to Maryland's dental school could attend Meharry. The same holds true for Esther MacReady who wants to study nursing, Hammond declared.

Hammond said Hiram T. Whittle could study engineering and Lucille Williams could do graduate work in home economics at Maryland's Princess Anne branch for Negroes.

Richard Tyson was advised by the attorney general to apply for a state-paid scholarship to take up pharmacy at the Louisiana school.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

Drillers Complete Three Oil, Ten Gas Producers

Drillers in Northeast Louisiana were busy last week completing three oil and ten gas producers, abandoning five old wells and siting ten new locations.

The conservation department here listed the following activity on their weekly drilling report.

The Hunt Oil Company La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, No. 13 in 31-5-5E of the Saline Lake field, was brought in with an output of 240 barrels.

Other oil producers included:

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company F-154 in 34-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish, was brought in with a 131-barrel yield at 4,249 feet.

Drillers gauged Beck Gandy, Thornton Company's Tullos Heirs No. 3 in 26-19-1E in the Tullos-Urania field, LaSalle parish, at 20 barrels.

New gas wells were:

The Union Producing Company's: Fee 53 No. 1 in 22-19-3E, 3,904,000 cubic feet; Fee 59 No. 1 in 35-19-3E, 2,282,000 cubic feet; Fee 60 No. 1 in 15-19-1E, 6,011,000 cubic feet, and their Potts No. 2 in 33-19-3E, 2,832,000 cubic feet of gas. All were brought in in the Monroe field of Ouachita parish.

In Union Parish's Monroe field, the Interstate National completed their Fee No. 229 and 230, in 20-20-3E and 2-20-3E respectively. The Fee 229 was gauged at 805,000 cubic feet and the Fee 230 at 1,262,000 cubic feet.

The Interstate also completed their Fee 231 in 22-21-3E. It was gauged at 1,086,000 cubic feet.

In the same field, the Feazel, et al, and the Monroe Drilling Company completed their Smith No. 1 in 30-20-3E and gauged it at 243,000 cubic feet.

In 3-21-3E, the Monla Gas Company completed their Brown Estate No. 1 with a yield of 4,006,000 cubic feet. The same company's Brown Estate No. 2 was finished and an output of 297,000 cubic feet was recorded.

The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, abandoned their No. 14 in 25-5-4E of a wild cat field in LaSalle parish.

In the West Catahoula Lake field, the H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company No. F-150 was plugged and abandoned in 3-6-3E.

The Caddo Oil Company, Inc., abandoned their O'Neal No. 1 in 16-17-9E of a wild cat field in Richland parish.

The R. J. Caraway Company gave up their Duckworth Estate No 1 in 18-17-10E at 3,361 feet. It was in the Delhi field of Richland parish.

The only other well abandoned last week was the California Company's L. S. J. Unit No. 26 in 27-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Tensas parish.

New Location

Catahoula parish, wild cat field: The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, No. 16 in 27-4-5E.

LaSalle parish, Tullos-Urania field: The Airlift Oil Company's Urania Zeigen No. 5 in 18-10-2E, and the Phil Marks Company's Tullos Heirs No. 3 in 25-10-1E.

LaSalle parish, West Catahoula Lake field: The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company F-153 in 34-7-3E.

Richland parish, wild cat field: The Murphy Sun Oil Company's E. B. Johnson No. 1 in 15-17-9E.

Union parish, Monroe field: Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. G. Anderson and the Monroe Drilling Company's Love No. 2 in 3-21-3E; the Monla Gas Company's Brown Estate No. 3 in 3-21-3E; G. K. Primos Company's McKinnie No. 1 in 32-22-3E; Gus K. Primos Company's Katie C. Smith No. 1 in 6-21-3E and the Union Producing Company's Grayling No. 21 in 7-22-4E.

Domestic Oil Production Is Dependant On Winter

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Severity of the coming winter will largely determine whether domestic oil production approaches last year's peak.

Imports of foreign crude are also a factor, say state oil regulatory agencies, but major oil companies generally deny this is true.

These two angles figured prominently in the statewide hearing held by the Texas railroad commission before it ordered a daily increase of 132,268 barrels in the state's September production allowable.

Oil purchasers differed on whether the supply-and-demand situation in the next few months would warrant the September hike. There was general optimism, tempered by downright pessimism on the part of a few.

The boost means that Texas operators can produce up to 2,077,905 barrels of crude per day next month.

Louisiana and Kansas have ordered increased September allowables also.

The upward adjustment by the various state oil regulatory bodies was based on some reduction in above-ground stocks of crude and apparently improving market conditions.

E. D. Cummings, vice-president of Shell Oil Compant, Inc., was one of the witnesses at the Texas oil proration hearing who favored the additional producing day later granted by the commission.

He said that although buyers had been a little slow in building up heating fuel stocks for the coming winter, increased demand later on would necessitate Shell's increasing refinery runs. He believed the oil industry could absorb the increase in allowables at the present time and said winter demands might lead to further requests for greater allowables.

Pure Oil Company's president, L. S. Wescoat, emphasized preparedness for a possibly tough winter.

Warning the fuel oil transportaioin facilities might be inadequate if extreme cold weather created an emergency, Wescoat testiffied: "It is entirely possible the public might be penalized by failure to stock up now."

Commission Member Ernest O. Thompson commented that he had seen reports of a 45 per cent increase in the sale of fuel oil burners.

"It seems that would indicate a greater fuel oil market," he told one of the more pessimistic oil representatives.

"We hope that is true," was the reply.

Following issuance of the September oil order, Lawrence S. Reed, president of the Texas Gulf Producing Company, made this analysis:

"The allowable increase was necessary for refinerics to meet winter demands. Probable effect will be to increase stock of gasoline during the dull months.

"Independent operators need more days even now but fear of over production and a resultant crude price cut will probably defer this move for sometime."

Reed sided with independent operators and the commission in the belief that "imports are still too high for the health of the industry."

Summarizing, the Texas gulf executive said: "The increase of one day has created optimism in the minds of the independents, but the net effect could be bad insofar as price cuts go."

Despite the September increase, Texas permissive production still will be some 640,000 barrels per day lower than that of December, 1948. It was in January of this year that the commission began heavy cutbacks which continued through August.

Granting that the mild 1948-49 winter left greater stocks of oil above ground than had been anticipated, the Texas commissioners nevertheless assailed foreign oil imports.

They vigorously attacked continuing imports at last week's hearing. They insisted that the foreign crude was supplanting rather than supplementing American production. Their arguments were in line with those made by Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas when he appeared before the subcommittee of the house small business committee at Wichita, Kans.

Carlson told the subcommittee last week that "excessive imports of foreign oil already have caused much injury" to his state's economy.

"Far greater injury is threatened," he declared.

Like other oil producing states, Kansas is hurt, he said, because purchasing power is reduced, the state loses important oil tax monies, and there is increased unemployment.

"As imports displace domestic oil, we become dependent on a foreign source," Carlson continued. "World War II experience is too fresh a memory for us to be led into such a dangerous position. Yet since the war, the trend has been in this direction. This trend must be stopped. It presents a problem that reaches beyond Kansas—it is national in scope and therefore is appropriate for study by this (small business) committee and the congress."

OIL PRODUCTION IN OKLA. SLIPS

Only 87 New Completions As Compared To 97 During Previous Week

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Oklahoma oil drilling operations sank back into the summer doldrums this week, reports show.

There were but 87 new completions compared to last week's 97, according to the Tulsa World. Starts were up, however—74 in 24 counties from 64 in 26.

The week's statistics: Fifty oilers, three gas well and 34 dry holes for a daily average of oil, 5,783 barrels; of gas, 6,784,000 cubic feet. Footage totaled 317,142.

Carter county led in new locations with 10. Stephens followed with eight.

The Texas Co.'s No. 1 Watson apparently opened a new pool in southern Lincoln county, northwest of meeker. The well — SE NE NE of 9-12N-3W—tested on drill stem at 35 barrels of oil and hour from between 4,802 and 4,885 feet in the basal Pennsylvania sand.

Shell Oil Co.'s amazing Elk City field producer in Beckham county hit its sixth pay zone during recent tests. The No. 1 Oklahoma State "B"—NE SW of 8-10N-21W—flowed at a rate of 860 barrels of distillate per day. Each of four other tests made more than 1,000 barrels in 24 hours. A fifth failed to produce. The latest zone is bottomed at 10,057 feet.

A flock of wells came in over Stephens county. Outstanding were Gulf Oil Corp's No. 1 Sturm—SE SW NE of 32-1S-4W—in for 331 barrels in 24 hours from 6,245 feet; and No. 3 Sidney, at the same location, in for 205 barrels in nine hours from 6,567 feet.

Ashland Oil and Refining Co.'s No. 1 Baker—NW NE NW of 6-12N-2W in Oklahoma county's Witcher field—was acidized and flowed 207 barrels of crude in 24 hours through tubing. Casing is set at 6,286 feet.

Another productive well was discovered in the recently-found Southeast Bebee pool of Northern Pontotoc county.

W. C. McBride's No. 2 Braley estate—NW NW NE of 9-4N-5E—swabbed 133 barrels of oil in seven hours after acidizing at 1,940 feet.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Wheat: Steady; expect government flour buying Monday. Corn: Mixed; recovers from early slump. Oats: Firm; cash grain gets good demand. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A renewed burst of selling in soybeans again caused a nervous undertone in other commodities on the board of trade today. Soybeans dropped nearly 5 cents below yesterday's close before meeting enough support to stage a fair-sized rally.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent higher, September $2.00 1/8-1/4, corn was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, September $1.24 1/4-3/8, oats were 3/8-3/4 higher, September .66 3/4-7/8, rye was 1/4-3/4 lower, September $1.42, Soybeans were 2 1/4 to 3 cents lower, November $2.32 1/2-$2.32, and lard was 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.27.

Wheat, close: September 2.00 1/8 to 1/4, December 2.04 3/4 to 7/8, March 2.06, May 2.00 1/4, July 1.87 1/8.

Corn, close: September 1.24 1/4 to 3/8, December 1.15 1/2 to 5/8, March 1.18 3/8, May 1.20 1/2 to 5/8, July 1.21 1/2.

Oats, close: September .66 3/4 to 7/8, December .66 1/8 to 1/4, March .63 3/4, May .62 3/8, July .56 7/8.

Rye, close: September 1.42, December 1.45 1/2 to 3/4, May 1.49.

Soy beans, close: November 2.32 1/2 to 2.32, December 2.31 1/4 to 1/2, March 2.31 1/4, May 2.28.

Lard, close: September 12.27; October 11.85, November 10.67, December 10.92, January 10.92.

Nation's Oil Production Chalks Up Gain For Week

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The nation's crude oil producing increased again during the week ended Aug. 20, averaging 4,721,350 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

This was an 8,500-barrel gain over the previous week and the third straight increase in domestic output.

The Journal reported these states had the greatest advances:

Illinois, up 1,400 barrels to 180,300 barrels; Michigan, up 1,050 barrels to 43,850; Oklahoma, 2,950 to 379,400; Mississippi, 5,000 to 98,550; California, 900 to 899,800.

Indiana increased 500 barrels to 27,200, Kentucky gained 200 to 22,700, Florida was up 150 to 1,575 and Utah advanced 150 to 1,200.

The largest decrease in production was in Kansas, which dropped 2,250 barrels to 265,350.

Other losses included the eastern area, down 400 barrels to 58,600; Alabama, off 150 to 1,100; Louisiana, 50 to 483,000; Nebraska, 100 to 500; New Mexico, 50 to 125,075; Colorado, 300 to 65,500; Montana, 200 to 26,500, and Wyoming, 300 to 129,700.

Production was unchanged in Arkansas, 73,250 barrels and Texas, 1,838,200.

Canada's daily production for the week was listed by the Journal as 62,985 barrels, 59,985 barrels of it from Alberta providence.

The daily averages:

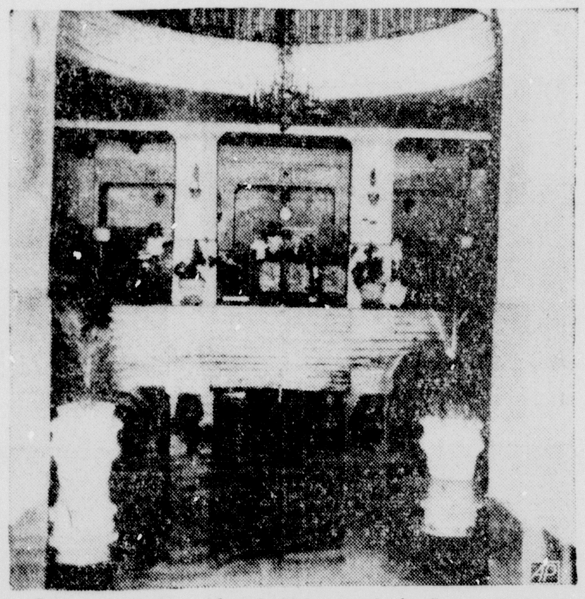
Scenes Behind Florida Storm

A double row of palm trees bordering Lake Worth at West Palm Beach, Fla., takes the full brunt of the hurricane's fury. The powerful hurricane smashed the southeast Florida "gold coast" with 150-mile an hour winds. The raging wind unroofed houses, smashed plate glass, flattened trees and littered streets and highways. Early reports listed only one death. (AP Wirephoto).

Two policemen, dressed for storm duty, inspect Palm Beach, Fla., after a violent hurricane swept the highways were littered with debris and fallen wires damaged show windows of a ten cent store at West south Florida coast. Plate glass windows were broken, were on many thoroughfares. (AP Wirephoto).



Patrons in background seek higher levels in George Washington Hotel at West Palm Beach, as waters blown in from Lake Worth flood lobby to depth of six inches. Thousands of residents remained in homes or sought the safety of Red Cross shelters as the winds blasted away. (AP Wirephoto).

Hurricane Briefs

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Mobile weather bureau announced late today that the hurricane had swung back inland southeast of Cedar Keys, Fla., and that all threats to the Alabama and Mississippi coasts were now past.

Weatherman William L. Tilson and his tired crew who have kept a steady two-day vigil at the weather office closed up at 3:15 p. m. (C. S. T.) and went home.

Tilson said a plane flew through the eye of the storm near Cedar Keys shortly before 3 p. m. and reported that it was headed toward Georgia at reduced speed.

Northerly winds of about 15 miles an hour were being recorded here this afternoon. The weatherman said they would minish during the night.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Gulf Coast from Apalachicola, Fla., westward can rest easy now. There's no danger the hurricane will turn this way, weather bureau offiicals here said late today.

Chief Forecaster W. R. Stevens of the New Orleans bureau, after reading the 4 p. m. (E. S. T.) Miami advisory, said the Florida storm is sailing an inland course now toward the north.

(Mobile Weatherman William L. Tilson said the Florida hurricane had swung inland southeast of Cedar Keys, Fla., on the west coast. He added that a plane which flew through the eye of the storm reported it was moving toward Georgia at reduced speed).

Meanwhile, Stevens said there was a possibility that later tonight storm warnings would be ordered down from Apalachicola to Panama City on the northwest Florida coast.

He explained that high-level northerly winds, way above the swirling hurricane winds that range upward about 50,000 feet, are helping shape the storm's more northerly course.

When hurricanse move a great distance over land, they start losing force, he added.

For the Louisiana and Mississippi coastline, he said Sunday boating and fishing now would be safe. He predicted moderate northerly winds in that region for tonight and tomorrow.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hurricane winds hit a high of 162 miles per hour at Jupiter Lighthouse, the coast guard announced today.

Commander Guernsey Curran, Jr., head of the eastern area oft the seventh coast guard district, said the lighthouse anemometer showed that figure at 7 p. m. (E. S. T.) last night just before the wind gauge failed.

He said it was a sustained reading taken 50 feet above the ground. Jupiter Light is 18 miles north of West Palm Beach.

Previous high for a sustained reading in the tropical hurricane was 150 miles per hour with unofficial velocities reported up to 155 miles per hour.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A million dollars worth of planes was strewn about West Palm Beach International Airport today in the wake of the tremendous hurricane.

A total of 37 were damaged or destroyed by giant winds which smashed two of the airport's three hangars and tossed aircraft about like autumn leaves in a gale.

Seventeen C-46 cargo planes broke loose from their moorings.

Six of them piled together and were torn and pushed into a mass of twisted metal and wires. One was blown a quarter mile across the airport and came to rest against a steel fence. Another scooted into a canal.

Twenty smaller private planes and three automobiles also were damaged.

Spectators said portions of the field looked like an airport after a bombing raid, so great was the damage.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hurricane winds handed central Florida's rich orange and grapefruit belt a million dollar blow today.

Grapefruit, heavy with juice, were torn from their stems by 75-mile-an-hour winds in Highlands, Polk and Pasco counties.

Oranges, hardier and smaller, withstood the beating better. They were damaged more than in any other storm in many years, however.

Fred Johnston, general sales manager of the Citrus Exchange, said:

"The loss is going to run into millions—whether one million or several millions it's too early to say."

Later, he added: "The situation is worse than I thought earlier."

The crop is estimated at close to 100,000,000 boxes. Its normal value would be around $150,000,000.

The most severe damage seemed to be in the winter haven area of Polk county, the state's biggest citrus producing county.

In that section, Johnson said, reliable reports indicated 50 per cent of the grapefruit on the ground, 25 per cent of early oranges and 10 per cent of late oranges.

STUART, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Winds estimated at more than 160 miles an hour left a tragic path of destruction through this Florida east coast community of 5,000 souls today.

Evidence that the "renegade" hurricane struck here with more violence than at West Palm Beach was apparent after surveying damage in both cities.

Six persons were injured, none seriously. An estimated 500 persons, a majority of them Negroes, will be homeless until repairs can be made.

A concrete garage collapsed, damaging or destroying 12 vehicles. A section of roof from a store building was hurled more than two blocks. Barks was peeled off pine trees. A gasoline pump was driven through the side of a frame building.

A tour of the business district showed that not a single building escaped some damage.

Residents of the area, out of communication except for a single telephone line, said they did not know the official velocity of the wind but at Jupiter lighthouse—about 10 miles south—the velocity was clocked at 162 miles an hour before the anemometer blew away.

At least a dozen homes were roofless. Two collapsed. Most of the frame roadside stands were a tangle of splintered boards. Glass, foliage and debris made some streets impassable.

"The wind started blowing early in the afternoon and just got worse," said one merchant as he poked through his water-soaked clothing store, "if there was a lull here I don't know about it. I was here in 1928, and for my money this was a worse storm."

Damage along the 40-mile stretch between Stuart and West Palm Beach is extensive. I counted 11 beach cottages and houses which were destroyed.

More than 20 house trailers were overturned or smashed into bits.

Telephone poles are down for nearby ten solid miles between Boca Raton and Stuart, their cooper wires a tangled mass on U. S. Highway 1.

Damage at Hobe Sound, hideaway of the nation's millionaires, was reported confined to foliage and minor structural damage. A gardener for one of the large estates said he estimated two thirds of the palm trees were down but he saw no major damage on any of the estates.

Juptier Island police refused to allow reporters and photographers on the island to survey the damage.

Regional Negro School Plan To Get First Court Testing

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The 14-state agreement setting up regional schools for Negroes in the South apparently is headed for its first court test here.

Six Baltimore Negroes have filed petitions seeking to force the professional schools of University of Maryland to act on their applications for admission.

In asking the Baltimore city court to dismiss the suits, Attorney General Hall Hammond of Maryland yesterday argued that the "regional compact" arrangement gives three of them the right to attend schools of equal standards in other states at no additional expense.

Hammond said the needs of two other petitioners can be met at Maryland State College, the university's branch for Negroes at Princess Anne, Md. The sixth Negro, he declared, is eligible for a state-paid scholarship to Xavier University's school of Pharmacy at New Orleans.

The plea involving the regional compact has never before been used in court.

The issue involves a doctrine laid down by the supreme court of the United States. That body has ruled that a state must admit Negroes to its public schools or provide separate ones as good.

The regional compact idea was suggested as a plan whereby the southern states could pool their cash support to set up regional professional schools which would match standards of the state universities. The Negroes, thereby, could be kept out of the state universities.

As an example, Meharry, Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., is to be developed as a Negro dental school for the whole South. Other southern states would send all their Negro dental school applicants to Meharry, paying their transportation and the extra costs involved in attending a distant school.

The plan already has been ratified by the legislatures of Maryland, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, North and South Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee.

In Attorney General Hammond's answer to the Baltimore suits, he maintained that Donald W. Stewart and Richard Williams who had applied to Maryland's dental school could attend Meharry. The same holds true for Esther MacReady who wants to study nursing, Hammond declared.

Hammond said Hiram T. Whittle could study engineering and Lucille Williams could do graduate work in home economics at Maryland's Princess Anne branch for Negroes.

Richard Tyson was advised by the attorney general to apply for a state-paid scholarship to take up pharmacy at the Louisiana school.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

Drillers Complete Three Oil, Ten Gas Producers

Drillers in Northeast Louisiana were busy last week completing three oil and ten gas producers, abandoning five old wells and siting ten new locations.

The conservation department here listed the following activity on their weekly drilling report.

The Hunt Oil Company La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, No. 13 in 31-5-5E of the Saline Lake field, was brought in with an output of 240 barrels.

Other oil producers included:

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company F-154 in 34-7-3E of the West Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish, was brought in with a 131-barrel yield at 4,249 feet.

Drillers gauged Beck Gandy, Thornton Company's Tullos Heirs No. 3 in 26-19-1E in the Tullos-Urania field, LaSalle parish, at 20 barrels.

New gas wells were:

The Union Producing Company's: Fee 53 No. 1 in 22-19-3E, 3,904,000 cubic feet; Fee 59 No. 1 in 35-19-3E, 2,282,000 cubic feet; Fee 60 No. 1 in 15-19-1E, 6,011,000 cubic feet, and their Potts No. 2 in 33-19-3E, 2,832,000 cubic feet of gas. All were brought in in the Monroe field of Ouachita parish.

In Union Parish's Monroe field, the Interstate National completed their Fee No. 229 and 230, in 20-20-3E and 2-20-3E respectively. The Fee 229 was gauged at 805,000 cubic feet and the Fee 230 at 1,262,000 cubic feet.

The Interstate also completed their Fee 231 in 22-21-3E. It was gauged at 1,086,000 cubic feet.

In the same field, the Feazel, et al, and the Monroe Drilling Company completed their Smith No. 1 in 30-20-3E and gauged it at 243,000 cubic feet.

In 3-21-3E, the Monla Gas Company completed their Brown Estate No. 1 with a yield of 4,006,000 cubic feet. The same company's Brown Estate No. 2 was finished and an output of 297,000 cubic feet was recorded.

The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, abandoned their No. 14 in 25-5-4E of a wild cat field in LaSalle parish.

In the West Catahoula Lake field, the H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company No. F-150 was plugged and abandoned in 3-6-3E.

The Caddo Oil Company, Inc., abandoned their O'Neal No. 1 in 16-17-9E of a wild cat field in Richland parish.

The R. J. Caraway Company gave up their Duckworth Estate No 1 in 18-17-10E at 3,361 feet. It was in the Delhi field of Richland parish.

The only other well abandoned last week was the California Company's L. S. J. Unit No. 26 in 27-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Tensas parish.

New Location

Catahoula parish, wild cat field: The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Delta Hardwood Lbr. Co., et al, No. 16 in 27-4-5E.

LaSalle parish, Tullos-Urania field: The Airlift Oil Company's Urania Zeigen No. 5 in 18-10-2E, and the Phil Marks Company's Tullos Heirs No. 3 in 25-10-1E.

LaSalle parish, West Catahoula Lake field: The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company F-153 in 34-7-3E.

Richland parish, wild cat field: The Murphy Sun Oil Company's E. B. Johnson No. 1 in 15-17-9E.

Union parish, Monroe field: Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. G. Anderson and the Monroe Drilling Company's Love No. 2 in 8-21-3E; the Monla Gas Company's Brown Estate No. 3 in 3-21-3E; G. K. Primos Company's McKinnie No. 1 in 32-22-3E; Gus K. Primos Company's Katie C. Smith N. 1 in 6-21-3E and the Union Producing Company's Grayling No. 21 in 7-22-4E.

STATE REPORT

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The state department of conservation in its weekly oil report today listed completion of 18 wells with combined initial daily production of 2903.75 barrels, abandonment of six tests and issuance of 62 permits for new wells.

Completions were:

Cameron parish, West Hackberry field, Stanolind Oil and Gas, No. 79 state land lease 42, S17-12S-10W, 225.88 barrels, 12/64" choke.

Domestic Oil Production Is Dependant On Winter

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Severity of the coming winter will largely determine whether domestic oil production approaches last year's peak.

Imports of foreign crude are also a factor, say state oil regulatory agencies, but major oil companies generally deny this is true.

These two angles figured prominently in the statewide hearing held by the Texas railroad commission before it ordered a daily increase of 132,268 barrels in the state's September production allowable.

Oil purchasers differed on whether the supply-and-demand situation in the next few months would warrant the September hike. There was general optimism, tempered by downright pessimism on the part of a few.

The boost means that Texas operators can produce up to 2,077,905 barrels of crude per day next month.

Louisiana and Kansas have ordered increased September allowables also.

The upward adjustment by the various state oil regulatory bodies was based on some reduction in above-ground stocks of crude and apparently improving market conditions.

E. D. Cummings, vice-president of Shell Oil Compani, Inc., was one of the witnesses at the Texas oil proration hearing who favored the additional producing day later granted by the commission.

He said that although buyers had been a little slow in building up heating fuel stocks for the coming winter, increased demand later on would necessitate Shell's increasing refinery runs. He believed the oil industry could absorb the increase in allowables at the present time and said winter demands might lead to further requests for greater allowables.

Pure Oil Company's president, L. S. Wescoat, emphasized preparedness for a possibly tough winter.

Warning the fuel oil transportatoin facilities might be inadequate if extreme cold weather created an emergency, Wescoat testiffied: "It is entirely possible the public might be penalized by failure to stock up now."

Commission Member Ernest O. Thompson commented that he had seen reports of a 45 per cent increase in the sale of fuel oil burners.

"It seems that would indicate a greater fuel oil market," he told one of the more pessimistic oil representatives.

"We hope that is true," was the reply.

Following issuance of the September oil order, Lawrence S. Reed, president of the Texas Gulf Producing Company, made this analysis:

"The allowable increase was necessary for refineries to meet winter demands. Probable effect will be to increase stock of gasoline during the dull months.

"Independent operators need more days even now but fear of over production and a resultant crude price cut will probably defer this move for sometime."

Reed sided with independent operators and the commission in the belief that "imports are still too high for the health of the industry."

Summarizing, the Texas gulf executive said: "The increase of one day has created optimism in the minds of the independents, but the net effect could be bad insofar as price cuts go."

Despite the September increase, Texas permissive production still will be some 640,000 barrels per day lower than that of December, 1948. It was in January of this year that the commission began heavy cutbacks which continued through August.

Granting that the mild 1948-49 winter left greater stocks of oil above ground than had been anticipated, the Texas commissioners nevertheless assailed foreign oil imports.

They vigorously attacked continuing imports at last week's hearing. They insisted that the foreign crude was supplanting rather than supplementing American production. Their arguments were in line with those made by Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas when he appeared before the subcommittee of the house small business committee at Wichita, Kans.

Carlson told the subcommittee last week that "excessive imports of foreign oil already have caused much injury" to his state's economy.

"Far greater injury is threatened," he declared.

Like other oil producing states, Kansas is hurt, he said, because purchasing power is reduced, the state loses important oil tax monies, and there is increased unemployment.

"As imports displace domestic oil, we become dependent on a foreign source," Carlson continued. "World War II experience is too fresh a memory for us to be led into such a dangerous position. Yet since the war, the trend has been in this direction. This trend must be stopped. It presents a problem that reaches beyond Kansas—it is national in scope and therefore is appropriate for study by this (small business) committee and the congress."

OIL PRODUCTION IN OKLA. SLIPS

Only 87 New Completions As Compared To 97 During Previous Week

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Oklahoma oil drilling operations sank back into the summer doldrums this week, reports show.

There were but 87 new completions compared to last week's 97, according to the Tulsa World. Starts were up, however—74 in 24 counties from 64 in 26.

The week's statistics: Fifty oilers, three gas well and 34 dry holes for a daily average of oil, 5,783 barrels; of gas, 6,784,000 cubic feet. Footage totaled 317,142.

Carter county led in new locations with 10. Stephens followed with eight.

The Texas Co.'s No. 1 Watson apparently opened a new pool in southern Lincoln county, northwest of meeker. The well — SE NE NE of 9-12N-3W—tested on drill stem at 35 barrels of oil and hour from between 4,802 and 4,885 feet in the basal Pennsylvania sand.

Shell Oil Co.'s amazing Elk City field producer in Beckham county hit its sixth pay zone during recent tests. The No. 1 Oklahoma State "B"—NE SW of 8-10N-21W—flowed at a rate of 860 barrels of distillate per day. Each of four other tests made more than 1,000 barrels in 24 hours. A fifth failed to produce. The latest zone is bottomed at 10,057 feet.

A flock of wells came in over Stephens county. Outstanding were Gulf Oil Corp's No. 1 Sturm—SE SW NE of 32-1S-4W—in for 331 barrels in 24 hours from 6,245 feet; and No. 3 Sidney, at the same location, in for 205 barrels in nine hours from 6,567 feet.

Ashland Oil and Refining Co.'s No. 1 Baker—NW NE NW of 6-12N-2W in Oklahoma county's Witcher field—was acidized and flowed 207 barrels of crude in 24 hours through tubing. Casing is set at 6,286 feet.

Another productive well was discovered in the recently-found Southeast Bebee pool of Northern Pontotoc county.

W. C. McBride's No. 2 Braley estate—NW NW NE of 9-4N-5E—swabbed 133 barrels of oil in seven hours after acidizing at 1,940 feet.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A renewed burst of selling in soybeans again caused a nervous undertone in other commodities on the board of trade today. Soybeans dropped nearly 5 cents below yesterday's close before meeting enough support to stage a fair-sized rally.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent higher, September $2.00 1/8-1/4, corn was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, September $1.24 1/4-3/8, oats were 3/8-3/4 higher, September .66 3/4-7/8, rye was 1/4-3/4 lower, September $1.42, Soybeans were 2 1/4 to 3 cents lower, November $2.32 1/2-$2.32, and lard was 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.27.

Wheat, close: September 2.00 1/8 to 1/4, December 2.04 3/4 to 7/8, March 2.06, May 2.00 1/4, July 1.87 1/8.

Corn, close: September 1.24 1/4 to 3/8, December 1.15 1/2 to 5/8, March 1.18 3/8, May 1.20 1/2 to 5/8, July 1.21 1/2.

Oats, close: September .66 3/4 to 7/8, December .66 1/8 to 1/4, March .63 3/4, May .62 3/8, July .56 7/8.

Rye, close: September 1.42, December 1.45 1/2 to 3/4, May 1.49.

Soy beans, close: November 2.32 1/2 to 2.32, December 2.31 1/4 to 1/2, March 2.31 1/4, May 2.28.

Lard, close: September 12.27, October 11.85, November 10.67, December 10.92, January 10.92.

Inacessible spaces in walls and other areas are insulated quickly by blowing mineral wool in nodulated form through a hose under pneumatic pressure.

Nation's Oil Production Chalks Up Gain For Week

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The nation's crude oil producing increased again during the week ended Aug. 20, averaging 4,721,350 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

This was an 8,500-barrel gain over the previous week and the third straight increase in domestic output.

The Journal reported these states had the greatest advances:

Illinois, up 1,400 barrels to 180,300 barrels; Michigan, up 1,050 barrels to 42,850; Oklahoma, 2,950 to 379,400; Mississippi, 5,000 to 98,550; California, 900 to 899,800.

Indiana increased 500 barrels to 27,200, Kentucky gained 200 to 22,700, Florida was up 150 to 1,575 and Utah advanced 150 to 1,200.

The largest decrease in production was in Kansas, which dropped 2,250 barrels to 265,350.

Other losses included the eastern area, down 400 barrels to 58,600; Alabama, off 150 to 1,100; Louisiana, 50 to 483,000; Nebraska, 100 to 500; New Mexico, 50 to 125,075; Colorado, 300 to 65,500; Montana, 200 to 26,500, and Wyoming, 300 to 129,700.

Production was unchanged in Arkansas, 73,250 barrels and Texas, 1,838,200.

Canada's daily production for the week was listed by the Journal as 62,985 barrels, 59,985 barrels of it from Alberta providence.

The daily averages:

Molloy, Bonner Fight To Finals

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Tom Molloy of New Orleans and T. V. Bonner of Jackson, Miss, today scrapped their way into the finals of the Alabama Open Tennis tournament.

The third-seeded Molloy eliminated Joe Davis, No. 2 Nashville entry, 6-4, 6-4 in semi-final play. Bonner, ranked sixth, whipped Norman Copeland, fifth-seeded, Daytona Beach, Fla., 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Molloy and Bonner will tangle at 3 p. m. (C. S. T.) tomorrow in Men's Singles finals.

Kallio Lines Up Double Main Event

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

By Joe Ives
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—One of the boxing world's truly great champions, Bantamweight King Manuel Ortiz, says he's had about enough.

The 33-year-old Mexican-American says he'll probably defend his title once or twice more—in Europe. Although nothing is set yet, Manuel thinks he'll meet Ireland's Danny O'Sullivan in London and someone else in France or Italy.

His last stateside fight in the United States comes off Monday. He faces Washington's Jimmy Cooper in a ten-round nontitle bout.

Manuel heads for Europe September 3. He plans to fight a few exhibition bouts, defend his crown and then hang up his gloves.

Unlike most fighters who wind up punchy and penniless, the fiery Californian has a home to return to. He has a wife, three daughters, a 100-acre farm, six houses, a billiard parlor and a bar in El Centro, Calif.

"I think I'll be kept busy at home said Ortiz after a workout yesterday. "I think I've found the secret of this game. The secret is knowing how to spend and save your money and knowing when to quit.

"I don't want to go on fighting forever. After the European tour is as good a time as any to quit."

If Monday's fight with Cooper is Manuel's American farewell, the fight game is going to lose one of its most brilliant performers in recent years.

Manuel has really been a fighting champ. Since winning the crown from Lou Salica in 1942, he's defended it nineteen times. Only Joe Louis ever laid a boxing title at stake more often.

Ortiz even lost his title once. That was in 1947, when he dropped a decision to Harold Dade. But he got the diadem back eight weeks later on a return match.

Manuel Ortiz has been a world champ in the true sense of the word. He's defended his crown in more cities and countries than any other puncher in the business today.

He's fought a title bout in the far east—at Manila; in South America—at Mexico City; in North America—at Chicago and Los Angeles; in the Pacific—at Honolulu.

A last title fight in Europe would be a fitting finish to a career like that one.

The memory of Colorado's great grid star Whizzer White still lingers on at Yale.

In fact, his memories have a cash value at the New Haven school. They are more valuable to some people than Herbert Hoover's, Winston Churchill's or Franklin Roosevelt's.

When White—probably the only Rhodes scholar in history to play pro football — completed post-grad courses there he left behind his notes.

Those same course notes are eagerly sought today. It's said they're so informative they practically guarantee a 90-average for any course concerned. They're sold by the lucky owners from year to year.

The New York A. C. basketballers will make some kind of cage history this winter. They'll be the first independent team to play a full college schedule.

The club hopes to wrestle the independent crown from the Phillips Cilers. So far, they've lined up Ernie Vanderweghe, of Colgate; Charley Bollinger, of Holy Cross; Jim and Bob Gale, of Cornell; and Ed Leede, of Dartmouth.

They're also praying Tony Lavelli Doesn't turn pro. If he doesn't, he promised the A. C. quint he'd play with them.

The foes the club will meet include the east's best. Holy Cross and Villanova head the list.

Mel Allen, the New York sportcaster, will be heard in a new sports series—"Today in Sports"—starting Monday, September 5, via MBS. . . . Washington's footballing Redskins will have their games aired and televised to the largest audience in pro history. The fans will be able to pick up the Skins from Boston to New Orleans.

Four Top Wrestlers Set For Tuesday Night At Local Arena

Wrestling Promoter Gus Kallio has lined up a double main event for Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock at the local wrestling arena.

Featured on the card will be "Wild Bill" Steddum against Bob Corby and Balk Estes against Rex Mobley. Both events will have an hour and fifteen minute time limit, Kallio said.

In the battle between Steddum and Corby, Monroe wrestling fans will see two of a kind tangle in the ring. In last Tuesday night's affair Corby displayed every rough trick that could be pulled against Balk Estes and George Curtis. With Steddum he will probably meet his match at the rough stuff. Steddum has demonstrated his brand of toughness several times here three months ago and drew down the ire of the fans.

The Estes-Mobley affair is a continuation of a battle last Tuesday which ended with Mobley going on a rampage and tossing Estes out of the ring after feeling his own blood coursing down his cheek. Estes won the tag team match when two referees were tossed out along with him. Their efforts balked to get back in the ring the two officials declared Estes the winner.

After Tuesday night's show Kallio asked Estes if he had tried to scalp his opponent in the manner of his Oklahoma Indian fore-fathers. Estes denied this but promised to show Mobley a special kind of Oklahoma wrestling next Tuesday night.

Mobley accepted his challenge and told Kallio that Texans had a special type of handling for any Indiana or Oklahoma tricks that Estes might pull out of the bag.

Steddum returns to Monroe from the Texas circuit, where he has been holding forth in Dallas and Fort Worth. He proved a big drawing card for Promoter Kallio when he worked Monroe several months ago and many fans have been demanding his return.

The four main event wrestlers will toss a coin to decide which two pair off in the first event, Kallio announced. Al Getz, who has turned in satisfactory referee work for several weeks, will handle the refereeing.

SPORTS MIRROR

Today a year ago—Boston increased its American League lead to one game over Cleveland by defeating Chicago, 10-5.

Three years ago—Joey Maxim won a surprising 10-round decision over Jersey Joe Walcott.

Five years ago—Pittsburgh slammed St. Louis, 14-6, and cut the Cardinals' National League lead to 18 games.

Ten years ago—Adrian Quist beat Drago Mitic, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, to clinch Davis cup interzone tennis final for Australia over Yugoslavia.

First amateur ever to place first or second in the U. S. Open golf championship was Walter J. Travis, who tied for second in 1902.

Grammar School Football Starts

Grammar school football is now on tap for the Monroe Recreation department, Jack Hesketh, director, announced yesterday.

Hesketh said definite plans had not yet been worked out with principals but that weights would be as follows: Sixth-100, seventh-115, eighth-125.

Grammar school football has developed within the last three years, Hesketh said. The first year only four teams entered competition, last year 12 crowded the fields. At least 16 teams are expected this year with the addition of the eighth grade league.

Coaches are needed for some of the schools, Hesketh said. Persons having an hour to spend in the afternoon with boys is urged to get in touch with Hesketh. Spare equipment is also needed.

No boy has yet been injured in the program, Hesketh added, and all precautions are taken to see that no injuries do result. Shoulder pads and helmets are required of all players.

Ken Heintzelman, star Phillie southpaw, won his first big league start hurling a six-hitter for Pittsburgh in 1937.

Ward Forsakes Trophies; Looking For Loot On Links

By Bill Johnston
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

SPOKANE, Wash.—Marvin H. (Bud) Ward has 45 golf trophies and medals. Now he is going after some cash.

The two-time national amateur champion decided to cash in his chip shots and took a job as professional at Great Falls, Mont.

"You can't eat medals," he says.

He will have the prettiest of them made into a bracelet for his wife. He takes a more personal interest in the first $75 check he got as a professional for placing in a recent open tournament.

"I felt like framing the thing," he says.

For years now Bud has been collecting "low amateur" medals in tournaments and watching pros he defeated divide the dividends.

In 1939, for example, Ward scored 285 in the national open in Philadelphia. It was the lowest score ever fired by an amateur in a national open, and just one stoke behind Byron Nelson, Craig Wood and Denny Shute who tied for first.

Ward was a member of the U. S. Kalker cup team in Scotland in 1938 when he shot a 67 to break Bobby Jones' course record at St. Andrews, and again in 1947.

He won the national amateur title in 1939 and 1941 and the western amateur in 1940, 1941 and 1947. He wanted to turn pro in 1941, but the war came along.

"Those four years in the service might have cost me around $25,000 apiece — provided I had continued playing as well as before I signed up," he said. "But I don't feel badly about it—not when fellows like Joe DiMaggio were missing out on $50,000 or more a year."

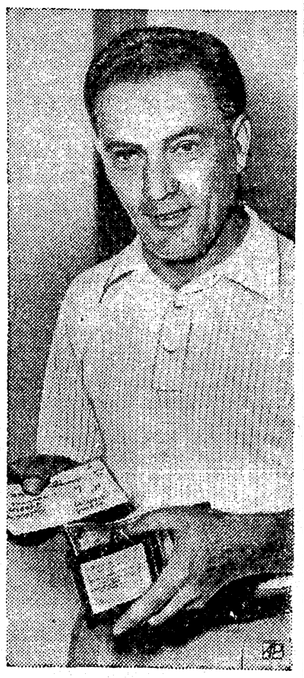
Back from the war, Ward showed he could still play golf by winning the 1947 western amateur in Des Monies from Frank Stranahan of Toledo. He lost in the 1946 finals to Stranahan.

Ward was six down on the 16th hole in the finals. He came back in the afternoon to shoot a sensational 65 and beat Stranahan 1-up.

"That was the best golf and the most exciting match I ever played," he says.

He also got a lot of satisfaction—and no cash—from beating Ben Hogan and Lawson Little on the same day in the San Francisco open in 1938.

Through the years of golfing and serving as secretary of the Spokane Athletic Round Table, Ward has mellowed considerably. At one time, to put it mildly, he never was noted for his discretion. His undiplomatic descriptions of some of the nation's golf courses and his squelching of reporters brought him a bad press at times.



Marvin (Bud) Ward with first check won as golf pro.

There was the time he was playing before a hushed gallery in Spokane. Suddenly, as Ward started to putt, the radio of a police car parked on the course started to blare, "Calling car 26 . . ."

Bud whirled toward the startled officer in the car.

"Turn that thing off," he demanded. The cop did, too.

Molloy, Bonner Fight To Finals

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Tom Molloy of New Orleans and T. V. Bonner of Jackson, Miss, today scrapped their way into the finals of the Alabama Open Tennis tournament.

The third-seeded Molloy eliminated Joe Davis, No. 2 Nashville entry, 6-4, 6-4 in semi-final play. Bonner, ranked sixth, whipped Norman Copeland, fifth-seeded, Daytona Beach, Fla., 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Molloy and Bonner will tangle at 3 p. m. (C. S. T.) tomorrow in Men's Singles finals.

Kallio Lines Up Double Main Event

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

By Joe Ives
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—One of the boxing world's truly great champions, Bantamweight King Manuel Ortiz, says he's had about enough.

The 33-year-old Mexican-American says he'll probably defend his title once or twice more—in Europe. Although nothing is set yet, Manuel thinks he'll meet Ireland's Danny O'Sullivan in London and someone else in France or Italy.

His last stateside fight in the United States comes off Monday. He faces Washington's Jimmy Cooper in a ten-round nontitle bout.

Manuel heads for Europe September 3. He plans to fight a few exhibition bouts, defend his crown and then hang up his gloves.

Unlike most fighters who wind up punchy and penniless, the fiery Californian has a home to return to. He has a wife, three daughters, a 100-acre farm, six houses, a billiard parlor and a bar in El Centro, Calif.

"I think I'll be kept busy at home said Ortiz after a workout yesterday. "I think I've found the secret of this game. The secret is knowing how to spend and save your money and knowing when to quit.

"I don't want to go on fighting forever. After the European tour is as good a time as any to quit."

If Monday's fight with Cooper is Manuel's American farewell, the fight game is going to lose one of its most brilliant performers in recent years.

Manuel has really been a fighting champ. Since winning the crown from Lou Salica in 1942, he's defended it nineteen times. Only Joe Louis ever laid a boxing title at stake more often.

Ortiz even lost his title once. That was in 1947, when he dropped a decision to Harold Dade. But he got the diadem back eight weeks later on a return match.

Manuel Ortiz has been a world champ in the true sense of the word. He's defended his crown in more cities and countries than any other puncher in the business today.

He's fought a title bout in the far east—at Manila; in South America—at Mexico City; in North America—at Chicago and Los Angeles; in the Pacific—at Honolulu.

A last title fight in Europe would be a fitting finish to a career like that one.

The memory of Colorado's great grid star Whizzer White still lingers on at Yale.

In fact, his memories have a cash value at the New Haven school. They are more valuable to some people than Herbert Hoover's, Winston Churchill's or Franklin Roosevelt's.

When White—probably the only Rhodes scholar in history to play pro football — completed post-grad courses there he left behind his notes.

Those same course notes are eagerly sought today. It's said they're so informative they practically guarantee a 90-average for any course concerned. They're sold by the lucky owners from year to year.

The New York A. C. basketballers will make some kind of cage history this winter. They'll be the first independent team to play a full college schedule.

The club hopes to wrestle the independent crown from the Phillips Cilers. So far, they've lined up Ernie Vanderweghe, of Colgate; Charley Bollinger, of Holy Cross; Jim and Bob Gale, of Cornell; and Ed Leede, of Dartmouth.

They're also praying Tony Lavelli Doesn't turn pro. If he doesn't, he promised the A. C. quint he'd play with them.

The foes the club will meet include the east's best. Holy Cross and Villanova head the list.

Mel Allen, the New York sportcaster, will be heard in a new sports series—"Today in Sports"—starting Monday, September 5, via MBS. . . . Washington's footballing Redskins will have their games aired and televised to the largest audience in pro history. The fans will be able to pick up the Skins from Boston to New Orleans.

He owned a won-lost record of 11-2 and in 115 innings, the right-hander whiffed 102, walked 45, and posted a remarkable 1.32 earned-run-average.

Rebs, Vols Continue Fight For Big Eight In Ruston

Rebels Take First Game Of Series From Intra-City Rivals

RUSTON, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The Ruston Rebels will take on their intra-city rivals, the Volunteers, here Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the second game of the three-out-of-five playoff for the Big Eight League pennant. The Rebels took the first game Wednesday 5 to 0.

Tinker Hood is scheduled to do the tossing for the Rebels, while the Vols' pitching will come from either Doug Lowery, Jewell Williamson, or Doug Colvin.

With Pete Adkins turning in a four-hit shutout job, the Rebs swept to victory Wednesday before an overflow crowd of 1,178 at Fraser Field.

Adkins notched his ninth victory of the year in allowing the Vols only four singles, struck out eight, and issued one base on balls. The whitewashing was the third straight turned in by Rebel pitchers, having blanked Sterlington twice in the semifinals of the playoff. It has now been 35 consecutive innings since an opposing team has scored a run off Rebel hurlers.

Lewis Pipes went the distance on the mound for the losers to take the loss. The right-hander was touched for seven safeties, five of which went for extra bases, and also set eight down via the scrikeout route. He gave up five free passes to first base.

The Rebs jumped to a one-run lead in the opening innin gand were never headed after that. They pushed across a lone tally in the third, added two more in the sixth, and concluded with another run in the seventh to assure the win.

THREE YEAR OLD BURNS UP EVENT

Mile And Quarter Time Is Pushed Up By Calumet Racer

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Calumet farm's Ponder today ran the fastest mile and a quarter ever raced by a 3-year-old steed to win the $38,450 American Derby at Washington Park and establish himself as the champion of the year in his class.

Ponder, under the guidance of Jockey tSeve Brooks, sizzled the distance in 2:00 2/5. That clipped a fifth of a second off the track and derby record of 2:00 3/5 set by Calumet's Fervent in winning the same event in 1947.

Ponder, however, carried 126 pounds compared to 118 assigned to Fervent.

Ponder led Joseph A. Goodwin's Kentucky Colonel across the finish by two and one quarter lengths. John A. Kinard's Johns Joy was third another length behind, and David Straus and Howard Wells' Mr. Smug fourth. Hal Price Headley's Shakeme was last in the five horse field. Ponder's running mate, De Luxe, was scratched.

Warren Wright, owner of the Calumet forces, hauled down $66,150 as first prize.

Ponder went to the post the favorite at odds of 6-10 and paid $2.60 and $2.20. Kentucky Colonel returned $2.20 to place. There was no show betting.

The triumph was Ponder's seventh in 17 starts this year and went on the record with three other stakes events which placed him at the top of his division—the Kentucky Derby, the Arlington Classic, and the Peter Pan Handicap.

It raised his earnings for two years of racing to $267,925, all but $400 of which he piled up this year.

The $66,150 purse also increased Calumet Farm's earnings for the year to $922,647.

The race was witnessed by 21,127.

Ponder's time was three fifths of a second slower than the world record held jointly at 1:59 4/5 by another stablemate, Coaltown, and St. Andrews II and Shannon II.

Florists Eliminate Softball Pirates

CAMDEN, Ark., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Oklahoma City Glidewell Florists eliminated the Pass Christian Pirates, Mississippi state champions, 14-10 in the regional Girls' Softball tournament here today.

It was the second defeat for the Pirates and dropped them from the double elimination affair.

The D. H. Holmes team from New Orleans won its first start with a 6-2 victory over the Okmulgee Cardinals, Oklahoma state champions.

When Pitchers Al Brazle of the Cards and Herman Wehmeier of the Reds met recently both were after their sixth successive pitching victory. Brazle blanked the Reds, 8-0, on six singles.

FLYING FIREPLUG FULLBACK THREAT

L. S. U. Tigers Get Lowslung Fullback From Natchitoches High

BATON ROUGE, La., Friday, Aug. 27.—(Special)—There's a lad reporting to the Louisiana State University grid team on September 1 named West. Many people may immediately associate the name with the lone prairie or bucking broncos, but young Billy insists that his capabilities are confined to the gridiron where his 5' 8", 200-pound frame has played havoc with many opposing forward walls.

At first sight Billy appears to be an underslung guard or tackle with not the slightest prospect of running from a backfield slot. It's only after one has observed his uncanny performances with the pigskin that his prowess as a ball carrier is actually recognized. Billy assumed his unusual nickname during the spring training session of 1949 when his first opportunity to tote the leather arose. Used offensively as a fullback, Billy soon established himself as almost impossible to stop. His devastating smashes into the line along with his superhuman ability to carry opposing players for a joy ride into enemy territory soon marked "The Flying Fireplug" as a definite threat to the veteran fullbacks in the Tiger camp.

Although a sophomore this fall and untried in big league circles, Billy West is truly a man whose gridiron career should be closely observed, as he has the potentialities of performing great feats and with the proper breaks may be the answer to one of

BLUES BATTLE DELHI FOR TOP

Jonesville Team, Oilers Fight For Delta League Lead

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—It will be a battle for the number one spot in the Louisiana Delta League when the Jonesville Blues tangle with the Delhi Oilers here Sunday afternoon.

As it stands now the Oilers are only a few percentage points behind the first-place Blues, stated Robert Swayze, Jonesville manager.

It will be a double treat for Jonesville baseball fans as the Blues' cross-town rivals, the Jonesville Aces, will play the top half of a doubleheader with them. The Aces start at 1 o'clock and the Blues begin their game at 3:30 p. m. Admission to the two games is 25 and 50 cents.

The league playoffs (Shaughnessy) style) will begin Tuesday night and, if the Blues are victorious over the Oilers, Jonesville will play the fourth place club at Municipal Park Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Boeuf river and Rayville each had a rained out game to make up with Jonesville but forfeited. The two forfeits and a Jonesville win over Mangham Wednesday night added valuable insurance to the Blues hopes of remaining in first place.

The Blues went ahead in the early innings in the Mangham game and were never threatened as Jonesville came out on top 7-3.

Buddy Ware struck out seven batters and set Mangham down each inning until the eighth. That inning the Manghamites scored three times off three hits, a base on balls, and a Jonesville error. Bob Swayze came in to pitch with two out and held Mangham hitless for the other 1 1/3 inning.

Power at the plate was supplied by Neely Swayze who hit safely three times, including a triple, for five appearances. Arch Aplin rapped three for four.

The play-offs, both final and semi-final, will be seven games with the award going to the four out of seven winner.

Trophies will be presented to the first place team in regular season play and to the winner of the play-offs.

Warsaw All-Stars Win Over Central

CROWVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The Warsaw All-Stars sacked up the Central Indians 6 to 5 last Sunday at Warsaw.

Coming from behind in the 7th inning, the All-Stars scored two runs with one out to win their 22nd victory of the season. They have lost only four games.

The All-Stars have one more game to play in the Crowville Community League, then start the league playoff. The last game will be played at home with Lawson Road on September 4.

Bats Of Stephens, Williams Hoist Bosox

By Jim Becker
(Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer)

NEW YORK—As if the Yankees hadn't had enough injuries, two Boston Red Sox are trying to beat their brains out with bats.

Vern (Little Slug) Stephens and Ted (Big Slug) Williams are the pair of club-wielders with mayhem on their minds. And if the Boston entry is the American League representative in the World Series, the two sluggers must receive the major share of the credit.

As the Yankees and Red Sox charged into the final phase of the A. L. flag chase, Stephens and Williams were running one-two in both home runs and runs batted in. The rest of the loop's sluggers trailed far behind.

Not since Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig tore down fences back-to-back for the old Yankees has an American League team boasted as potent a boom-boom punch.

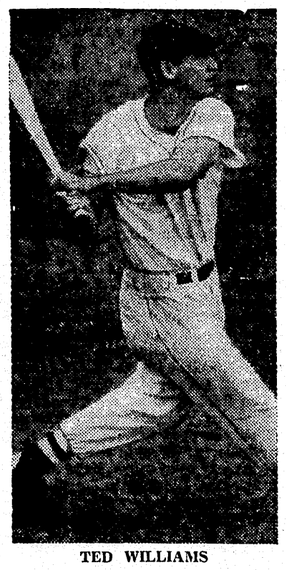
Should Stephens continue at the runs-batted-in rate he maintained over the first three-fourths of the season, he would register the highest total since Hank Greenberg's 183 in 1937. A slight step-up in RBI production would bring a new A. L. record to top Gehrig's 184 of 1931, for either or both of the stars.

Shortstop Stephens, although always rated a power hitter during his six seasons with the St. Louis Browns, has outdone himself since the Red Sox shelled out a bundle of cash and seven players for him and Pitcher Jack Kramer before the 1948 season.

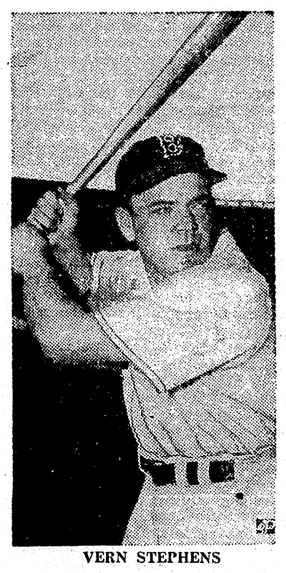
Last year his 137 runs-batted-in were high for the Boston club and represented his best ever in that department. His 29 home runs also topped Williams' 28 for Boston in 1948. Ted had 128 RBI's and won the batting crown with .369.

Stephens once before led the league in runs chased over in 1944, the only year the Browns won the A. L. pennant. He had 109. The next year he again had a good season at the plate, topping the circuit with 24 home runs.

Vern felt the Browns failed to appreciate his true worth in the contract offered him for the 1946 campaign. So he jumped to the Mexican League where the Pasquel brothers had offered to compensate him more liberally for his shortstopping and slugging.



TED WILLIAMS



VERN STEPHENS

They Make Opposing Pitchers Shudder

Stephens played two games in Mexico, decided tortillas gave him indigestion, and hopped back to the Browns just in time to escape the five-year-ban imposed on jumpers.

To show his appreciation, the baby-faced Californian lashed out a .307 batting average. After one more season with the Browns came his emancipation. Now 28, the right-hand slugging Stephens weighs 185 pounds and stands five, ten. He figures to hold down the shortstop post for the Boston Bombers for several years. Johnny Pesky, the incumbent when Vern arrived from the Browns, was shifted to third and has been quite successful at the spot.

The 30-year-old Williams, although occasionally faulted for lackadaisical play in the outfield, has established an almost undisputed claim as the game's top active hitter. Four times since 1939 he has led the league in batting, despite three seasons in the service, and he is the last major leaguer to hit over .400, batting .406 in 1941. The slender slugger also has three home run and three RBI crowns in his collection.

Like Stephens, his only World Series appearance—1946—was not impressive. Ted batted .200 in a seven-game losing struggle with the St. Louis Cardinals. Stephens hit .227 as the Browns dropped a six-gamer to the same club.

Could be that both men will get a second shot at the Redbirds this October. Only the Yankees and the Dodgers seem to stand in the way.

Florists Eliminate Softball Pirates

CAMDEN, Ark., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Oklahoma City Glidewell Florists eliminated the Pass Christian Pirates, Mississippi state champions, 14-10 in the regional Girls' Softball tournament here today.

It was the second defeat for the Pirates and dropped them from the double elimination affair.

The D. H. Holmes team from New Orleans won its first start with a 6-2 victory over the Okmulgee Cardinals, Oklahoma state champions.

When Pitchers Al Brazle of the Cards and Herman Wehmeier of the Reds met recently both were after their sixth successive pitching victory. Brazle blanked the Reds, 8-0, on six singles.

THREE YEAR OLD BURNS UP EVENT

Mile And Quarter Time Is Pushed Up By Calumet Racer

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Calumet farm's Ponder today ran the fastest mile and a quarter ever raced by a 3-year-old steed to win the $38,450 American Derby at Washington Park and establish himself as the champion of the year in his class.

Ponder, under the guidance of Jockey tSeve Brooks, sizzled the distance in 2:00 2/5. That clipped a fifth of a second off the track and derby record of 2:00 3/5 set by Calumet's Fervent in winning the same event in 1947.

Ponder, however, carried 126 pounds compared to 118 assigned to Fervent.

Ponder led Joseph A. Goodwin's Kentucky Colonel across the finish by two and one quarter lengths. John A. Kinard's Johns Joy was third another length behind, and David Straus and Howard Wells' Mr. Smug fourth. Hal Price Headley's Shakeme was last in the five horse field. Ponder's running mate, De Luxe, was scratched.

Warren Wright, owner of the Calumet forces, hauled down $66,150 as first prize.

Ponder went to the post the favorite at odds of 6-10 and paid $2.60 and $2.20. Kentucky Colonel returned $2.20 to place. There was no show betting.

The triumph was Ponder's seventh in 17 starts this year and went on the record with three other stakes events which placed him at the top of his division—the Kentucky Derby, the Arlington Classic, and the Peter Pan Handicap.

It raised his earnings for two years of racing to $267,925, all but $400 of which he piled up this year.

The $66,150 purse also increased Calumet Farm's earnings for the year to $922,647.

The race was witnessed by 21,127.

Ponder's time was three fifths of a second slower than the world record held jointly at 1:59 4/5 by another stablemate, Coaltown, and St. Andrews II and Shannon II.

FLYING FIREPLUG FULLBACK THREAT

BATON ROUGE, La., Friday, Aug. 27.—(Special)—There's a lad reporting to the Louisiana State University grid team on September 1 named West. Many people may immediately associate the name with the lone prairie or bucking broncos, but young Billy insists that his capabilities are confined to the gridiron where his 5' 8", 200-pound frame has played havoc with many opposing forward walls.

At first sight Billy appears to be an underslung guard or tackle with not the slightest prospect of running from a backfield slot. It's only after one has observed his uncanny performances with the pigskin that his prowess as a ball carrier is actually recognized. Billy assumed his unusual nickname during the spring training session of 1949 when his first opportunity to tote the leather arose. Used offensively as a fullback, Billy soon established himself as almost impossible to stop. His devastating smashes into the line along with his superhuman ability to carry opposing players for a joy ride into enemy territory soon marked "The Flying Fireplug" as a definite threat to the veteran fullbacks in the Tiger camp.

Although a sophomore this fall and untried in big league circles, Billy West is truly a man whose gridiron career should be closely observed, as he has the potentialities of performing great feats and with the proper breaks may be the answer to one of

BLUES BATTLE DELHI FOR TOP

Jonesville Team, Oilers Fight For Delta League Lead

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—It will be a battle for the number one spot in the Louisiana Delta League when the Jonesville Blues tangle with the Delhi Oilers here Sunday afternoon.

As it stands now the Oilers are only a few percentage points behind the first-place Blues, stated Robert Swayze, Jonesville manager.

It will be a double treat for Jonesville baseball fans as the Blues' cross-town rivals, the Jonesville Aces, will play the top half of a doubleheader with them. The Aces start at 1 o'clock and the Blues begin their game at 3:30 p. m. Admission to the two games is 25 and 50 cents.

The league playoffs (Shaughnessy style) will begin Tuesday night and, if the Blues are victorious over the Oilers, Jonesville will play the fourth place club at Municipal Park Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Boeuf river and Rayville each had a rained out game to make up with Jonesville but forfeited. The two forfeits and a Jonesville win over Mangham Wednesday night added valuable insurance to the Blues hopes of remaining in first place.

The Blues went ahead in the early innings in the Mangham game and were never threatened as Jonesville came out on top 7-3.

Buddy Ware struck out seven batters and set Mangham down each inning until the eighth. That inning the Manghamites scored three times off three hits, a base on balls, and a Jonesville error. Bob Swayze came in to pitch with two out and held Mangham hitless for the other 1 1/3 inning.

Power at the plate was supplied by Neely Swayze who hit safely three times, including a triple, for five appearances. Arch Aplin rapped three for four.

The play-offs, both final and semi-final, will be seven games with the award going to the four out of seven winner.

Trophies will be presented to the first place team in regular season play and to the winner of the play-offs.

Warsaw All-Stars Win Over Central

CROWVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The Warsaw All-Stars sacked up the Central Indians 6 to 5 last Sunday at Warsaw.

Coming from behind in the 7th inning, the All-Stars scored two runs with one out to win their 22nd victory of the season. They have lost only four games.

The All-Stars have one more game to play in the Crowville Community League, then start the league playoff. The last game will be played at home with Lawson Road on September 4.

Bats Of Stephens, Williams Hoist Bosox

By Jim Becker
(Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer)

NEW YORK—As if the Yankees hadn't had enough injuries, two Boston Red Sox are trying to beat their brains out with bats.

Vern (Little Slug) Stephens and Ted (Big Slug) Williams are the pair of club-wielders with mayhem on their minds. And if the Boston entry is the American League representative in the World Series, the two sluggers must receive the major share of the credit.

As the Yankees and Red Sox charged into the final phase of the A. L. flag chase, Stephens and Williams were running one-two in both home runs and runs batted in. The rest of the loop's sluggers trailed far behind.

Not since Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig tore down fences back-to-back for the old Yankees has an American League team boasted as potent a boom-boom punch.

Should Stephens continue at the runs-batted-in rate he maintained over the first three-fourths of the season, he would register the highest total since Hank Greenberg's 183 in 1937. A slight step-up in RBI production would bring a new A. L. record to top Gehrig's 184 of 1931, for either or both of the stars.

Shortstop Stephens, although always rated a power hitter during his six seasons with the St. Louis Browns, has outdone himself since the Red Sox shelled out a bundle of cash and seven players for him and Pitcher Jack Kramer before the 1948 season.

Last year his 137 runs-batted-in were high for the Boston club and represented his best ever in that department. His 29 home runs also topped Williams' 28 for Boston in 1948. Ted had 128 RBI's and won the batting crown with .369.

Stephens once before led the league in runs chased over in 1944, the only year the Browns won the A. L. pennant. He had 109. The next year he again had a good season at the plate, topping the circuit with 24 home runs.

Vern felt the Browns failed to appreciate his true worth in the contract offered him for the 1946 campaign. So he jumped to the Mexican League where the Pasquel brothers had offered to compensate him more liberally for his shortstopping and slugging.

Stephens played two games in Mexico, decided tortillas gave him indigestion, and hopped back to the Browns just in time to escape the five-year-ban imposed on jumpers.

To show his appreciation, the baby-faced Californian lashed out a .307 batting average. After one more season with the Browns came his emancipation. Now 28, the right-hand slugging Stephens weighs 185 pounds and stands five, ten. He figures to hold down the shortstop post for the Boston Bombers for several years. Johnny Pesky, the incumbent when Vern arrived from the Browns, was shifted to third and has been quite successful at the spot.

The 30-year-old Williams, although occasionally faulted for lackadaisical play in the outfield, has established an almost undisputed claim as the game's top active hitter. Four times since 1939 he has led the league in batting, despite three seasons in the service, and he is the last major leaguer to hit over .400, batting .406 in 1941. The slender slugger also has three home run and three RBI crowns in his collection.

Like Stephens, his only World Series appearance—1946—was not impressive. Ted batted .200 in a seven-game losing struggle with the St. Louis Cardinals. Stephens hit .227 as the Browns dropped a six-gamer to the same club.

Could be that both men will get a second shot at the Redbirds this October. Only the Yankees and the Dodgers seem to stand in the way.

AUSTIN, JONES TEE OFF FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

24 QUALIFY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Over One Hundred Try Out Course During First Day

Club championship finalists Tilden Austin and Bill Jones will tee off at 1:45 p. m., today at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club course, scene of qualifying for the Labor Day tournament.

Austin and Jones will decide in an 18-hole match who wlil be crowned as club champion. Austin defeated Bobby Guerriero while Jones came into the finals over Herbert Lamb. Austin is well known in local amateur circles, while Jones holds the City and Twin City championships.

Twenty-four men qualified during the day for the Labor Day tournament in which play will begin September 4. Over 100 players were on the course at different times testing the course.

Local entrants have been urged to qualify as soon as possible to enable out-of-town contestants to advance without delay upon their arrival.

O. L. McCleary with a 79 and Earl Hardy, Jr., of Shreveport with an 80 were low men yesterday.

Several of the top-ranking pros and amateurs have announced their intention to participate in the Labor Day tourney, one of the oldest in the Monroe area.

INDIANS SLATE EARLY WORKOUT

Malone Says Complete Rebuilding Program Needed This Year

Many candidates have already reported to begin the September 1 gruelling task of getting into shape to fight for the wide open position left by graduation. Some outstanding boys familiar to local football fans will be out to bid for positions on the Northeast Junior College gridiron squad.

It is early to predict what material will report for the opening, but if the spring gridders can show the same promise this fall the Indians can have some hope for the coming campaign. Most of the candidates will be inexperenced as for as college competition is concerned. Coach James L. Malone has revealed that this year will be the biggest rebuilding job he has ever faced in his entire career. Only Tommy Danks and Ernie Murphree are considered as regulars and they are not at all certain of their positions.

The Tribe will enjoy one of their best years with respect to the turnout of outstanding backfieldmen. Malone has already stated that he is not worried too much about his backfield. It is the front line where his chief troubles begin. With Rex Pensinger, Dean Corbell, "Fireball" Danny Nevils, Ray Clements, and Hotsy Murdock from last year's squad, the Indians are sure of some strength with experience. Last spring two outstanding candidates were uncovered but they must show their stuff in actual competition. These men were Tommy Wilson, former star guard with the Ouachita High School Lions, and "Biggy" Cook, a big 240 pound tackle from over Mississippi way.

Regardless of the theft of some of the shoulder pads by some unknown thief, plenty of pads will be had by the early season spectators as the boys reporting for the front line duty will have the weight.

Altogether nine men have reported and are awaiting the initial signal to get into their grid togs. The inexperienced N. J. C. team will face the toughest array of opponents in the school's history. Here is the schedule for the 1949 season:

Northeast Junior College
"Indians"
Jim Malone, Head Coach

Sept. 23—East Okla. A. and M., here.
Sept. 30—Kilgore Junior College, here.
Oct. 15.—Alabama State Teachers, here.
Oct. 29—Panola Jr. College, here.
Oct. 23—L. S. U. "B" team, here.
Nov. 4—John McNeese, here.
Nov. 12—Little Rock Jr. College, there.
Nov. 24—N. W. Miss. Jr. College, here.

Skeet Range Ready For Big Sunday

Manager J. Thoman said last night that the Monroe Skeet Range was read for another influx of shooters for Sunday afternoon. Shooters have broken all attendance records in the last few Sundays.

Three ties from last Sunday remain to be shot off, Thoman said.

Archie Dickerson and R. L. Fuller will attempt to break a tie and settle the ownership of five pounds of Holstein's Quality coffee. Lewis Dade and Sambo Hightower will fight it out over two Gentry Grocery fryers. J. D. McAdams and Speed Bancroft will vie for a wash and grease job from Massey's Service Center.

Other prizes offered for the winners of Sunday's shoot are:

A set of tailored seat covers worth $25 from the Standard Auto Parts Company; one 14-pound ham from the Perryville Grocery and Market; a surprise gift from Brennan Utilities; an auto jack from the Automotive Parts Company; a $5 in merchandise from Sam Rizzo's Bar; a wash and grease job from Kellog-Jackson; one case of beer from The Package Liquor Store; lady prizes of a bottle of Four Winds Cologne and atomizer spray from the Skeet Range, a bottle of Cody Paris perfume from the Postoffice Pharmacy, and a matched box of stationery from the New South Drug Store.

YACHT FINAL IS SET FOR TODAY

International Crown In Luders Competition At Stake

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The 1949 international champion in Luders class yacht racing will be decided on well-behaved Lake Ponchartrain here tomorrow in a final race.

Ruling as top favorites for the crown are defending champ Russell Moon of the Chicago Yacht Club, and Boz Ziegler, Newport Harbor Fleet, Los Angeles.

And they'll have partly cloudy weather with moderate winds, free of any hurricane threat, as they and six other contestants cut over the Southern Yacht Club's gold cup triangular course for the final honors.

Southern's L-16 Ace, Mike Gibbons, raced home the winner of the next-to-last contest today in a moderate northwesterly breeze. The win put him in third place with a total of 23 points.

Moon, who was third in the race, now leads the field with 28 points. And Ziegler, who fell back to sixth in today's contest, holds the series second post with 26 points, only two behind Moon.

Points go to skippers of the sleek 26-foot craft on the basis of one for each race finished and one for every craft trailing them at the finish line.

Earlier today, racing over choppy waters, Ziegler captured the first of the day's two races, followed by Moon and Gibbons in that order.

Here are the results of the second race won during the day by Gibbons:

First—Gibbons, sailing his own Hot Toddy, clocked in at 4:24:56, 23 points total for third place in the series.

Second—Mills Husted, Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn., finished at 4:25:47 p. m., 19 points for fifth place in series.

Third—Moon, 4:25:54, in first place with 28 points.

Fourth—Ian Murray, Los Angeles Harbor Fleet, 4:26:02, 21 points.

Fifth—Bruce Davenport, Lake St. Clair Fleet, Detroit, 4:26.20. 11 points.

Sixth—Ziegler, Los Angeles, 4:27:02, 26 points.

Seventh—Fred Lorenzen, Stamford, Conn., Yacht Club, 4:27:53, 10 points.

Eight—Miss Eleanor Levine, Western Long Island Sound Fleet, 4:28:10, 4 points for eighth and last place in the series.

Contestants are using boats of Southern Yacht Club members, but their own sails.

The Luders championship is the first in a series of yachting events here in the Southern Yacht Club's centennial regatta.

West Monroe firemen extinguished a grass fire at 11 a.m. yesterday on the corner of Copley and Claiborne streets, West Monroe.

Jeff Heath is making a fine comeback with the Boston Braves. He broke his angle the last week of the 1948 season and missed the World Series.

Recreation Center Opening Thursday

Thursday has been set as opening date for the Monroe Recreation Center, Director Jack Hesketh said last night.

Original plans called for an opening Monday night, Hesketh added, but repairs have consumed more time than planned.

Painting will be completed by opening date, however, and Hesketh has issued an invitation to the public to visit the center at any time.

WAVE WELCOMES 65 CANDIDATES

Top Rating Of Tulane Has Master Mentor Frnka Worried

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Henry Frnka, master strategist for Tulane's Green Wave, will welcome some 65 candidates for his 1949 variety football team to Tulane Stadium next Thursday.

From this group of 1948 freshmen, squadmen and lettermen Frnka will seek to fashion a "T" offense geared for action against such football powers as Notre Dame, Alabama, L. S. U., Georgia Tech, Navy, Vanderbilt, Mississippi State and Virginia.

Newcomers to the schedule replace five teams—South Carolina, Ole Miss., V. M. I., Baylor and Cincinnati—That the Wave beat last year in running up a record of nine victories and one defeat.

With his team rated by experts, as the top team in the Southeastern Conference, it's that fact that has conservative Frnka worried.

"I believe we will be slightly stronger this year," Frnka said "but that doesn't necessarily mean we'll have a record better than or even equal to that of last year."

No poll takes into consideration the comparative strength of the schedule we played last year and that we play this year," he added. "Nor does any poll consider the possibility of injuries to key players or the habit a football has of bouncing in peculiar directions."

"As a result we're touted as a favorite. It's not the possible effect it may have on the Tulane players that worries me particularly, but what effect it will have on our opponents."

Frnka expects to welcome 31 lettermen back from last year's team with Captain and Left End Emile O'Brien the only absentee from the first two teams. Two others, Back Don Fortier and Tackle David Rowland, also graduated while Ray Pratts, another back, and Bill Riggs, an end, resigned from Tudane at the end of the semester last fall.

A sprinkling of Red-Shirts and a number of candidates from the freshman team will be on hand also to give Frnka 'some of the depth we hope to achieve for a schedule like the one ahead of us."

Frnka plans to run two-a-day sessions up until about a week before the opening game with Alabama at Mobile on Sept. 24.

G. S. C. ALLOWS FROSH TO PLAY

Aillet Says 'B' Competition Abandoned For Freshmen Players

RUSTON, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Freshmen will be allowed to play on varsity football teams in the gulf states conference again this season.

The announcement came today from Conference President Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech.

Aillet said there would be no 'B' team competition in the G. S. C. on a scheduled intra-collegiate basis because most freshmen would be used on the varsity.

The Tech coach said, however, that some of the schools may use members of their third, fourth or fifth teams to play independent squads.

Aillet's announcement came as six members prepared for the invasion of more than 400 candidates for their 1949 teams. Practices will begin on Sept. 1 in accordance with a conference rule.

All of the colleges are expecting a tough season. In addition to conference games, several powerhouse nonconference and intersectional foes appear on the schedule.

Included are Oklahoma City University, Tulane, Memphis State, Chattanooga, Kentucky, Alabama, Louisville, Louisiana State, the University of Houston, and Bradley University.

A pre-season collegiate and high school football officials' clinic will be held on the Louisiana Tech campus on Sept. 10-11.

John Lynch of New Orleans will handle discussions on rules and mechanics for the college section and Warren Brunner of New Orleans the prep school section.

Johnny Morriss of Southwestern Louisiana Institute is chairman of the G. S. C. football officials committee sponsoring the meeting.

Representatives of most of the G. S. C. colleges plan to take time out to attend the meeting.

Vieing for the championship this season are Mississippi Southern, the defending titlist, Louisiana Tech, Northwestern State, S. L. I., Louisiana College and Southeastern, the cellar squad last year.

LaSalle Fox Hunters Plan Annual Meeting

JENA, La., Aug. 28.—(Special)—The LaSalle Fox Hunters' Association will hold its annual barbecue and bench show Friday, Sept. 2 at the Goodpine, (La.) ball park near here, H. C. Watson, secretary-treasurer announced this week.

Hinkle Shilling of Center, Tex., will be the judge for the bench show and prizes will be awarded, Watson said.

The event will be free to all members of the association and membership cards will be available at the wate for those who desire to join, Watson said, in inviting all who are not now members to become associated with the group. Annual membership dues are $1.

T. O. Bancroft Ties For Second In Final Event Of Big Shoot

By Fritz Howell

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Quiet fell over the Miami Valley late today as the million-plus-shot Golden Grand American Trapshoot closed.

Close to 2,000 of America's finest marksmen fired at a total of 1,105,300 targets in competition during the week and paid around a quarter of a million dollars in entry fees for the privilege of shooting them.

Rain late today delayed the final event on the program—th Vandalia Open Handicap.

In the morning event, the National Doubles championship, Mercer Tennille of Shreveport, La., broke 96 of 100 to win the title for the third time in four years.

M. W. Ray of John Day, Ore., was second with 95.

Seven other amateurs tied for third at 94. They were Harvey H. Blair of Wichita, Kan.; Julius Petty of Stuttgart, Ark.: Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis.; H. W. Dirlam of Truman, Wis.; Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O.; Dick Shaughnessy of Dedham, Mass., and Bob Allen of Des Moines. Ia.

Mrs. Isaac Andrews of Spartasburg, S. C., won the Women's National Doubles with 84 of 100.

Charles Mason of Dallas, Tex., won the professional championship by breaking 19 of 20 in a shootoff to defeat Rudy Etchen of Los Angeles, Calif. They had tied at 94 of 100 in the regular event. Tennille by winning the doubles today won the all-around championship with 387 of 400, the title being based upon 200 targets at 16 yards, 100 at handicap and 100 at doubles.

Shaughnessy, Heistand and C. W. Jones, Knoxville, Tenn., tied with Gene Wentz of Louisville, Ky., for second place in the all-around with 385 of '00.

Heistand won the over-all championship by breaking 977 of 1,000, the competition including 600 targets at 16 yards, 100 doubles and 300 at handicap.

Etchen won both ends of the professional race, taking the all-around championship with 385 of 400 and the over-all laurels with 965 of 1,000.

The final event of the Grand program—the Vandalia Open Handicap which was open to both professionals and amateurs—went to Don Hawksley, 36-year-old sporting goods store owner of Streator, Ill., who broke 99 of 100 from 20 yards.

Hiestand, firing from 25 yards, broke 98 to tie with T. O. Bancroft of Monroe, La., and A. Street of Allentown, Pa.

Mrs. Ike Andrews of Spartanburg, S. C., wound up as the women's overall champion of the Grand, breaking 930 of 1.000 targets to win the first leg on a new $2,600 trophy donated by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King of Atlanta, Ga.

NO RUNS, NO WIN

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Willard Ramsdell, whose record as a pitcher for the Hollywood Stars is among the league's best, nevertheless is gaining recognition as the circuit's hard luck champion. Recently the local club garnered but one run off opposition hurling in 30 innings with Ramsdell on the mound.

Coach Jim Turner of the Yankees pitched the Boston Braves to 20 victories in 1937. At Beaumont, Tex., manager in 1946 he pitched his team to 11 wins while losing three.

SEASON TICKET PLAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—Yale is going in for the season ticket plan in football in more than 20 years. The plan takes in games with Conneticut, Fordham, Corneli, Holy Cross, Dartmouth and Brown. Reserved seat books for the six contests sell for $20 while general admission books are $10.

Southeastern Tutoring Jobs Hard To Get, Hard To Hold

One Sixth Of Coaching Posts Have Turnover In 1949

By Sterling Slappey

ATLANTA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Football coaching jobs in the southeastern conference are hard to get and easy to lose.

One sixth of the jobs had a turnover this year and this can be considered a sympathetic term.

The southeastern's two new coaches who will call their teams out for the first practice session Thursday are Bill Edwards at Vanderbilt—replacement for Red Sanders who may or may not have found green pastures at U. C. L. A. but who at least found more greenbacks—and Slick Morton at Mississippi State.

Allyn McKeen made room for Morton and immediately headed for less ulcerous job selling football equipment and running Montgomery Blue-Grey All-Star game.

With the passing of McKeen and Sanders, the remaining ten S. E. C. football head bosses happily found themselves for another season out from under a too-often poised axe and away rom an alumni meat grinder which starts grinding whenever two straight games are lost.

The usual rate of exchange since the Southeastern was formed in 19 has been two and five-eights coaches per season, which pretty well leaves the years strewn with good and bad football teachers.

Some of the coaches who once were there but there are no longer, left on their own feet and not by alumni heave. But those coaches aren't too numerous.

However, regardless of the reason for leaving, the Southeastern usually lets a coach finish out a bad season instead of firing him immediately.

Morton comes to Mississippi State by way of birth in Louisiana, youngsterhood in Mississippi and tailbacking in a Louisiana high school. His college football was done at L. S. U. and early coaching at Baton Rouge High School.

He coaches Felix (Doc) Blanchard Army's great wartime teams, at St. Stanislaus College, Bay St. Louis, Miss. Other prep jobs followed and in 1942 Slick went to Southeastern Louisiana College. He soon changed directions and moved to Northwestern State and then returned to L. S. U.

In 1947 he moved to Virginia Military Institute where he was welcomed. When Morton left there last December he was genuinely mourned.

Where Morton already was known in the Southeastern, Vandy's Bill Edwards is a complete newcomer.

Edwards was an assistant to Paul Brown for two years with the professional All-American Cleveland Browns. He ran the pro Detroit Lions before the war and spent six years at Western Reserve. His teams were unbeaten in three of those six years.

Big William was born in Massillon, Ohio, where football players and deaf leaves are equally numerous every fall. He turned down an Ohio State scholarship and played well for Little Wittenberg College.

He did time with two high schools and then moved to Western Reserve.

Like Morton, Bill Edwards was chosen for his Southeastern job with great care, a lot of interviewing and after a bunch of other candidates had been turned away.

Now it remains to be seen who was lucky—Morton and Edwards, or the guys who didnt get the jobs.

the most puzzling problems in Tigertown today . . . who will be the driving force of the Bayou Bengals in 1949?

Hailing from Natchitoches High School, Billy soon proved that his unusual stature was no handicap as he lettered in four sports and led his high school cage team to the state title in 1947. On September 24th when the purple and gold-clad Tigers face the Kentucky Wildcats, stocky Billy West will take the field to face his most crucial test. Forty thousand roaring fans will be the judges of every untried youngster making a debut that night. Should the hefty lad live up to expectations his initial bid will be successful and the story of another Tiger grid great will be in the making.

AUSTIN, JONES TEE OFF FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

24 QUALIFY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Over One Hundred Try Out Course During First Day

Club championship finalists Tilden Austin and Bill Jones will tee off at 1:45 p. m., today at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club course, scene of qualifying for the Labor Day tournament.

Austin and Jones will decide in an 18-hole match who will be crowned as club champion. Austin defeated Bobby Guerriero while Jones came into the finals over Herbert Lamb. Austin is well known in local amateur circles, while Jones holds the City and Twin City championships.

Twenty-four men qualified during the day for the Labor Day tournament in which play will begin September 4. Over 100 players were on the course at different times testing the course.

Local entrants have been urged to qualify as soon as possible to enable out-of-town contestants to advance without delay upon their arrival.

O. L. McCleary with a 79 and Earl Hardy, Jr., of Shreveport with an 80 were low men yesterday.

Several of the top-ranking pros and amateurs have announced their intention to participate in the Labor Day tourney, one of the oldest in the Monroe area.

INDIANS SLATE EARLY WORKOUT

Malone Says Complete Rebuilding Program Needed This Year

Many candidates have already reported to begin the September 1 gruelling task of getting into shape to fight for the wide open position left by graduation. Some outstanding boys familiar to local football fans will be out to bid for positions on the Northeast Junior College gridiron squad.

It is early to predict what material will report for the opening, but if the spring gridders can show the same promise this fall the Indians can have some hope for the coming campaign. Most of the candidates will be inexperenced as for as college competition is concerned. Coach James L. Malone has revealed that this year will be the biggest rebuilding job he has ever faced in his entire career. Only Tommy Danks and Ernie Murphree are considered as regulars and they are not at all certain of their positions.

The Tribe will enjoy one of their best years with respect to the turnout of outstanding backfieldmen. Malone has already stated that he is not worried too much about his backfield. It is the front line where his chief troubles begin. With Rex Pensinger, Dean Corbell, "Fireball" Danny Nevils, Ray Clements, and Hotsy Murdock from last year's squad, the Indians are sure of some strength with experience. Last spring two outstanding candidates were uncovered but they must show their stuff in actual competition. These men were Tommy Wilson, former star guard with the Ouachita High School Lions, and "Biggy" Cook, a big 240 pound tackle from over Mississippi way.

Regardless of the theft of some of the shoulder pads by some unknown thief, plenty of pads will be had by the early season spectators as the boys reporting for the front line duty will have the weight.

Altogether nine men have reported and are awaiting the initial signal to get into their grid togs. The inexperienced N. J. C. team will face the toughest array of opponents in the school's history. Here is the schedule for the 1949 season:

Skeet Range Ready For Big Sunday

Manager J. Thoman said last night that the Monroe Skeet Range was read for another influx of shooters for Sunday afternoon. Shooters have broken all attendance records in the last few Sundays.

Three ties from last Sunday remain to be shot off, Thoman said.

Archie Dickerson and R. L. Fuller will attempt to break a tie and settle the ownership of five pounds of Holstein's Quality coffee. Lewis Dade and Sambo Hightower will fight it out over two Gentry Grocery fryers. J. D. Mc..dams and Speed Bancroft will vie for a wash and grease job from Massey's Service Center.

Other prizes offered for the winners of Sunday's shoot are:

A set of tailored seat covers worth $25 from the Standard Auto Parts Company; one 14-pound ham from the Perryville Grocery and Market; a surprise gift from Brennan Utilities; an auto jack from the Automotive Parts Company; a $5 in merchandise from Sam Rizzo's Bar; a wash and grease job from Kellog-Jackson; one case of beer from The Package Liquor Store; lady prizes of a bottle of Four Winds Cologne and atomizer spray from the Skeet Range, a bottle of Cody Paris perfume from the Postoffice Pharmacy, and a matched box of stationery from the New South Drug Store.

YACHT FINAL IS SET FOR TODAY

International Crown In Luders Competition At Stake

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The 1949 international champion in Luders class yacht racing will be decided on well-behaved Lake Ponchartrain here tomorrow in a final race.

Ruling as top favorites for the crown are defending champ Russell Moon of the Chicago Yacht Club, and Boz Ziegler, Newport Harbor Fleet, Los Angeles.

And they'll have partly cloudy weather with moderate winds, free of any hurricane threat, as they and six other contestants cut over the Southern Yacht Club's gold cup triangular course for the final honors.

Southern's L-16 Ace, Mike Gibbons, raced home the winner of the next-to-last contest today in a moderate northwesterly breeze. The win put him in third place with a total of 23 points.

Moon, who was third in the race, now leads the field with 28 points. And Ziegler, who fell back to sixth in today's contest, holds the series second post with 26 points, only two behind Moon.

Points go to skippers of the sleek 26-foot craft on the basis of one for each race finished and one for every craft trailing them at the finish line.

Earlier today, racing over choppy waters, Ziegler captured the first of the day's two races, followed by Moon and Gibbons in that order.

Here are the results of the second race won during the day by Gibbons:

First—Gibbons, sailing his own Hot Toddy, clocked in at 4:24:56, 23 points total for third place in the series.

Second—Mills Husted, Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn., finished at 4:25:47 p. m., 19 points for fifth place in series.

Third—Moon, 4:25:54, in first place with 28 points.

Fourth—Ian Murray, Los Angeles Harbor Fleet, 4:26:02, 21 points.

Fifth—Bruce Davenport, Lake St. Clair Fleet, Detroit, 4:26.20, 11 points.

Sixth—Ziegler, Los Angeles, 4:27:02, 26 points.

Seventh—Fred Lorenzen, Stamford, Conn., Yacht Club, 4:27:53, 10 points.

Eight—Miss Eleanor Levine, Western Long Island Sound Fleet, 4:28:10, 4 points for eighth and last place in the series.

Contestants are using boats of Southern Yacht Club members, but their own sails.

The Luders championship is the first in a series of yachting events here in the Southern Yacht Club's centennial regatta.

West Monroe firemen extinguished a grass fire at 11 a.m. yesterday on the corner of Copley and Claiborne streets, West Monroe.

Jeff Heath is making a fine comeback with the Boston Braves. He broke his angle the last week of the 1948 season and missed the World Series.

Recreation Center Opening Thursday

Thursday has been set as opening date for the Monroe Recreation Center, Director Jack Hesketh said last night.

Original plans called for an opening Monday night, Hesketh added, but repairs have consumed more time than planned.

Painting will be completed by opening date, however, and Hesketh has issued an invitation to the public to visit the center at any time.

WAVE WELCOMES 65 CANDIDATES

Top Rating Of Tulane Has Master Mentor Frnka Worried

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Henry Frnka, master strategist for Tulane's Green Wave, will welcome some 65 candidates for his 1949 variety football team to Tulane Stadium next Thursday.

From this group of 1948 freshmen, squadmen and lettermen Frnka will seek to fashion a "T" offense geared for action against such football powers as Notre Dame, Alabama, L. S. U., Georgia Tech, Navy, Vanderbilt, Mississippi State and Virginia.

Newcomers to the schedule replace five teams—South Carolina, Ole Miss., V. M. I., Baylor and Cincinnati—That the Wave beat last year in running up a record of nine victories and one defeat.

With his team rated by experts, as the top team in the Southeastern Conference, it's that fact that has conservative Frnka worried.

"I believe we will be slightly stronger this year," Frnka said "but that doesn't necessarily mean we'll have a record better than or even equal to that of last year."

No poll takes into consideration the comparative strength of the schedule we played last year and that we play this year," he added. "Nor does any poll consider the possibility of injuries to key players or the habit a football has of bouncing in peculiar directions."

"As a result we're touted as a favorite. It's not the possible effect it may have on the Tulane players that worries me particularly, but what effect it will have on our opponents."

Frnka expects to welcome 31 lettermen back from last year's team with Captain and Left End Emile O'Brien the only absentee from the first two teams. Two others, Back Don Fortier and Tackle David Rowland, also graduated while Ray Pratts, another back, and Bill Riggs, an end, resigned from Tudane at the end of the semester last fall.

A sprinkling of Red-Shirts and a number of candidates from the freshman team will be on hand also to give Frnka 'some of the depth we hope to achieve for a schedule like the one ahead of us."

Frnka plans to run two-a-day sessions up until about a week before the opening game with Alabama at Mobile on Sept. 24.

G. S. C. ALLOWS FROSH TO PLAY

Aillet Says 'B' Competition Abandoned For Freshmen Players

RUSTON, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Freshmen will be allowed to play on varsity football teams in the gulf states conference again this season.

The announcement came today from Conference President Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech.

Aillet said there would be no 'B' team competition in the G. S. C. on a scheduled intra-collegiate basis because most freshmen would be used on the varsity.

The Tech coach said, however, that some of the schools may use members of their third, fourth or fifth teams to play independent squads.

Aillet's announcement came as six members prepared for the invasion of more than 400 candidates for their 1949 teams. Practices will begin on Sept. 1 in accordance with a conference rule.

All of the colleges are expecting a tough season. In addition to conference games, several powerhouse non-conference and intersectional foes appear on the schedule.

Included are Oklahoma City University, Tulane, Memphis State, Chattanooga, Kentucky, Alabama, Louisville, Louisiana State, the University of Houston, and Bradley University.

A pre-season collegiate and high school football officials' clinic will be held on the Louisiana Tech campus on Sept. 10-11.

John Lynch of New Orleans will handle discussions on rules and mechanics for the college section and Warren Brunner of New Orleans the prep school section.

Johnny Morriss of Southwestern Louisiana Institute is chairman of the G. S. C. football officials committee sponsoring the meeting.

Representatives of most of the G. S. C. colleges plan to take time out to attend the meeting.

Vieing for the championship this season are Mississippi Southern, the defending titlist, Louisiana Tech, Northwestern State, S. L. I., Louisiana College and Southeastern, the cellar squad last year.

LaSalle Fox Hunters Plan Annual Meeting

JENA, La., Aug. 28.—(Special)—The LaSalle Fox Hunters' Association will hold its annual barbecue and bench show Friday, Sept. 2 at the Goodpine, (La.) ball park near here, H. C. Watson, secretary-treasurer announced this week.

Hinkle Shilling of Center, Tex., will be the judge for the bench show and prizes will be awarded, Watson said.

The event will be free to all members of the association and membership cards will be available at the wate for those who desire to join, Watson said, in inviting all who are not now members to become associated with the group. Annual membership dues are $1.

National Doubles Are Taken By Tennille Of Shreveport

T. O. Bancroft Ties For Second In Final Event Of Big Shoot

By Fritz Howell

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Quiet fell over the Miami Valley late today as the million-plus-shot Golden Grand American Trapshoot closed.

Close to 2,000 of America's finest marksmen fired at a total of 1,105,300 targets in competition during the week and paid around a quarter of a million dollars in entry fees for the privilege of shooting them.

Rain late today delayed the final event on the program—th Vandalia Open Handicap.

In the morning event, the National Doubles championship, Mercer Tennille of Shreveport, La., broke 96 of 100 to win the title for the third time in four years.

M. W. Ray of John Day, Ore., was second with 95.

Seven other amateurs tied for third at 94. They were Harvey H. Blair of Wichita, Kan.; Julius Petty of Stuttgart, Ark.; Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis.; H. W. Dirlam of Truman, Wis.; Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O.; Dick Shaughnessy of Dedham, Mass., and Bob Allen of Des Moines, Ia.

Mrs. Isaac Andrews of Spartasburg, S. C., won the Women's National Doubles with 84 of 100.

Charles Mason of Dallas, Tex., won the professional championship by breaking 19 of 20 in a shootoff to defeat Rudy Etchen of Los Angeles, Calif. They had tied at 94 of 100 in the regular event. Tennille by winning the doubles today won the all-around championship with 387 of 400, the title being based upon 200 targets at 16 yards, 100 at handicap and 100 at doubles.

Shaughnessy, Heistand and C. W. Jones, Knoxville, Tenn., tied with Gene Wentz of Louisville, Ky., for second place in the all-around with 385 of 400.

Heistand won the over-all championship by breaking 977 of 1,000, the competition including 600 targets at 16 yards, 100 doubles and 300 at handicap.

Etchen won both ends of the professional race, taking the all-around championship with 385 of 400 and the over-all laurels with 965 of 1,000.

The final event of the Grand program—the Vandalia Open Handicap which was open to both professionals and amateurs—went to Don Hawksley, 26-year-old sporting goods store owner of Streator, Ill., who broke 99 of 100 from 20 yards.

Hiestand, firing from 25 yards, broke 98 to tie with T. O. Bancroft of Monroe, La., and A. Street of Allentown, Pa.

Mrs. Ike Andrews of Spartanburg, S. C., wound up as the women's overall champion of the Grand, breaking 930 of 1,000 targets to win the first leg on a new $2,600 trophy donated by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King of Atlanta, Ga.

NO RUNS, NO WIN

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Willard Ramsdell, whose record as a pitcher for the Hollywood Stars is among the league's best, nevertheless is gaming recognition as the circuit's hard luck champion. Recently the local club garnered but one run off opposition hurling in 30 innings with Ramsdell on the mound.

Coach Jim Turner of the Yankees pitched the Boston Braves to 20 victories in 1937. At Beaumont, Tex., manager in 1946 he pitched his team to 11 wins while losing three.

SEASON TICKET PLAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—Yale is going in for the season ticket plan in football in more than 20 years. The plan takes in games with Conneticut, Fordham, Cornell, Holy Cross, Dartmouth and Brown. Reserved seat books for the six contests sell for $20 while general admission books are $10.

Southeastern Tutoring Jobs Hard To Get, Hard To Hold

One Sixth Of Coaching Posts Have Turnover In 1949

By Sterling Slappey

ATLANTA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Football coaching jobs in the southeastern conference are hard to get and easy to lose.

One sixth of the jobs had a turnover this year and this can be considered a sympathetic term.

The southeastern's two new coaches who will call their teams out for the first practice session Thursday are Bill Edwards at Vanderbilt—replacement for Red Sanders who may or may not have found green pastures at U. C. L. A. but who at least found more greenbacks—and Slick Morton at Mississippi State.

Allyn McKeen made room for Morton and immediately headed for a less ulcerous job selling football equipment and running Montgomery's Blue-Grey All-Star game.

With the passing of McKeen and Sanders, the remaining ten S. E. C. football head bosses happily found themselves for another season out from under a too-often poised axe and away rom an alumni meat grinder which starts grinding whenever two straight games are lost.

The usual rate of exchange since the Southeastern was formed in 1933 has been two and five-eights coaches per season, which pretty well leaves the years strewn with good and bad football teachers.

Some of the coaches who once were there but there are no longer, left on their own feet and not by alumni heave. But those coaches aren't too numerous.

However, regardless of the reasons for leaving, the Southeastern usually lets a coach finish out a bad season instead of firing him immediately.

Morton comes to Mississippi State by way of birth in Louisiana, youngsterhood in Mississippi and tailbacking in a Louisiana high school. His college football was done at L. S. U. and early coaching at Baton Rouge High School.

SET 1ST GAME MONDAY NIGHT

Ramblers, Red Sox Turn Back Opponents In Fifth Games

WINNSBORO, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Every man but one hit safely here tonight as Winnsboro blasted the Lake Providence Clippers 11 to 1 in winning their way into the final playoffs with Columbia.

The Red Sox, led by Godwin, first baseman who homered, slugged three Lake Providence hurlers for 18 hits over the route. Lake Providence gained only four safeties against Hurler Buck Hollis.

Johnny Ballance, leadoff man for the Sox, hit safely three times in six trips to the plate. Godwin, Gregg, and Davis each gained three hits in five times at bat. Only Laiche, catcher, failed to hit safely.

Broadcasters Elect Association Officials

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—T. B. Lanford of KRMD was elected president of the Louisiana Association of Broadcasters at the closing session of their meeting today at the KTBS Studios.

He succeeds Roy Dabadie of Baton Rouge who with Henry B. Clay, manager of KWKH-KWKH-FM, the times stations retiring vice-president, was elected to the board of directors.

Other officers for the coming year are I. K. Corkern, Jr., of Bogalusa, vice-president, and Robert W. Dumm of Monroe, secretary-treasurer, Paul Goldman of Alexandria was last year's secretary-treasurer.

Additional members of the board of directors are Frank H. Ford, Jr., of Kent; Edgar B. Stern, Jr., New Orleans; H. W. Bumpas, Baton Rouge; Charles Planchard, Natchitoches, and Willard Cobb, Alexandria.

A panel discussion of radio advertising problems was presented during the afternoon by Ted Fontelieu of New Orleans, Planchard, and Dierrell Hamm, New Iberia. Graydon Smart, editor of The Shreveport Magazine, spoke briefly about the Shreveport president of the Shreveport Ad Club, spoke briefly about the club's program for advertising Shreveport. At the morning session Hank Slavick of Memphis, Tenn., regional director of the National Association of Broadcasters, described a reorganization of the N. A. B. under which AM, FM and television stations are in separate divisions.

Francis Edwards, local attorney, spoke on the every day legal problems of broadcasters. Mayor Clyde E. Fant welcomed the group to Shreveport at the opening of the meeting.

East All-Stars Win First Game

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Big Jack Lewis of Birmingham, Ala., caught two touchdown passes tonight to give the East a 12-7 victory over the West in the annual National High School All-Star football game.

The deciding score came with just 30 seconds to play and was on a throw from Hayward Sullivan of Dothan, Ala., on the West 13-yard line to Lewis deep in the end zone.

Teddy Millette of Greenville, Miss., who gained 101 yards in 22 tries, was selected as outstanding player of the game.

Cotton States League

BATHERS LOSE

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Ray Mink gave up 12 hits but kept them scattered as Natchez defeated Hot Springs, 3-2, here tonight.

Natchez made only four hits off Don Caccavo, and none of the four figured in the scoring. Several walks by Caccavo did, however.

GILERS GOOD

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Aug. 27.—El Dorado made 17 hits good for as many runs and a 17-8 victory over Pine Bluff here tonight.

There were three homers, all by the losers, in the 30-hit game. Ben Cantrell got two and Jim Schumaker one.

The Cardinal management tonight said that first baseman Pete Christy, who suffered a knee injury last night, probably will be out for the rest of the season. The Cardinals signed J. W. Mayo of Greenville, Miss., former Cotton States player, to replace Christy.

Tugboat Skipper's Death Is Accidental

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A coroner's jury ruled here today that Henry Myers was accidentaly drowned in the intercoastal canal near here.

Myers, 54, went down with the Betty M. a tugboat on which he had been the skipper for several years. The tug sank early Friday morning south of Vinton, La.

Ivan L. Harless, secretary-treasurer of the Lake Charles Towing and Dredging Company, which owns the tug, told the coroner's jury that in his opinion the boat must have struck a mud bank, keeled over, shipped water and capsized.

The two crew members, William Boyle and his nephew, Lee Boyle, both of Lake Arthur, escaped through a window of a bunkroom. They also testified at the inquest conducted by Coroner E. L. Clement.

Funeral services for Myers will be held at a funeral home here tomorrow afternoon.

Max Bishop, U. S. Naval Academy baseball coach since 1938, played in three World Series—1929, '30 and '31—with the Philadelphia Athletics.

American League Umpire Bill Summers, a former boxer, began umpiring in 1921 in the Eastern League.

Woman's Will Makes Dog, Five Cats Rich

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A dog and five cats have inherited two houses, furniture and an income for the rest of their lives.

The will of Mrs. Catherine Olberg, prominent Petaluma, Calif., newspaper woman who died earlier this month at 74, was filed yesterday. It left these for her pets:

Her home and its furniture as long as they live, the revenue from another house, benefits from her social security and a savings account.

The will specified for the pets a diet twice daily of "fresh boiled meat fixed in a stew with carrots flavored with onions and garlic."

60 Planes Moved From Keesler In Face Of Storm

BILOXI, Miss., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Sixty aircraft at Keesler A. F. B. were evacuated this afternoon because of a threat from the Florida hurricane, the public information office announced. The planes were shifted to Barksdale and Birmingham.

The personnel of the 12,000-man base was alerted for any emergency. Two squadrons were ordered to report for immediate duty to tie down and otherwise secure planes not being flown from the station.

The coast guard air sea rescue plane at Keesler, following a morning flight to Apalachicola and St. Marks, Fla., was on a standby basis awaiting storm developments.

Spats Challenged By Auto Pirates

Spatafora's Pharmacy finds its softball laurels hard to gain and harder to keep from wilting.

First they were challenged by Spatafora's Grocery. They lost.

Next came the City League All-Stars. The Spats eked out a one-run win after 11 hard innings.

Monday night they have been invited out to play a mixed game of softball and baseball at Cloyd's Field against the West Monroe rebels for the Millsaps P. T. A.

Now comes something new. The Monroe Auto Auction Pirates, winners of the senior softball circuit, want to get in on the fun.

They issued a challenge here last night to the Spats inviting them out to a game at their earliest convenience.

The Pirates, managed by James McKay, lost their only game to the Spats 6 to 3 after extra innings at the district tournament.

The Spats will be old men by the time they beat down all the upstarts.

Lumber Co. Employe Injured In Cycle Crash

A West Monroe lumber company employe was injured last night when he was knocked from his motorcycle in a collision at the intersection of Oakland and Cypress streets, West Monroe.

Injured was J. D. Taylor, about 22. He was taken to the Conway Memorial by a Hixson Brothers ambulance for treatment of a lacerated right ear and minor bruises.

Police said Taylor was hurt when an automobile driven by a Negro, Eddie Smith, 56, of Rt. 1, West Monroe, turned onto Oakland street from Cypress and into the path of Taylor's approaching, south-bound motorcycle.

At the hospital last night, attendants said the injured man's condition did not appear serious.

Police said they had not filed charges pending the result of Taylor's condition.

Broadcasters Elect Association Officials

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—T. B. Lanford of KRMD was elected president of the Louisiana Association of Broadcasters at the closing session of their meeting today at the KTBS Studios.

He succeeds Roy Dabadie of Baton Rouge who with Henry B. Clay, manager of KWKH-KWKH-FM, the times stations retiring vice-president, was elected to the board of directors.

Other officers for the coming year are I. K. Corkern, Jr., of Bogalusa, vice-president, and Robert W. Dumm of Monroe, secretary-treasurer. Paul Goldman of Alexandria was last year's secretary-treasurer.

Additional members of the board of directors are Frank H. Ford, Jr., of Kent; Edgar B. Stern, Jr., New Orleans; H. W. Bumpas, Baton Rouge; Charles Planchard, Natchitoches, and Willard Cobb, Alexandria.

A panel discussion of radio advertising problems was presented during the afternoon by Ted Fontelieu of New Orleans, Planchard, and Dierrell Hamm, New Iberia. Graydon Smart, editor of The Shreveport Magazine, spoke briefly about the Shreveport president of the Shreveport Ad Club, spoke briefly about the club's program for advertising Shreveport. At the morning session Hank Slavick of Memphis, Tenn., regional director of the National Association of Broadcasters, described a reorganization of the N. A. B. under which AM, FM and television stations are in separate divisions.

Francis Edwards, local attorney, spoke on the every day legal problems of broadcasters. Mayor Clyde E. Fant welcomed the group to Shreveport at the opening of the meeting.

PLAYOFF PLANS

WINNSBORO, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Winnsboro will meet the Columbia Ramblers here Monday night at 8:15 in the Memorial park in the first game of a four-out-of-seven series to decide the Northeast Louisiana League winner.

"Frenchy" Marionneaux, business manager of the Red Sox, said umpires would be Veach, Patterson, and Mayes. Alternates will be Calhoun, Duncan, and Abernethy.

This is the third year Winnsboro has gone into the finals in the fast semi-pro league. They have won the pennant two times. Columbia will go into the finals for its second time.

The Ramblers and Red Sox ran one-two in standings during the regular campaign.

Tuesday night's game will be in Columbia, with the teams swapping towns after each game, in the same manner, until the pennant winner is decided.

NEVILLE TIGERETTES, CHEERLEADERS READY TO GO

Above, the perenially snappy Neville Tigerettes try out the maneuver titled "To The Four Winds" as they practice for Neville's opening game against Bolton of Alexandria on September 9. The Tigerettes have been practicing under Miss Marilyn Rosenberg and Richard Rosenbaum since August 15. Leading one line is tiny Miss Paula Neal, mascot of the group and daughter of the school principal. At left the four cheerleaders for Neville are shown. Left to right, they are Betty Marsala, Rita Scalia, Pat Wadley, and Frances Shepard, who were elected last spring. (Tigerette photo by Staff Photographer Marvin Dubos).

East All-Stars Win First Game

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Big Jack Lewis of Birmingham, Ala., caught two touchdown passes tonight to give the East a 12-7 victory over the West in the annual National High School All-Star football game.

The deciding score came with just 30 seconds to play and was on a throw from Hayward Sullivan of Dothan, Ala., on the West 13-yard line to Lewis deep in the end zone.

Teddy Millette of Greenville, Miss., who gained 101 yards in 22 tries, was selected as outstanding player of the game.

Tugboat Skipper's Death Is Accidental

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A coroner's jury ruled here today that Henry Myers was accidentaly drowned in the intercoastal canal near here.

Myers, 54, went down with the Betty M. a tugboat on which he had been the skipper for several years. The tug sank early Friday morning south of Vinton, La.

Ivan L. Harless, secretary-treasurer of the Lake Charles Towing and Dredging Company, which owns the tug, told the coroner's jury that in his opinion the boat must have struck a mud bank, keeled over, shipped water and capsized.

The two crew members, William Boyle and his nephew, Lee Boyle, both of Lake Arthur, escaped through a window of a bunkroom. They also testified at the inquest conducted by Coroner E. L. Clement.

Funeral services for Myers will be held at a funeral home here tomorrow afternoon.

Max Bishop, U. S. Naval Academy baseball coach since 1938, played in three World Series—1929, '30 and '31—with the Philadelphia Athletics.

American League Umpire Bill Summers, a former boxer, began umpiring in 1921 in the Eastern League.

Woman's Will Makes Dog, Five Cats Rich

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A dog and five cats have inherited two houses, furniture and an income for the rest of their lives.

The will of Mrs. Catherine Olberg, prominent Petaluma, Calif., newspaper woman who died earlier this month at 74, was filed yesterday. It left these for her pets:

Her home and its furniture as long as they live, the revenue from another house, benefits from her social security and a savings account.

The will specified for the pets a diet twice daily of "fresh boiled meat fixed in a stew with carrots flavored with onions and garlic."

60 Planes Moved From Keesler In Face Of Storm

BILOXI, Miss., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Sixty aircraft at Keesler A. F. B. were evacuated this afternoon because of a threat from the Florida hurricane, the public information office announced. The planes were shifted to Barksdale and Birmingham.

The personnel of the 12,000-man base was alerted for any emergency. Two squadrons were ordered to report for immediate duty to tie down and otherwise secure planes not being flown from the station.

The coast guard air sea rescue plane at Keesler, following a morning flight to Apalachicola and St. Marks, Fla., was on a standby basis awaiting storm developments.

Spats Challenged By Auto Pirates

Spatafora's Pharmacy finds its softball laurels hard to gain and harder to keep from wilting.

First they were challenged by Spatafora's Grocery. They lost.

Next came the City League All-Stars. The Spats eked out a one-run win after 11 hard innings.

Monday night they have been invited out to play a mixed game of softball and baseball at Cloyd's Field against the West Monroe (ebels for the Millsaps P. T. A.

Now comes something new. The Monroe Auto Auction Pirates, winners of the senior softball circuit, want to get in on the fun.

They issued a challenge here last night to the Spats inviting them out to a game at their earliest convenience.

The Pirates, managed by James McKay, lost their only game to the Spats 6 to 3 after extra innings at the district tournament.

The Spats will be old men by the time they beat down all the upstarts.

Lumber Co. Employe Injured In Cycle Crash

A West Monroe lumber company employe was injured last night when he was knocked from his motorcycle in a collision at the intersection of Oakland and Cypress streets, West Monroe.

Injured was J. D. Taylor, about 22. He was taken to the Conway Memorial by a Hixson Brothers ambulance for treatment of a lacerated right ear and minor bruises.

Police said Taylor was hurt when an automobile driven by a Negro, Eddie Smith, 56, of Rt. 1, West Monroe, turned onto Oakland street from Cypress and into the path of Taylor's approaching, south-bound motorcycle.

At the hospital last night, attendants said the injured man's condition did not appear serious.

Police said they had not filed charges pending the result of Taylor's condition.

West Monroe Teams Schedule Exhibition

Two rival West Monroe teams in the Delta League will clash today at 3 p. m. in Cloyd's Field in an exhibition game.

Fighting it out, simply to "keep in shape and for honor," will be the Rebels and Vols, currently running third and fourth in league competition.

Both teams had scheduled games today with league teams but both games were forfeited. A final game between the Delhi Oilers and Jonesville will determine league standings today. Playoff games are scheduled to start Tuesday night.

Hurling for the Vols today will be Yossett, with Maxey behind the plate. Manager Left Counts of the Rebs has not announced his choice for mound duty yet.

HEATH BEATS REDS

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Jeff Heath poled a home run in the ninth inning today to pull the Braves into a 5-5 tie and then slammed another in the tenth for a 6-5 Boston decision over the Cincinnati Reds. Both wallops, into the right field bleachers, were off Ewell Blackwell, who finished the last three and two thirds innings.

FROCKS WITH A VERSATILE AIR

By Sue Burnett

Pretty frocks to have ready for whatever the occasion demands—that's the problem of many of our readers. So today we're illustrating two lovely styles that will fit a multitude of needs. At left, buttons trim one shoulder of this simple style; at right, a becoming dress for misses that's as versatile as can be.

Pattern No. 8406 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, short sleeve, 3 7/8 yards of 39-inch.

Pattern No. 8488 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14, short sleeve, 5 5/8 yards of 39-inch.

Two separate patterns, 25 cents each.

For these patterns, send 25 cents, in COINS, for EACH pattern ordered, your name, address, sizes desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Monroe Morning World, 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 19, N. Y.

The Fall and Winter FASHION is a complete guide in planning a wearable fall wardrobe. New—exciting—informative. Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

OIL INDUSTRY

A flight of 60 Naval fighter planes from Akron, and the Truculent Turtle, famed navy distance flight airplane, swooped over the gathering in the Drake Memorial Park just outside Titusville.

At a luncheon session, Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-aKn) told guests "our standard of living and what we call our American way of life, is in a large degree built upon the availability of petroleum and its products. He added:

"Unhampered by restrictive legislation, the oil men have shown over and over again that they can keep this nation well supplied with all the products of petroleum that it needs."

Schoeppel said that despite World War II's tremendous drain, oil men have discovered so much new oil "that currently proven reserves are almost 28,000,000,000 barrels of liquid hydrocarbons.

Drake's well did not provide the first crude petroleum. It had been found elsewhere in Pennsylvania and New York in springs, wells and on stream surfaces. Early settlers used it for medicine and liniment.

Not until petroleum's possibilities as an illuminating material were suspected by capitalists was Drake hired by a New York and New Haven, Conn., group to drill for oil.

Adopting the technique of salt well drillers, Drake used hand-made tools and invented the method of casing a well hole that is in use today. Other practices he developed also remain standard drilling procedure.

Drake's discovery brought a rush to western Pensylvania that exceeded the California gold rush of 1849. Millions were made in oil and scores of sleeping farm villages awoke to a boom-town existence.

The man who started it all drilled another well but did not become a big producer and never made important money. He left Titusville for New York in 1863, lost his health and died as a pensioner of the state of Pennsylvania.

Folks in Titusville still like to tell how Drake gained his title as colonel. When he was hired by the Seneca Oil Co., to drill the first well, the promoters of the scheme addressed his mail to "Colonel E. L. Drake," hoping the fictitious title would give their representative more standing among townspeople.

LEGION

erans of the Second World War. They are Erle Cocke, Jr., Dawson, Ga.; James F. Green, Omaha, Neb.; Donald R. Wilson, Clarksburg, W. Va., and George M. Craig, Brazil, Ind.

The veterans of the First World War in the race are Arthur J. Connell, Middletown, Conn., and James F. Daniel of Greenville, S. C.

Some 50,000 visitors are expected here in addition to the delegates. Hotels already are filling up and the convention overflow will spill into private homes and nearby cities.

Police are under orders to arrest any users of water pistols, electric canes and other trick devices, outlawed in a recent city ordinance. They've been favorite devices at some other conventions.

Meeting simultaneously with the legion sesisons at Convention Hall will be the women's auxiliary and the funmaking groups, "40 et 8" for men and "8 et 40" for women.

The "40 et 8", named after the 40 men and eight-horses capacity of French box cars in World War One, will put on their own parade Monday night, rolling replicas of the well-remembered box cars through the streets.

The funmakers will don their traditional brightly-colored smocks and hats and maneuver through the streets in ancient model autos, cannon-firing night in huge Municipal Stadium. Others are slated Sunday and Monday afternoons.

Up for consideration by legion committees will be more than 800 proposals from state departments. These will be discussed at committee meetings before submission to the convention.

Most of the convention action will be on foreign affairs. There also is likely to be another broadside leveled at Communists and fresh decisions on veterans' job preference and housing.

Mississippi Justice Urges Socialist Fight

JACKSON, Miss., Aug 27.—(AP)—The chief justice of the Mississippi supreme court urged the legal profession today ot fight against a Socialistic government in the United States.

"Lawyers have made a great contribution to the establishment and maintenance of the greatest constitutional form of government that ever graced the earth," declared Chief Justice Harvey McGehee. "May they not now stand idly by and permit it to be converted into a Socialistic state."

McGehee addressed 35 summer graduates of the University of Mississippi law school as they were admitted to the state bar in ceremonies held in the supreme court room.

It was the first such summer session ever held and was attended by the entire court.

McGehee called on the fledgling barristers to render a full life of public service, adding that lawyers "work hard, live well and die poor."

FROCKS WITH A VERSATILE AIR

By Sue Burnett

Pretty frocks to have ready for whatever the occasion demands—that's the problem of many of our readers. So today we're illustrating two lovely styles that will fit a multitude of needs. At left, buttons trim one shoulder of this simple style; at right, a becoming dress for misses that's as versatile as can be.

Pattern No. 8406 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, short sleeve, 3 7/8 yards of 39-inch.

Pattern No. 8488 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14, short sleeve, 5 5/8 yards of 39-inch.

Two separate patterns, 25 cents each.

For these patterns, send 25 cents, in COINS, for EACH pattern ordered, your name, address, sizes desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Monroe Morning World, 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 19, N. Y.

The Fall and Winter FASHION is a complete guide in planning a wearable fall wardrobe. New—exciting—informative. Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

OIL INDUSTRY

A flight of 60 Naval fighter planes from Akron, and the Truculent Turtle, famed navy distance flight airplane, swooped over the gathering in the Drake Memorial Park just outside Titusville.

At a luncheon session, Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-aKn) told guests "our standard of living and what we call our American way of life, is in a large degree built upon the availability of petroleum and its products. He added:

"Unhampered by restrictive legislation, the oil men have shown over and over again that they can keep this nation well supplied with all the products of petroleum that it needs."

Schoeppel said that despite World War II's tremendous drain, oil men have discovered so much new oil "that currently proven reserves are almost 28,000,000,000 barrels of liquid hydrocarbons.

Drake's well did not provide the first crude petroleum. It had been found elsewhere in Pennsylvania and New York in springs, wells and on stream surfaces. Early settlers used it for medicine and liniment.

Not until petroleum's possibilities as an illuminating material were suspected by capitalists was Drake hired by a New York and New Haven, Conn., group to drill for oil.

Adopting the technique of salt well drillers, Drake used hand-made tools and invented the method of casing a well hole that is in use today. Other practices he developed also remain standard drilling procedure.

Drake's discovery brought a rush to western Pensylvania that exceeded the California gold rush of 1849. Millions were made in oil and scores of sleeping farm villages awoke to a boomtown existence.

The man who started it all drilled another well but did not become a big producer and never made important money. He left Titusville for New York in 1863, lost his health and died as a pensioner of the state of Pennsylvania.

Folks in Titusville still like to tell how Drake gained his title as colonel. When he was hired by the Seneca Oil Co., to drill the first well, the promoters of the scheme addressed his mail to "Colonel E. L. Drake," hoping the fictitious title would give their representative more standing among townspeople.

erans of the Second World War. They are Erle Cocke, Jr., Dawson, Ga.; James F. Green, Omaha, Neb.; Donald R. Wilson, Clarksburg, W. Va., and George M. Craig, Brazil, Ind.

The veterans of the First World War in the race are Arthur J. Connell, Middletown, Conn., and James F. Daniel of Greenville, S. C.

Some 50,000 visitors are expected here in addition to the delegates. Hotels already are filling up and the convention overflow will spill into private homes and nearby cities.

Police are under orders to arrest any users of water pistols, electric canes and other trick devices, outlawed in a recent city ordinance. They've been favorite devices at some other conventions.

Meeting simultaneously with the legion sesisons at Convention Hall will be the women's auxiliary and the funmaking groups, "40 et 8" for men and "8 et 40" for women.

The "40 et 8", named after the 40 men and eight-horses capacity of French box cars in World War One, will put on their own parade Monday night, rolling replicas of the well-remembered box cars through the streets.

The funmakers will don their traditional brightly-colored smocks and hats and maneuver through the streets in ancient model autos, cannon-firing night in huge Municipal Stadium. Others are slated Sunday and Monday afternoons.

Up for consideration by legion committees will be more than 800 proposals from state departments. These will be discussed at committee meetings before submission to the convention.

Most of the convention action will be on foreign affairs. There also is likely to be another broadside leveled at Communists and fresh decisions on veterans' job preference and housing.

Mississippi Justice Urges Socialist Fight

JACKSON, Miss., Aug 27.—(AP)—The chief justice of the Mississippi supreme court urged the legal profession today ot fight against a Socialistic government in the United States.

"Lawyers have made a great contribution to the establishment and maintenance of the greatest constitutional form of government that ever graced the earth," declared Chief Justice Harvey McGehee. "May they not now stand idly by and permit it to be converted into a Socialistic state."

McGehee addressed 35 summer graduates of the University of Mississippi law school as they were admitted to the state bar in ceremonies held in the supreme court room.

It was the first such summer session ever held and was attended by the entire court.

McGehee called on the fledgling barristers to render a full life of public service, adding that lawyers "work hard, live well and die poor."

PIANO
HORSE SENSE

You wouldn't trade a watermelon for a peanut, neither would you knowingly trade your hard earned dollars for cheap, inferior merchandise. That is the reason you should consider the following facts.

Why has Roark Bros. Piano Co. continued to break sales records year after year, culminating into larger sales volume, with more and more satisfied customers? Is this a mere coincidence? NO . . .

THE ANSWER

1—We are dealers for AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR SELLING PIANOS, including the famous KNABE, KIMBALL, LESTER-BETSY-ROSS SPINET, WINTER MUSETTE and the IVERS & POND.

2—Efficient, capable servicemen see that our merchandise is NEVER ALLOWED to go out of our store without a THOROUGH INSPECTION and TUNING. This is a "MUST" whether a practice instrument or a CONCERT GRAND. No job is too little to go unchecked.

3—* NO RED TAPE
* NO EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS
* NO DELAY
* EASY DOWN PAYMENTS
* EASY MONTHLY PAYMENTS

PIANO
HORSE SENSE

You wouldn't trade a watermelon for a peanut, neither would you knowingly trade your hard earned dollars for cheap, inferior merchandise. That is the reason you should consider the following facts.

Why has Roark Bros. Piano Co. continued to break sales records year after year, culminating into larger sales volume, with more and more satisfied customers? Is this a mere coincidence? NO . . .

THE ANSWER

1—We are dealers for AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR SELLING PIANOS, including the famous KNABE, KIMBALL, LESTER-BETSY-ROSS SPINET, WINTER MUSETTE and the IVERS & POND.

2—Efficient, capable servicemen see that our merchandise is NEVER ALLOWED to go out of our store without a THOROUGH INSPECTION and TUNING. This is a "MUST" whether a practice instrument or a CONCERT GRAND. No job is too little to go unchecked.

* NO RED TAPE
* NO EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS
* NO DELAY

URGE CHANGES IN ARMING PROGRAM

Senate Soon To Decide On Cut In Figure, Inclusion Of China

By Max Boyd

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Two Republican senators—Vandenberg of Michigan and Knowland of California—maintained pressure today for major changes in President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms aid program.

A senate committee showdown is due shortly on the issues these involve: (1) Whether to cut the western Europe aid figure, and (2) whether to write China into the bill.

Vandenberg refused to drop his demand that congress make a $160,990,000 slash in proposed military assistance for European members of the Atlantic alliance, although Gen. Omar N. Bradley told senate committees yesterday that such a cut would be false economy.

Most of the money that the Michigan senator wants to take out of the program is intended to stimulate arms production in Atlantic pact countries. He is backing an amendment jointly with Senator Dulles (R.-N. Y.).

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff of the U. S. armed services, contends the $155,000,000 Mr. Truman asked for this purpose would enable pact members to retool existing factories and produce more than $700,000,000 of arms.

Vandenberg and his supporters argue, however, that increasing western European arms production should await recommendations to be made by the defense council contemplated under the Atlantic alliance.

They are reported to feel also that helping France to increase its arms-making would be resented in western Germany, where the occupying powers have dismantled many industrial plants.

Vandenberg intends to present his arguments next week to the combined senate committees on foreign relations and armed services, which are preparing the arms aid bill for senate consideration.

It has passed the house which voted to cut funds for western Europe exactly in half.

Knowland promised a "full-scale review of our policy in the Pacific" when the program reaches the senate floor.

He said newspaper reports indicate that administration leaders still do not like his proposal that arms for China be included in the program, although he modified his proposed amendment on this subject yesterday.

"I am going to continue fighting for it in the committees and on the senate floor, and we will have a full-scale review of our policy in the Pacific," Knowland told a reporter.

The Californian said he will not be satisfied by a reported compromise proposal that some money for non-Communist China—but no requirement that it be spent for arms—be added to the bill.

"I'm going to insist that China be treated on the same basis as other nations in this bill," Knowland declared. "We have neglected our Asiatic flank long enough.'

The bill carries nothing for China at present. Secretary of State Acheson, who has written off China's Nationalist government as a failure, told congress recently that the administration did not feel justified in asking arms for China. He said a fund that the president could use in the far east at his discretion would be helpful, however.

Knowlands latest proposal would authorize the president to spend $210,640,000 at his discretion for military assistance to non-Communist China, Korea, the Philippines and elsewhere in the far east.

Knowland's amendment would make a net addition of $193,000,000 to the bill, since the original already carries some funds for Korea and the Philippines.

Knowland and Senator George (D.-Ga.) agreed in talking with reporters that $1,000,000,000—the amount favored by Senator Vandenberg—is the most the administration can hope to obtain from the senate for arms aid to Atlantic pact countries.

The Californian said this is the "top limit" and George said he personally would like to limit the entire program to between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000 in cash, plus $450,000,000 in excess arms.

The administration bill asks $1,450,000,000 cash with authority to send surplus arms. The house and the senate committees have voted a $450,000,000 ceiling on excess military equipment sent abroad.

George, a member of the foreign relations committee, declared:

"What the American people don't realize is that the administration program amounts to nearly $2,000,000,000 when one considers the cash and excess arms."

Members disclosed today that the combined committees voted 21 to 2 earlier this week as they accepted a Vandenberg-Dulles amendment providing that the arms aid shall conform to Atlantic pact joint defense plans which this nation may approve.

EUROPEANS DRAW

10. Freedom from discrimination because of race, religion, national origin, sex and political or other opinion.

11. Freedom from arbitrary confiscation of property.

This list was based on preparatory work done by the European movement. the private organization headed by Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, which used the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution as one of its models.

The proposed steering committee is intended to meet numerous suggestions that the assembly create some permanent body to direct and coordinate its work between yearly sessions.

Committee members said the chairman would be Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Socialist president of the assembly. Other members would be the four vice-presidents of the assembly and 10 to 12 delegates elected by the assembly from a list nominated by Spaak and the vice-presidents.

The vice-presidents are Lord Layton of Britain, Francois de Menthon for France, Ole Bjoren Kraft of Denmark and Stefano Jacini of Italy.

An assistant secretary general would work full time for the steering committee which would have permanent headquarters at Strasbourg.

BEVIN, CRIPPS

ain must have dollars to buy the raw materials and food she needs.

The Washington conference opens September 7 with U. S., British and Bevin and Cripps will be traveling Canadian representatives taking part. together on the Mauretania. They leave Wednesday Bevin originally was booked to sail on the Queen Elizabeth today. He postponed his sailing, informants said, to have another try at getting Cripps to think as he does.

Before the cabinet Monday will be a 15-page brief drawn up by treasury, foreign office and trade officials on the causes and possible cures of Britain's economic plight.

In essence it would bind both the British government and industry to productivity.

cut down working costs and to raise

It suggests ways in which Britain can earn more dollars by selling more and cheaper goods through high-pressure sales technique.

It asks the United States to liberalize both tariff policy and tariff administratoin.

It calls for an American promise to buy fixed amounts of basic commodities from the sterling area at fixed prices for fixed periods.

And it proposes swift, joint implementation of President Truman's "fourth point" for developing backward areas where the British pound is used.

The mandate Bevin and Cripps will carry to Washington will be broad. Although they will be in constant touch with London, they are not likely to be bound down by too-precise cabinet instructions.

British official spokesmen always deny there is a basic Bevin-Cripps rift. They qualify that, usually, by saying it's natural and understandable for two ministers having different responsibilities to approach the same problem from different directions.

It is true that when Bevin and Cripps sail for Washington they will go as a team, not as individuals. Nor will either have any overriding responsibility. The responsibility is collective and is vested in the cabinet.

Despite all this, Bevin is unlikely easily to drop his vision of integrating the pound and dollar systems as he helped to integrate the two countries' political and military systems through the North Atlantic pact.

The informants add that the essential difference between Bevin and Cripps may well be expressed in the Washington talks in this way:

Bevin may appear more ready to make concessions to the United States than Cripps. To him maintenance of Anglo-American diplomatic unity is transcendant.

Cripps, however, is likely to seem less accommodating because of his intense desire to retain Britain's and the commonwealth's economic independence, and to achieve full British economic recovery, by sound ecenomic—and not political—methods.

One question on which the two men have easily agreed concerns a proposal they will make in Washington for setting up a joint permanent Anglo-American economic council.

This economic high command would have functions very much like those of the Anglo-French or the Anglo-Canadian economic committees.

It would be empowered to plan and coordinate economic development, trade, production, of the two countries. One of the British advisers at Washington will be Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of Britain's economic planning board.

swept through the Cochino and she went to the bottom. Only one of her complement, civilian Technician Robert W. Philo of Newark N.: J. perished.

When the Tusk set out for Hammerfest, the nearest port with medical facilities, she was minus six of her own complement.

The victims, including Lt. (J. G.) Wilson Manley Shafer, Jr., Stamford, Conn., were washed out of a rubber boat by high seas during the rescue operation.

In Hammerfest, which lies 250 miles from Murmansk, Russia, four survivors who suffered burns were released from the hospital after examination. A fifth who suffered serious burns was described as "considerably better" today.

The two undersea vessels, among the most modern of American postwar submarines, were accompanied by the subs Toro and Corsair. They were on cold-water training exercises when disaster overtook the Cochino. Both the Tusk and Cochino carried Snorkel "breathing" tubes which enable underwater craft to remain submerged for long periods.

Commander S. V. Storheill of the Norwegian naval high command told reporters in Hammerfest there was no reason to be surprised at the presence of U. S. ships near Norway's Arctic coast.

"We knew about it long in advance," he said. "It is only natural that they want to train their crews under those conditions."

Commander William Porter, U. S. attache in Hammerfest, said the Cochino was on a "routine cruise outside of Norwegian territorial waters." He did not give the exact position where the explosions occurred but said there was no indication American vessels were approaching Russian waters.

American naval authorities in London said the Tusk will leave Norway Monday for New London, Conn., with the Cochino survivors.

The Tusk was expected to arrive at Tromsoe, south of Hammerfest, tonight, where the injured survivors will be examined by navy doctors. It will be decided then whether they will proceed to New London aboard the Tusk or return to this base in England on the U. S. destroyer Samuel H. Roberts which is enroute to Tromsoe.

W. Monroe Kiwanis Hear Missionary From Africa

Mrs. Bernice Vanderemerwe, missionary from South Africa, spoke before members of the West Monroe Kwanis Club Thursday at the club's regular meeting.

She explained that "the Union of South Africa is a land of extreme contrast," and pointed out ways in which the primitive peoples live.

Mrs. Vanderemerwe was introduced by Rev. E. L. Tanner following an interlude of music by Helen LeFerve.

would give our business to other rubber companies."

On that score, the other members of the big four—General Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone and Goodyear—have contracts with their workers that do not expire until next year.

However, all of their working agreements have reopening clauses on wages. Conversations on these still are in progress.

In his statement explaining why he felt the strike was necessary, U. R. W. President Lloyd said the company made these demands:

"That the union agree to a no strike pledge which would have rendered the union liable for illegal acts committed by employes who were not even members of the union.

"That the company be given the right to file grievances against the union and to take such grievances to arbitration."

"This particular clause, alone," said Lloyd, "would have given the company every opoprtunity to bankrupt local unions by forcing every little issue to arbitration—an expensive process.

"To the best of my knowledge no corporation in the country has ever made such an outlandish demand."

The convention will open next Saturday with registration in the lobby of the Virginia Hotel, and will be followed by a cocktail party at the Progressive Men's Club at Selman Field. Registration will continue at the Virginia Sunday morning. Registrants will march in a body from the Virginia to St. Matthew's Church for mass at 8:30 a. m., and the men's business session will start at 10 a. m. A luncheon for all officers, governors and their wives will be held in the Crystal ballroom at the Virginia from 1 to 2 p. m., and another convention session will follow at 2:30 p. m., at which time officers for the coming year will be elected. A boat ride for ladies of the convention will shove off at 4 p. m., and the annual banquet will be held on the Virginia roof starting at 7:30 p. m. The coronation ball will wind up the Sunday program at 10 p. m. at the clubhouse at Selman Field.

The convention will close Monday, Labor Day, with the final business session starting at 9:30 a. m., and the softball playoff at Selman Field at 2 p. m.

the army, said he saw a good deal of Vaughan when he (Hunt) was liaison officer for the quartermaster general and later as liaison officer for the war assets administration.

"Although we have become good friends socially," Hunt said, "I have never to the best of my recollection, asked General Vaughan to do anything for me or for a client or friend of mine more important than getting football tickets to the Army-Notre Dame football game."

As for whether Vaughan ever sought favors from him, Hunt said:

"I have no recollection of his ever asking me to do anything more important than to get a supply of matches for Ambassador Pauley or a fresh supply for the White House."

(The testimony at the hearings was that matches were sought for William D. Pawley, former ambassador to Brazil. The name of Edwin W. Pauley, also a former ambassador, has not figured in testimony regarding matches.)

The committee has wanted to call Hunt to the witness stand, but doctors have told the investigators he is to ill to testify. They reported he won't be able to go before the committee for at least a month.

In the affidavit Hunt told the committee there is no truth about much of the knowledge concerning him. In some cases, on the other hand, he acknowledged it had been accurate.

But he stoutly maintained he is innocent of any wrong-doing. And he asserted the business he is in is entirely proper.

Referring to his company, Hunt said: "We expect to continue in business for a long time to come." He added:

"Because of my thorough knowledge of the workings of many government agencies and departments and because of my wide circle of friends and acquaintances in those departments, I was able to perform a service which I know was of real value to my clients and I believe of real value to the government."

Senator Hoey (D-NC), the committee chairman, told reporters he had not seen the Hunt affidavit yet. Hoey added that the committee will study the document before deciding whether to admit it to the record.

The committee, meanwhile, got a helping hand from the Justice department in another phase of its investigation.

The department, a committee official said, has let the senate investigators take a look at records dealing with a customs duty incident in which John Maragon was involved in 1945.

Maragon, who once had entree to the White House, is another central figure in the inquiry. The committee has received documentary evidence that four years ago Maragon tried to bring through customs a supply of valuable perfume oils disguised as champagne for the White House.

The committee has been trying to find out why Maragon never was prosecuted in the case. He did pay an $1,155 penalty.

FLORIDA

were wrenched from the soil, roofs were hurled into the air and debris at bullet speed beat a tattoo against windows and walls.

West Palm Beach was almost enough to stagger the imagination.

A metal and concrete hangar was twisted into scrap. Seventeen-thousand pound planes—16 of them—were tossed about like so many leaves in a breeze.

Twenty-four private planes were strewn about the international airport like wrecked toys.

West Palm Beach, Palm Beach, Delray Beach, Stuart and Lake Worth were sprinkled with glass, loose boards, signs, uprooted trees and foliage.

Tons of sand tossed up by pounding waves piled onto the lawns of the wealthy on the ocean front. Giant slabs of concrete were slapped about the unfinished pool at the Biltmore Hotel.

The state's vast citrus industry was hit hard. Grapefruit, heavy with juice, hurtled through the air like yellow cannon balls.

Fred Johnson, general sales manager for the Florida Citrus Exchange at Tampa, said the loss was greater than first expected and possibly would run into the millions.

After passing into the gulf today the storm veered northward to strike again. At Jacksonville gusts of up to 65 miles brought a heavy sign crashing atop a third story building. The roof caved in but none was hurt.

All through the state water damage was expected to be heavy.

Some spots were a picture of devastation. Thirty-seven wrecked airplanes were strewn around the West Palm Beach airport. They broke their moorings or were hit by wreckage from two collapsing hangars.

Highways were blocked in many places. A washed out bridge stopped rail traffic for a time at Stuart, but four trains rolled again when the bridge was repaired.

Five hundred were homeless at Stuart and property damage at this pretty resort town reached an estimated $3,500,000.

In Palm Beach, glamorous resort town that appears today like a lady with a hangover, and in West Palm Beach National Guardsmen patrolled downtown streets to prevent looting from shops with smashed windows. Winds tore off storm shutters, shattered glass fronts and pulled merchandise out of many stores. Streets were messy with broken glass, debris and toppled palm trees.

Two thousand of West Palm Beach's 7,300 homes suffered damage. The loss was estimated at $4,000,000.

Thousands who spent last night in Red Cross storm shelters were out today cleaning up and estimating their damage.

Communities in the rich winter vegetable growing area around Lake Okeechobee apparently rode out the fierce storm without loss of life.

Okeechobee City was cut off by fallen poles, wires and trees. Belle Glade suffered damage of about $1,000,000. The eye passed over Canal Point

Citrus losses of at least a million dollars were estimated by Fred Johnson of the Florida Citrus Exchange. It may run much higher when reports are in, he added.

A number of communities were without power or telephones.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Sixteen big transport planes and 24 private aircraft were wrecked in a spectacular assault on International Airport by south Florida's super-hurricane.

A metal-and-concrete hangar was destroyed. It fell into a twisted 40-foot junk heap, adorned by wrecked planes.

C-46 transport planes, weighing about 17,000 pounds each, were ripped from their moorings and tossed over the field—and out of it, one landed a quarter of a mile away.

The airport scene demonstrated, perhaps better than any other, the fury of last night's hurricane smack at the rich southeast Florida playground. Miraculously, there were no deaths reported in the path of the storm.

Residents in the hard-hit area from Fort Lauderdale to Stuart to Lake Okeechobee quickly tackled the big task of cleaning up the shambles.

Little girls helped sweep coconuts into a pile. Steam shovels scooped debris from the streets, lifting entire palm trees.

West Palm Beach and Palm Beach, Stuart, Delray Beach and Lake Worth were sprinkled with smashed glass, neon signs, loose boarding, foliage and other storm-swept clutter.

Power and telephone lines were restored in many areas and the hard-hit section slowly worked toward normal conditions.

Damage was estimated at $4,000,000 in Palm Beach area alone. At Stuart, the monster hurricane left $3,500,000 estimated damage and 500 homeless.

No one could estimate the total loss, but it might run to $10,000,000 or more on the "gold coast."

The airport here was a vivid illustration of concentrated havoc. Damage to buildings and planes at the field was estimated at more than $500,000.

Only one steel post remained upright at one hangar. Sheets of metal and twisted planes pyramided against the post. Near the top, one private plane lay spread-eagled like a cross.

Another plane wrapped itself around the top of the post like an apple sticking on a knife.

The C-46's were being converted from army to civilian transports by United Service for Air Co. One plane landed in a canal. Another was ripped down the back from the pilot's cabin to the tail as if with a can opener.

In all, 16 out of the 17 transports tied to concrete aprons were swept away. Some of them apparently rose on the 150-mile gusts for a little gliding without a crew or engine.

The howling wind tore so furiously at the hangar that it twisted steel posts. When they wouldn't break—it pulled them out with a big slab of concrete foundation, too. The posts fell to one side like a folded newspaper.

Wind and water dumped tons of sand into homes of the wealthy along Ocean boulevard. Two sections of the highway slid into the ocean between the Joseph E. Widener estate and the Lake Worth Casino.

A nearly completed pool at the Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel collapsed and giant slabs of concrete were hurled onto immaculate lawns at crazy angles.

In Lake Worth, a double window in a third-floor apartment bedroom smashed, and the bed was sucked out the window by the vicious wind. It landed a block away.

Doors and sheets of metal and wood sailed through the air like magic carpets.

At Delray Beach, a solid steel boxcar, loaded with lumber, was blown off the tracks and the freight station shed collapsed.

Bachman Appointed To L. T. I. Principalship

Superintendent J. C. Gresham said yesterday he had promoted F. D. Bachman to replace Kermit Youngblood as principal of the Louisiana Training Institute.

Youngblood's resignation effective Sept. 1. He resigned from the institute for what he said "was to accept a similar position with the Sabine parish school system."

Gresham said the new principal's appointment is temporary pending approval of the board at its next meeting in September.

Bachman, he said, has 28 years of experience in teaching and in the duties of a principal, having filled positions of librarian and teacher at Downsville High School for eighteen years. He came to the Louisiana Training Institute five years ago, Gresham said, as librarian and teacher.

Bachman, according to the superintendent, attended Baylor University and later obtained his B. A. degree at Louisiana College at Pineville, La. He is presently studying for his M. A. degree at L. S. U.

Gresham said, he had appointed as coach, Willis A. Tarver, 31-year-old graduate of Highpoint College in North Carolina and a former coach at Morris Hill, N. C., high school. Tarver, the superintendent said, has been assistant coach under Youngblood for the past five years.

1 Killed, 3 Hurt In Bus-Truck Crash

OPELOUSAS, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—An 11-months-old child was killed instantly in an auto-truck crash near here today. He was Louis Lalonde, son of Mr.and Mrs. Louis Lalonde of Opelousas.

The parents and another passenger, Elzie Dekerlegand were hurt seriously. They were taken to St. Landry clinic for treatment.

The driver of the truck, Donald Vidrine, was treated for lacerations at the Ville Platte hospital.

Dr. Gerald Bertinot, St. Landry parish coroner, will hold an inquest Wednesday.

bitter rioting broke out when thousands of paraders marching under veterans' groups colors met head-on with thousands of persons gathering for the concert.

In the fighting that followed, at least seven automobiles were turned upside down, and one was tossed off an embankment into a stream.

A cross was seen to be burning atop a hill above the picnic grove.

Several local veteran organizations announced earlier today that they were staging a "patriotic" parade around the picnic grove.

They said four brass bands would blare forth during Robeson's concert.

At 6:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) the parade started past the grove, located in the nearby town of Cortland.

The paraders shouted slogans while their bands blared out patriotic march tunes.

The parade turned into a dirt road leading to the concert bowl, where 2,000 camp chairs had been set up.

Concert goers formed a line across the road and then moved a huge truck across it as a roadblock.

Men and women on both sides were pushed back as the two bodies of persons met, and the concert forces started to sing a Negro spiritual. "We Shall Not Be Moved."

Two county sheriff's men held the surging marchers for a time, then fell back as pieces of wooden railing from a fence along the road began to fly through the air.

One man, identified as William Secor of Mohegan, N. Y., was reported stabbed in the melee that followed.

Members of the veterans' parade broke through the woods, overran the concert bowl, and started to tip apart the stage where Robeson was to sing.

They tossed camp chairs through the air and set fire to a pile of them.

Meanwhile, road blocks of stone, wood and wire were thrown up on roads leading out of the picnic area.

Cars trying to flee the rioting were stopped and at least seven vehicles were pitched upside down.

One unidentified Negro was reported beaten and thrown over a fence into a nearby cemetery.

A navy veteran. James Renza, 30, of Peekskill, was slugged on the back of the head and taken to the hospital bleeding heavily from a deep gash.

A group of men on the stage reportedly ordered a Negro woman who was on the concert platform to play "Yankee Doodle" and other American songs as the rioting swelled around.

Commanders of the veterans parade shouted orders for the men to disband—but the battling went on.

Some 50 state policemen arrived on the scene later and began to round up the crowd in groups.

At 10 p.m. (E. S. T.) they reported they were beginning to get the thousands of milling persons into hand.

Sporadic fist-fighting and shouting, however, still continued.

State policemen reported they found many women cowering in the dark woods around the riot scene.

Some of the women, they said, planned to remain there al night.

A man identifying himself as Howard Fast, the novelist, told reporters on the scene that he was acting as chairman of the meeting.

He said at least nine of the concert-goers were injured.

Fast assailed the parade that preceded the riot as a "fascist demonstration."

Persons in the parade, meanwhile, still carried posters and placards, some of which said "Not Wanted! Commies!," and "Robeson Is A Traitor."

SENATE APPROVES

spelling out the 70 groups, 22 separate squadrons and 61 air reserve groups was meaningless because a group of squadron varies widely.

The senate also struck from the house-passed bill authority for both the army and air forces to develop and buy guided missiles.

These are the push-button type, long-range weapons of the future wars of which the German buzz bombs and rockets were a forerunner toward the end of World War II.

The senate action apparently would leave up to the secretary of defense an undercover dispute among the air force, navy and army as to which arm should handle guided missiles.

The senate bill must go back to the house for action on numerous changes. These probably will be adjusted by a senate-house conference committee.

Both the house bill and the senate version fix the size and composition of both the air forces and the army for the future.

Actual expansion to these limits will be controlled by the funds allowed by congress in annual appropriations. This year the house allowed funds to expand the air force to 58 groups but the senate cut this total back to 48 groups in the military money bill now being debated in the senate.

The senate bill trimmed maximum authorized officer strength for both the army and air forces.

The house had authorized 33,500 regular officers on active duty for the army. The senate reduced this to 30,600.

For the air force the house authorized 27,500 active regular officers. The senate bill held this to 22,400.

The house had authorized 986,000 officers, warrant officers and enlisted persons for the organized reserve corps but the senate struck this out in favor of "such personnel strength as is necessary to form the basis for conmplete and immediate mobilization for national defense in the event of a national emergency."

The senate used the same broad term for the air force reserve instead of the 500.000 limit put up in by the house.

Finally, the senate bill denied authority to use air force funds for development, design or procurement of transport or cargo aircraft intended primarily for commercial use. Some members of congress have been urging that the air force meet costs of developing prototype commercial aircraft which would be used in case of war.

should have the opportunity to pare spending.

Lucas resisted all appeals for a vote even after the economy group signed up 24 Democrats and 39 Republicans—far more than the 49 majority of the senate—to a petition asking consideration.

Now McClellan has offered the economy directive as a rider to the huge 14,800,000,000 appropriation for the army, navy and air forces. The senate reached that figure by cutting the bill $1,118,000,000 below amounts voted by the house. It is up for a final vote Monday.

McClellan and other advocates of the directive say that slashes already made by congress below budget estimates of the president would be credited under the "5 and 10" economy order.

But Lucas differs with them.

He said congress already has sheared about $1,800,000,000 from President Truman's original requests. If any other reductions are to be made, Lucas said congress should take the responsibility.

Lucas said the economy rider amounts to congress admitting its inability to handle controls over the nation's purse strings.

"I condemn it as an act of political cowardice," the senate leader said. "Members of congress do not seem to realize that this is one of the most dangerous proposals ever advocated."

Lucas said that any president, under this authority, could cut off all federal funds and projects in all state or district of a member of congress he opposed.

The senate leader said President Truman, as a former senator, opposes the whole grant of power "which would give the president a blank to handle as he might desire."

Sponsors of the economy resolution said they are willing to take their chances on White House use of spending cutbacks against them.

Sheriff Moore said Justice signed the statement some time after his arrest on a charge of being intoxicated. Moore said Justice later talked to members of his family and an attorney. The sheriff quoted Justice today:

"I don't know anything about it. I don't remember what I told you. It all seems like a dream."

County Attorney F. P. Keeser said he told Justice:

"You sure have dreamed yourself into a lot of trouble."

No formal charge has been placed against Justice but Sheriff Moore said he planned to file a murder charge against him later.

Justice was the third person to tell authorities he was present when Miss Baldridge, pretty high school cheerleader, was slain.

William Gamble, 26, signed a statement at Cincinnati last Saturday that he and Olen Collins, 15, clubbed the girl after forcing her into their automobile. Collins previously had implicated Gamble in the killing.

Gamble is held on a murder charge and Collins as a material witness in an undisclosed east Kentucky jail. Officials have declined to reveal their location because of the high feeling in the area. Baldridge was very popular in her home town.

At Prestonsburg, Floyd County Sheriff Troy Sturgill said he has released two carnival workers who were questioned in connection with the case. Sturgill declined to comment on other developments in the case yesterday and today.

It was not disclosed how many troops had been flown to Cochabamba, but La Paz authorities expressed confidence the last pocket of revolutionary resistance soon would be wiped out.

Some government sources claimed the rebellion was directed from abroad by exiled leaders of the M. N. R. They said some army officers had joined the rebels but added that most of the nation's troops remained loyal.

Victor Paz Estenssoro, chief of the M. N. R., is now living in Montevideo, Uruguay. He recently was deported from Argentina along with seven other M. N. R. politicians on charges of plotting against Bolivia in connection with an abortive revolt last May.

Col. Pena Y Lillo, said to be a member of Rapeda, a secret society of army officers who helped put Villarroel in power, reportedly launched the revolt in Cochabamba.

Alfredo Mollinedo, minister of government, said the Potosi rebels were led by Mayor Barrenecha, a local M. N. R. leader. They established themselves in the prefecture building, but the Manchego regiment stationed in the city overpowered the revolutionaries before noon.

In Santa Cruz, Mollinedo said, rebel forces succeeded in seizing the army barracks and the prefecture building. They held these points for several hours until national police attacked and subdued them.

The Oruro revolt began as rebel bands attacked a police station and took four prisoners. They were overpowered and captured after they tried to storm a military camp, Mollinedo said.

Some rebel leaders at Oruro included "high officers of the army," he said.

Bolivia has experienced numerous outbreaks of violence during the past six months.

On June 5, the government announced it had crushed an attempt by revolutionaries to capture the railroad town of Villazon, on the Argentine border.

The announcement coincided with reports that a secret coalition of extreme rightist and leftist groups had been organized to overthrow the regime of President Enrique Hertzog and acting President Mamerto Urriolagoitia. The latter is serving during the illness of Hertzog who relinquished power temporarily on May 8.

Informed sources said the coalition seeking to overthrow the present government is called the National Liberation Front (F. L. N.) and was created by leaders of three dissident political factions.

These factions were identified as the Left Revolutionary Party (P. I. R.), a Communist bloc with Moscow direction; the Revolutionary Workers' Party (P. O. R.), which advocates the teachings of Trotzky; and the Bolivian Socialist Falange (F. S. B.), modeled after the Spanish Falange.

URGE CHANGES IN ARMING PROGRAM

Senate Soon To Decide On Cut In Figure, Inclusion Of China

By Max Boyd

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Two Republican senators—Vandenberg of Michigan and Knowland of California—maintained pressure today for major changes in President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms aid program.

A senate committee showdown is due shortly on the issues these involve: (1) Whether to cut the western Europe aid figure, and (2) whether to write China into the bill.

Vandenberg refused to drop his demand that congress make a $160,990,000 slash in proposed military assistance for European members of the Atlantic alliance, although Gen. Omar N. Bradley told senate committees yesterday that such a cut would be false economy.

Most of the money that the Michigan senator wants to take out of the program is intended to stimulate arms production in Atlantic pact countries. He is backing an amendment jointly with Senator Dulles (R.-N. Y.).

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff of the U. S. armed services, contends the $155,000,000 Mr. Truman asked for this purpose would enable pact members to retool existing factories and produce more than $700,000,000 of arms.

Vandenberg and his supporters argue, however, that increasing western European arms production should await recommendations to be made by the defense council contemplated under the Atlantic alliance.

They are reported to feel also that helping France to increase its arms-making would be resented in western Germany, where the occupying powers have dismantled many industrial plants.

Vandenberg intends to present his arguments next week to the combined senate committees on foreign relations and armed services, which are preparing the arms aid bill for senate consideration.

It has passed the house which voted to cut funds for western Europe exactly in half.

Knowland promised a "full-scale review of our policy in the Pacific" when the program reaches the senate floor.

He said newspaper reports indicate that administration leaders still do not like his proposal that arms for China be included in the program, although he modified his proposed amendment on this subject yesterday.

"I am going to continue fighting for it in the committees and on the senate floor, and we will have a full-scale review of our policy in the Pacific," Knowland told a reporter.

The Californian said he will not be satisfied by a reported compromise proposal that some money for non-Communist China—but no requirement that it be spent for arms—be added to the bill.

"I'm going to insist that China be treated on the same basis as other nations in this bill," Knowland declared. "We have neglected our Asiatic flank long enough.'

The bill carries nothing for China at present. Secretary of State Acheson, who has written off China's Nationalist government as a failure, told congress recently that the administration did not feel justified in asking arms for China. He said a fund that the president could use in the far east at his discretion would be helpful, however.

Knowlands latest proposal would authorize the president to spend $210,640,000 at his discretion for military assistance to non-Communist China, Korea, the Philippines and elsewhere in the far east.

Knowland's amendment would make a net addition of $193,000,000 to the bill, since the original already carries some funds for Korea and the Philippines.

Knowland and Senator George (D.-Ga.) agreed in talking with reporters that $1,000,000,000—the amount favored by Senator Vandenberg—is the most the administration can hope to obtain from the senate for arms aid to Atlantic pact countries.

The Californian said this is the "top limit" and George said he personally would like to limit the entire program to between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000 in cash, plus $450,000,000 in excess arms.

The administration bill asks $1,450,000,000 cash with authority to send surplus arms. The house and the senate committees have voted a $450,000,000 ceiling on excess military equipment sent abroad.

George, a member of the foreign relations committee, declared:

"What the American people don't realize is that the administration program amounts to nearly $2,000,000,000 when one considers the cash and excess arms."

Members disclosed today that the combined committees voted 21 to 2 earlier this week as they accepted a Vandenberg-Dulles amendment providing that the arms aid shall conform to Atlantic pact joint defense plans which this nation may approve.

EUROPEANS DRAW

10. Freedom from discrimination because of race, religion, national origin, sex and political or other opinion.

11. Freedom from arbitrary confiscation of property.

This list was based on preparatory work done by the European movement, the private organization headed by Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, which used the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution as one of its models.

The proposed steering committee is intended to meet numerous suggestions that the assembly create some permanent body to direct and coordinate its work between yearly sessions.

Committee members said the chairman would be Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Socialist president of the assembly. Other members would be the four vice-presidents of the assembly and 10 to 12 delegates elected by the assembly from a list nominated by Spaak and the vice-presidents.

The vice-presidents are Lord Layton of Britain, Francois de Menthon for France, Ole Bjoren Kraft of Denmark and Stefano Jacini of Italy.

An assistant secretary general would work full time for the steering committee which would have permanent headquarters at Strasbourg.

BEVIN, CRIPPS

ain must have dollars to buy the raw materials and food she needs.

The Washington conference opens September 7 with U. S., British and Bevin and Cripps will be traveling Canadian representatives taking part, together on the Mauretania. They leave Wednesday Bevin originally was booked to sail on the Queen Elizabeth today. He postponed his sailing, informants said, to have another try at getting Cripps to think as he does.

Before the cabinet Monday will be a 15-page brief drawn up by treasury, foreign office and trade officials on the causes and possible cures of Britain's economic plight.

In essence it would bind both the British government and industry to productivity.

cut down working costs and to raise

It suggests ways in which Britain can earn more dollars by selling more and cheaper goods through high-pressure sales technique.

It asks the United States to liberalize both tariff policy and tariff administratoin.

It calls for an American promise to buy fixed amounts of basic commodities from the sterling area at fixed prices for fixed periods.

And it proposes swift, joint implementation of President Truman's "fourth point" for developing backward areas where the British pound is used.

The mandate Bevin and Cripps will carry to Washington will be broad. Although they will be in constant touch with London, they are not likely to be bound down by too-precise cabinet instructions.

British official spokesmen always deny there is a basic Bevin-Cripps rift. They qualify that, usually, by saying it's natural and understandable for two ministers having different responsibilities to approach the same problem from different directions.

It is true that when Bevin and Cripps sail for Washington they will go as a team, not as individuals. Nor will either have any overriding responsibility. The responsibility is collective and is vested in the cabinet.

Despite all this, Bevin is unlikely easily to drop his vision of integrating the pound and dollar systems as he helped to integrate the two countries' political and military systems through the North Atlantic pact.

The informants add that the essential difference between Bevin and Cripps may well be expressed in the Washington talks in this way:

Bevin may appear more ready to make concessions to the United States than Cripps. To him maintenance of Anglo-American diplomatic unity is transcendant.

Cripps, however, is likely to seem less accommodating because of his intense desire to retain Britain's and the commonwealth's economic independence, and to achieve full British economic recovery, by sound economic—and not political—methods.

One question on which the two men have easily agreed concerns a proposal they will make in Washington for setting up a joint permanent Anglo-American economic council.

This economic high command would have functions very much like those of the Anglo-French or the Anglo-Canadian economic committees.

It would be empowered to plan and coordinate economic development, trade, production, of the two countries. One of the British advisers at Washington will be Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of Britain's economic planning board.

swept through the Cochino and she went to the bottom. Only one of her complement, civilian Technician Robert W. Philo of Newark N.: J. perished.

When the Tusk set out for Hammerfest, the nearest port with medical facilities, she was minus six of her own complement.

The victims, including Lt. (J. G.) Wilson Manley Shafer, Jr., Stamford, Conn., were washed out of a rubber boat by high seas during the rescue operation.

In Hammerfest, which lies 250 miles from Murmansk, Russia, four survivors who suffered burns were released from the hospital after examination. A fifth who suffered serious burns was described as "considerably better" today.

The two undersea vessels, among the most modern of American postwar submarines, were accompanied by the subs Toro and Corsair. They were on cold-water training exercises when disaster overtook the Cochino. Both the Tusk and Cochino carried Snorkel "breathing" tubes which enable underwater craft to remain submerged for long periods.

Commander S. V. Storheill of the Norwegian naval high command told reporters in Hammerfest there was no reason to be surprised at the presence of U. S. ships near Norway's Arctic coast.

"We knew about it long in advance," he said. "It is only natural that they want to train their crews under those conditions."

Commander William Porter, U. S. attache in Hammerfest, said the Cochino was on a "routine cruise outside of Norwegian territorial waters." He did not give the exact position where the explosions occurred but said there was no indication American vessels were approaching Russian waters.

American naval authorities in London said the Tusk will leave Norway Monday for New London, Conn., with the Cochino survivors.

The Tusk was expected to arrive at Tromsoe, south of Hammerfest, tonight, where the injured survivors will be examined by navy doctors. It will be decided then whether they will proceed to New London aboard the Tusk or return to this base in England on the U. S. destroyer Samuel H. Roberts which is enroute to Tromsoe.

would give our business to other rubber companies."

On that score, the other members of the big four—General Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone and Goodyear—have contracts with their workers that do not expire until next year.

However, all of their working agreements have reopening clauses on wages. Conversations on these still are in progress.

In his statement explaining why he felt the strike was necessary, U. R. W. President Lloyd said the company made these demands:

"That the union agree to a no strike pledge which would have rendered the union liable for illegal acts committed by employes who were not even members of the union.

"That the company be given the right to file grievances against the union and to take such grievances to arbitration."

"This particular clause, alone," said Lloyd, "would have given the company every opoprtunity to bankrupt local unions by forcing every little issue to arbitration—an expensive process.

"To the best of my knowledge no corporation in the country has ever made such an outlandish demand."

the army, said he saw a good deal of Vaughan when he (Hunt) was liaison officer for the quartermaster general and later as liaison officer for the war assets administration.

"Although we have become good friends socially," Hunt said, "I have never to the best of my recollection, asked General Vaughan to do anything for me or for a client or friend of mine more important than getting football tickets to the Army-Notre Dame football game."

As for whether Vaughan ever sought favors from him, Hunt said:

"I have no recollection of his ever asking me to do anything more important than to get a supply of matches for Ambassador Pauley or a fresh supply for the White House."

(The testimony at the hearings was that matches were sought for William D. Pawley, former ambassador to Brazil. The name of Edwin W. Pauley, also a former ambassador, has not figured in testimony regarding matches.)

The committee has wanted to call Hunt to the witness stand, but doctors have told the investigators he is to ill to testify. They reported he won't be able to go before the committee for at least a month.

In the affidavit Hunt told the committee there is no truth about much of the knowledge concerning him. In some cases, on the other hand, he acknowledged it had been accurate.

But he stoutly maintained he is innocent of any wrong-doing. And he asserted the business he is in is entirely proper.

Referring to his company, Hunt said: "We expect to continue in business for a long time to come." He added:

"Because of my thorough knowledge of the workings of many government agencies and departments and because of my wide circle of friends and acquaintances in those departments, I was able to perform a service which I know was of real value to my clients and I believe of real value to the government."

Senator Hoey (D-NC), the committee chairman, told reporters he had not seen the Hunt affidavit yet. Hoey added that the committee will study the document before deciding whether to admit it to the record.

The committee, meanwhile, got a helping hand from the Justice department in another phase of its investigation.

The department, a committee official said, has let the senate investigators take a look at records dealing with a customs duty incident in which John Maragon was involved in 1945.

Maragon, who once had entree to the White House, is another central figure in the inquiry. The committee has received documentary evidence that four years ago Maragon tried to bring through customs a supply of valuable perfume oils disguised as champagne for the White House.

The committee has been trying to find out why Maragon never was prosecuted in the case. He did pay an $1,155 penalty.

West Palm Beach was almost enough to stagger the imagination.

Twenty-four private planes were strewn about the international airport like wrecked toys.

West Palm Beach, Palm Beach, Delray Beach, Stuart and Lake Worth were sprinkled with glass, loose boards, signs, uprooted trees and foliage.

Tons of sand tossed up by pounding waves piled onto the lawns of the wealthy on the ocean front. Giant slabs of concrete were slapped about the unfinished pool at the Biltmore Hotel.

The state's vast citrus industry was hit hard. Grapefruit, heavy with juice, hurtled through the air like yellow cannon balls.

Fred Johnson, general sales manager for the Florida Citrus Exchange at Tampa, said the 'oss was greater than first expected and possibly would run into the millions.

After passing into the gulf today the storm veered northward to strike again. At Jacksonville gusts of up to 65 miles brought a heavy sign crashing atop a third story building. The roof caved in but none was hurt.

All through the state water damage was expected to be heavy.

Some spots were a picture of devastation. Thirty-seven wrecked airplanes were strewn around the West Palm Beach airport. They broke their moorings or were hit by wreckage from two collapsing hangars.

Highways were blocked in many places. A washed out bridge stopped rail traffic for a time at Stuart, but four trains rolled again when the bridge was repaired.

Five hundred were homeless at Stuart and property damage at this pretty resort town reached an estimated $3,500,000.

In Palm Beach, glamorous resort town that appears today like a lady with a hangover, and in West Palm Beach National Guardsmen patrolled downtown streets to prevent looting from shops with smashed windows. Winds tore off storm shutters, shattered glass fronts and pulled merchandise out of many stores. Streets were messy with broken glass, debris and toppled palm trees.

Two thousand of West Palm Beach's 7,300 homes suffered damage. The loss was estimated at $4,000,000.

Thousands who spent last night in Red Cross storm shelters were out today cleaning up and estimating their damage.

Communities in the rich winter vegetable growing area around Lake Okeechobee apparently rode out the fierce storm without loss of life.

Okeechobee City was cut off by fallen poles, wires and trees. Belle Glade suffered damage of about $1,000,000. The eye passed over Canal Point

Citrus losses of at least a million dollars were estimated by Fred Johnson of the Florida Citrus Exchange. It may run much higher when reports are in, he added.

A number of communities were without power or telephones.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Sixteen big transport planes and 24 private aircraft were wrecked in a spectacular assault on International Airport by south Florida's super-hurricane.

A metal-and-concrete hangar was destroyed. It fell into a twisted 40-foot junk heap, adorned by wrecked planes.

C-46 transport planes, weighing about 17,000 pounds each, were ripped from their moorings and tossed over the field—and out of it, one landed a quarter of a mile away.

The airport scene demonstrated, perhaps better than any other, the fury of last night's hurricane smack at the rich southeast Florida playground. Miraculously, there were no deaths reported in the path of the storm.

Residents in the hard-hit area from Fort Lauderdale to Stuart to Lake Okeechobee quickly tackled the big task of cleaning up the shambles.

Little girls helped sweep coconuts into a pile. Steam shovels scooped debris from the streets, lifting entire palm trees.

West Palm Beach and Palm Beach, Stuart, Delray Beach and Lake Worth were sprinkled with smashed glass, neon signs, loose boarding, foliage and other storm-swept clutter.

Power and telephone lines were restored in many areas and the hard-hit section slowly worked toward normal conditions.

Damage was estimated at $4,000,000 in Palm Beach area alone. At Stuart, the monster hurricane left $3,500,000 estimated damage and 500 homeless.

No one could estimate the total loss, but it might run to $10,000,000 or more on the "gold coast."

The airport here was a vivid illustration of concentrated havoc. Damage to buildings and planes at the field was estimated at more than $500,000.

Only one steel post remained upright at one hangar. Sheets of metal and twisted planes pyramided against the post. Near the top, one private plane lay spread-eagled like a cross.

Another plane wrapped itself around the top of the post like an apple sticking on a knife.

The C-46's were being converted from army to civilian transports by United Service for Air Co. One plane landed in a canal. Another was ripped down the back from the pilot's cabin to the tail as if with a can opener.

In all, 16 out of the 17 transports tied to concrete aprons were swept away. Some of them apparently rose on the 150-mile gusts for a little gliding without a crew or engine.

The howling wind tore so furiously at the hangar that it twisted steel posts. When they wouldn't break—it pulled them out with a big slab of concrete foundation, too. The posts fell to one side like a folded newspaper.

Wind and water dumped tons of sand into homes of the wealthy along Ocean boulevard. Two sections of the highway slid into the ocean between the Joseph E. Widener estate and the Lake Worth Casino.

A nearly completed pool at the Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel collapsed and giant slabs of concrete were hurled onto immaculate lawns at crazy angles.

In Lake Worth, a double window in a third-floor apartment bedroom smashed, and the bed was sucked out the window by the vicious wind. It landed a block away.

Doors and sheets of metal and wood sailed through the air like magic carpets.

At Delray Beach, a solid steel boxcar, loaded with lumber, was blown off the tracks and the freight station shed collapsed.

Bachman Appointed To L. T. I. Principalship

Superintendent J. C. Gresham said yesterday he had promoted F. D. Bachman to replace Kermit Youngblood as principal of the Louisiana Training Institute.

Youngblood's resignation effective Sept. 1. He resigned from the institute for what he said "was to accept a similar position with the Sabine parish school system."

Gresham said the new principal's appointment is temporary pending approval of the board at its next meeting in September.

Bachman, he said, has 28 years of experience in teaching and in the duties of a principal, having filled positions of librarian and teacher at Downsville High School for eighteen years. He came to the Louisiana Training Institute five years ago, Gresham said, as librarian and teacher.

Bachman, according to the superintendent, attended Baylor University and later obtained his B. A. degree at Louisiana College at Pineville, La. He is presently studying for his M. A. degree at L. S. U.

Gresham said, he had appointed as coach, Willis A. Tarver, 31-year-old graduate of Highpoint College in North Carolina and a former coach at Morris Hill, N. C., high school. Tarver, the superintendent said, has been assistant coach under Youngblood for the past five years.

1 Killed, 3 Hurt In Bus-Truck Crash

OPELOUSAS, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—An 11-months-old child was killed instantly in an auto-truck crash near here today. He was Louis Lalonde, son of Mr.and Mrs. Louis Lalonde of Opelousas.

The parents and another passenger, Elzie Dekerlegand were hurt seriously. They were taken to St. Landry clinic for treatment.

The driver of the truck, Donald Vidrine, was treated for lacerations at the Ville Platte hospital.

Dr. Gerald Bertinot, St. Landry parish coroner, will hold an inquest Wednesday.

bitter rioting broke out when thousands of paraders marching under veterans' groups colors met head-on with thousands of persons gathering for the concert.

In the fighting that followed, at least seven automobiles were turned upside down, and one was tossed off an embankment into a stream.

A cross was seen to be burning atop a hill above the picnic grove.

Several local veteran organizations announced earlier today that they were staging a "patriotic" parade around the picnic grove.

They said four brass bands would blare forth during Robeson's concert.

At 6:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) the parade started past the grove, located in the nearby town of Cortland.

The paraders shouted slogans while their bands blared out patriotic march tunes.

The parade turned into a dirt road leading to the concert bowl, where 2,000 camp chairs had been set up.

Concert goers formed a line across the road and then moved a huge truck across it as a roadblock.

Men and women on both sides were pushed back as the two bodies of persons met, and the concert forces started to sing a Negro spiritual, "We Shall Not Be Moved."

Two county sheriff's men held the surging marchers for a time, then fell back as pieces of wooden railing from a fence along the road began to fly through the air.

One man, identified as William Secor of Mohegan, N. Y., was reported stabbed in the melee that followed.

Members of the veterans' parade broke through the woods, overran the concert bowl, and started to tip apart the stage where Robeson was to sing.

They tossed camp chairs through the air and set fire to a pile of them.

Meanwhile, road blocks of stone, wood and wire were thrown up on roads leading out of the picnic area.

Cars trying to flee the rioting were stopped and at least seven vehicles were pitched upside down.

One unidentified Negro was reported beaten and thrown over a fence into a nearby cemetery.

A navy veteran, James Renza, 30, of Peekskill, was slugged on the back of the head and taken to the hospital bleeding heavily from a deep gash.

A group of men on the stage reportedly ordered a Negro woman who was on the concert platform to play "Yankee Doodle" and other American songs as the rioting swelled around.

Commanders of the veterans parade shouted orders for the men to disband—but the battling went on.

Some 50 state policemen arrived on the scene later and began to round up the crowd in groups.

At 10 p.m. (E. S. T.) they reported they were beginning to get the thousands of milling persons into hand.

Sporadic fist-fighting and shouting, however, still continued.

State policemen reported they found many women cowering in the dark woods around the riot scene.

Some of the women, they said, planned to remain there al night.

A man identifying himsel as Howard Fast, the novelist, told reporters on the scene that he was acting as chairman of the meeting.

He said at least nine of the concert-goers were injured.

Fast assailed the parade that preceded the riot as a "fascist demonstration."

Persons in the parade, meanwhile, still carried posters and placards, some of which said "Not Wanted! Commies!," and "Robeson Is A Traitor."

SENATE APPROVES

spelling out the 70 groups, 22 separate squadrons and 61 air reserve groups was meaningless because a group of squadron varies widely.

The senate also struck from the house-passed bill authority for both the army and air forces to develop and buy guided missiles.

These are the push-button type, long-range weapons of the future wars of which the German buzz bombs and rockets were a forerunner toward the end of World War II.

The senate action apparently would leave up to the secretary of defense an undercover dispute among the air force, navy and army as to which arm should handle guided missiles.

The senate bill must go back to the house for action on numerous changes. These probably will be adjusted by a senate-house conference committee.

Both the house bill and the senate version fix the size and composition of both the air forces and the army for the future.

Actual expansion to these limits will be controlled by the funds allowed by congress in annual appropriations. This year the house allowed funds to expand the air force to 58 groups but the senate cut this total back to 48 groups in the military money bill now being debated in the senate.

The senate bill trimmed maximum authorized officer strength for both the army and air forces.

The house had authorized 33,500 regular officers on active duty for the army. The senate reduced this to 30,600.

For the air force the house authorized 27,500 active regular officers. The senate bill held this to 22,400.

The house had authorized 986,000 officers, warrant officers and enlisted persons for the organized reserve corps but the senate struck this out in favor of "such personnel strength as is necessary to form the basis for conmplete and immediate mobilization for national defense in the event of a national emergency."

The senate used the same broad term for the air force reserve instead of the 500,000 limit put up in by the house.

Finally, the senate bill denied authority to use air force funds for development, design or procurement of transport or cargo aircraft intended primarily for commercial use. Some members of congress have been urging that the air force meet costs of developing prototype commercial aircraft which would be used in case of war.

DANGEROUS

should have the opportunity to pare spending.

Lucas resisted all appeals for a vote even after the economy group signed up 24 Democrats and 39 Republicans—far more than the 49 majority of the senate—to a petition asking consideration.

Now McClellan has offered the economy directive as a rider to the huge 14,800,000,000 appropriation for the army, navy and air forces. The senate reached that figure by cutting the bill $1,118,000,000 below amounts voted by the house. It is up for a final vote Monday.

McClellan and other advocates of the directive say that slashes already made by congress below budget estimates of the president would be credited under the "5 and 10" economy order.

But Lucas differs with them.

He said congress already has sheared about $1,800,000,000 from President Truman's original requests. If any other reductions are to be made, Lucas said congress should take the responsibility.

Lucas said the economy rider amounts to congress admitting its inability to handle controls over the nation's purse strings.

"I condemn it as an act of political cowardice," the senate leader said. "Members of congress do not seem to realize that this is one of the most dangerous proposals ever advocated."

Lucas said that any president, under this authority, could cut off all federal funds and projects in all state or district of a member of congress he opposed.

The senate leader said President Truman, as a former senator, opposes the whole grant of power "which would give the president a blank to handle as he might desire."

Sponsors of the economy resolution said they are willing to take their chances on White House use of spending cutbacks against them.

automobile and later beaten with a tire tool.

Sheriff Moore said Justice signed the statement some time after his arrest on a charge of being intoxicated. Moore said Justice later talked to members of his family and an attorney. The sheriff quoted Justice today:

"I don't know anything about it. I don't remember what I told you. It all seems like a dream."

County Attorney F. P. Keeser said he told Justice:

"You sure have dreamed yourself into a lot of trouble."

No formal charge has been placed against Justice but Sheriff Moore said he planned to file a murder charge against him later.

Justice was the third person to tell authorities he was present when Miss Baldridge, pretty high school cheerleader, was slain.

William Gamble, 26, signed a statement at Cincinnati last Saturday that he and Olen Collins, 15, clubbed the girl after forcing her into their automobile. Collins previously had implicated Gamble in the killing.

Gamble is held on a murder charge and Collins as a material witness in an undisclosed east Kentucky jail. Officials have declined to reveal their location because of the high feeling in the area. Baldridge was very popular in her home town.

At Prestonsburg, Floyd County Sheriff Troy Sturgill said he has released two carnival workers who were questioned in connection with the case. Sturgill declined to comment on other developments in the case yesterday and today.

bloody riots occurred at the Catavi and Siglo Viente tin mines. The state of siege was to have expired tomorrow unless congress acted. The extension, which runs for 90 days, was approved by a vote of 80 to 20.

It was not disclosed how many troops had been flown to Cochabamba, but La Paz authorities expressed confidence the last pocket of revolutionary resistance soon would be wiped out.

Some government sources claimed the rebellion was directed from abroad by exiled leaders of the M. N. R. They said some army officers had joined the rebels but added that most of the nation's troops remained loyal.

Victor Paz Estenssoro, chief of the M. N. R., is now living in Montevideo, Uruguay. He recently was deported from Argentina along with seven other M. N. R. politicians on charges of plotting against Bolivia in connection with an abortive revolt last May.

Col. Pena Y Lillo, said to be a member of Rapeda, a secret society of army officers who helped put Villarroel in power, reportedly launched the revolt in Cochabamba.

Alfredo Mollinedo, minister of government, said the Potosi rebels were led by Mayor Barrenecha, a local M. N. R. leader. They established themselves in the prefecture building, but the Manchego regiment stationed in the city overpowered the revolutionaries before noon.

In Santa Cruz, Mollinedo said, rebel forces succeeded in seizing the army barracks and the prefecture building. They held these points for several hours until national police attacked and subdued them.

The Oruro revolt began as rebel bands attacked a police station and took four prisoners. They were overpowered and captured after they tried to storm a military camp, Mollinedo said.

Some rebel leaders at Oruro included "high officers of the army," he said.

Bolivia has experienced numerous outbreaks of violence during the past six months.

On June 5, the government announced it had crushed an attempt by revolutionaries to capture the railroad town of Villazon, on the Argentine border.

The announcement coincided with reports that a secret coalition of extreme rightist and leftist groups had been organized to overthrow the regime of President Enrique Hertzog and acting President Mamerto Urriolagoitia. The latter is serving during the illness of Hertzog who relinquished power temporarily on May 8.

Informed sources said the coalition seeking to overthrow the present government is called the National Liberation Front (F. L. N.) and was created by leaders of three dissident political factions.

These factions were identified as the Left Revolutionary Party (P. I. R.), a Communist bloc with Moscow direction; the Revolutionary Workers' Party (P. O. R.), which advocates the teachings of Trotzky; and the Bolivian Socialist Falange (F. S. B.), modeled after the Spanish Falange.

Betty Jane Duke Is Wed To Henry Bernstein, III, At Kelly

Ceremony Takes Place At Methodist Church And Is Attended By Various Monroyans

Miss Betty Jane Duke, daughter of Mrs. James A. Duke and the late Mr. Duke, of Kelly, and Mr. Henry Bernstein, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein, of this city, took place in Kelly at the Methodist Church on Friday, August 18 in the presence of the families of the principals and relatives.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, magnolia blossoms, and stock interspersed with bamboo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. L. Yeager.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James William Duke, wore a white organdy frock with an ankle length skirt and a wide bertha at the neckline. She carried a white lace fan covered with valley lilies which also were cascaded from satin streamers.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Lucille Woolridge of Grayson, accompanied Mrs. Wilbur Humphries, of the same city, who sang, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony.

Miss Mary Joe Duke was her sister's maid of honor, while the bridegroom's sister, Miss Cherry Bernstein, was bridesmaid. They wore ankle-length blue organdy frocks and carried nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums mixed with tuberoses and bound with yellow satin streamers.

Mr. Thomas Fortenberry, Jr., of this city, served as best man and the bridegroom's cousin, Mr. Duncan Cook, Jr., served as an usher.

Mrs. Duke, the mother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer frock with a corsage of pink lilies and tuberoses. while Mrs. Bernstein wore a frock of blue and grey lace and corsage of pink anthurium.

Assisting in serving at the reception which followed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Duke, Miss Ruth Conty, of Kelly and Miss Annie Ruth Webb, of Jonesville.

For traveling the bride wore a frock of navy nylon with a corsage of brown orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana Tech at Ruston where she majored in speech. She is a member of Alph Chi Omega sorority. For the past three years she has taught in the Port Arthur, Texas schools.

Mr. Bernstein attended Texas A. and M. and was graduated with a major in engineering from Louisiana Tech. He did graduate work at L. S. U. He is a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and Alpha Chi Sigma, national chemistry fraternity.

The couple will reside in Lake Charles following their wedding trip.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included:

Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cook, Jr., and their daughter, Beth, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Mrs. Ruby Stewart, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Miss Ann Humphries, Mrs. William Patton, Mr. and Mrs. O. SHE'LL DON A CAP AND GOWN

Miss Mary Virginia Stewart, manager of the Capitol Theater, who's won a scholarship at the University of North Carolina.

FROM BOX OFFICE TO SCHOOL WILL GO LOCAL THEATER MANAGER SOON

Life is pretty exciting for Miss Mary Virginia Stewart, who for two years has been manager of the Capitol Theatre and now is getting ready to become a graduate student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a recently won scholarship.

The young woman won't reveal her age other than to mention she's still in her twenties.

Since assuming her local position she has become accustomed to having twenty employes under her supervision. Some of them are older than she.

It's odd to find an ex-schoolmarm in the theater business and that's what she is, sure enough, an ex-physical education instructor, having served with that title for two years at the Jones County Junior College at Ellisville, Miss.

And that's not all that's unusual in her background, for she served from 1945-47 with American National Red Cross and was stationed at McDill Field in Tampa, Florida, and at Kessler air base at Biloxi, Mississippi.

Ask her how with such a background she happened to assume her present job and she'll tell you that it's profitable, very, very, profitable and pleasant.

Miss Stewart, who is a native of Picayune, Mississippi in 1943 received her bachelor of science degree with a major in physical education from the Mississippi Southern College at Hattiesburg, and she has done graduate work at L. S. U.

Now to get back to the scholarship which will make her change of profession possible. Miss Stewart says it was awarded by the Mississippi state board of health in conjunction with the national board of health and general education board of New York. She was adjudged on past grades, abilities and records. Along with the scholarship award was a two year contract which will provide for her to serve the State of Mississippi as a health educator for that period.

On Monday the prospective student will leave on a three week vacation which will include visits to Shreveport, Jackson, Washington, D. C., and her home in Picayune prior to the trip to North Carolina where she plans to become a Master of Science.

Betty Jane Duke Is Wed To Henry Bernstein, III, At Kelly

Ceremony Takes Place At Methodist Church And Is Attended By Various Monroyans

Miss Betty Jane Duke, daughter of Mrs. James A. Duke and the late Mr. Duke, of Kelly, and Mr. Henry Bernstein, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein, of this city, took place in Kelly at the Methodist Church on Friday, August 18 in the presence of the families of the principals and relatives.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, magnolia blossoms, and stock interspersed with bamboo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. L. Yeager.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James William Duke, wore a white organdy frock with an ankle length skirt and a wide bertha at the neckline. She carried a white lace fan covered with valley lilies which also were cascaded from satin streamers.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Lucille Woolridge of Grayson, accompanied Mrs. Wilbur Humphries, of the same city, who sang, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony.

Miss Mary Joe Duke was her sister's maid of honor, while the bridegroom's sister, Miss Cherry Bernstein, was bridesmaid. They wore ankle-length blue organdy frocks and carried nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums mixed with tuberoses and bound with yellow satin streamers.

Mr. Thomas Fortenberry, Jr., of this city, served as best man and the bridegroom's cousin, Mr. Duncan Cook, Jr., served as an usher.

Mrs. Duke, the mother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer frock with a corsage of pink lilies and tuberoses, while Mrs. Bernstein wore a frock of blue and grey lace and corsage of pink anthurium.

Assisting in serving at the reception which followed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Duke, Miss Ruth Conty, of Kelly and Miss Annie Ruth Webb, of Jonesville.

For traveling the bride wore a frock of navy nylon with a corsage of brown orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana Tech at Ruston where she majored in speech. She is a member of Alph Chi Omega sorority. For the past three years she has taught in the Port Arthur, Texas schools.

Mr. Bernstein attended Texas A. and M. and was graduated with a major in engineering from Louisiana Tech. He did graduate work at L. S. U. He is a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and Alpha Chi Sigma, national chemistry fraternity.

The couple will reside in Lake Charles following their wedding trip.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included:

Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cook, Jr., and their daughter, Beth, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Mrs. Ruby Stewart, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Miss Ann Humphries, Mrs. William Patton, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Welch, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Humphries, and Mrs. Lucille Woolridge of Grayson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Humphries, Miss Annie Ruth Webb, of Jonesville.

SHE'LL DON A CAP AND GOWN

Miss Mary Virginia Stewart, manager of the Capitol Theater, who's won a scholarship at the University of North Carolina.

FROM BOX OFFICE TO SCHOOL WILL GO LOCAL THEATER MANAGER SOON

Life is pretty exciting for Miss Mary Virginia Stewart, who for two years has been manager of the Capitol Theatre and now is getting ready to become a graduate student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a recently won scholarship.

The young woman won't reveal her age other than to mention she's still in her twenties.

Since assuming her local position she has become accustomed to having twenty employes under her supervision. Some of them are older than she.

It's odd to find an ex-schoolmarm in the theater business and that's what she is, sure enough, an ex-physical education instructor, having served with that title for two years at the Jones County Junior College at Ellisville, Miss.

And that's not all that's unusual in her background, for she served from 1945-47 with American National Red Cross and was stationed at McDill Field in Tampa, Florida, and at Kessler air base at Biloxi, Mississippi.

Ask her how with such a background she happened to assume her present job and she'll tell you that it's profitable, very, very, profitable and pleasant.

Miss Stewart, who is a native of Picayune, Mississippi in 1943 received her bachelor of science degree with a major in physical education from the Mississippi Southern College at Hattiesburg, and she has done graduate work at L. S. U.

Now to get back to the scholarship which will make her change of profession possible. Miss Stewart says it was awarded by the Mississippi state board of health in conjunction with the national board of health and general education board of New York. She was adjudged on past grades, abilities and records. Along with the scholarship award was a two year contract which will provide for her to serve the State of Mississippi as a health educator for that period.

On Monday the prospective student will leave on a three week vacation which will include visits to Shreveport, Jackson, Washington, D. C., and her home in Picayune prior to the trip to North Carolina where she plans to become a Master of Science.

COLLEGE HEIGHTS GARDEN CLUB HEARS DISCUSSION OF LANDSCAPING PROGRAM

Mrs. W. E. Whetstone served as hostess in the home of Mrs. W. W. Stevens when the College Heights' Garden Club met recently for the August meeting. With Mr. Johnny Simmons and Mr. Joe Ellis as guest speakers, the topic of discussion was the landscaping of the new Sherrouse park grounds.

Mr. Simmons revealed the amount of funds provided in his budget for this project which is sponsored by the garden club. He also stated that the City of Monroe has a planning board which will concentrate on the college area.

Various suggestions were made by Mr. Ellis about what plants and trees would be effective in the park space and the manner of spacing them. Members agreed wholeheartedly with his plan for a visit in a body to the park site at the time of the September meeting to definitely decide on a choice of shrubs, trees and flowers.

It was announced that plans are being made for a picture to be taken of the ground as it appears before any planting is done, and it will be submitted in a current "Before and After" beautification contest. Assurance was given club members that chain guards will be installed around the planted area of the boulevard space down College avenue as soon as blacktopping of the street is completed.

Members voted to adopt as a new project of the year the organizing of an afternoon garden club in Edgewater Gardens. The two clubs will work together on common projects and will have an annual meeting together.

During the meeting Mrs. William Gannaway was welcomed as a new member.

After a horticulture report and a short business session, drinks were served to the following guests and members: Mr. Ellis, Mr. Simmons, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, president, Mrs. J. Y. Brooks, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. John Loftin, Mrs. E. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. D. R. Smith, Mrs. W. D. COLLEGE HEIGHTS GARDEN CLUB HEARS DISCUSSION OF LANDSCAPING PROGRAM

Mrs. W. E. Whetstone served as hostess in the home of Mrs. W. W. Stevens when the College Heights' Garden Club met recently for the August meeting. With Mr. Johnny Simmons and Mr. Joe Ellis as guest speakers, the topic of discussion was the landscaping of the new Sherrouse park grounds.

Mr. Simmons revealed the amount of funds provided in his budget for this project which is sponsored by the garden club. He also stated that the City of Monroe has a planning board which will concentrate on the college area.

Various suggestions were made by Mr. Ellis about what plants and trees would be effective in the park space and the manner of spacing them. Members agreed wholeheartedly with his plan for a visit in a body to the park site at the time of the September meeting to definitely decide on a choice of shrubs, trees and flowers.

It was announced that plans are being made for a picture to be taken of the ground as it appears before any planting is done, and it will be submitted in a current "Before and After" beautification contest. Assurance was given club members that chain guards will be installed around the planted area of the boulevard space down College avenue as soon as blacktopping of the street is completed.

Members voted to adopt as a new project of the year the organizing of an afternoon garden club in Edgewater Gardens. The two clubs will work together on common projects and will have an annual meeting together.

During the meeting Mrs. William Gannaway was welcomed as a new member.

After a horticulture report and a short business session, drinks were served to the following guests and members: Mr. Ellis, Mr. Simmons, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, president, Mrs. J. Y. Brooks, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. John Loftin, Mrs. E. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. D. R. Smith, Mrs. W. D. Womack, Mrs. William Gannaway, Mrs. Sidney Williams, Mrs. H. P. Primm and Mrs. W. E. Whetstone.

JOSIE MAE CICERO IS WED TO BATON ROUGE MAN RECENTLY

Miss Josie Mae Cicero, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cicero, became the bride of Mr. Ciro C. Gulino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gulino, of Baton Rouge, La., in an impressive ceremony performed by Rev. Marvin Bordelon at a solemn nuptial mass recently, at 10:00 a.m. at St Matthew's Catholic Church. The ceremony was attended by relatives, close friends, and out-of-town guests.

During the ceremony, Miss Lena Sciara, who was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Della Williams, sang "Ave Maria." Mrs. Williams played a soft accompaniment of nuptial music throughout the ceremony.

Gladioli, tuberoses and asters were used to decorate the altar.

The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe dress. Her accessories were black and pink and she wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a navy dress. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional satin gown, with a high neckline yoke of sheerest marquisette outlined with orange blossoms and long-fitted sleeves tapering to the hands, a full skirt and cathedral train, garlanded in front and worn over a ruffled petiskirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. The bride carried a prayer book surmounted by a white orchid with a shower of stephanotis and white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Sam Rispone, of Baton Rouge, was the matron of honor. Miss Catherine Gulino was maid of honor. Their dresses were yellow and pink marquisette, with full skirts and ruffled neckline. They carried old fashioned bouquets of colored daises.

The flower girls wore similar gowns of blue and orchid. They were Patricia Corrent, Carmen Shambro and Patsy Conti, all of Monroe.

The ringbearer, Bobby Gene Williams, was dressed in a white summer suit.

Louie Gulino, the bridegroom's cousin, was the best man. The groomsman was Vincent Savana.

The ushers were Mr. Sam Danna and Mr. Bennie Barbiero. The altar boys were the Giangana twins, Sammy and Frankie.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony when buffet luncheon was served to all the guests.

When the couple departed for a wedding trip, the bride was wearing a pink crepe dress. Her accessories were navy blue with a corsage of white orchids.

They will live in Baton Rouge.

JOSIE MAE CICERO IS WED TO BATON ROUGE MAN RECENTLY

Miss Josie Mae Cicero, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cicero, became the bride of Mr. Ciro C. Gulino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gulino, of Baton Rouge, La., in an impressive ceremony performed by Rev. Marvin Bordelon at a solemn nuptial mass recently, at 10:00 a.m. at St Matthew's Catholic Church. The ceremony was attended by relatives, close friends, and out-of-town guests.

During the ceremony, Miss Lena Sciara, who was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Della Williams, sang "Ave Maria." Mrs. Williams played a soft accompaniment of nuptial music throughout the ceremony.

Gladioli, tuberoses and asters were used to decorate the altar.

The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe dress. Her accessories were black and pink and she wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a navy dress. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional satin gown, with a high neckline yoke of sheerest marquisette outlined with orange blossoms and long-fitted sleeves tapering to the hands, a full skirt and cathedral train, garlanded in front and worn over a ruffled petiskirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. The bride carried a prayer book surmounted by a white orchid with a shower of stephanotis and white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Sam Rispone, of Baton Rouge, was the matron of honor. Miss Catherine Gulino was maid of honor. Their dresses were yellow and pink marquisette, with full skirts and ruffled neckline. They carried old fashioned bouquets of colored daises.

The flower girls wore similar gowns of blue and orchid. They were Patricia Corrent, Carmen Shambro and Patsy Conti, all of Monroe.

The ringbearer, Bobby Gene Williams, was dressed in a white summer suit.

Louie Gulino, the bridegroom's cousin, was the best man. The groomsman was Vincent Savana.

The ushers were Mr. Sam Danna and Mr. Bennie Barbiero. The altar boys were the Giangana twins, Sammy and Frankie.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony when buffet luncheon was served to all the guests.

When the couple departed for a wedding trip, the bride was wearing a pink crepe dress. Her accessories were navy blue with a corsage of white orchids.

They will live in Baton Rouge.

NEW STUDEBAKER DISPLAYED HERE

Radical Departure In Lines Of New Models Revealed In Showing

New 1950 Studebaker passenger car models are now being displayed in the showrooms of Central Auto Sales Co.

"These are the automobiles which generated so much enthusiasm when they were previewed privately in New York and Chicago recently," according to Stickey Steele and Pete Godwin. "These new cars are so entirely different in appearance that it is difficult to do them justice by trying to describe them," he said. "I am particularly anxious for the people of this area to visit our sales rooms and see for themselves."

The front end of the 1950 Studebaker is especially striking, Steele and Godwin pointed out. It embodies an airplane fuselage-type hood, flanked by air-foil fenders and set off by a chrome "spinner." In addition to providing an ornamental touch, the "spinner" augments four frontal openings which direct air to the engine for maximum cooling. The largest of these air passages consists of two oval-shaped honeycomb grille scoops located below the two smaller air channels which flank the "spinner." Chrome moldings over these small twin channels contribute to the unusual decorative effect.

Steele and Godwin believe that the complete change in frontal appearance and fender treatment will be of a special interest to automobile enthusiasts. "It makes the cars look as if they are in motion even when they're standing still," he said.

"Riding and handling qualities are greatly improved, too. These are the result of a number of engineering refinements but are due principally to a modification of Studebaker's balanced chassis to include a new self-stabilizing coil spring front suspension. This involves a new mounting of the front wheels so that they strike road bumps at a retracting angle instead of head-on. In other words, 'they roll with the punch.' They don't take the full force of the blow.

"Another important change is an increase in the standard compression of both Studebaker engines—the Champion and the Commander—from 6.5 to 1, to 7.0 to 1. This steps up the power and helps gasoline economy without making it necessary to use premium gasolines. Champion brake horse-power is now 85; and the Commander is 102."

The popular and durable nylon upholstery, first used by Studebaker in the Land Cruiser, has been extended to all Regal Deluxe models of the Commander series, and can be had as an option on the Champion and Commander convertibles, Steele and Godwin said. Foam rubber cushions are standard equipment in all models with the exception of the low-priced Deluxe Champion.

Newly designed instrument panels are located about four inches farther forward than previously, it was pointed out, thus providing even greater space in the front compartment. Control switches are the push-pull type and gauges are grouped directly in front of the driver so that they can be checked at a glance. The steering column of the Commander and Land Cruiser is enclosed in an oversize steel jacket.

The Commander tire size has been increased to 7.60 x 15 inches. The Champion is equipped with 6.40 x 15 inches. All Studebaker tires are the extra low pressure type, with wide-base rims.

Sleeping Sickness In Catahoula Spreading

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Sleeping sickness claimed the lives of six more horses in Catahoula parish this week, according to Dr. J. E. Blunschi, veterinarian of Ferriday.

Dr. Blunschi said that he had vaccinated approximately 250 head of horses and mules within the past two weeks, since the dread disease moved across Red river from Avoyelles parish, where it has been raging for some time.

Ragweed pollen grains, which are one of the major causes of hay fever, are so small that it takes 2,500 of them to make an inch.

The four-door Studebaker Commander sedan (shown) was among the company's new 1950 passenger car models acclaimed recently at private previews in several metropolitan centers. Front end design of the new Studebakers is particularly striking. The sweeping lines are carried from the "spinner" straight through to the flight-streamed rear fenders.

BUSINESS GAIN SHOWN FOR WEEK

Good Trade Conditions Backed By Fall Inventory Buying

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Business activity edged a notch or two higher this week under relatively favorable trade conditions backed up by good forward buying for fall inventory accumulation.

For every bright splash of color on the business chart stemming from day to day operations, however, there was an offsetting blur in the labor field.

Wildcat strikes hit steel, chemical, automobile and specialty shops in widely scattered areas; industrial activity in the nation's second largest city, Chicago, felt the effects of a gasoline truck drivers strike; residents of New York's populous Borough of Queens were forced to hoof it to work when bus drivers quit. There were numerous other equally disturbing situations.

Some of the unusual restlessness of union workers was attributed to the long drawn out hearings of the presidential fact-finding board taking testimony in the dispute between the United Steelworkers and some 65 steel producers. It is known that the outcome of this struggle will have a profound effect upon negotiations between other giant aggregations of capital and labor in the so-called fourth round wage fight, including automobiles and electrical equipment makers and coal.

Guesses as to what the presidential board will recommend were a dime a dozen and ranged all the way from nothing to an overall figure of 10 cents an hour in wage boosts and fringe benefits. But the guessers united on one point—that the union would get "something" out of the lengthy debate.

The National Foremen's Institute, a fact-finding outfit that supplies information to employers, said that negotiating new contracts after the board handed down a decision in the steel workers cases would be tough sledding for employers because unions have had slim pickings so far as wage increases are concerned in the past four months.

The improvement this week in business conditions and business sentiment was nothing to brag about but it was fairly well rooted in some of the more basic industries. Seasonal factors were given credit for a good sized block of optimism, especially in textiles and other soft goods.

Significant price changes appeared to be taking place this week. Retail prices of some foods and clothing were a little lower but the tendency in industrial materials and intermediary supplies was to rise.

Steel scrap markets exhibited signs of awakening after months of almost complete inactivity. Some Pittsburgh brokers were reportedly paying a dollar or so a ton more than they have been and a general stiffening of quotations appeared the rule.

Wholesale sugar prices were a tiny bit higher; foreign silver used for flatware and such purposes was marked up 1/2 cent an ounce on three days running; Du Pont hiked anti-knock compound, and margarine and other types of fa[illegible]re marked up a cent or so a pound.

The Associated Press index of 35 important wholesale commodities advanced to 155.21 (the '926 average is 100) from 153.14 in the previous week. It was the largest advance since the week of June 18, 1948. The index contains both foods and industrial commodities.

The week's business chart was highlighted by a rise of 1.3 points in steel operations to 84.8 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since 86.7 in the week starting June 13.

Cotton Ginning In Catahoula Under Way

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Cott[illegible]n ginning in Catahoula parish was getting underway this week as a few bales trickled to the gins.

First gin in operation in the parish was that of E. B. and W. C. Knotts at Peck, where several bales of Franklin parish cotton were ginned last week end.

First bales ginned in Jonesville was at the Three Rivers gin on Tuesday. Clyde Bradford of Archie brought in enough DPL 14 cotton, planted April 6, for two bales. Ginning started slighter later this year than last, and ginners do not expect heavy traffic for several weeks, because the majority of cotton was planted late, after which high waters receded.

NEW 1950 STUDEBAKER

The leader leads again! A breath-taking new car!
A dynamic new triumph of Studebaker's overwhelmingly popular new ideas on automobile designing! A 1950 Studebaker styled ahead—and engineered ahead—for years to come!

AMERICA expects the unexpected from Studebaker—and here it is—the "next look" in cars!

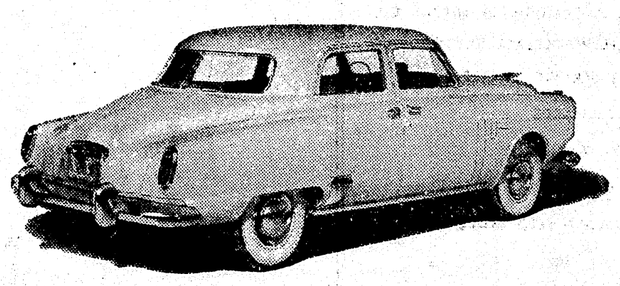
Dynamically new in form and substance, this is a truly inspired 1950 Studebaker.

Its styling is even more breath-taking than the "new look" that Studebaker originated three years ago.

This is a complete line of completely new 1950 Studebaker cars—paced by a sensationally advanced Studebaker Champion in the low price field.

Every car has increased wheelbase and over all length—plus the new performance of higher compression power!

Stop in for a look—you'll never stop short of getting this 1950 Studebaker's distinctions. New in eye appeal and drive appeal, it starts another Studebaker buying wave.



Stand-out advancements mark the 1950 Studebaker!

A new longer Champion and Commander! A new longer special Land Cruiser sedan! • Self-stabilizing coil spring front wheel suspension • Higher compression Commander and Champion engines of increased horsepower • Wide-rim wheels and extra-low-pressure tires • Self-adjusting brakes • Symmetrically centered variable ratio steering • Oversize windows and windshield • "Black light" instrument panel dials • Wear-resisting Studebaker craftsmanship throughout • Automatic hill holder (extra cost on Champion only) . . . Gas-saving automatic overdrive transmission—thermostatic control Climatizer heating and ventilating—Studebaker-engineered Philco radio—available on all models at added cost.

NEW STUDEBAKER DISPLAYED HERE

Radical Departure In Lines Of New Models Revealed In Showing

New 1950 Studebaker passenger car models are now being displayed in the showrooms of Central Auto Sales Co.

"These are the automobiles which generated so much enthusiasm when they were previewed privately in New York and Chicago recently," according to Stickey Steele and Pete Godwin. "These new cars are so entirely different in appearance that it is difficult to do them justice by trying to describe them," he said. "I am particularly anxious for the people of this area to visit our sales rooms and see for themselves."

The front end of the 1950 Studebaker is especially striking, Steele and Godwin pointed out. It embodies an airplane fuselage-type hood, flanked by air-foil fenders and set off by a chrome "spinner." In addition to providing an ornamental touch, the "spinner" augments four frontal openings which direct air to the engine for maximum cooling. The largest of these air passages consists of two oval-shaped honeycomb grille scoops located below the two smaller air channels which flank the "spinner." Chrome moldings over these small twin channels contribute to the unusual decorative effect.

Steele and Godwin believe that the complete change in frontal appearance and fender treatment will be of a special interest to automobile enthusiasts. "It makes the cars look as if they are in motion even when they're standing still," he said.

"Riding and handling qualities are greatly improved, too. These are the result of a number of engineering refinements but are due principally to a modification of Studebaker's balanced chassis to include a new self-stabilizing coil spring front suspension. This involves a new mounting of the front wheels so that they strike road bumps at a retracting angle instead of head-on. In other words, 'they roll with the punch.' They don't take the full force of the blow.

"Another important change is an increase in the standard compression of both Studebaker engines—the Champion and the Commander—from 6.5 to 1, to 7.0 to 1. This steps up the power and helps gasoline economy without making it necessary to use premium gasolines. Champion brake horse-power is now 85; and the Commander is 102."

The popular and durable nylon upholstery, first used by Studebaker in the Land Cruiser, has been extended to all Regal Deluxe models of the Commander series, and can be had as an option on the Champion and Commander convertibles, Steele and Godwin said. Foam rubber cushions are standard equipment in all models with the exception of the low-priced Deluxe Champion.

Newly designed instrument panels are located about four inches farther forward than previously, it was pointed out, thus providing even greater space in the front compartment. Control switches are the push-pull type and gauges are grouped directly in front of the driver so that they can be checked at a glance. The steering column of the Commander and Land Cruiser is enclosed in an oversize steel jacket.

The Commander tire size has been increased to 7.60 x 15 inches. The Champion is equipped with 6.40 x 15 inches. All Studebaker tires are the extra low pressure type, with wide-base rims.

Sleeping Sickness In Catahoula Spreading

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Sleeping sickness claimed the lives of six more horses in Catahoula parish this week, according to Dr. J. E. Blunschi, veterinarian of Ferriday.

Dr. Blunschi said that he had vaccinated approximately 250 head of horses and mules within the past two weeks, since the dread disease moved across Red river from Avoyelles parish, where it has been raging for some time.

Ragweed pollen grains, which are one of the major causes of hay fever, are so small that it takes 2,500 of them to make an inch.

Ugly Eczema No Joke

The itching torment of eczema is enough to make anyone wretched and anxious for relief. Sufferers from itching eczema, pimples, angry red blotches or other irritating blemishes, get Peterson's Ointment, 40c all druggists. One application must delight you or money refunded. Also for itching feet, cracks between toes. (adv.)

The four-door Studebaker Commander sedan (shown) was among the company's new 1950 passenger car models acclaimed recently at private previews in several metropolitan centers. Front end design of the new Studebakers is particularly striking. The sweeping lines are carried from the "spinner" straight through to the flight-streamed rear fenders.

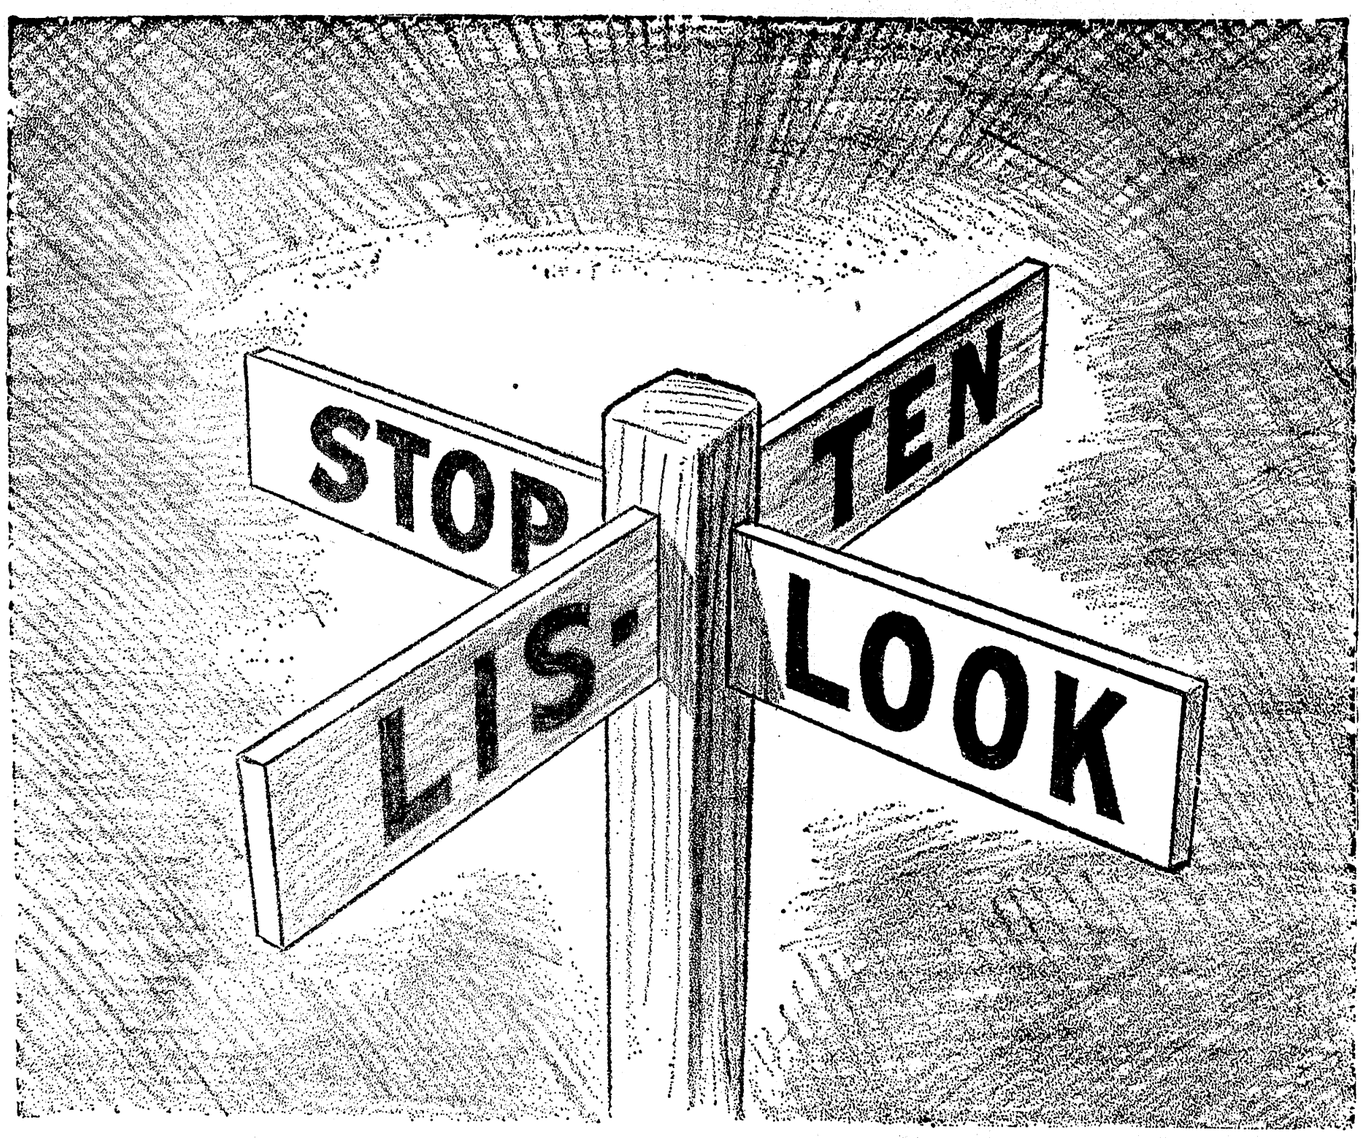
Attend the Church of Your Choice



STOP! That means you, and it means now, and it means right where you are. How difficult to do it! We are all in such a rush; but where are we going? You've got to stop before you can either look or listen. To stop means to do a little thinking, perhaps even to meditate or to reflect. That is almost a lost art among us. "Be still and know that I am God"; that is, stop to discover where you stand with reference to God and with reference to what you are living for; that is, where you are bound for. Who are we? Animals that must be fed and given bodily care? Or are we eternal children of God on the way to Destiny, and a Destiny beyond the stars? There must be "rests" in music, in order for phrasing and color: there must be a "pause" for that which refreshes the soul. Stop, then, for careful looking and for listening.

LOOK! What are other people doing around you? Who is travelling the highway, and how fast? Is he doing wisely? Do you want to be caught in the same traffic jam that appears in the distance? Has it ever been true that "broad is the way that leads to destruction, and many there be who find it"? Is it a wise policy to let the crowd do your thinking for you? Where so many do so little thinking and that too late, ought I to be more thoughtful, especially about the more important things? Shall I learn by the experience of the race? Is the end of the way fairly clear to those who will look?

LISTEN! There are warnings aplenty for those who will listen. What does the alcoholic have to say about the first drink? He knows; listen! What does the embezzler have to say about the careless use of another's property? What does the killer have to say about hatred in the heart? Listen! Then, on the other side, the wise teachers of the race, who have chosen the straight and narrow path, where too few were travelling, they add their counsel. Christians are women and men and children who have decided to listen to Jesus of Nazareth. This is a good time to read the Sermon on the Mount. Hear Him! Then choose the path along which He will walk with you.

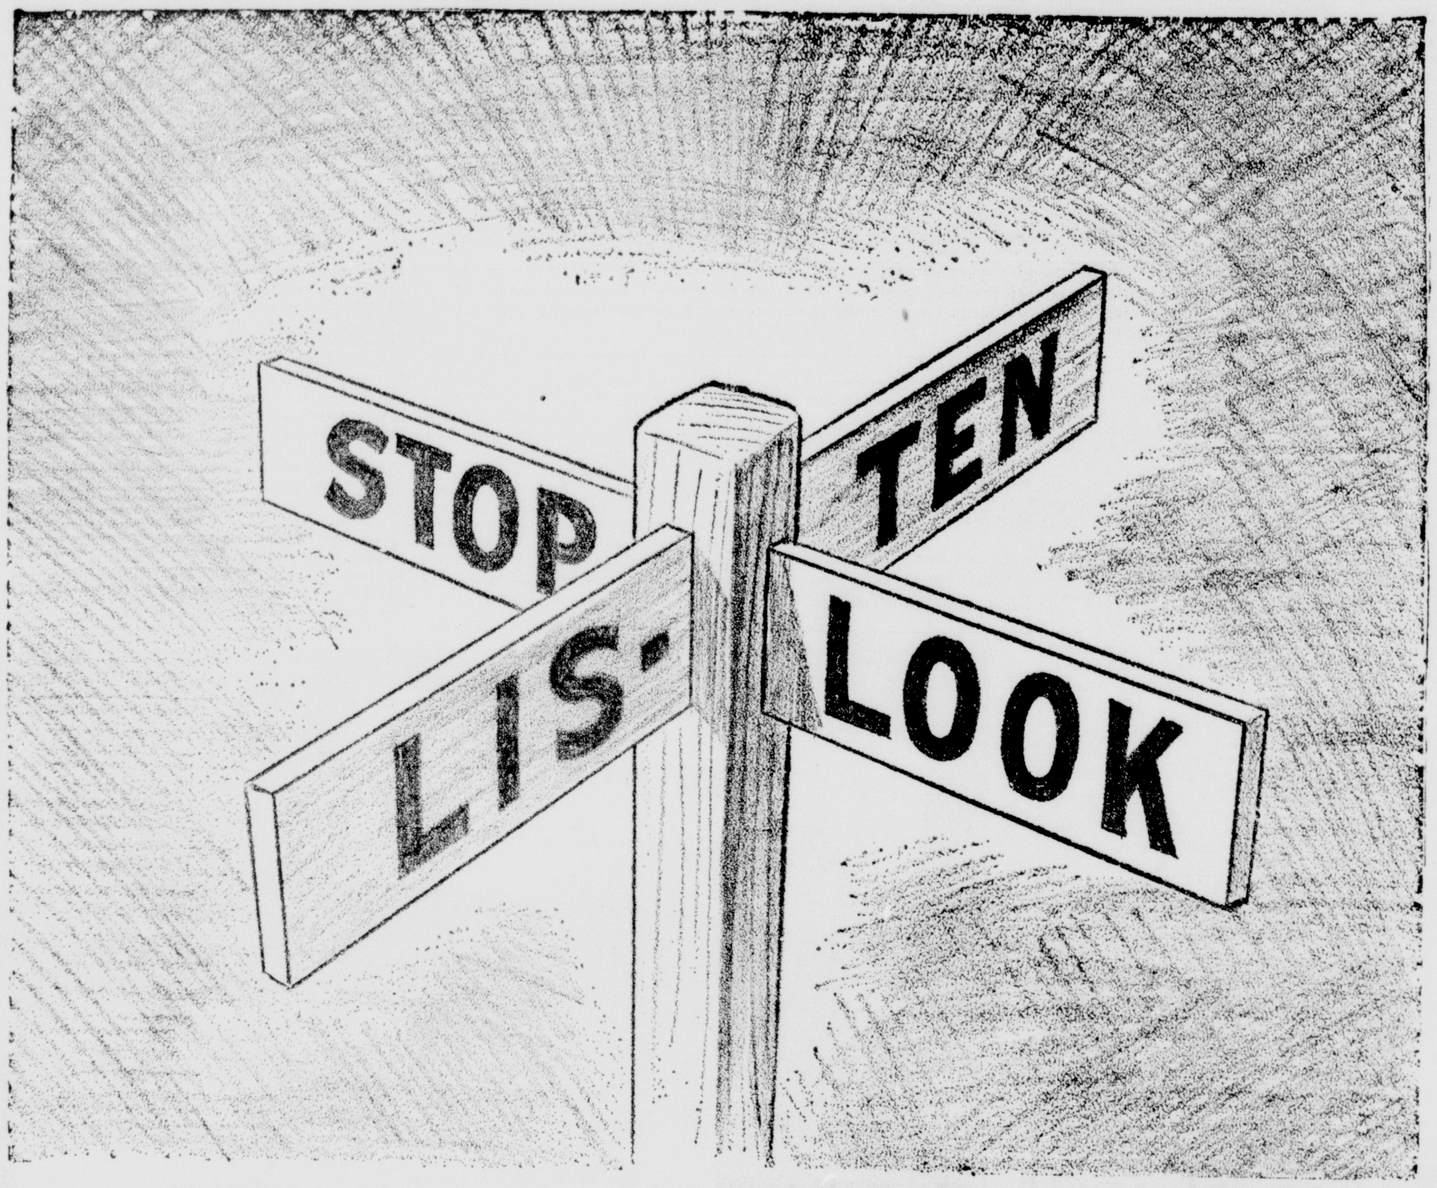
Attend the Church of Your Choice



STOP! That means you, and it means now, and it means right where you are. How difficult to do it! We are all in such a rush; but where are we going? You've got to stop before you can either look or listen. To stop means to do a little thinking, perhaps even to meditate or to reflect. That is almost a lost art among us. "Be still and know that I am God"; that is, stop to discover where you stand with reference to God and with reference to what you are living for; that is, where you are bound for. Who are we? Animals that must be fed and given bodily care? Or are we eternal children of God on the way to Destiny, and a Destiny beyond the stars? There must be "rests" in music, in order for phrasing and color; there must be a "pause" for that which refreshes the soul. Stop, then, for careful looking and for listening.

LOOK! What are other people doing around you? Who is travelling the highway, and how fast? Is he doing wisely? Do you want to be caught in the same traffic jam that appears in the distance? Has it ever been true that "broad is the way that leads to destruction, and many there be who find it"? Is it a wise policy to let the crowd do your thinking for you? Where so many do so little thinking and that too late, ought I to be more thoughtful, especially about the more important things? Shall I learn by the experience of the race? Is the end of the way fairly clear to those who will look?

LISTEN! There are warnings aplenty for those who will listen. What does the alcoholic have to say about the first drink? He knows; listen! What does the embezzler have to say about the careless use of another's property? What does the killer have to say about hatred in the heart? Listen! Then, on the other side, the wise teachers of the race, who have chosen the straight and narrow path, where too few were travelling, they add their counsel. Christians are women and men and children who have decided to listen to Jesus of Nazareth. This is a good time to read the Sermon on the Mount. Hear Him! Then choose the path along which He will walk with you.

Assembly Of God Church In West Monroe 25 Years Old

Tribute Paid To Rev. E. L. Tanner For Religious Leadership

By Margaret Gambrell

The Twin Cities eldest minister, Rev. E. L. Tanner, theorizes his life as originator and pastor of the Assembly of God Church for more than two and a half decades as "a definite call for God filled with joy and pleasure."

Last week the rightfully proud 140-pound minister witnessed his church enter its twenty-fifth year under his leadership.

Sixty-two-year-old Rev. Tanner is not the oldest pastor in the cities by age, but so far as records show he is the only minister to have founded a local church and served as its pastor for 25 years.

During a life time few clergymen are afforded the opportunity of seeing their church grow from a tent and membership of nine to a modern temple of near 500 members.

Special Services

The Assembly of God Church in West Monroe located at the corner of Cypress and Crosley streets in commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization has held special services four nights this week.

Anniversary worship services began Thursday evening and will be climaxed today at the 7:30 evening meeting with an address by Mrs. Stephen Vandermerwe, a South African missionary.

Native Of Louisiana

The modest and soft spoken Revoran Tanner is a Louisianian by birth and recalls that as a young man he originally planned to pattern his life from that of his father, a Claiborne parish planter—but the call for God was stronger.

"There's nothing else I could do that would afford me such joy and pleasure," Rev. Tanner emphatically explains.

Born March 31, 1887, the medium-built preacher vividly remembers his "calling" a year after his marriage to a seven-year classmate, the former Pearl Barber, also of Claiborne parish.

"It was February 14, 1912, at a church in Summerfield that my wife and I were consecrated at the same time," Tanner recalls.

"I was in business with my brother, T. A. Tanner, at the time running a drygoods store," he remarked.

"My convictions from then on would never let me do any other kind of work. After Mrs. Tanner and I were baptized I knew that the Lord had called me to the ministry and for this reason I could never enter into the opportunity of making more money elsewhere."

In addition to his duties as a pastor, Rev. Tanner has reared a family of three daughters, two of whom are wives of ministers. He is also a seven-time grandfather.

Tent Services

After having toured most of the state at various times doing evangelistic work, the Tanner family settled in West Monroe and erected a small tent at the corner of Stella and Trenton streets on May 1, 1924.

The then 37-year-old minister began preaching in at that time a small town which later became his permanent residence and the home of his church.

The first tent meeting lasted until the end of June when the pastor purchased two lots and an old dwelling from G. C. Moore and erected a forty by sixty tabernacle as a place to worship.

By August 16 the same year, the church was chartered with nine members including the pastor and his wife. Those comprising the chartered membership were: Mr. and Mrs. E. P Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Price Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Doss Weems and Mrs. Lizzie Guin.

Membership Grows

The first members were added to the church roll when Mrs. Davenport, a Texas evangelist, conducted first evangelistic services in the new tabernacle.

In early March of 1925 Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Miller, of Ft. Smith, Ark., conducted a revival resulting in more than fifty persons becoming members of the church.

Rapid growth by 1927 made it necessary for another expansion which led to the purchase of the present church site. Within ten years the modern brick veneer building now occupied by the congregation was constructed to replace the old tabernacle.

The church's membership to date is more than 450. Since that time the church's indebtedness has been paid and more lots adjoining the church have been purchased and a building purchased or increased Sunday School facilities.

Church Board

Recently the seven-man church board elected Reverend Tanner to serve as pastor of the West Monroe church for an indefinite period.

Reverend Tanner asserts that the church's Sunday School is enjoying the largest attendance in the history of the church.

"Much credit is due the Sunday School officers, Superintendent David Mahoney, Assistant Superintendent L. M. Tidwell, Mrs. C. H. Breazeale, secretary-treasurer, and our efficient staff of teachers," declared Reverend Tanner.

Sees City Expand

The slightly greyed minister testifies to having seen West Monroe grow from a "small village to a modern city, made up of a citizenship of the most church-minded and churchgoing people to be found anywhere."

Reverend Tanner commented: "Of course, there are many people who do not attend church but even they show a sympathetic attitude toward the church and its program. This is attested to by the number of churches of various denominations which have built here."

Ater seeing his church dreams materialize and progress through twenty-five years, Reverend Tanner says: "I am sure there is not any place I had rather live than in West Monroe."

CHURCH OBSERVES 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Last week members of the Assembly of God Church in West Monroe celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization under the leadership of Rev. E. L. Tanner. The congregation had due reason to be proud of their progress and church which was founded by the church's present pastor who has served during the entire life of the West Monroe Church. Having originated in a small tent in 1924, the church's growth is attested by the modernized red brick church and its 450 membership which compares well with other Twin City churches. Rev. Tanner testifies to having seen West Monroe grow from a village to a city. Recently he was elected to serve as minister of the Assembly of God Church for an indefinite period.

Employes Credit Union Holds Meet

The Missouri Pacific Employes Credit Union held its first meeting at the Missouri Pacific Booster hall Thursday night, August 25, for the purpose of electing officers for the following year.

V. O. Wilson, Missouri Pacific locomotive engineer, was elected president, D. L. Moss, Missouri Pacific conductor, vice-president and C. G. Alexander, Missouri Pacific ticket agent, secretary and treasurer for the next fiscal year.

The credit union was organized by employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. for the purpose of serving all employes of the company.

Building Permits

Dr. J. E. McConnell received a permit to erect a residence at 1802 Pargoud Drive, at a cost of $8,950. M. L. McRee will be the contractor.

Permission was granted Julie Rogers to build a cabin at 604 Morton street, at a cost of $300. The owner will be the contractor.

A permit to demolish a dwelling located at 2711 Lee avenue was issued to Frank Pitarro. Day labor is to be used.

Ella Oglesbee received a permit to move a building from Selman field to 810 Mississippi street, at a cost of $50. Ralph Woolsey will be the contractor.

HODGE

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vail this week were their son, Arnald of Dallas, Tex., who is doing cartoon work for the Universal Advertising Company there, and Mrs. G. S. Black and daughter, Virginia of Shreveport, were also their guests.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Calloway and daughter, Helen, spent several days in Pine Bluff, Ark., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zuber and daughter, Martha Sue, visited relatives in Jena recently.

School will open at the Quitman High School September 5th, '49 according to the parish superintendent, Mr. J. D. Koonce with the following teachers as members of the faculty: Mr. W. D. Swanner, principal, Mrs. Elaine Norred, Mrs. Edith Barr, Mr. Billy K. Smith, Mrs. Mary Waldrip, Mrs. G. V. Myers, Mrs. Irline Smith being high school teachers and Mrs. Ora Woodard, Mrs. W. R. Adams, Mrs. Cleo McConathy, Mrs. Boyce Blalock, Mrs. Maude Pearl Carr and Mrs. Arlo Head completing the elementary department.

Friends will be glad to learn that Everes Burson of Quitman is recuperating nicely after an accident sustained at the job he was on Monday. Mr. Burson received a severely cut chin and lip.

Mr. Fred Schmidt was a business visitor in Monroe several days of this week.

Mr. Jiles Thomas is spending this week as guest of his sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Brown of Quitman.

Editor Conducts Gospel Meeting

A gospel meeting is being conducted near Brown's Paper Mill on Jewel street, West Monroe, by Evangelist W. M. Redd, editor of "The Free Lance for Christ." He is formerly of Jackson, Miss. He now makes his residence in West Monroe.

Services begin at 7:30 p. m. daily.

WORK SCHEDULE GIVEN TEACHERS

Catahoula Requires Mentors To Stay On Duty From 8 To 4 P. M.

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish school board at a special meeting this week passed a resolution requiring teachers to observe regular hours, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The resolution grew out of a request made at the meeting by members of the Jonesville Woman's Club and the Block Parent-Teachers Association. The two groups requested the board to "keep teachers from leaving the school grounds before the children in the afternoons."

Aubrey Brooks, superintendent, pointed out that the board had been considering the matter for several years, but that up until last year teachers had been so ill-paid that the board did not feel it could impose additional responsibilities on them. Now, he pointed out, they all make "good money."

A resolution to keep children on the school grounds, excepting on written excuse from their parents, was tabled until the board's September meeting, in order that rural parents might voice their opinions.

In requesting the resolution, the Woman's Club and the P.-T. A. pointed out the dangers of children crossing streets to go to stores in town, and of ill effects which candy and ice cream, eaten at recess, had on their appetites. Much of the nutritious food provided without charge in the school lunch program goes into the garbage can because children had bought and eaten candy and other things before lunchtime, it was emphasized.

In a resolution coming out of the discussion on means of keeping children on the campus, the board forbid the selling by schools of anything but cold drinks, except during special occasions.

Social Welfare Region Conference Held Here

The officers of region II of the social welfare conference met in Monroe Friday afternoon. Pertinent problems of social welfare were discussed. It was decided to hold a regional conference in Monroe in October. Those present were: President J. S. Worley, Monroe; Mrs. Clara Cummins, Oak Grove; Miss Bernice Wright, Joe Simpson, Wallace Kendall and Mrs. Taunton Veazey.

MID-SOUTH COTTON GROWERS ASSOCIATION

You bring in your sample for classing . . . You get your check . . . no delay . . .

A Lending Agency for Fast, Accurate Cotton Loans
A Selling Agency that is Efficient and Dependable

Consider Mid-South For Speed

When you walk into any of our classing offices with a bonded, sealed warehouse sample and receipt, our government-licensed classer will class your cotton and make you a full loan advance immediately. THAT'S SPEED AND QUICK SERVICE.

Or, bring us your Green Class Card or other official government class and a full loan advance will be made, using this class information as the basis for your loan. THAT'S SPEED AND QUICK SERVICE.

Ask farmers who have patronized this system for years. You'll find they report no delay, no red tape.

Consider Mid-South For Accuracy of Class

The majority of Mid-South's field classers are men with long years of experience in cotton classing. They have passed government examinations and are licensed and bonded.

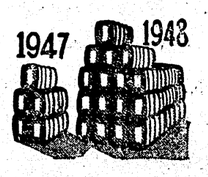
ACCURACY IN CLASSING IS MID-SOUTH'S BUSINESS. Cotton growers are entitled to exact grading. They do not want over-grading any more than under-grading.

Consider Mid-South For Dependability

Mid-South is an established cotton growers association. We have been in the cotton marketing business for 19 years . . . and even before 1930, as far back as 1921-22, many of our leaders were working to improve cotton marketing practices. All transactions are recorded. Growers receive copies of invoices. The Association is not only here today . . . but tomorrow and next year and the next.

Mid-South's loan and marketing service is dependable . . . and we are everlastingly working for the growers' interest and protection.

Our Record Speaks For Itself



Deliveries over a 19 year period have averaged 193,518 bales per year, or a total of 3,676,850 bales . . . proof that cotton growers must benefit from our services or they would not cooperate.

All Records Broken in 1948-49 Season

Through the efficiency of our management and the help of loyal agencies and individuals who believe in our organization, bales delivered last year totaled 592,887, valued at $95,049,836.28.

Our Interest is in Your Welfare . . . Always

Through our overhead sales organization, The American Cotton Cooperative Association, which we partly own and control, your cotton will not only be sold to domestic mills but to foreign mills as well, under the export program. Regardless of how it is sold, it is the association's job to find a ready market and the highest price for your cotton. When the price justifies it, local "over the table" sales are made in your interest.

Try Mid-South's quick-action loan and marketing plan. Act now. Let the service you experience speak for itself. Test us, try us. You'll be pleased with the results.

WORK SCHEDULE GIVEN TEACHERS

Catahoula Requires Mentors To Stay On Duty From 8 To 4 P. M.

JONESVILLE, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish school board at a special meeting this week passed a resolution requiring teachers to observe regular hours, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The resolution grew out of a request made at the meeting by members of the Jonesville Woman's Club and the Block Parent-Teachers Association. The two groups requested the board to "keep teachers from leaving the school grounds before the children in the afternoons."

Aubrey Brooks, superintendent, pointed out that the board had been considering the matter for several years, but that up until last year teachers had been so ill-paid that the board did not feel it could impose additional responsibilities on them. Now, he pointed out, they all make "good money."

A resolution to keep children on the school grounds, excepting on written excuse from their parents, was tabled until the board's September meeting, in order that rural parents might voice their opinions.

In requesting the resolution, the Woman's Club and the P.-T. A. pointed out the dangers of children crossing streets to go to stores in town, and of ill effects which candy and ice cream, eaten at recess, had on their appetites. Much of the nutritious food provided without charge in the school lunch program goes into the garbage can because children had bought and eaten candy and other things before lunchtime, it was emphasized.

In a resolution coming out of the discussion on means of keeping children on the campus, the board forbid the selling by schools of anything but cold drinks, except during special occasions.

Social Welfare Region Conference Held Here

The officers of region II of the social welfare conference met in Monroe Friday afternoon. Pertinent problems of social welfare were discussed. It was decided to hold a regional conference in Monroe in October. Those present were: President J. S. Worley, Monroe; Mrs. Clara Cummins, Oak Grove; Miss Bernice Wright, Joe Simpson, Wallace Kendall and Mrs. Taunton Veazey.

In producing culture pearls, about 60 per cent of the oysters which have been operated upon produce pearls, but only about five per cent of these are marketable.

HODGE

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vail this week were their son, Arnald of Dallas, Tex., who is doing cartoon work for the Universal Advertising Company there, and Mrs. G. S. Black and daughter, Virginia of Shreveport, were also their guests.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Calloway and daughter, Helen, spent several days in Pine Bluff, Ark., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zuber and daughter, Martha Sue, visited relatives in Jena recently.

School will open at the Quitman High School September 5th, '49 according to the parish superintendent, Mr. J. D. Koonce with the following teachers as members of the faculty: Mr. W. D. Swanner, principal, Mrs. Elaine Norred, Mrs. Edith Barr, Mr. Billy K. Smith, Mrs. Mary Waldrip, Mrs. G. V. Myers, Mrs. Irline Smith being high school teachers and Mrs. Ora Woodard, Mrs. W. R. Adams, Mrs. Cleo McConathy, Mrs. Boyce Blalock, Mrs. Maude Pearl Carr and Mrs. Arlo Head completing the elementary department.

Friends will be glad to learn that Everes Burson of Quitman is recuperating nicely after an accident sustained at the job he was on Monday. Mr. Burson received a severely cut chin and lip.

Mr. Fred Schmidt was a business visitor in Monroe several days of this week.

Mr. Jiles Thomas is spending this week as guest of his sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Brown of Quitman.

Editor Conducts Gospel Meeting

A gospel meeting is being conducted near Brown's Paper Mill on Jewel street, West Monroe, by Evangelist W. M. Redd, editor of "The Free Lance for Christ." He is formerly of Jackson, Miss. He now makes his residence in West Monroe.

Services begin at 7:30 p. m. daily.

INVESTIGATE and CONSIDER

You bring in your sample for classing . . .

You get your check . . . no delay . . .

MID-SOUTH COTTON GROWERS ASSOCIATION

A Lending Agency for Fast, Accurate Cotton Loans
A Selling Agency that is Efficient and Dependable

Consider Mid-South For Speed

When you walk into any of our classing offices with a bonded, sealed warehouse sample and receipt, our government-licensed classer will class your cotton and make you a full loan advance immediately. THAT'S SPEED AND QUICK SERVICE.

Or, bring us your Green Class Card or other official government class and a full loan advance will be made, using this class information as the basis for your loan. THAT'S SPEED AND QUICK SERVICE.

Ask farmers who have patronized this system for years. You'll find they report no delay, no red tape.

Consider Mid-South For Accuracy of Class

The majority of Mid-South's field classers are men with long years of experience in cotton classing. They have passed government examinations and are licensed and bonded.

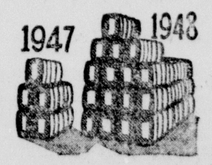
ACCURACY IN CLASSING IS MID-SOUTH'S BUSINESS. Cotton growers are entitled to exact grading. They do not want over-grading any more than under-grading.

Consider Mid-South For Dependability

Mid-South is an established cotton growers association. We have been in the cotton marketing business for 19 years . . . and even before 1930, as far back as 1921-22, many of our leaders were working to improve cotton marketing practices. All transactions are recorded. Growers receive copies of invoices. The Association is not only here today . . . but tomorrow and next year and the next.

Mid-South's loan and marketing service is dependable . . . and we are everlastingly working for the growers' interest and protection.

Our Record Speaks For Itself



Deliveries over a 19 year period have averaged 193,518 bales per year, or a total of 3,676,850 bales . . . proof that cotton growers must benefit from our services or they would not cooperate.

All Records Broken in 1948-49 Season

Through the efficiency of our management and the help of local agencies and individuals who believe in our organization, bales delivered last year totaled 592,887, valued at $95,049,836.28.

Our Interest is in Your Welfare . . . Always

Through our overhead sales organization, The American Cotton Cooperative Association, which we partly own and control, your cotton will not only be sold to domestic mills but to foreign mills as well, under the export program. Regardless of how it is sold, it is the association's job to find a ready market and the highest price for your cotton. When the price justifies it, local "over the table" sales are made in your interest.

Try Mid-South's quick-action loan and marketing plan. Act now. Let the service you experience speak for itself. Test us, try us. You'll be pleased with the results.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Alan Ladd is the little man who isn't there at beauty contests.

And yet the screen idol was judging his 161st beauty match this week. He does it by mail.

The outfit conducting the contest contacts Ladd and his studio. Pictures of the contestants—anything from a tiny snapshot to a huge portrait—are submitted. "The selection is fairest if the same photographer takes all the pictures," says Ladd.

Conscientious Ladd ponders over all the pictures. He takes a lot of time with each contest.

"The first thing I look for in a beauty queen is intelligence," he confided on the set aptly titled "U. S. Mail."

And how can you see intelligence from photos: "You can see it in their eyes."

Ladd began judging feminine charms en masse nine years ago. Most of his requests come from high schools and colleges, but he has also selected rodeo queens and even the sauerkraut queen of Forreston, Ill. His 162nd quest will be next month for the queen of TWA air hostesses.

A typical request is that of Hickory High School, Hickory, N. C. He is informed the 900 students chose him their favorite actor in a poll conducted by the paper, the Hickory Twig. And would he please choose the campus queen?

It was suggested all this activity should make Ladd the Hollywood expert on the female. But he shrugged this off with: "Aw, Bob Hope and Bing Crosby have judged a lot of contests, too, you know."

HOW TO AVOID THE PERILS OF POLIO

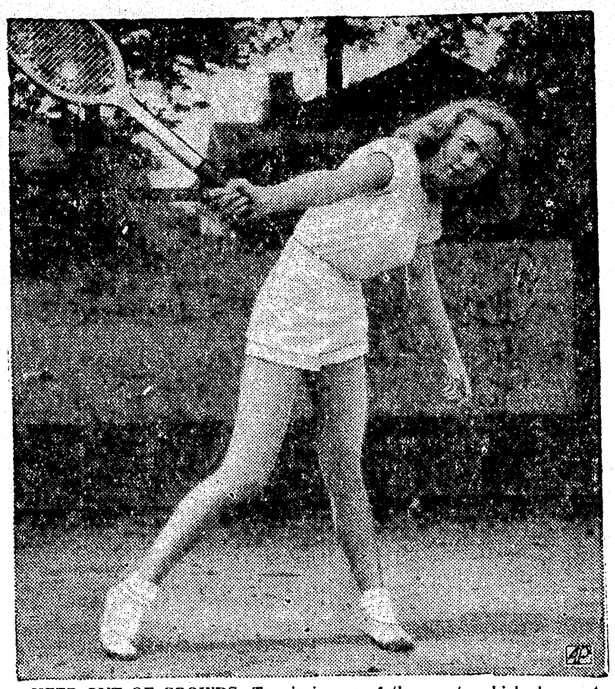
AP Newsfeatures

THE MENACE of polio is again acute in many parts of the United States. Here, Geraldine Childs poses to illustrate some of the dos and don'ts for avoiding the plague. These are things that each person can watch for himself.

DON'T GET CHILLED—Sitting in front of a fan when overheated is bad. Remove wet garments at once. Keep warm clothes handy in case of need.

KEEP CLEAN—Garbage cans should be covered tightly. If disposal facilities are lacking garbage should be burned. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies and insects which might carry virus.

DON'T SWIM IN DIRT—Polluted water and places marked "no swimming" should be especially avoided. It is safest to use only authorized beaches and public pools declared safe by health officials.



KEEP OUT OF CROWDS—Tennis is one of the sports which does not involve close contact with other people. It is wise to stop playing before you get overtired. The injunction to avoid fatigue and crowds applies to work, although it is more difficult to adjust work schedules.

SCIENTIST X CASE NEARING SOLUTION

Three Federal Agents' Testimony To Unveil Perjury Issues

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — (AP) — House spy hunters say three former federal agents may snap shut a perjury case against the "Scientist X" accused of slipping atomic secrets to a Red.

The trio, an authority of the house un-American activities committee said, will swear they saw Scientist X and Communist Leader Steve Nelson in a war-time conference in Nelson's home.

"That means," this authority told reporters, "that so far as the Nelson-Scientist X case is concerned it is all locked up on the perjury issues."

The committee has said that the scientist denied knowing Nelson.

The scientist worked at the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley, which handled part of the atom bomb project.

The committee has said in an official report that in March, 1943, the scientist gave Nelson a complicated atomic formula. It called Nelson a Communist espionage agent and described meetings he held with Russian diplomatic officials at which it said documents and money changed hands. The scientist has never been named by the committee.

The committee informant said that the three ex-U. S. agents perched in a tree for an hour one night and watched the scientist and Nelson through a window of Nelson's home.

He said he didn't know whether they listened in on the conversation.

The three already have been questioned secretly in a preliminary to possible public hearings.

ON HONOR GUARD

Honor, dignity, courage . . . these are the traits exemplified by and required of Corporal Julius C. Harris shown above on duty at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo. Harris, son of Mrs. Cassel D. Harris, of R. R. 1, West Monroe, is a member of the general's hand-picked honor guard in the Japanese capital.

SCIENTIST X CASE NEARING SOLUTION

Three Federal Agents' Testimony To Unveil Perjury Issues

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — (AP) — House spy hunters say three former federal agents may snap shut a perjury case against the "Scientist X" accused of slipping atomic secrets to a Red.

The trio, an authority of the house un-American activities committee said, will swear they saw Scientist X and Communist Leader Steve Nelson in a war-time conference in Nelson's home.

"That means," this authority told reporters, "that so far as the Nelson-Scientist X case is concerned it is all locked up on the perjury issues."

The committee has said that the scientist denied knowing Nelson.

The scientist worked at the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley, which handled part of the atom bomb project.

The committee has said in an official report that in March, 1943, the scientist gave Nelson a complicated atomic formula. It called Nelson a Communist espionage agent and described meetings he held with Russian diplomatic officials at which it said documents and money changed hands. The scientist has never been named by the committee.

The committee informant said that the three ex-U. S. agents perched in a tree for an hour one night and watched the scientist and Nelson through a window of Nelson's home.

He said he didn't know whether they listened in on the conversation.

The three already have been questioned secretly in a preliminary to possible public hearings.

Photogenic Contest In Final Week

The "Miss Photogenic" contest sponsored by the News-Star—World and Larry Robinson Studio enters its final week tomorrow, but the search is far from over.

Entries continue to be received daily, and indications are that the final week will find an even increasing number of photogenic young women of the Twin Cities submitting their photographs for the final judging. Those who plan to enter the contest are urged to have their photographs made early this week to avoid the last minute rush which has marked similar contests elsewhere.

Photogenic Sharon Anderson

Anticipation of a three-day all-expense trip to New Orleans, with more than $400 in prizes thrown in, has spurred interest in the contest. Next Saturday is the final day for submitting photographs, and then the judge, the chief stewardess of Delta Air Lines, will fly here from Atlanta early the following week to pick the winner.

The rules of the contest are simple: Merely have your picture taken at the Robinson studio, fifth floor Bernhardt building, if you are between the ages of 18 and 30, married or single. That's all there is to it. There is no charge made for this, and you are under no obligation to buy anything. Your photograph will be submitted to the judge along with some 200 others who already have entered.

Merchants who are cooperating in the contest are Silverstein's, Peacock's Jewelers, Holloway and Thompson, Bakal's, Bernheim Brothers, Mary's Flower Shop, Virginia Hotel Pharmacy, Ceil-et-Albert, Browman's Coffee Cup and Allen's Millinery.

REFORESTATION PROGRESS MADE

Remarkable Expansion Reported In Old Fields And Idle Lands

In a remarkable expansion in reforestration in old fields and idle forest lands in 12 southern states during the past winter and spring planting season, the forestry industry played an outstanding role, according to a survey released by the Southern Pine Association in New Orleans.

State forestry departments produced and distributed from 19 state-operated nurseries 154,779,526 forest tree seedlings. This compares with the 1947-48 season's production of 98,424,000 seedlings from 15 state nurseries. Private industry purchased for planting on company lands and for free distribution to small landowners 82,032,600 seedlings—53 percent of the total state nursery production in the 1948-49 planting season.

According to the state forestry reports of seedlings purchased, the pulp and paper industry accounted for 26.2 percent, the lumber industry 16.4 percent and all other industries 10.4 percent of total industry purchases.

Approximately 80,000 acres of industry owned lands were reforested while over 9,000,000 forest tree seedlings were distributed free to small landowners by the lumber and pulp and paper industries. States covered in the survey included Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

The survey also revealed that the lumber industry is already planning for the coming season and will continue to play an important role in the program of reforesting additional lands in the south. With the next planting season still some months away, 69 lumber manufacturers have already signified their intentions to purchase more than 26,000,000 seedlings.

South Carolina led all southern states for the 1948-49 season with 32,093,750 seedlings. Georgia ranked second with 27,362,203 and Alabama and Florida ran a close third and fourth place with 19,821,927 and 19,573,185 seedlings respectively.

State foresters estimates of production at 20 nurseries during this year indicate an even larger reforestation program during the coming planting season. The 1949-50 production figures indicate that more than 234,000,000 forest tree seedlings will be available for distribution to landowners from state nurseries. Georgia's three nurseries show a step-up in production to 55,000,000 seedlings with noticeable increases also indicated for Mississippi and Louisiana with expected production of 25 million and 34 million seedlings respectively.

In addition to seedlings purchased from state-owned nurseries, the pulp and paper industry planted over 13 million seedlings grown in company-owned nurseries and the lumber industry planted over 2 2/3 million seedlings grown in company nurseries and purchased from other sources.

An analysis of planting by the lumber industry alone shows that over 28,000 acres of company-owned lands were reforested by 122 manufacturers in the 12 states. 60 of these manufacturers are members of the Southern Pine Association whose plantings accounted for 80 per cent of the total. Texas lumber manufacturers ranked first with a planting of more than 7 million seedlings on company lands while Georgia manufacturers placed second with more than 5 million seedlings, and Alabama and Arkansas third and fourth with 4,740 and slightly over 4 million seedlings respectively.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Leaving Wednesday to attend Pelican Girls State in Baton Rouge were Patsy Myers, Carolyn Rentz, Katherine Landren, Juanita Odom and Sammye Burgess.

C. W. Richards, Roy Abernethy and W. J. Grossman, Jr., were enrolled and welcomed as new members of the Lake Providence Club Wednesday, when Frank Byerley, secretary of the parish police jury, told of the new pipe line through the parish.

Mrs. W. W. Weldon and children "Sonny" and Jean returned to their home in Baton Rouge on Monday and left Miss Ellise Weldon for another week's visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Pearl F. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Salemi, Jr., and children are home from Narco, La., where they spend the past week with Mrs. Salemi's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Zell Stockner were in Memphis the past week end for complete physical check-up.

Mrs. Bill Scott, Mrs. L. H. Richards, Jr., and Mrs. John W. Fleming were honorees when Mrs. R. K. Howard and daughter, Miss Eunyce Howard, entertained Wednesday afternoon from four to five at a get-acquainted party.

Guests were the younger people of the three circles of the Methodist Missionary society, neighbors and intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Herring and daughters Virginia Mae, Dorothy and Betty of Atlanta, Ga., were in Lake Providence to spend a week with Mr. Herring's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Herring, and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Herring.

Mrs. Ruth Shirey of Logansport is on a visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Shirey.

Mrs. W. H. Maben, and Mrs. W. R. Abernethy anticipate the pleasure of a visit next week from Mrs. C. C. Alley of Ruston.

Georgia's three nurseries show a step-up in production to 55,000,000 seedlings with noticeable increases also indicated for Mississippi and Louisiana with expected production of 25 million and 34 million seedlings respectively.

In addition to seedlings purchased from state-owned nurseries, the pulp and paper industry planted over 13 million seedlings grown in company-owned nurseries and the lumber industry planted over 2 2/3 million seedlings grown in company nurseries and purchased from other sources.

An analysis of planting by the lumber industry alone shows that over 28,000 acres of company-owned lands were reforested by 122 manufacturers in the 12 states. 60 of these manufacturers are members of the Southern Pine Association whose plantings accounted for 80 per cent of the total. Texas lumber manufacturers ranked first with a planting of more than 7 million seedlings on company lands while Georgia manufacturers placed second with more than 5 million seedlings, and Alabama and Arkansas third and fourth with 4,740 and slightly over 4 million seedlings respectively.

FEEDSTUFFS

CSC serves Agriculture with fourteen important products. The raw materials for many of these originate on the farm. As finished products they return to the farmer to make his job easier, more efficient, and more profitable.

A pacemaker in biologic and synthetic production for many years, CSC has some notable firsts to its credit in the Agricultural field. CSC was the first company to produce riboflavin biologically and the first to market this product. CSC also pioneered the American research of the potent new insecticide, benzene hexachloride.

New research facilities, just completed, conclusively point the way to continued expansion and diversification — and to new agricultural chemicals for the fertilizer, feed, and insecticide industries.

Other divisions of CSC: INDUSTRIAL CHEMICALS—Organic Chemicals, Butanol, Ethyl Alcohol, Methanol, Amines and Derivatives; CSC PHARMACEUTICALS—Antibiotics, Scabicides; Vitamin Concentrates, and other medicinal preparations; SPECIALTIES—Anti-Freezes, Cooling System Products, and other automotive specialties; BEVERAGE—Neutral Spirits and Whiskeys.

NEW DRUG AIDS PALSY VICTIMS

Persons Past 50 Years Old Advised To Eat More Meat

By Alton L. Blakeslee

(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Another drug that benefits some people with shaking palsy is reported in the New York State Journal of Medicine.

The drug, thephorin, brought improvements in 13 out of 24 patients, said Dr. A. Berger, University of Rochester Medical School.

One man, confined to a wheel chair for two years, was able to return to work as a hotel porter.

The shaking hands of other patients were brought under control so they could dress and feed themselves. Some were able to walk better than before.

Shaking palsy, or Parkinson's disease, usually strikes after the age of 50 or 60. Tremors are often one of the first effects. Muscles may become rigid, and walking or talking difficult.

The cause is not known. The disease is believed to be due to damage to the brain from hardening of the arteries, or the result of an earlier attack of encephalitis, a brain inflammation.

Thephorin is not a cure, but may help some patients. It appears to be effective in all types of the disease, Dr. Berger said. The drug was originally developed to combat allergies.

Within the last year, medical researchers have reported four other drugs that also benefitted some victims of the disease.

One is a combination of benadryl, an anti-allergy drug, and either hyosine or rabellon, both derived from belladonna. Twenty-five of 31 persons were helped by this combination in tests at the University of Pennsylvania.

Two Columbia University researchers found that a synthetic drug, artane, brought improvement in 76 per cent of 117 persons suffering from varying degrees of the disease.

At the University of Minnesota, 10 of 16 patients were helped by a belladonna drug used along with another chemical, dihydrobeta-erythroidine.

Myanesin, a synthetic drug derived from glycerin, also was found at Rochester to have striking effect sometimes in controlling the trembling and in relaxing rigid or twisted muscles.

Elsewhere in science:

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—After the age of 50, you should eat more meat instead of less meat.

This is a recommendation from research on the diet of older persons being made by the Ellen H. Richards Institute at Pennsylvania State College.

Persons eating lean meat on the average of 1 1/2 times a day were in better shape than those who ate little meat, said Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, directing the studies. The meat eaters had better conditions of blood, tongue, skin and certain body functions, particularly reflexes and resistance to fatigue, she said.

Those eating liver regularly surpassed all others in their over-all medical rating.

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hanging light draperies behind your television set will help avoid eyestrain or "video eyes," says Dr. E. D. Tillyer, director of research of the American Optical Company.

"The one glaring spot of concentrated light from the video screen surrounded by darkness is a cause of 'video eyes,'" he said. "To avoid this eyestrain and fatigue, the television set should be painted a light color and a light background of draperies provided for it."

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Animal tests with neomycin, a new antibiotic, hold promise that it will become another useful drug against tuberculosis.

Neomycin was developed by Dr. Selman A. Waksman, discoverer of streptomycin, the most effective drug yet found for combating TB.

Neomycin prolongs the life of tuberculosis—infected mice for significant lengths of time, said Dr. Geoffrey W. Rake, director of the Squibb Institute for Medical Research, but twice as much is needed as streptomycin. It had toxic effects when 15 times the effective dose was given. Like other antibiotics, neomycin exists in several forms, and a search is being made to see if one of them is more useful than the others.

SEATTLE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Brakes that prevent skidding, even on ice, are a new Boeing Aircraft Company product. These brakes ease off whenever the wheel slows to the point where it would cause skidding. The control for this is a little fly-wheel, set on the hub, and housed with the rest of the braking system. The fly wheel is free to turn faster than the big wheel, and does just that. When the fly wheel is going too much faster than the big wheel, that is a sign that a skid is about to start. The difference in speed then starts an electronic device which eases the brake pressure and lets the big wheel roll a little faster.

The company claims this permits the brakes to exert their full stopping power up to the skid point, something which ordinarily doesn't happen. Tires are said to last longer.

'Union Label Week' Is Proclaimed By Mayors

Mayors George Breece and C. C. Bell of the Twin Cities have proclaimed the week, September 3-10, as "Union Label Week," and call upon all citizens of Monroe and West Monroe to observe the period appropriately.

The proclamation said in part: ". . . the product that bears this emblem represents the work of expert craftsmen who have subscribed to an exacting standard of skill and who have banded together for the maintenance and extension of benefits which are shared by every worker in the nation."

NEW DRUG AIDS PALSY VICTIMS

Persons Past 50 Years Old Advised To Eat More Meat

By Alton L. Blakeslee

(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Another drug that benefits some people with shaking palsy is reported in the New York State Journal of Medicine.

The drug, thephorin, brought improvements in 13 out of 24 patients, said Dr. A. Berger, University of Rochester Medical School.

One man, confined to a wheel chair for two years, was able to return to work as a hotel porter.

The shaking hands of other patients were brought under control so they could dress and feed themselves. Some were able to walk better than before.

Shaking palsy, or Parkinson's disease, usually strikes after the age of 50 or 60. Tremors are often one of the first effects. Muscles may become rigid, and walking or talking difficult.

The cause is not known. The disease is believed to be due to damage to the brain from hardening of the arteries, or the result of an earlier attack of encephalitis, a brain inflammation.

Thephorin is not a cure, but may help some patients. It appears to be effective in all types of the disease, Dr. Berger said. The drug was originally developed to combat allergies.

Within the last year, medical researchers have reported four other drugs that also benefitted some victims of the disease.

One is a combination of benadryl, an anti-allergy drug, and either hyosine or rabellon, both derived from belladonna. Twenty-five of 31 persons were helped by this combination in tests at the University of Pennsylvania.

Two Columbia University researchers found that a synthetic drug, artane, brought improvement in 76 per cent of 117 persons suffering from varying degrees of the disease.

At the University of Minnesota, 10 of 16 patients were helped by a belladonna drug used along with another chemical, dihydrobeta-erythroidine.

Myanesin, a synthetic drug derived from glycerin, also was found at Rochester to have striking effect sometimes in controlling the trembling and in relaxing rigid or twisted muscles.

Elsewhere in science:

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—After the age of 50, you should eat more meat instead of less meat.

This is a recommendation from research on the diet of older persons being made by the Ellen H. Richards Institute at Pennsylvania State College.

Persons eating lean meat on the average of 1 1/2 times a day were in better shape than those who ate little meat, said Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, directing the studies. The meat eaters had better conditions of blood, tongue, skin and certain body functions, particularly reflexes and resistance to fatigue, she said.

Those eating liver regularly surpassed all others in their over-all medical rating.

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Hanging light draperies behind your television set will help avoid eyestrain or "video eyes," says Dr. E. D. Tillyer, director of research of the American Optical Company.

"The one glaring spot of concentrated light from the video screen surrounded by darkness is a cause of 'video eyes,'" he said. "To avoid this eyestrain and fatigue, the television set should be painted a light color and a light background of draperies provided for it."

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Animal tests with neomycin, a new antibiotic, hold promise that it will become another useful drug against tuberculosis.

Neomycin was developed by Dr. Selman A. Waksman, discoverer of streptomycin, the most effective drug yet found for combating TB.

Neomycin prolongs the life of tuberculosis—infected mice for significant lengths of time, said Dr. Geoffrey W. Rake, director of the Squibb Institute for Medical Research, but twice as much is needed as streptomycin. It had toxic effects when 15 times the effective dose was given. Like other antibiotics, neomycin exists in several forms, and a search is being made to see if one of them is more useful than the others.

SEATTLE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Brakes that prevent skidding, even on ice, are a new Boeing Aircraft Company product. These brakes ease off whenever the wheel slows to the point where it would cause skidding. The control for this is a little fly-wheel, set on the hub, and housed with the rest of the braking system. The fly wheel is free to turn faster than the big wheel, and does just that. When the fly wheel is going too much faster than the big wheel, that is a sign that a skid is about to start. The difference in speed then starts an electronic device which eases the brake pressure and lets the big wheel roll a little faster.

The company claims this permits the brakes to exert their full stopping power up to the skid point, something which ordinarily doesn't happen. Tires are said to last longer.

'Union Label Week' Is Proclaimed By Mayors

Mayors George Breece and C. C. Bell of the Twin Cities have proclaimed the week, September 3-10, as "Union Label Week," and call upon all citizens of Monroe and West Monroe to observe the period appropriately.

The proclamation said in part: ". . . the product that bears this emblem represents the work of expert craftsmen who have subscribed to an exacting standard of skill and who have banded together for the maintenance and extension of benefits which are shared by every worker in the nation."

The Romans spread the use of iron through Europe.

Adirondack Park, N. Y., covers 3,281 square miles, has 2,200 lakes, 19 peaks above 4,000 feet, and can accommodate one million campers daily.

BEATTY CIRCUS HERE SEPT. 12

All New Performance Stars Famed Animal Trainer Under Big Top

The Clyde Beatty Circus will present two shows here on the afternoon and night of Monday, Sept. 12 at the Plum street show grounds, it was announced yesterday by C. S. Primrose, advance contracting press agent of the show.

The veteran press agent said the Beatty Circus is much larger than in previous years and again features, of course, Beatty's act in which he handles 40 lions and tigers in the big steel arena. Mrs. Beatty also puts several of the big cats through their paces.

The show, which Primrose said is an all new performance, includes the following acts:

Dorothy Herbert, daring rider of rearing and high jumping horses; The Thommens, high perch stars; the De-Wayne troupe of acrobatic stars; the LaForms, spectacular high trapeze performers; the Renato Medini troupe from Europe, said to be the world's greatest unsupported ladder troupe; Johnnie Cline's performing horses, and elaborate aerial ballet and thirty clowns.

The circus travels in 20 railroad cars carrying 400 persons, there are 300 performers, 75 head of horses and three herds of elephants. The Beatty show again will present its large menagerie, featuring many of the animals which the famous trainer has handled personally.

The Beatty show has played here annually for the past several years and always has attracted large crowds.

PLAN PROPOSALS ON NEW OIL LAW

Basic Law Regulating Expanding Industry To Be Considered

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Nine Louisiana legislators are due soon to begin getting down on paper their proposals for improving the basic law regulating the state's huge and expanding oil industry.

They are members of a joint committee appointed at the 1948 session to study the existing conservation act and recommend improvements. Most of their meeting time so far has been spent in hearings, but no more of these are scheduled. Chairman John J. McKeithen says the committee will resume meetings next month to discuss its report.

The individual members haven't yet put into the committee record their recommendations for changes. From talk in and out of committee meetings, however, the following possibilities stand out:

1. There will likely not be recommendations for any sweeping changes in the conservation law, act 157 of 1940. The act, which incorporated up to the minute thinking and practice when it was adopted and which since then has been copied in part by other states, stood up pretty well in the crossfire of committee hearings. Notably, the present commission of conservation, S. L. Digby, put in a good word for it, even though it was adopted under an administration politically opposed to the present one. The committee heard plenty of criticism, but on analysis most of it turned out to be directed at leasing or other practices outside the scope of the act.

2. At least some of the committee members favor an increase, perhaps a doubling, in the appropriation to the department of conservation for enforcement of the act and policing of oil and gas field practices. The appropriation for the current year is $465,000. The committee has been told that on its present budget the department must do much of its inspecting on a spot-check basis, taking information as submitted by operators in between checks.

3. There may be a proposal, by at least part of the committee, for substituting a three-man commission for the single commissioner as executive head of the conservation department. Such a proposal would almost certainly not have the backing of the full committee and undoubtedly would be advanced, if at all, with an explanation that no criticism of Commissioner Digby was intended. The arguments made at committee sessions for a commission were along the line that since much of the commissioner's duties consisted of receiving evidence at hearings, evaluating it and issing orders based on it, a panel could do a better job than an individual.

4. As a by-product of the committee's investigation, legislation may be introduced to require certain standard provisions in lease contracts. The committee, which opened the door wide to discussion of landowner-producer relations, heard many complaints that had nothing to do with the conservation act itself.

Senator C. E. Barham, of Ruston, a member of the committee and author of the resolution which led to its creation, said a recurrent complaint was that leasese now are written so that a company can place, say, ten acres of a 300-acre lease in a drilling unit and hold the remaining 290 acres under lease without rental payments so long as a well is producing on the unit.

Barham said this situation was one that touched on the right of contract and was outside the committee's jurisdiction. He said, however, that individual committee members might offer legislation along the lines of the state standard fire insurance act, spelling out certain standards that would be required in leases.

He will be assisted by H. G. McDonald, plant superintendent.

Educational Director Appointed At Goodpine

JENA, La., Aug. 27.—(Special)—Jake Hebert of Orange, Tex., has been employed as educational director of the First Baptist Church of Goodpine and will assume his duties on Sept. 4, it was announced here by the Rev. A. D. Becton, pastor.

Mr. Hebert, who was song director for the church's recent series of revival services, will attend Louisiana College at Pineville while working in the Goodpine church.

URGED ON BY MEMBERS OF THE REVOLUTIONARY PARTY, A MOB HAS STORMED THE PALACE OF MOGUL BEY.

SEARCH! FIND OUR EXALTED RULER AND HIS FOREIGN WOMAN. WE WISH THEM TO DANCE FOR US.

MEANWHILE, IN A FAR WING OF THE PALACE.

MR. LEE! MR. CHARLES! YOU MUST FLY US AWAY FROM HERE.

NOPE! WE LIKE THIS COZY LITTLE JUG YOU TOSSED US INTO. SOFT BEDS, DELICIOUS FOOD—AND NO FRACTURES!

TERRY! PLEASE! YOU WERE OUR LAST HOPE. THAT MOB WILL KILL US. WE ONLY ESCAPED BY HIDING IN A PART OF THE PALACE THEY OVERLOOKED.

NO DICE, BURGUNDY. CHANCES ARE THEY'VE SABOTAGED THE PLANE. ALSO, YOU'D NEVER GET THROUGH THE CITY WITHOUT BEING RECOGNIZED.

THEN THINK OF SOMETHING ELSE, MAN! YOU MUST HELP US GET AWAY FROM HERE.

YOU WANT OUT REAL BAD, DON'T YOU, CHUBBY — EVEN IF IT MEANS TURNING YOUR COUNTRY OVER TO THE FANATICS WHO ORGANIZED THIS BALL.

THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT THEY WANT. WITH YOU GONE, THEY TAKE OVER. THE PEASANTS WHO'VE SUPPORTED YOU AND YOUR ANCESTORS DESERVE A BETTER FATE.

BUT, MY DEAR CHAP! WHAT CAN I DO? I DON'T FEEL THE SLIGHTEST BIT HEROIC.

LOOK OUT THIS WINDOW, BEY.

THEY'LL FIND THIS RABBIT WARREN EVENTUALLY—AND YOU! YOU'VE GOT TO MAKE 'EM BACK DOWN!

CHAZZ AND I JUST HAPPEN TO HAVE THOUGHT OF A STUNT THAT MIGHT WORK—IF BOTH OF YOU DO YOUR PART.

DARLING, YOU MIGHT LOOK A TRIFLE INSPIRED. IT SEEMS WE ARE ABOUT TO BECOME INVOLUNTARY HEROES.

EXACTLY, AND I FELT ARMS CLUTCHING ME—I WAS BEING SQUEEZED BY SOMEBODY AND BEING DROWNED.

BUT YOUR SUIT IS DRY, SAM. HOW COULD YOU HAVE BEEN DROWNING?

I DON'T KNOW, TRACY.

AT LEAST, WE'VE FOUND "SKETCH" PAREE'S SECRET HIDEAWAY IN THIS OLD ICEHOUSE, EVEN IF HE DID OUTMANEUVER US IN A GETAWAY.

YOU KNOW, TRACY, I HAD A FEELING HIS FACE WAS PRESSED TO MINE. A FACE OF WATER.

WHAT? SAY, SPEAKING OF WATER— LOOK!

WATER'S BEING PUMPED INTO THIS ROOM!

NO—IT'S NOT BEING PUMPED IN—THIS ROOM'S SINKING! HEAR THAT SCRAPING NOISE?

I HEAR A HISSING NOISE, TOO, LIKE AIR ESCAPING.

DO YOU SUPPOSE THIS ROOM WAS BEING HELD UP BY AIR-FILLED PONTOONS?

THERE IS NO DOORKNOB ON THE INSIDE OF THIS DOOR!

THE DOOR MUST BE ELECTRICALLY OPERATED—YES, HERE'S A SWITCH.

PAREE MUST HAVE DISCONNECTED THE WIRING. THE BUTTONS DON'T WORK!

FREDDIE CRASHES A RED LIGHT!

IF YOU NEED ANY WITNESSES, OFFICER, I SAW THE WHOLE THING! — ALL RIGHT, WISE GUY! LET'S SEE YOUR DRIVER'S LICENSE! — SURE! THE LIGHT'S RED NOW! BUT WHEN I STARTED THROUGH IT WAS JUST A DELICATE PINK! HA! HA! HA! — FREDDIE! I DON'T THINK I'D TRY TO BE SO FUNNY! — WAIT UNTIL HE SEES POP'S DRIVER'S LICENSE. IT WAS IN HIS SHIRT POCKET AND MOM PUT IT THROUGH OUR NEW WASHING MACHINE — GEE WHITH, MYRTLE! I'LL BET WE ALL GET PINCHED

I DON'T KNOW WHAT IT IS, BUT THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT A YELLOW CONVERTIBLE THAT MAKES ALL LIGHTS LOOK GREEN. — YOU CAN TELL FREDDIE IS COLOR-BLIND FROM THOSE NECKTIES — HE SEES RED ON THE GOLF COURSE!

THAT'S WHAT YOU GET, ALICE, FOR NOT HOLDING OUT YOUR WING WHEN YOU'RE GOING TO TURN! — BUT, YOUR HONOR, IT WASN'T REAL RED! IT WAS JUST STARTING TO TURN PINK! — ?

AND HE'S THE SAME MAN WE REPORTED FOR NOT HAVING A LID ON HIS GARBAGE CAN! — ARF — O. K., BINGO! IF YOU WANT TO CATCH YOUR TAIL IN A SCREEN DOOR, JUST KEEP ON BARKING AT COPS! — ARNOLD! COME BACK HERE AND PROTECT ME. — WATCH IT, SLUG! THERE'S THE COP! — THAT GUY'S A FRIEND OF MINE!

I WANT THE JUDGE TO CENSURE ARNOLD FOR DESERTING ME RIGHT OUT IN THE MIDDLE OF TRAFFIC! — YES, MADAM, AND WHERE WOULD YOU PREFER TO BE DESERTED? — WHAT ARE YOU SCARED OF? WEREN'T YOU EVER PINCHED BEFORE? — I TOLD FREDDIE THE JUDGE WOULDN'T THINK THAT WAS FUNNY — ARF — NO, BUT IT'LL SURE MAKE A FUNNY PICTURE!

PEOPLE ALL THINK PHANTOM IMMORTAL. WE CHIEFS KNOW BETTER.

HE SHOULD MARRY AND HAVE SON.. SO LINE OF PHANTOM GOES ON.

PHANTOM WHO FEARS NOTHING IS SHY OF WOMEN..

THE CHIEFS OF THE JUNGLE ARE WORRIED ABOUT THE BACHELORHOOD OF THE PHANTOM.

SO THE CHIEFS DECIDE TO FIND A WIFE FOR THE PHANTOM!

WHAT IS THIS?

YOU TOO BASHFUL TO FIND WIFE. WE FIND FOR YOU. TAKE PICK!

LADIES, YOU MUST FORGIVE THE CHIEFS. THEY ARE LIKE CHILDREN. YOU'LL ALL BE RETURNED TO YOUR HOMES SAFELY.

BUT YOU ARE NOT OF THE EAST, YOUNG ONE··YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND OUR WAYS····

I'M WILLING TO LEARN, SIR··PLEASE GUIDE MY FRIEND, MOHAMMED, AND ME TO THE PLACE WHERE THE MAGIC SPICE GROWS!

COME, ALI BOBO··I AM BEGINNING TO LOSE PATIENCE WITH YOU··IF IT IS MONEY YOU WANT, THE YOUNG SAHIB HAS A VERY RICH UNCLE!

SILENCE! I HAVE NO USE FOR MONEY!

ENTER···

BUT THIS PLACE, OLD ONE···IT LOOKS LIKE A SPICE BAZAAR··

YOU INSIST UPON FINDING THE SPICE OF LIFE··I CANNOT REFUSE YOU···FOLLOW ME···

HEY! W-WHAT'S THIS?!

'TIS THE LAW OF MY CULT THAT THE SEEKER AFTER THE SPICE OF LIFE CANNOT BE DENIED·· BUT CAN BE WARNED····

THOSE ARE SOME OF THE SEEKERS WHO FAILED···

WAIT! JUST EXACTLY WHO ARE YOU?!

YOU KNOW ME AS ALI BOBO···TO YOUR GREAT GRANDFATHER, I HAD A DIFFERENT NAME···

HIS GREAT GRANDFATHER ?!

H-H-HOW O-OLD ARE YOU?

I'LL BE SEVEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-EIGHT ON MY NEXT BIRTHDAY·· BUT COME··· WE MUST WASTE NO MORE TIME ON IDLE CHATTER··· THIS WAY, MY FRIENDS···

Little Orphan Annie
